The Ways and Means Committee considering the $8,000,000,000 war-revenue bill, at its session yesterday, continuing until late last evening, decided to further increase the surtaxes on incomes of $200,000 up to $5,000,000 and more, and began to consider a plan for the further increase of taxes upon excess profits and the methods by which such excess profits shall be determined. The higher surtaxes agreed upon yesterday were as follows: $200,000 to $300,000, 55 per cent; $300,000 to $500,000, 60 per cent; $500,000 to $1,000,000, 65 per cent; $1,000,000 to $5,000,000, 70 per cent; over $5,000,000, 75 per cent. Under existing law these surtaxes are levied as follows: $200,000 to $250,000, 30 per cent; $250,000 to $300,000, 34 per cent; $300,000 to $500,000, 37 per cent; $500,000 to $750,000, 40 per cent; $750,000 to $1,000,000, 45 per cent; over $1,000,000, 50 per cent.

The greater portion of the time yesterday was devoted to a consideration of the question of taxes on excess profits. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, R. T. Leffingwell, who is in charge of that branch of the Treasury, gave the committee the views of the Treasury Department concerning the methods by which it believed the taxes on excess profits should be levied. No conclusion was reached and the subject was taken up again at to-day's session. There was some discussion by the committee as to whether the property of Germans which has been seized by the Alien Property Custodian should be taxed in the same manner as if it were owned by bona fide citizens of the United States. It was decided to call A. Mitchell Palmer, the custodian, before the committee to give his views on the subject. The subcommittee on "luxuries" made a partial report recommending a tax of 10 per cent on all articles in the so-called luxury list that sold for more than a certain fixed price. The report deals with articles in general use, and the recommendations of the committee, it was said, would be that where the price is within the reach of persons of ordinary means there should be no tax, but where the price was increased because of artistic workmanship or extravagant use of materials the excess in price should be taxed. Whether this tax would be in the form of a sales tax or by the affixing of stamps has not been determined. The committee received a telegram, signed by John Wanamaker and a number of other large merchants, recommending that the tax be added to the selling price and collected by the Government on sworn reports of the sales separated by articles.

Senator Sheppard, of Texas, made a speech urging prompt action on the woman suffrage constitutional amendment resolution. His remarks were addressed chiefly to Senators from the Southern States. He told his colleagues from the South that there is no reason to fear the race question in connection with extending the right of suffrage, nor would the laws of any State, he said, growing out of the race question be disturbed by the Federal suffrage amendment. Senator Johnson, of California, speaking briefly, criticized the delay in the transportation of mail between the soldiers in France and their families. He declared that this delay was not only destroying the morale of the mothers of the country, but was injuring that of the fighters themselves. Senator Nelson, of Minnesota, said that under existing conditions, where convoys are required, it takes two weeks to get the mail across the Atlantic, whereas mail steamers formerly made the trip in six or seven days, and this, in his estimation, was the cause for much of the delay. Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, made a brief speech in which he praised the part labor was playing in assisting in the prosecution of the war.

Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the Military Committee of the Senate, introduced a bill for the War Department under which when two or more officers of the same grade are on duty one may be appointed to command without regard to seniority of service. In the absence of such conditions assignment of officers of the same grade would rank as follows: First, officers of the Regular Army and Marine Corps; next, officers of forces drafted or called into service; and finally, officers of the volunteer forces.

PATRIOTIC MINERS TO SERVE ON COAL PRODUCTION BOARDS

The Fuel Administration issues the following:

In order to supply leaders for an intensive campaign for increased bituminous coal production the United States Fuel Administration is appointing in each of the producing districts throughout the country a man to serve as production manager for his district. At each mine a committee of six, to be known as the production committee of the United States Fuel Administration, will be formed; three men representing the mine workers; three men the mining company.

Duties of the Committee.

The duties of the production committees will be to stimulate patriotism; to set a good example of patriotic industry; to arrange for local meetings at which patriotism and increased production alone shall be discussed. It is the task of the production committee to make known the fact that there must be a large increase in tonnage if the United States is not to fail in its war work. It will also make clear that it is the duty of every mine worker to work the full prescribed hours during six days each week; to pass upon the reasons given for absence, short hours worked, or any other causes that may have resulted in a loss of tonnage.

Letter by Mr. Neale.

In announcing the formation of these production committees James B. Neale, direction of production, wrote to the local unions of the United Mine Workers of America:

"You mine workers are like a great reserve army which shoulder the burden of a long campaign in which there can be no let-up or the whole offensive plan will crumble and collapse. Not a man of you would flinch or hang back if he were in France to-day and the order came to advance in the face of the enemy's machine guns. In the same way I am sure you will not falter when you realize how great the need is for your best efforts at home."

CAVALRY OFFICERS PROMOTED.

Special orders, No. 168:

166. The promotions of the following-named Cavalry officers, Regular Army, to the grade of colonel, with rank from the date set after their names, are announced:

Lieut. Col. Frank M. Caldwell, October 10, 1917.

Lieut. Col. James J. Hornbrook, October 10, 1917.

Lieut. Col. William F. Clark, January 27, 1918.

Lieut. Col. Samuel G. Jones, January 27, 1918.

OFFICERS AND CREW OF U. S. S. SAN DIEGO HELD BLAMELESS FOR LOSS OF THE SHIP IN REPORT OF NAVY COURT OF INQUIRY

The Committee on Public Information issues the following:

Secretary Daniels has received the report of the court of inquiry which investigated the sinking of the U. S. S. San Diego, and which reports the following conclusions:

"The court is of the opinion that the loss of the U. S. S. San Diego was due to an external explosion of a mine.

"That the loss of the ship, loss of life, and injury to personnel incurred was in no way due to any negligence, failure to take proper precautions, or inefficiency of the captain or any of the personnel of the ship.

"That the loss of life and injury to personnel was incurred in the line of duty and in no way due to their own misconduct.

Officers and Crew Commended.

"That at the time of the disaster and thereafter the conduct of the captain, officers, and crew was in the highest degree commendable, and that the remarkably small loss of life was due to the high state of discipline maintained on board.

"That no officer should be held responsible for the loss of funds or property for which he was accountable, and that no further proceedings should be held in this case."

The court in its report reviews the main points in the testimony as follows:

"The U. S. S. San Diego, under the command of Capt. H. H. Christy, U. S. Navy, was making passage from Portsmouth, N. H., to New York, N. Y., and at or about 11.05 a. m., 19 July, 1918, she was in approximate latitude 40 degrees 30 minutes north, longitude 73 degrees west, on base course 304 true, and zigzagging by an approved plan, speed 15 knots.

Safe and Proper Course.

"The captain was steering a safe and proper course at the time to minimize the submarine and mine dangers in those waters. A careful inspection watch had been maintained while last coaling ship to prevent the introduction of any foreign matter in the coal bunkers. All lookouts, gun watches, fire-control parties, etc., as prescribed by the 'Orders for ships in convoy' of the commander cruiser and transport force, were at their stations and on the alert. All reasonable and necessary orders to safeguard the watertight integrity of the ship in dangerous waters had been given and were being carried out.

"At or about 11.05 a. m., July 19, 1918, an explosion took place in proximity of the skin of the ship, at about frame No. 78, on the port side and well below the water line. As a result of this explosion the ship began to list to port, and she finally rolled over and sank bottom up at about 11.25 a. m., July 19, 1918.

Explosion An Exterior One.

"The explosion was an exterior one, and as a result of this explosion the skin of the ship was ruptured in the vicinity of bulkhead No. 78, at the level of the port engine room, and bulkhead No. 78 was so deformed that water-tight door No. 142, between the port engine room and No. 8 fireroom, was opened to the ingress of water to No. 8 fireroom. The effect of this rupture was to immediately fill the port engine room and adjacent compartments, and No. 8 fireroom was soon filled also. The effect of this water would give the ship a list of 17½ degrees to port. With the increased displacement water entered through 6-inch gun port No. 10, which was justifiably open to permit using that gun, when the ship had listed 9½ degrees. This resulted in flooding the gun deck and accelerated the heeling of the ship and her final capsizing. Relatively small quantities of water entered the upper dynamo room through nonwater-tight voice tubes, but this had no appreciable effect on the sinking of the ship.

Captain's Order Proper.

"The captain properly withheld the order to abandon ship until he was certain that the ship would capsize and sink. The ship was abandoned in good order, and excellent discipline prevailed. Gun crews remained at their guns and continued firing at all suspicious objects until they were forced to jump into the water. The captain was the last to leave the ship.

"The radio apparatus was put out of commission by the explosion. As no reports of this disaster had been sent, Lieut. C. J. Bright, United States Navy, was ordered to proceed with a dinghy crew to Long Island to report the disaster and request rescue vessels. The boat reached shore safely and carried out its orders.

"The steamships Malden, Capt. Brown, Bussun, Capt. Brewer, and E. P. Jones, Capt. Dodge, hove in sight later and rescued the men in the water and transported them to New York. The court states the captains of these steamers showed courage and a splendid spirit in taking their ships into these waters, where a submarine had apparently been operating, and deserve commendation for their actions and it is recommended that suitable acknowledgment be made by the Navy Department of their gallantry.

"On the day subsequent to this disaster six contact mines were located by the Naval Forces in the vicinity of the position where the disaster of the U. S. S. San Diego occurred.

"As a result of this disaster six enlisted men were injured and six lives lost."

Records of Six Men Lost.

The six men lost in the sinking of the San Diego were:

Clyde Chester Blaine, engineman, second class; stepmother, Mrs. Bertha Blaine, Lomita, Cal.

Thomas Everett Davis, fireman, first class; mother, Mrs. Alma Davis, South Mansfield, La.

Paul John Harris, seaman, second class; father, John W. Harris, 2522 Hackberry Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Andrew Munson, machinist's mate, second class; mother, Mrs. Karna Munson, 446 Maria Avenue, St. Paul, Minn.

James Francis Rochet, engineman, second class; next of kin, sister, Mrs. C. H. Dean, Blue Lake, Cal.

Frazier O. Thomas, machinist's mate, second class; father, Lockard H. Thomas, Charlestown, W. Va.

FRENCH LIEUTENANTS BURIED WITH HONORS AT ARLINGTON

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

Lieuts. Joan Jegou and Fornand Herbert, of the French Infantry, who lost their lives in an accident at Silver City, N. Mex., on July 26, were buried at Arlington Cemetery Monday, August 5, with full military honors.

Military attaches from the allied commissions and embassies headed by Gen. Vignal, chief of the French Military Mission, were present to honor the French officers. From Fort Myer a large delegation of officers was present. United States Army officers served as honorary pallbearers while noncommissioned officers of the United States acted as active pallbearers. A troop of Cavalry escorted the bodies to the plots which were selected for the French officers.

Oration by Gen. Vignal.

Gen. Vignal delivered the funeral oration in which he stated that the French Government and people appreciated and were deeply touched by the honors which had been shown to the officers who had died in the United States while in the service of their country and that he felt that the respect and sentiment which had been shown to them was another evidence of the warm sympathy between the two countries.

A United States military band played during the ceremony. Many beautiful floral offerings were presented, among them two by the Secretary of War, who was represented by Lieut. Col. Constant Cordier, of the General Staff.

Claims of Postmasters for Theft and Fire Loss

ORDER 1762.

OFFICE OF POSTMASTER GENERAL,
Washington, July 25, 1918.

Section 150, Postal Laws and Regulations, is amended by the addition of the following as paragraph 3:

3. The act approved January 21, 1914 (38 Stat., 278), authorizing the Postmaster General to adjust certain claims of postmasters for loss by burglary, fire, or other unavoidable casualty, be so amended as to include United States war-savings certificate stamps, United States Government thrift stamps, war-tax revenue stamps, and funds received from the sale of such stamps: Provided, That this act shall not embrace any claim for losses as aforesaid which accrued prior to September 24, 1917, and all such claims must be presented within six months from the time the loss occurred. (Act of July 2, 1918, sec. 10.)

J. C. KOONS,
Acting Postmaster General.

Regulations Issued to Publishers Limiting Their Use of Print Paper; No New Newspapers During the War

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

The Pulp and Paper Section of the War Industries Board has issued the following to publishers of daily and Sunday newspapers:

The priorities board of the War Industries Board has listed paper mills as an essential industry and has rated them in fourth class for priority for coal on the distinct understanding that the greatest possible economy in the use of paper be exercised and that the reduction in the use of paper by the newspapers shall be 15 per cent on week-day editions and 20 per cent on Sunday editions.

Pledges of Economy.

Paper mills will be put upon the priority list for coal conditional upon their signing a pledge that they will furnish no paper to any consumer who will not also sign a pledge in duplicate that he will exercise the greatest possible economy in the use of paper and will observe all rules and regulations of the Conservation Division and of the Pulp and Paper Section of the War Industries Board. These pledges are now being prepared and will be furnished shortly. One copy will be left on file with the mill and the other will be sent to this office.

The war committee of newspaper publishers believe that this curtailment should be accomplished by the elimination of all wasteful practices and by the reduction of size of all newspapers, and to this end have made the following recommendations to the Pulp and Paper Section of the War Industries Board. If by October 1st the above reductions are not accomplished, additional curtailment will be put into effect at that time.

These recommendations have been accepted by the pulp and paper section of the War Industries Board as controlling the week-day and Sunday newspapers.

List of Regulations.

WASTEFUL PRACTICES OF CIRCULATION (EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY).

1. Discontinue the acceptance of the return of unsold copies. (Exceptions.—Employees of newspapers who are employed directly at the home office by a newspaper as wholesale distributers to newsboys, news agents, and news stands may return unsold copies, provided such unsold copies have not been in the possession of retail dealers, news stands, or newsboys. Such employees can not take back under any consideration papers which already have been distributed for sale.)

2. Discontinue sending paper after date of expiration of subscription, unless the subscription is renewed and paid for. (This ruling to be effective October 1, 1918.)

3. Discontinue the use of all samples or free promotion copies.

4. Discontinue giving copies to anybody except for office-working copies or where required by statute law in the case of official advertising.

(Exceptions.—Copies may be given free to employees of newspapers, if such is the present practice of the office. Copies may be sent free to former employees who are in the war service, and copies may be sent free to camp libraries of institutions recognized by the Government, such as Y. M. C. A., K. of C., etc. Copies should not be sent to individual soldiers unless formerly employed by the newspaper. Copies may be sent to the Library of Congress and to State and other public libraries which will agree to bind or otherwise permanently preserve the files of the paper; also to Government departmental libraries. Copies may be given free in return for actual services rendered. Copies may be sent free to clipping bureaus which render an equivalent service to the newspapers. Copies for service purposes only may be sent free to newspaper correspondents and press bureaus.)

Exceptions Laid Down.

5. Discontinue giving free copies to advertisers, except not more than one copy each for checking purposes. (Exceptions.—Any advertiser who customarily places advertisements with the newspaper in at least four issues each week and advertising agencies from whom the publisher receives advertising regularly may be put on the regular mailing list to facilitate handling in the mailing room. Copies must not be sent as a means of advertising the newspaper itself to advertising agencies from whom the publisher does not regularly receive business.)

6. Discontinue selling advertising with a guarantee of circulation requiring a rebate if circulation falls below guaranteed amount.

7. Discontinue the arbitrary forcing of copies on newsdealers (i. e., compelling them to buy more copies than they can legitimately sell in order to hold certain territory).

8. Discontinue the buying back of papers at either wholesale or retail selling price from dealers or agents in order to secure preferential representation.

9. Discontinue the payment of salaries or commissions to agents, dealers, or newsboys for the purpose of securing the equivalent of return privileges.

10. Discontinue all cash discounts or bonuses to wholesalers or retailers.

11. Discontinue all free exchanges.

Limit to Reading Matter.

Curtailment of reading matter.—Reading matter consists of all matter printed, except paid advertisements, and the following schedules are based upon a standard column of 300 agate lines. The following curtailments are based on the average amount of reading matter published during the six months period January 1 to June 30, 1918:

Week-day editions, effective August 12, 1918.—Reduce reading matter up to 50 columns 5 per cent; reduce on additional space over 50 columns and not over 70 columns 15 per cent; reduce on additional space over 70 and not over 90 columns 30 per cent; reduce on all additional space over 90 columns 50 per cent.

Sunday edition, effective September 1, 1918.—Reduce reading matter up to 150 columns 10 per cent; reduce on additional space over 150 columns and up to 200 columns 20 per cent; reduce on additional space over 200 columns and up to 250 columns 30 per cent; reduce on additional space over 250 columns and up to 300 columns 40 per cent; reduce on additional space over 300 columns and up to 350 columns 50 per cent; reduce on all additional space over 350 columns 60 per cent.

Because of the absolute necessity of curtailing the use of paper, the pulp and paper section of the War Industries Board has ruled that during the war no new newspaper shall be established.

PAYMENT OF BONUSES WRONG, FUEL ADMINISTRATOR SAYS

Promotes Labor Shifting and Is "Contrary to Wage Agreement Made With President."

United States Fuel Administrator Garfield issues the following statement:

"Information is reaching me that coal operators are bidding against each other for labor by payment of bonuses. This inevitably causes unrest and shifts, but does not increase the total production of coal. Maximum production is essential to the successful conduct of the war and for the welfare of the boys in the trenches. The democracy we are seeking to establish at home and abroad demands that maximum production be based on an arrangement fair to all concerned—to all mine workers, all operators, and all the public.

Contrary to Spirit of Agreement.

"The payment of bonuses in any form is contrary to the spirit of the wage agreements made by operators and mine workers with the President of the United States last November. Those agreements covered the period of the war. With full confidence, therefore, that the Fuel Administration will have the support of all associations and individuals in curbing violations of that agreement, I hereby announce that if any operator hereafter undertakes to pay a bonus in any form in violation of the terms or spirit of the agreements above referred to, I shall assume that the mine price of coal allowed that operator is too high and I shall accordingly order reduction thereof.

"Also, I am directing investigation of alleged payments of bonuses now or since the November agreement, and shall make such further order and regulations as the facts may justify."

COAST ARTILLERY PROMOTIONS.

Special Orders, No. 168:

123. The promotions of the following-named officers to the grade of lieutenant colonel in the Coast Artillery Corps, Regular Army (temporarily), with rank from the dates set after their names, are announced:

Majs. Julius C. Peterson, June 25, 1918; James F. Walker, June 28, 1918; Ellery W. Niles, June 28, 1918; Adelno Gibson, June 28, 1918; John L. Holcombe, July 3, 1918; James S. Dusenbury, July 3, 1918; Lloyd B. Magruder, July 5, 1918; and Sidney H. Guthrie, July 5, 1918.

NEW MINIMUM WORLD RECORD FOR LOSSES IN AIR TRAINING

Fewer Fatalities in U. S. School Camps Than in Those of Allies, Statistics Show.

The War Department authorizes the following:

The United States Army instructors in the Air Service schools have established a new minimum record for losses sustained in the training flights. The figures relating to the safeguarding of cadets of the new Army training for duty overseas as pilots and observers are now on a par with, if not actually lower than, the percentage figures of this Nation's allies and are believed to be much under the figures of the central powers.

Cause of Accidents.

United States schools, in attaining the present rating, have proceeded on the theory that three out of four deaths in flying at the front have been due to lack of judgment and that but one man out of four has been killed in action. Further, that if a cadet were given all of his instruction in the flying schools in the United States he would put all of his air training out of mind when he finally reached the front and concentrate entirely on fighting. Because of the fact that he had been perfectly trained as a "stunt" flyer, it is held, he would be the more able to pick up his fighting tactics quickly.

Official records show that from September 1, 1917, to and including July 20, 1918, the losses sustained in the actual flying training of United States air forces in this country by American units totaled 155, which for each hour of actual flying training was 0.000305.

New Record for Safety.

In other words, the average in round numbers is one man killed for every 3,300 hours of flying in the United States, which is proven by available official statistics to be a new world's record for safety in training airmen in war time.

Official figures authorized by the Division of Military Aeronautics from September 1, 1917, to July 20, 1918, inclusive, show the following fatalities in actual flying training sustained by the United States aviation forces in the United States:

FATALITIES.

Rank.	Number.
Officers	74
Cadets	65
Enlisted men	9
Civilian instructors	7
Total	155

RAILROAD ACTING TREASURER.

The United States Railroad Administration issues the following:

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26, 1918.

Circular No. 45.

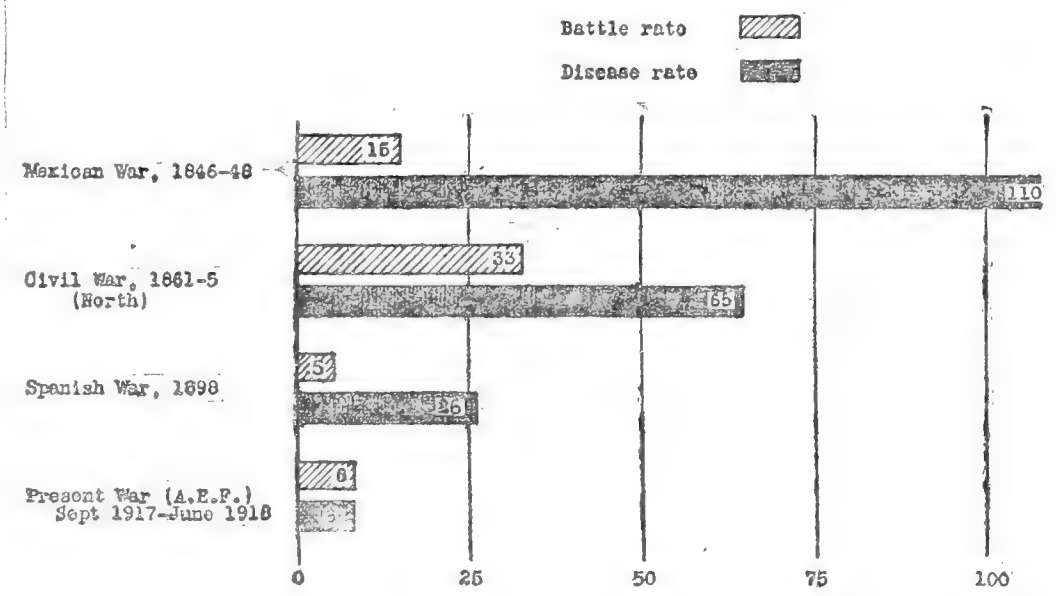
Effective this date, Mr. L. G. Scott is appointed acting treasurer of the United States Railroad Administration, vice Mr. A. D. McDonald (vice president and controller of the Southern Pacific Co.), acting treasurer, resigned.

W. G. McADOO,
Director General of Railroads.

Disease and Battle Mortality Compared in Present and Previous American Wars

UNITED STATES BATTLE AND DISEASE DEATH RATES PER 1,000 PER YEAR.

[Source of information: Comparative Mortality of Disease and Battle Casualties (seaman prize essay), Capt. L. C. Duncan, U. S. A., M. C.; and G–1, G. H. Q., A. E. F.; Statistical Division, A. G. O., and Division of Sanitation, S. G. O.]



In the Mexican War, as is shown by the above diagram prepared by the statistical branch of the executive division of the General Staff, more than seven American soldiers died of disease to every soldier killed in battle. Eleven in every hundred fell victims to imperfect sanitation.

In the armies of the North during the Civil War the battle mortality increased more than 100 per cent over the Mexican War average, while the mortality from disease was reduced nearly 85 per cent; but the disease mortality was still nearly double the battle mortality.

The Spanish-American War witnessed a reversal of the downward curve, with more than five deaths of disease to each death in battle.

But during the first 10 months of American participation in the present war the records of the American Expeditionary Forces show an exact parity between battle mortality and disease mortality, with a combined mortality which, if projected throughout a year, would be only a little more than half of the battle mortality and less than a third of the disease mortality of the Civil War.

SMALL PERCENTAGE OF SOLDIERS DIE OF WOUNDS OR DISEASE IN HOSPITALS

The War Department authorizes the following statement by the Chief of Staff:

In connection with the casualties among the American Expeditionary Forces in the Marne-Aisne offensive, it should be stated, upon the basis of the officially attested experience of our associates during four years of this war, that of wounded soldiers sent to hospitals for treatment fewer than 1 in 20 die.

Of all the soldiers sent to the hospitals only 45 in every 1,000 die. These include those who die of disease as well as those who die of wounds. Of all soldiers wounded in action more than four-fifths return to service, many of them in less than two months. It is necessary to discharge for physical disability only 14.5 per cent.

These figures are based on an average of both British and French official figures, including both officers and men. The two are averaged together, since American troops are fighting with both the French and the British under conditions which vary. They show:

	Per cent.
Returned to service	81.0, or 810 per 1,000
Discharged from service because of physical disability or other causes	14.5, or 145 per 1,000
Died from wounds	4.5, or 45 per 1,000

FIELD SHOES FOR OVERSEA DUTY.

General Orders, No. 63:

II. Section II, General Orders, No. 23, War Department, 1918, and Section II, General Orders, No. 48, War Department, 1918, are rescinded and the following substituted therefor:

Two pairs of field shoes only will be taken by each enlisted man when embarking for service overseas. These shoes will be greased with dubbin on shipboard.

LOSS OF MAILS FOR EGYPT.

OFFICE OF SECOND ASSISTANT
POSTMASTER GENERAL,
Washington, July 31, 1918.

Through notice received from the London office, it is learned that by the sinking of a steamship, name not mentioned, in the Mediterranean through enemy activity, there was lost about 1,600 ordinary letters and 141 registered letters as well as 32 sacks of newspapers and printed matter.

The letters and other articles were the accumulation of mail for Egypt at New York from April 11 to April 15, 1918, which was included in the mails dispatched by the S. S. Cedric and the S. S. Philadelphia, both of which left New York on April 15th, last.

OTTO PRAEGER,
Second Assist. Postmaster General.

PACIFIC COAST SHIPYARDS AGAIN WIN PENNANT CONTEST

The Shipping Board issues the following:

The Pacific coast shipyards, repeating their initial record in May, again lead the shipyards of the country in the pennant contest for the month of June, according to a statement of the committee on awards. The statement is as follows:

"After careful consideration of the information submitted to us relating to the production of the shipyards during the month of June and other data having an important bearing upon yard performance, we have made our selections of the winning yards in the pennant contest for the month of June, as follows:

Steel and Wood Ship Winners.

Yards producing steel ships:

First pennant, blue—Skinner & Eddy Shipbuilding Corporation, district No. 8.

Second pennant, red—Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation (Union Plant), district No. 7.

Third pennant, white—Columbia River Shipbuilding Co., district No. 8.

Yards producing wood ships:

First pennant, blue—Grant Smith-Porter Ship Co., St. Johns, Portland, Oreg., district No. 11.

Second pennant, red—Grant Smith-Porter Ship Co., Aberdeen, Washington, district No. 8.

Third pennant, white—Supple-Ballin Shipbuilding Corporation, district No. 8.

F. F. FLETCHER,
HUGH FRAYNE,
FREDERICK W. WOOD."

The committee reached their decision only after a most careful consideration of all data compiled for them. In their opinion continuity of effort is a very important element in determining the standing of any yard. The committee has decided to send out new flags each month to the winning yards. These flags to be marked on the binding with the name of the winner and the month for which the award was made.

May Be Retained as Trophy.

This arrangement provides a clean flag for the winning yards and permits the winner of the previous month to retain his pennant as a trophy. The yards now flying the May pennant have been instructed to take them down as soon as the June pennant was decided.

Among the steel yards of the East the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co., Virginia, plant had the best record, followed by the New York Shipbuilding Corporation of Camden.

In the Great Lakes the American plants at Cleveland, Ohio, and Detroit, Mich., and the Great Lakes yards at Ecorse, Mich., were the best.

Among the wood yards in the East the best results were obtained by the Foundation Co., in the second district, followed by the Traylor Shipbuilding Corporation, also in the second district.

LIMITS SHIPMENTS OF SUGAR BY "MAIL ORDER" CONCERNS

May Send to Other States Only Quantities Allotted Buyers in Those States.

The Food Administration issues the following:

Mail-order houses which do an interstate business have been requested by the Food Administration to send into other States only such amounts of sugar as residents of those States are permitted by local food administrators to purchase.

Stops Former Practice.

Until now mail-order houses have been taking orders for 25-pound quantities of sugar for home canning, regardless of the State from which they come or whether there is a real need for sugar for canning in that State. In some States, out of regard for fruit crop conditions or for other reasons, sales of canning sugar are restricted to 10 or 15 pounds at a single purchase. When a resident of one of these States can obtain 25 pounds by merely mailing his order to a city in another State, he is defeating the purpose of the present regulations, which have been established because of the sugar shortage.

Furnished With Rules.

Federal food administrators have been instructed to furnish mail-order houses with copies of sugar regulations in their States, and the houses will conform to them in all orders sent to those States. All regulations will be applied equally to mail-order houses and retailers, in order to be fair to everybody concerned. Federal food administrators who have a certificate system for sugar for canning may require the mail-order houses to send sugar into their States only on such certificates.

Mail-order houses are expected also to conform to the rule permitting city dwellers to buy only 2 pounds of sugar at one time for ordinary household use, and country people 5 pounds, save in districts remote from the stores, when local administrators may permit larger quantities to be sold.

Diamond Shoal Lightship Sunk by U-Boat Shells; Crew Saved in Life Boats

The Navy Department is informed that the Diamond Shoals Lightship, off Cape Hatteras, N. C., was shelled and sunk by a submarine late yesterday afternoon. The crew took to their boats and reached shore safely. The submarine, it was reported, came within half a mile of the beach.

Calls 6,000 Draft Men for Limited Service

Provost Marshal Gen. Crowder has called for 6,000 men for limited service to go to the Syracuse Recruiting Camp, entrainment August 5, 1918, the apportionment being among the localities given below:

Connecticut, 150; Delaware, 50; District of Columbia, 25; Florida, 80; Georgia, 50; Illinois, 200; Indiana, 200; Iowa, 75; Kentucky, 50; Louisiana, 50; Maine, 100; Maryland, 100; Massachusetts, 300; Michigan, 300; Minnesota, 200; Mississippi, 40; Missouri, 200; Nebraska, 50; New Hampshire, 150; New Jersey, 300; New York, 1,600; North Carolina, 100; Ohio, 400; Pennsylvania, 600; Rhode Island, 100; South Carolina, 40; Tennessee, 100; Vermont, 100; West Virginia, 40; Wisconsin, 100.

For Fort Myer, Va., 9 limited-service men are to be 4 clerks from Delaware and 5 draftsmen from New York.

ASSISTANT EXAMINERS WANTED FOR THE U. S. PATENT OFFICE

The United States Patent Office authorizes the following:

A number of vacancies exist in the grade of Fourth Assistant Examiners, carrying the salary of $1,500, to which the attention of technically trained persons is earnestly invited.

Permanent appointments will be secured by passing the required Civil Service Examination, information whereof may be had upon application to the Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

Temporary Appointments.

Temporary appointment may be given persons exhibiting the required training in mathematics, chemistry, physics, mechanical drawing, and French or German, pending their taking the Civil Service Examination and obtaining a rating therefrom.

Persons not subject to the draft for military service and having the necessary education are invited to write to the Commissioner of Patents relative to temporary appointments.

Promotion to Higher Grades.

Promotion to the higher grades is reasonably rapid: the work commends itself to college and technical school graduates especially, is considered as interesting as any in the Government service, and in many of its branches is held very important in the prosecution of the present war.

EXECUTIVE ORDER TRANSFERS PETROLEUM SUPPLY CONTROL TO THE FUEL ADMINISTRATOR

HITS ALL GOVERNMENT BUREAUS

President Directs the Organization of a Committee on Standardization of Specifications in Purchases for the United States and Allies.

EXECUTIVE ORDER.

Whereas in order to avoid duplication of effort, and in the interest of economy and the more efficient concentration of the Government and for the better utilization of resources and industries, it is desirable that there shall be a standardization of specifications for the supply of petroleum and its products to the United States Government,

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Chief Executive, and by virtue of the powers conferred on me by the act of Congress, entitled "An act authorizing the President to coordinate or consolidate executive bureaus, agencies, and offices, and for other purposes, in the interest of economy and the more efficient concentration of the Government," approved May 20, 1918, do hereby order that the function, power, and duty of preparing and adopting specifications for the supply of petroleum and its products to any and all departments, bureaus, agencies, and offices of the Government be transferred to and exercised by the United States Fuel Administrator. The United States Fuel Administrator shall exercise such functions, powers, and duties through a committee on standardization of petroleum specifications, which shall be composed of the following members:

A chairman, who shall be appointed by the United States Fuel Administrator; one member who shall be appointed by the Secretary of War; one member who shall be appointed by the Secretary of the Navy; one member who shall be appointed by the chairman of the Shipping Board; one member who shall be appointed by the Director General of the Railroad Administration; one member who shall be appointed by the Director of the Bureau of Mines; and one member who shall be appointed by the Director of the Bureau of Standards.

The specifications so prepared and adopted shall be binding upon and govern all departments, bureaus, agencies, and offices of the Government. It shall further be the duty of the United States Fuel Administrator, acting through said Committee on Standardization of Petroleum Specifications, to take all proper

STATEMENT BY MR. BURLESON REGARDING THE CONSOLIDATION OF COMPETING WIRE SYSTEMS

PLANS ARE ALREADY UNDER WAY

Companies Now Negotiating Not to Be Disturbed — Committee Appointed to Study Coordination of Branch Telegraph Offices.

The Post Office Department authorizes the following:

AUGUST 7, 1918.

Postmaster General Burleson states that the governmental operation and control of the telephone systems of the country would undoubtedly cause the coordination and consolidation of competing systems wherever possible. Investigation by the committee in charge of the telegraph and telephone service shows that negotiations were already under way for the consolidation of a number of competing telephone systems at the time the Government assumed control. The Postmaster General will not disturb these negotiations in any manner. When an agreement is reached between telephone companies in the matter of consolidation it should be submitted to the Post Office Department for approval. Where no negotiations with a view of consolidation have yet begun, the Postmaster General stated there is no objection to the companies taking up such negotiations with the understanding that any agreement reached would have to be finally approved by him before it could actually be consummated.

Committees Appointed.

The Postmaster General is speeding up in every way possible the collection of information for the guidance of the telegraph and telephone committee in the prosecution of their work relative to the control and operation of the wire systems.

A committee composed of A. M. Dockery, Third Assistant Postmaster General; Charles E. Matthews, superintendent, Division of Money Orders; William C. Fitch, superintendent, Division of Stamps; William E. Buffington, superintendent, Division of Finance; and Charles H. Fullaway, assistant director, Division of Postal Savings, was appointed to-day.

1. To determine the use of the telegraph in transmitting money through means of money orders;

2. To determine the use of the stamp in connection with telegraph service;

3. To determine the effect the use of stamps will have on accounting systems now in use by telegraph companies;

4. To make a careful study of the auditing systems now in use and what changes should be made to effect consolidations with postal system; and

5. To determine whether the same system of handling telegraph funds can be adopted as is now in use in the Postal Service:

Branch Telegraph Offices.

Carter B. Keene, director, Division of Postal Savings; Goodwin D. Ellsworth, superintendent, Division of Post Office Service; M. O. Chance, postmaster, Washington, D. C.; Henry F. Taff, general superintendent, Western Union Telegraph Co., Washington, D. C.; and George M. Foot, manager, Postal Telegraph Co., Washington, D. C., are appointed a committee to investigate and determine the extent to which branch telegraph offices should be consolidated or coordinated with branch postal stations; also the extent to which the messenger service of the telegraph companies may be coordinated with that of the special-delivery service of the Postal Service.

means to bring about a standardization of petroleum specifications for the purchases in the United States of the allied Governments.

This order shall be and remain in full force and effect during the continuance of the present war and for six months after the termination thereof by the proclamation of a treaty of peace, or until amended, modified, or rescinded.

WOODROW WILSON.

THE WHITE HOUSE,
July 31, 1918.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT REPORTED IN FREIGHT CAR MOVEMENT

The United States Railroad Administration issues the following:

Advices to the United States Railroad Administration report a general improvement in the freight situation. Cars are in abundant supply and are being moved promptly.

The Georgia Fruit Exchange, of Atlanta, Ga., writes:

"We are glad to be able to advise you that we are now about to complete the movement of the largest crop of fresh peaches ever shipped out of the State, or, in fact, any State in the Union. Shipment to and including July 17 was 7,482 cars, and probably 400 more to move. The largest single day's shipment amounted to practically 600 cars.

"The general service rendered by the railroads in the movement of the crop, viewed in the light of existing transportation and labor conditions, has been such that we desire to express our gratification and congratulation upon the successful outcome."

From a Coal Producer.

Another letter from a large producer of bituminous coal in West Virginia says:

"We are very much gratified at the splendid car supply we have recently been getting, and for your information will say that after getting over the Fourth of July week, and commencing Monday morning, July 8, we have produced and shipped up to the 24th, inclusive, a total of 132,500 tons of coal. Taking out two Sundays and one day on which we were shut down tight because of power trouble, this makes an average of 9,464 tons per day, which we not only hope to be able to maintain but increase steadily."

Pacific Coast Lumbermen.

The weekly bulletin of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, including in its membership nearly all the lumbermen on the Pacific coast, says:

"Lumber mills in western Oregon and western Washington again are running at full capacity after the brief midsummer holiday, and are thus enabled to replenish their stocks, which had been permitted to run low as a result of the heavy Government and commercial orders during the spring and early summer."

Production for the week ending July 20 at a group of 124 mills reporting to the West Coast Lumbermen's Association was 76,260,629 feet, which was within 2,631,371 feet, or 3.33 per cent of the normal.

Another notable element in the situation for the week was the continued abundance of freight cars. The mills shipped a total of 52,140,000 feet, or 1,738 cars during the week, leaving a balance of only 8,219 cars of unshipped business on the books of the mills. This places the West Coast industry in better condition, so far as car business is concerned, than they have been in for nearly a year.

Special Orders, No. 169:

124. Capt. William Houghteling, Signal Corps, National Army, now on duty with the supply section, military aeronautics, Signal Corps, this city, will report to the Chief of Staff for duty in the purchase and supply branch, purchase, storage, and traffic division, General Staff.

More Than 2,000,000 Rifles Produced Since United States Declared War

The War Department authorizes the following from the Ordnance Department:

The United States Government has passed the two million mark in the production of rifles since war was declared.

Up to and including July 27, 1918, the total number produced, inspected and accepted was 2,000,798. This number includes, in part, 1,523,156 of United States Model 1917 and 280,000 Russian rifles. It does not include the 600,000 United States Model 1903 (Springfield) rifles estimated to have been on hand when we entered the war.

During the week ending July 27, the total number of rifles of all types inspected and accepted was 59,167—an increase over the previous week's production of 4,305. Of this 59,167, 53,310 were United States Model 1917 rifles, the week's production of which exceeded production during the week previous, by 2,748.

Machine gun production continues to show a steady increase, although the output at all plants fluctuates. The number of heavy Browning machine guns inspected and accepted during the week ending July 27 was 1,106, a decrease of 257 under production for the previous week. Light Brownings, inspected and accepted during the past week reached a total of 2,624, an increase of 557 over the previous week. Since the war began, and up to and including July 27, the total number of machine guns of all types, produced, inspected, and accepted was 96,006, including 8,428 heavy Brownings and 14,895 light Brownings.

The total output of pistols and revolvers, inspected and accepted, up to and including July 27 was 414,015, including 235,700 .45 Model 1911 pistols and 178,315 .45 Model 1917 revolvers.

Care in Addressing Letters to Men in Navy Urged by Mr. Daniels in Announcing Rules

Secretary Daniels authorizes the following:

Handling mail for the nearly 45,000 naval officers and men in European service who are on more than 250 vessels, operating in the area extending from the North Sea to the Mediterranean, is one of the vital problems the Navy has had to solve since our advent in the world war. Delays that were unavoidable in the early days of the war have been gradually overcome, and now letters reach their destination as speedily as there are ships to carry them, provided the system adopted is lived up to by the writers.

Most of the delays that occur now are due to illegible or incomplete addresses. The address of every officer or enlisted man in the naval forces in Europe is his ship base, base hospital, or air station, care of Postmaster, New York. Therefore, to insure speedy delivery, all letters should be addressed in this way. By following a few simple rules the men and their correspondents can aid very materially in still further improving the service.

Rules to be Followed.

These rules are:

1. When the station of the person addressed is known, the following is the proper method of addressing letters:

John Charles Doe, Seaman,
Second Class, U. S. Navy,
U. S. S. Wadsworth,
Care Postmaster, New York.

Or—

John Charles Doe, Coxswain,
U. S. Naval Reserve Force,
U. S. Air Station, Bristol,
Care Postmaster, New York.

Or—

John Charles Doe, Machinist's Mate,
Second Class,
U. S. Naval Base 8,
Care Postmaster, New York.

(In case of naval bases, only the number, not the name, should be given.)

2. When the ship or station is not known, address the envelope as follows:

John Charles Doe, Seaman,
Second Class, U. S. Navy,
U. S. Naval Headquarters, London,
Care Postmaster, New York.

3. Write the name out in full, even the middle name; do not use the initials. If your writing is not easily read, PRINT it. Put nothing in the address that is not shown above.

Mail-Service Efforts Unrelaxing.

The present efficiency of the Navy's mail service is due not only to the efforts of Vice Admiral Sims and the naval officials who have devoted so much effort to eliminate delays, but to the efficient organization of the New York post office and to the cooperation given in London. For the past 50 years, C. J. Petherick has been the United States dispatch agent in London, and he has had an important part in the speeding up of the sailors' mail.

One of the main difficulties met with was the frequent transfer of men from one station or ship to another. With the usual demands that war makes and the constantly increasing personnel of the Navy, shifts were numerous, and it was hard to keep track of the individual. This was overcome by the establishment of a card index at the United States naval headquarters in London, where every American sailor in European waters is listed. Every effort is made to keep this record up to date.

Use of the full name in addressing letters is necessitated by the surprisingly large number of men among the 40,000 who have the same names and even the same initials. In the card index, for instance, there are numerous "Robert Smiths" and "Thomas Browns" and it is very apparent that a letter merely addressed to "Robert Smith" is likely to take a complicated journey and pass through many hands before it reaches the right person.

GREAT SAVING OF COAL SHOWN THROUGH WORK IN POWER PLANTS

The United States Fuel Administration issues the following:

The United States Fuel Administration's conservation bureau reported today a saving at the rate of 350,000 tons of coal annually in its campaign for fuel economy in steam-power plants. This saving has been initiated through the inspection of 300 of the larger plants of the country.

Power Plant Inspection.

Each of the 250,000 plants in the country will be inspected as fast as the work can be accomplished and it is estimated that 20,000,000 tons of coal can be saved.

This saving has not been effected by any closing down or curtailment of industry and is the result of applying scientific methods to the operation of boilers and engines. It has put money in the pockets of the plant owners and at the same time made available a large amount of coal for war needs and for heating homes next winter.

Returns from Trip.

L. R. Clapp, technical assistant in the fuel engineering section, has just returned from a trip through six of the North Central States, where he was in conference with the administrative engineers in charge. David Moffatt Myers, chief administrative engineer, is in New York City speeding up the work there.

PRESIDENT WILSON IN FAVOR OF KEEPING UP THE SCHOOLS

Efficiency Should Be Maintained Despite War Burdens, He Says in Letter.

The Department of the Interior authorizes the following:

President Wilson urges generous support for schools of all grades during war time. In a letter to Secretary Lane approving the Bureau of Education's plan for an educational campaign this summer and fall, he says:

"I am pleased to know that despite the unusual burdens imposed upon our people by the war they have maintained their schools and other agencies of education so nearly at their normal efficiency. That this should be continued throughout the war and that, in so far as the draft law will permit, there should be no falling off in attendance in elementary schools, high schools, or colleges is a matter of the very greatest importance, affecting both our strength in war and our national welfare and efficiency when the war is over. So long as the war continues there will be constant need of very large numbers of men and women of the highest and most thorough training for war service in many lines. After the war there will be urgent need not only for trained leadership in all lines of industrial, commercial, social, and civic life, but for a very high average of intelligence and preparation on the part of all the people. I would therefore urge that the people continue to give generous support to their schools of all grades and that the schools adjust themselves as wisely as possible to the new conditions to the end that no boy or girl shall have less opportunity for education because of the war and that the Nation may be strengthened as it can only be through the right education of all its people. I approve most heartily your plans for making through the Bureau of Education a comprehensive campaign for the support of the schools and for the maintenance of attendance upon them, and trust that you may have the cooperation in this work of the American Council of Education."

To Build Wood Barracks at Del Rio Cavalry Camp

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

The cavalry camp at Del Rio, Tex., will be changed from a tent camp to a semipermanent camp with wooden barracks. The construction division of the Army has been instructed to erect barracks and other wooden buildings at once. They will be similar in type to those constructed in cantonments. The cost is estimated at $76,000.

The change has been made necessary by climatic conditions. It was found that, due to the severe wind storms, the tents had to be replaced frequently. Members of the 307th and 313th Cavalry are stationed at Del Rio. Both are new.

ELECTRICAL COMPANY LICENSED TO USE ENEMY-OWNED PATENTS

The Federal Trade Commission authorizes the following:

The Federal Trade Commission announces it has licensed the Splitdorf Electrical Co., of Newark, N. J., to use in the manufacture of magnetos certain patents hitherto exclusively used in this country by the Bosch Magneto Co., but found by the commission to have been owned or controlled entirely by Robert Bosch, of Stuttgart, Germany.

The Bosch company, an American corporation, in opposing the grant of licenses to Splitdorf, presented evidence to show Robert Bosch in 1913 had agreed to sell the patents to the Bosch Magneto Co. for $275,000. From the evidence submitted, however, it appeared that the legal title is still held by Robert Bosch; and the patents stand in his name in the United States Patent Office.

Patents Enemy Owned.

The commission therefore held the patents are enemy owned or controlled, and as such subject to licensing to American firms.

The Splitdorf company is manufacturing magnetos for Army airplanes; and was directed by the War Department to embody the Bosch devices. Splitdorf engineers contend their own devices are equal to or superior to the Bosch devices specified by the Army, but have modified their magnetos to conform with the Government specifications.

The licenses are nonexclusive, and are to run during the life of the patents.

FORAGE FOR ARMY ANIMALS.

General Orders, No. 55:

III. Section I, General Orders, No. 35, War Department, 1918, is amended to read as follows:

Forage will not be carried with animals shipped in carload lots by rail for use en route when railroads are equipped with feed and rest stations, and will furnish the necessary forage.

Deaths Due to Accident on U. S. Flying Fields in Week Ended July 27

The War Department authorizes the following:

Herewith is a summary of deaths in aviation accidents at flying fields in this country for the week ending July 27, 1918:

Place.	Deaths.
Carruthers Field, Benbrook, Tex	2
Gerstner Field, Lake Charles, La	1
Park Field, Millington, Tenn	1
Rockwell Field, San Diego, Cal	1
Taliaferro Field, Fort Worth, Tex	2
Total	7

The seven deaths during the week ending July 27 represent one fatality for every 4,166 hours flown, or 333,312 miles air travel. At 22 flying fields other than those named above there were no fatalities.

WORK OF CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

The Ways and Means Committee of the House spent all of yesterday afternoon in consideration of the proposed methods of taxing war profits, but reached no conclusion. After the meeting Chairman Kitchin said the committee probably would hear from Secretary McAdoo as soon as he returns to the city. Meanwhile Treasury experts have discussed the subject with the committee, but existing differences of opinion have not been reconciled. R. T. Adams, chairman of the advisory committee on excess profits in the Treasury Department was before the committee throughout yesterday's session. The committee resumed its labors this morning with the purpose of taking up the income-tax schedules with a view to reaching definite and final conclusions.

The Senate Committee on Military Affairs yesterday decided not to report the pending new man power bill to the Senate until Secretary Baker, who is now out of the city, has been before the committee and explained its provisions. Provost Marshal General Crowder was before the committee yesterday and discussed the subject of the number of men who will be drawn for service under the proposed law. Chairman Dent, of the House Committee, announced yesterday that the bill would not be taken up by his committee until the reassembling of the House for general business. At that time public hearings will be held.

$190,000 Is Authorized for Building Camp Road

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

The expenditure of $95,000, as its share in the cost of building a road from Camp Gordon, Ga., to the Norcross Rifle Range, has been authorized by the War Department. The total cost of the road is estimated at $190,000.

The present road between the two points runs through clay, and it is frequently impossible to reach the range with heavy trucks. As this road will be used chiefly by the military authorities, the latter will bear the greatest part of the expense. The State of Georgia will give $65,000, while De Kalb and Gwinnett Counties, through which the road runs, will each contribute $15,000.

PROPOSALS FOR CANAL.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
U. S. RECLAMATION SERVICE,
Washington, D. C., August 5, 1918.

Sealed proposals for the construction of canals on the Rio Grande project, involving about 63,800 cubic yards of excavation, will be received at the office of the United States Reclamation Service, El Paso, Tex., until 2 o'clock p. m., October 1, 1918, and will at that hour be opened. The work is located near Hatch, N. Mex.

For particulars address the United States Reclamation Service, El Paso, Tex., Denver, Colo., or Washington, D. C.

Chief Engineer.

More Chaplains Needed in the Army; "Sturdy, Brotherly Men" Preferred

The following statement is authorized by the War Department:

The Army is still in need of chaplains. It needs one for every 1,200 officers and men. It wants a special kind of chaplain—a sturdy, upstanding, brotherly man between the age of 21 and 45—who cares a good deal more about the welfare of soldiers than about distinction in creeds.

At Camp Zachary Taylor, near Louisville, the Army is conducting a school for chaplains. A course in this school lasts five weeks, and after an interval of a week another class is started. Usually about 250 clergymen begin the course and about 200 complete it. The difference represents the number of those who, for one reason or another, are found unfitted or who find the training too strenuous.

Enrollment in the School.

To get into this school the candidate, if a Protestant, must have the approval of a committee of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, 1112 Woodward Building, Washington, D. C.; if a Roman Catholic, of his ecclesiastical superior and the Catholic Bureau for Army and Navy Chaplains, 930 Fourteenth Street NW., Washington, D. C.; if a Jew, of the Jewish Welfare Board. Then he must pass the physical tests of the local draft board. While at the school he receives free subsistence, lodging, and uniform and the pay of a first-class private, $33 a month. When he has completed the course successfully he is allowed mileage home at the rate of 3½ cents a mile; and when he is appointed he takes the rank and pay of a first lieutenant of the National Army, $2,000 a year and $2,200 abroad. The next class will begin on August 23.

The training is practical and intensive. Take a sample day, for illustration. The reverend first-class private arises like any common soldier at 5.45 a. m., has 15 minutes of setting-up drill, and is required to circle around the parade ground at double time before breakfast by way of an appetizer. After breakfast he must police his quarters again like any other soldier, undergo an infantry drill without arms for 40 to 45 minutes, and then he is free for lectures and recitations.

Mounted in Field Service.

These cover such subjects as military and international law, the parts of the Field Service Regulations pertaining to a chaplain's duties and lectures on service customs. The school surgeon instructs him for an hour each day in sanitation and first aid. Late in the afternoon he is required to practice horsemanship for an hour, because in field service he will be a mounted officer. After supper he has two hours for study and then to bed.

An interesting part of the training is the "clinic." This consists of putting himself under the guidance of the graduate chaplains who are in active service in camp and learning at first hand just what a chaplain is supposed to do. To a minister with the true temperment the "clinic" is the most useful and attractive portion of the course.

Each class is divided into five platoons, with each platoon in the command of a sergeant of the line, whose word on drill and discipline is law. Every effort is made to accustom the candidates to military usage and to cause them to see its reasons and advantages.

All Religions Represented.

Practically every phase of American religious belief is represented in these classes, there being no discrimination as to denomination of chaplains; and there has never been the slightest friction because of differences in doctrine. The spirit of fraternalism prevalent in the school is exemplified by the fact that the first class graduated at Camp Zachary Talor unanimously chose a Roman Catholic priest for the honor of making the class address.

But in this the school for chaplains merely reflects the spirit which has characterized all the contacts of the Government with religious problems. Thus the advisory committee on religious and moral activities in the Army and Navy is headed by a Roman Catholic, Rev. John J. Burke, C. S. P., who is also chairman of the committee on special war activities of the National Catholic War Council; while in association with him in this work are Rev. Dr. William Adams Brown, of Union Theological Seminary, who is also secretary of the general war-time committee of the churches; Col. Harry Cutler, also chairman of the Jewish Welfare Board; John R. Mott, also general secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; Bishop James Dewolf Perry, also chairman of the executive committee of the war-time committee of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and Robert E. Speer, also of the general war-time committee of the churches.

For Additional Information.

Any minister desiring additional information as to the Training School for Chaplains or wishing an appointment as chaplain should communicate directly with The Adjustant General of the Army. Protestant ministers may also find it desirable to get in touch with the Federal Council of Churches, and Roman Catholics with Rev. Lewis F. O'Hern, National Catholic War Council.

Billion Cookies as Gift of Y. M. C. A. to Soldiers

The following cablegram has been received by the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A.:

PARIS, July 28.—One billion three hundred and fifty million cigarettes and almost a billion cookies are two of the enormous orders for supplies just placed by the Y. M. C. A. for distribution to the American troops in France, and which give some idea of the magnitude of the service rendered by the red triangle organization. A small realization of the little comforts our fighters crave and the amount they can consume is conveyed in the Y. M. C. A.'s orders for 840,000,000 cookies, representing 750 carloads; 93,750,000 sticks of gum, 112,500,000 bars of chocolate, 1,350,000,000 cigarettes, and 7,500,000 jars of jam and marmalade.

These goods have been contracted for and will be exhausted before Christmas.

SHIPPING BOARD IS PUSHING MANNING OF MERCHANT FLEET WITH ALL-AMERICAN CREWS

ARMY OF MEN NOW IN TRAINING

Output of School Ships Will Be 3,000 a Month, Chairman Hurley Says—Stations on Great Lakes and Elsewhere.

The Shipping Board authorizes the following:

With the success of its huge shipbuilding program assured the United States Shipping Board will now concentrate its power on the manning of the merchant marine with all-American crews, Chairman Edward N. Hurley states.

The Shipping Board's efficiency methods in putting the American shipyards on the map will be paralleled by Mr. Hurley in creating an adequate personnel for the merchant ships built and controlled by the Shipping Board.

100 Per Cent American Manned.

Not only the war needs of the merchant marine will be considered in the launching of an extensive educational campaign, but a broad foundation will be laid by organization for maintaining a 100 per cent American personnel in the great peace fleet with which the United States will take a commanding place in world trade after the war.

The Shipping Board's manning program is based on the present and potential needs of the merchant service in coastwise and overseas traffic, for both existing and for new tonnage.

Since the war began the new tonnage has been divided between the Shipping Board and the Navy, virtually on a 50-50 basis, the ships assigned to the Navy being used in its overseas transport service.

Division of Tonnage.

"This division of tonnage is based on an agreement between the Shipping Board and the Navy Department dating from last year, which has not been changed," said Mr. Hurley.

"The ships used by the Navy for transporting troops and animals as well as cargoes of war materials through the war zone are manned by naval crews. Ships making commercial voyages through the war zone and to all other parts of the world are manned by civilian crews.

"The Shipping Board recently gave the Navy Department an estimate of the number of men the Navy will probably need for the merchant ships turned over to it by the Shipping Board. It is now meeting its own needs for the country's commercial vessels by recruiting and training men for service in the civilian crews of the merchant marine.

Training System for Crews.

"The Shipping Board since the war began has been building up a training system for merchant officers and crews that will now be used to its fullest capacity for producing the men needed in the merchant marine.

"This system, under the direction of the board's recruiting service, now has 10 training ships and receiving ships actually in commission, and 3 others authorized, 2 of the latter for the Gulf and the Great Lakes, respectively.

"The board's Atlantic training squadron, based at Boston, has 3 cruising training ships which make regular visits to Philadelphia, New York, Norfolk, and other ports. A receiving ship is maintained at New York and another at Norfolk.

"In a Pacific squadron are 4 training vessels, 2 based at San Francisco and 2 at Seattle. The Gulf training ship will be based at New Orleans and the Great Lakes ship at Cleveland.

Three Thousand Men Monthly.

"The output of these training vessels will be 3,000 men a month. Young Americans from all sections of the country are wanted for this service. The board maintains more than 6,000 neighborhood recruiting stations at drug stores, where they may enroll. Their transportation will be paid to the nearest training station, and they will receive an intensive course in sea training that will fit them in the shortest possible time for service in the merchant fleets of their country. In the next 12 months approximately 36,000 will be accepted for training. Several thousand have already been trained."

Committee to Study Problems.

Study of man power for the merchant marine from every angle presented by war conditions and the future trade requirements of the country is the duty of a special committee of the United States Shipping Board, the appointment of which was announced to-day.

The committee is composed of George Nichols, of Boston and New York, cotton manufacturer and business organization expert; A. S. Hebble, of New York, connected with the Southern Pacific Shipping Service, and Dr. E. M. Hopkins, president of Dartmouth College, a recognized authority on labor problems, at present connected with the War Department. William C. Ewing, of Boston, formerly connected with the Boston Chamber of Commerce, is secretary. James Thompson, of New Bedford, Mass., will assist the committee, which has opened headquarters at 45 Broadway, New York, room 705.

Searching Program Ordered.

Chairman Hurley has ordered that the committee make a searching study of all conditions in the merchant marine affecting the standing of American merchant officers and crews as a body, and to report on ways and means of putting American merchants' crews on the highest level of character, discipline, and efficiency.

Amount of Wool for Soldier's Equipment Based on War Department Computations

The War Department authorizes the following:

Many unofficial estimates of the amount of wool required for a soldier's equipment have been printed from time to time, and these estimates have varied greatly, most of them having been far from correct. While it is impossible to make an exactly accurate estimate because the factors themselves are more or less variable, some estimates have been prepared under the direction of Brig. Gen. R. E. Wood, the Acting Quartermaster General, which are believed to be as nearly right as can be computed from available data.

Estimated Quantities Per Soldier.

The quantities of wool per soldier, according to these computations, are:

	Natural condition, grease weight.	Clean or scoured weight.
	Pounds.	Pounds.
Complete initial equipment	71	31
Annual renewal:
Service in United States	42	18
Service in France	75	32

These are believed to be maximum figures, and it is expected that the rapidly developing reclamation service will appreciably reduce the annual renewal requirements.

Articles of Clothing Included.

The articles of clothing which are included in the soldier's equipment as used in the above estimates are: Wool uniform, overcoat, blankets, over-seas cap, flannel shirts, wool gloves and mittens, winter underwear, spiral puttees, stockings, lining for leather jerkin, and several smaller items.

POSTING OF PATRIOTIC NOTICES IN THE LOBBIES OF POST OFFICES

OFFICE OF FIRST ASSISTANT
POSTMASTER GENERAL,
Washington, July 25, 1918.

Postmasters:

With reference to the various instructions of the department to postmasters to permit the posting and display in post-office lobbies and on bulletin boards of notices, bulletins, and placards emanating from the executive departments and independent bureaus of the Government, postmasters are advised that the authority for such posting and display may be construed as extending to and including the posting of notices or announcement of patriotic lectures, patriotic meetings, assemblies, and rallies, or any other meetings or gatherings which are intended to disseminate information regarding the causes and necessities of the war, and designed to further and facilitate the activities of the Government in the prosecution and successful termination of the war program.

J. C. KOONS,
First Asst. Postmaster General.

General Orders, No. 55:

IV. Section I, General Orders, No. 13, War Department, 1918, is rescinded and the following substituted therefor:

The quartermaster depot at Pittsburgh, Pa., is announced as a subdepot of the Quartermaster Corps and is under the jurisdiction of the Philadelphia General Supply Depot.

Quantity Production of Airplane Spruce Accomplished by the Aircraft Bureau in the Face of Many Complex Problems

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the Bureau of Aircraft Production:

The frames of air plane wings, ailerons, fins, rudders, elevators, and stabilizers, the struts, landing gear, fuselage, flooring, engine bed, after-deck, and seats are made of wood and preferably of spruce. This is because spruce is the toughest of soft woods for its weight, and possesses tremendous shock absorbing qualities. Furthermore, it does not splinter when hit by a missile. Sitka spruce, white spruce, and red spruce are used.

About 350 Separate Pieces.

About 350 pieces of spruce are required in a single airplane, but not all of them are individually different; the wing beams are practically of similar dimensions, and the struts vary only in size according to the strains put upon them.

Practically all the available spruce is in the United States and along the western coast of British Columbia. In our country it grows close to the Pacific coast on the western slopes of the Cascade Range in the States of Washington and Oregon. The stand of Sitka spruce, which is the best airplane stock in these two States, is estimated at 11,000,000,000 feet, but less than half of it is near enough to transportation facilities, or in dense enough stands to be commercialized. The total spruce shipped for the first three months of 1918 was over 20,000,000 feet, but the United States Government and the allies required more than three times that quantity in that time, showing that we were not up to requirements in March.

The vast total of 11,000,000,000 feet standing, however, is not all available for airplane construction, and never will be, because only a small per cent of the spruce is suitable for such use. It is stated that about 10 per cent of a good spruce log is available for airplane stock.

Confusion at First.

With the first demands for spruce, confusion arose. Shipments were handled by brokers on orders secured through representatives of the allied Governments. No organization existed, of course, and competition was keen. The lumber was shipped as commercial freight, and it took from 45 to 60 days to get it to points east of Chicago. A poor grade of unselected spruce was being shipped. One airplane company claimed that in June, 1917, it bought 1,000 feet of spruce to obtain 167 feet of airplane material. Hours were long and wages were high. The whole industry was disrupted by strikes and I. W. W. agitators. With our own requirements to meet and the vital needs of the allies at stake something had to be done.

On September 7, 1917, under authorization of the national defense act, orders were placed in the name of the Secretary of War with the western spruce mills, which required them to give preference to Government orders.

Col. Brice P. Disque, Signal Corps, was detailed to investigate the situation. He organized a volunteer logging army of experienced men as part of the Signal Corps to supplement civilian labor in the logging camps, detailing them to camps producing Government aircraft lumber, upon the application for troop labor. All lumber camp and mill conditions were supervised; food, housing, and transportation of employees were regulated. A basic eight-hour day for six days a week, with time and a half for overtime, was established at all camps, and a standard wage scale for each occupation was adopted for civilians and soldiers. There are now about 15,000 troops engaged in this work.

One of the most important features of the work of the Signal Corps in the Northwest was the organization of the Loyal Legion of Loggers by Col. Disque. The territory of Oregon and Washington was subdivided into seven districts and a commissioned officer from the Spruce Division was detailed to establish local chapters at every camp and mill working on spruce and fir. It was a big undertaking, and included a sanitary survey of camps and a general course of education to the men, some of whom were a bit suspicious of the attention given them. As a result there are to-day something like 95,000 members, all volunteers. An eight-page bulletin is circulated, and special entertainments, with motion pictures, are sent from camp to camp. Conditions began to improve at once, and now the cooperation of the men is most satisfactory.

Col. Disque was supplied with a fund of $20,000,000 with which to aid responsible operators, who were in need of money, to the extent of 30 per cent of their contracts. In the end he quadrupled the output of spruce.

World's Largest Sawmill.

By erecting the largest sawmill in the world in 45 days the Spruce Division made a distinct record. Work of erection was begun on December 24, 1917, and the mill was completed February 7, 1918. This huge cut-up mill is at Vancouver Barracks, Wash. It has 12 separate log carriages for conveying the spruce to 12 head saws, back of which are complete sets of edgers, cut-off saws, and other machinery necessary to convert the rived or sawed cants into finished stock. This mill cost the Government in the neighborhood of $200,000. There are 1,940 men in the Second Provisional Regiment, who operate this cut-up plant, working in three shifts of eight hours each.

Before the war this sort of lumber was seasoned by air drying, but the great demand for spruce necessitated a kiln-drying process. This was worked out by the Forest Products Laboratory of the Forestry Service, and a plant costing $350,000 was erected at Vancouver Barracks. A saving in shipping weight of 33⅓ per cent was effected by shipping dried wood to factories.

To-day production of spruce and fir is nearly up to requirements for airplane stock. The total spruce and fir shipped to June 15, including a large amount of each shipped to the allies, is: Spruce, 52,000,000 feet; fir, 20,800,000 feet.

New Special Aircraft Engine Oil Adopted After Tests by Lubrication Branch Experts

The War Department authorizes the following:

The Department of Military Aeronautics has announced the specifications for a new aircraft engine oil, known as Liberty aero oil, developed while the lubrication branch was a part of the Equipment Division of the Signal Corps. The new oil is a mineral oil, and will be used in the Liberty engine, as well as all stationary cylinder aircraft engines both here and abroad by the Army and Navy. Its development is due to the energy and skill of a staff of men who have worked exclusively on the problem for upward of 12 months. One officer so exhausted himself by his devotion to the subject that he became ill and died. The name of this officer was Capt. O. J. May.

Former Use of Oils.

When the aircraft program was announced in 1917 no one in authority had a definite idea as to the proper kind of lubrication required. Both at home and abroad the practice had been far from uniform. For nearly every engine there was a specific oil.

An airplane is useless without an engine, and in turn the engine powerless without oil. Some engineers insisted on castor oil, others recommended castor mixed with mineral oil; still others wanted mineral oil alone. At that time it was estimated that 5,000,000 gallons of castor oil alone, at about $3 per gallon, would be required. Neither that amount nor any amount of any other oil was available.

A new American engine was being designed and new lubrication problems were continually arising. Those in authority set out to develop a suitable lubricant at an average cost of about 75 cents per gallon and also a system for reclaiming oil already used. The result was the beginning of an oil survey.

Practical Tests Made.

Among the first lubrication experts attached to the new department was Capt. May, of Chicago. In 25 days he supervised personally the running of 37 engine tests in a laboratory where 5 engine tests a week would be a complete program. These engines were run with different kinds of oils, and each oil was analyzed and measured before and after tests. This work consumed a great amount of vitality and required such ceaseless vigil that the endurance of the investigator was exhausted when the work was completed. To determine how lubrication and fuel would serve at high levels, Capt. May then went to the altitude testing laboratory, an air-tight building capable of having the air within it partly exhausted and kept in that state. In other words, the air pressure within this com-

AIR MAIL SERVICE IN JULY SURPASSES RECORD FOR JUNE

The Post Office Department issues the following:

The July record of the Air Mail Service, as shown in the monthly report of Second Assistant Postmaster General Praeger, surpasses that of June. During July, out of 108 possible flights 98 perfect flights were made without interruption through forced landings or mechanical troubles. Only 2 of the 108 legs were defaulted on account of weather and only 8 forced landings were made. Four of the forced landings were by an officer new in the work and the route.

The flights during the month covered a total of 11,855 miles.

The best performances made by aviators were in the order following:

Some of the Records.

Lieut. J. C. Edgerton, 18 perfect trips with a total of 2,430 miles, without a single interrupted flight.

Lieut. Walter Miller, 19 perfect trips with an aggregate of 1,710 miles, without a single interruption.

Lieut. E. W. Killgore, 16 perfect trips, aggregating 2,160 miles, and 1 interrupted flight and 1 uncompleted flight.

Lieut. H. P. Culver, 14 perfect flights, aggregating 1,350 miles, and 1 interrupted flight.

Lieut. T. H. Webb, 12 perfect flights, aggregating 1,080 miles, and 1 interrupted flight.

Speed Records Broken.

During the month all mail speed records were broken when on July 29 the mail was carried from Washington to New York in 2 hours and 5 minutes, flying time.

Storm-flying records were established when Lieuts. Edgerton, Bonsal, and Killgore put their machines through driving rain and wind storms that practically shut out visibility, flying entirely by compass, and making perfect landings. On the New York-Philadelphia end several flights were made by Lieuts. Miller, Culver, and Webb through fog, haze, and rain.

INDIAN WAR PENSION CLAIMS.

The Department of the Interior, Bureau of Pensions, issues the following:

Where a claim under act of March 4, 1917, based upon alleged service in Utah Militia in the Black Hawk War, has been rejected and reconsideration of such claim appears warranted in the light of additional information obtained on special examination as to the evidential value of the rolls of certain companies of Utah Militia as muster rolls, the adjudicating division shall reopen such claim, using the reopening face brief and citing the directions here given by the Commissioner as authority for its action.

G. M. SALTZGABER,
Commissioner.

Remember! the men in our Army and Navy do not expect luxuries. Should we at home expect them? Buy necessities and war-savings stamps.

INSTRUCTION AS TO PENSION.

Commissioner's Ruling Regarding Filing of New Application.

The Department of the Interior, Bureau of Pensions, issues the following instruction:

In claim No. 1,111,768, Nettie M., as widow of Hiram M. Chittenden, Brigadier General, United States Army, retired, the Assistant Secretary, on July 31, 1918, promulgated an opinion that the amendment approved June 25, 1918, to section 312 of the war-risk insurance act had the effect to reinvest the Pension Bureau with jurisdiction over claims arising under the pension laws in cases where the soldier through whom pension is claimed was not on the 6th day of October, 1917, in the active service, and therefore to give the Pension Bureau jurisdiction of claims based on the service of an officer or enlisted man who was on the retired list on October 6, 1917, or thereafter.

If an application was filed prior to June 25, 1918, it is not necessary under the changed condition of the law that a new application be filed in the Pension Bureau.

G. M. SALTZGABER,
Commissioner.

TO HOLD "GET-TOGETHER" MEETING.

Quartermaster Officers and Executives and Civilians Expected.

The following notice has been issued in the office of the Quartermaster General of the Army:

There will be a "Get-together meeting" of officers, executives, and civilians of the Quartermaster General's Office Thursday, August 8, 1918, promptly at 8.30 p. m., at the Central High School, Clifton and Twelfth Streets.

Hon. Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, has consented to address the personnel of the Quartermaster Corps.

There will be a band concert between 8 and 8.30 p. m. by the Camp Meigs Band.

Everyone in the office of the Quartermaster General's Office is invited. Officers in charge of divisions are requested to convey this information to the officers and civilians in their respective divisions. The civilian personnel will be admitted on presentation of their passes. Officers will not need any pass or other form of admission.

Mr. Cator Woolford, of the Personnel Division, is charged with the arrangements of the meeting and will be pleased to receive any suggestions.

Conservation of Goods in Making Army Clothing

The War Department authorizes the following:

Waste is not wasted in the Quartermaster Corps. The Manufacturing Branch of the Clothing and Equipage Division is not permitting ends and clippings from materials used in the manufacture of clothing to be thrown away, but is making use of every available scrap of cloth left over.

All "seconds" of 16 and 20 ounce Meltons, in which the perfect portions are not large enough for garment use, are being used for cap cloths, out of which over-seas caps are being made and the "seconds" of 30 and 32 ounce Meltons are being used for jerkin linings.

The clippings which were left over as a result of shortening thousands of long overcoats are being made up into mittens. Cotton and wool clippings too small for any manufacturing use are turned over to the Conservation and Reclamation Division of the Quartermaster Corps.

CIVILIAN AGENTS AUTHORIZED TO WEAR UNIFORMS IN CAMPS

The War Department authorizes the following:

The Secretary of War has authorized civilian organizations having authorized representatives engaged in camp activities to adopt, subject to his approval, suitable uniforms for wear in camps and cantonments in this country, the uniform in each case to be distinctly different in color, pattern, and insignia from the Army uniform and to be worn only while on duty with troops or in the immediate vicinity of the camp or cantonments to which they are assigned. When a uniform shall have been adopted by any organization, the specifications will be submitted, through The Adjutant General of the Army, for the approval of the Secretary of War.

Those civilian representatives not wearing uniforms will be required to wear while in camp a white brassard 5 inches wide, midway between the elbow and shoulder with lettering or design showing line of activities in which they are engaged.

ENLARGING SEWAGE PLANTS AT THE ARMY CANTONMENTS

The War Department authorizes the following:

The increased number of troops in camps and cantonments has made necessary the enlarging of the sewage disposal plants. Instructions have been given to the Construction Division of the Army to undertake the work immediately. The average cost at each camp will be about $40,000.

A committee of sanitary engineers from the Construction Division and the Sanitary Engineering Section of the Surgeon General's office inspected the plants and reported that to properly safeguard the health of the troops and the civilian population enlargements and alterations of the present plants must be made.

Measures are being taken to correct the most pressing defects while the work of enlarging the plants is being done.

ASSIGNED TO NEW DUTY.

Special Orders, No. 172:

130. Maj. Louis W. Stotesbury, Inspector General's Reserve Corps, is relieved from duty in the office of the Inspector General of the Army and will proceed to Governors Island, N. Y., and report in person to the commanding general, Eastern Department, for duty as assistant to the department inspector of that department.

BEEHIVE COKE MAXIMUM PRICE FOR THE STATE OF KENTUCKY

The Fuel Administration issues the following order establishing maximum prices of beehive coke in the State of Kentucky:

U. S. FUEL ADMINISTRATION,
Washington, D. C., July 26, 1918.

It appearing to the United States Fuel Administrator that various additional regulations should be put in force for the better control of the distribution of coke, and of the prices at which the same may be sold,

The United States Fuel Administrator, acting under an Executive order of the President of the United States dated August 23, 1917, appointing said administrator, and of subsequent Executive orders, and in furtherance of the purpose of said orders and of the act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917,

Hereby orders and directs that until further or other orders of said Fuel Administrator, and subject to modification by him at any time and from time to time hereafter, the following regulations additional to those already set forth shall be in effect beginning 7 a. m. July 29, 1918:

(1) The maximum price f. o. b. cars at ovens, per ton of 2,000 pounds, for coke made in Pike County, Ky., except at the plant of the Marrowbone Mining Co., shall be $6.50 for blast-furnace coke and $7.50 for 72-hour selected foundry coke.

H. A. GARFIELD,
United States Fuel Administrator.

NEW SPECIAL AIRCRAFT OIL ADOPTED AFTER LONG TESTS

partment could be reduced and kept constant by means of exhaust air pumps. In this manner the reduced air pressure could be made equivalent to the air pressure at any elevation. Here the engines were tested for altitude, instead of trying to fly them for any length of time at the corresponding heights, or taking them up to the top of some mountain.

Death of Capt. May.

In the first tests Capt. May ran a 65-hour test without a stop. He stood watch without leaving the work until it was finished and his data was recorded. This continued strain on his vitality proved too great and on an inspection trip shortly afterward he was caught in a severe storm, fell ill, and died at Takoma Park, D. C., on May 22, 1918.

On his reports were based the Liberty aero oil specifications which are in general use in the Army and Navy to-day. His experiments made possible the securing of a suitable airplane engine oil at about a fourth the price of castor oil, saving the Government perhaps $11,000,000.

Reclamation of used oil is also practiced now and at least 50 per cent is used again, whereas previously it was thrown away. This probably also saves the Government several million dollars.

Save for the country's sake.

U. S. CONTROL OF THE MEAT-PACKING INDUSTRY, TERMED "CONSPIRACY," URGED TO PRESIDENT

"CONCLUSIVE EVIDENCE" OF TRUST IS FOUND, FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION PROBERS SAY

OPERATIONS GO BEYOND THE LIMITS OF AMERICA, AND IF CONTINUED, WILL "REFLECT UPON NATION"

WRONGS COMPETITORS

Recommendations Would Put All Refrigerator Cars, Warehouses, and Other Properties Under Government Supervision—Show of Competition Is Pronounced "Superficial"—Five Firms Named.

At the direction of the President, the Committee on Public Information to-day gave out a summary of the report of the Federal Trade Commission on the packing industry.

This is the third of a series of reports which the Federal Trade Commission will make as a result of its food investigation. The report has been in the hands of the President since July 5, but publication was not authorized sooner because the President wished first to be in possession of full information.

Findings Set Forth in Letter.

The findings and recommendations of the Federal Trade Commission are set forth in the following letter to the President:

SUMMARY OF REPORT ON MEAT-PACKING INDUSTRY.

Letter to the President.

JULY 3, 1918.

To the PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

SIR: On February 7, 1917, you directed the Federal Trade Commission to "investigate and report facts relating to the production, ownership, manufacture, storage, and distribution of foodstuffs and the products or by-products arising from

SUGGESTIONS TO NEWSPAPERS ON U. S. POLICY TOWARD RUSSIA

The Committee on Public Information, at the instance of the Chief Military Censor, makes the following request of the press:

The policy of the United States Government toward Russia having been announced by the State Department, the press is requested to observe, in all news dispatches relating to Russia, paragraphs 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 on the Committee on Public Information's card entitled "What the Government asks of the press." The paragraphs referred to read as follows:

"2. Information tending to disclose the number of troops in the expeditionary forces abroad.

"3. Information calculated to disclose the location of the permanent base or bases abroad.

"4. Information that would disclose the location of American units or the eventual position of the American forces at the front.

"5. Information tending to disclose an eventual or actual port of embarkation; or information of the movement of military forces toward seaports or of the assembling of military forces at seaports from which inference might be drawn of any intention to embark them for service abroad; and information of the assembling of transports or convoys; and information of the embarkation itself.

"6. Information of the arrival at any European port of American war vessels, transports, or any portion of any expeditionary force, combatant or noncombatant."

[NOTE.—When any of this information becomes available for publication at the War Department announcement may be expected from the Chief of Staff.]

STENOGRAPHERS WANTED FOR U. S. FOREIGN SERVICE

The Department of Labor authorizes the following:

Fifty expert stenographers and typists are wanted at once for foreign service, according to an announcement by E. M. Kline, in charge of the United States Employment Office at 1410 Pennsylvania

GENERAL MARCH CORRECTS REPORTS CONCERNING THE NUMBER OF U. S. DIVISIONS PLANNED AGAINST ENEMY

EXPEDITION TO SIBERIA

Maj. Gen. U. S. Graves to Be in Command—Nucleus of American Force Will Be Sent from the Philippines, and Supplemented by Other Troops from the United States.

Press interview by Gen. March:

I am informed that there has been a statement made unofficially to the correspondents that I stated to the Senate Military Affairs Committee that the military program contemplated 84 divisions next May. That is not the fact and will not be published; I made no such statement.

With reference to the fighting in France: When I talked to you last Saturday I pointed out just where the lines were at that time. On Saturday the retirement proceeded at top speed, covering a depth of 5 miles on a 20-mile front. The terrain on the west afforded an opportunity for quick movement of troops; the center was more wooded and more difficult for advancement, and the eastern portion of it still more broken by wooded ravines and streams, which at that time were swollen by the rains.

U. S. Troops at Fismes.

The line of the Vesle River as far east as Fismes was reached on Saturday as has already been published. United States troops entered Fismes on Sunday. The allied troops are now along the south bank of the Vesle and have crossed over at many points going into the flat country on the other side, but not taking the hills, which are still crowned by Germans, and probably strongly defended.

I will say about that terrain—which I have been over—that it affords a very good opportunity for defense. Steep slopes on the other side of the river rise to heights which are crowned unquestionably by German artillery and make the advance at that point quite difficult.

Former Salient Wiped Out.

The salient which we have been talking about for the last two or three weeks no longer exists. The allied line now runs in practically a straight line from near Montdidier to Verdun.

There were minor actions along the British front which I will not refer to in the general discussion.

The United States has organized an expedition to Siberia. The officer selected to command this expedition is Maj. Gen. William S. Graves, who is now in command of the 8th Division, Camp Fremont, Cal. The nucleus of the American force in Siberia will come from the Philippines and will consist of the 27th and 31st Regiments of Regular Infantry. That force will be supplemented by other troops sent from the United States.

The purpose of organization of the expedition has been announced by the President through the State Department, and I need not refer to that further. The force is relatively small and is not for the purpose of establishing an eastern front in Russia, but for the purpose set forth in the President's memorandum, and no other.

Commanders in Siberia.

Q. Could you tell us who will command these regiments?

A. One is commanded by Col. Styer and the other by Col. Taggart. Those officers have been ordered to command the regiments referred to.

When Gen. Graves arrives in Vladivostok I will give it out.

Q. Where is the 26th Division? Can you say anything of the particular engagements in which they have participated?

A. I have in previous talks pointed out to you on the map where the 26th Division was, and a little bit more in detail I'll say that the 26th Division started combat training in the middle of June in the Woevre sector north of Toul. On the 18th of July it appeared in the line on the Marne salient and took part in the attack of July 19. I pointed out to you before that it was engaged in the attack on Epieds on the 22d.

Q. Tuesday morning papers state American troops at Kandalaska. Is this so? If so, what is the character of the forces?

Location of U. S. Forces.

A. Kandalaska is south of Kola on the Murman railroad where it touches the Kandalak Gulf on the White Sea, and the only dispatch I have seen does not say that American troops were there, but that troops had landed at Archangel. I have seen no dispatches anywhere that American troops are at Kandalaska, and so far as I know they are not there.

(Gen. March here stated that he referred in the above answer to newspaper dispatches, and that when American troops arrive at Murmansk and the facts are reported to the War Department he will give them out.)

Q. Can the present location of the 27th Division be stated?

A. This division, so far as is known, is still in the training area.

Q. What division has the 4th Regiment of Motor Mechanics been incorporated with, and where are they now stationed?

A. The Motor Mechanics are not attached to divisions. They are corps troops. No information has yet reached us as to what corps this particular organization is assigned to. They sailed on July 15, and presumably they have arrived over there, and will be assigned eventually.

Location of Divisions.

Q. Will you give us the locations of all of the divisions overseas whose positions have not yet been made known?

A. That is impossible.

Q. Press dispatches indicate that American troops are engaged in action with British troops in Picardy and possibly in Flanders; will you identify these American troops?

A. The only report we have is that the Thirty-third Division took part in the engagement of July 4 in Picardy. No other reports of our troops with British in Picardy or Flanders have come in.

Q. Can it be disclosed what troops are in Italy?

A. Not at the present time. None of the troops there have been identified with the enemy, and when they are I will give them out.

COTTONSEED GROWERS CONFER WITH FOOD ADMINISTRATION

The Food Administration issues the following:

Dealers in cottonseed for planting convened in Washington at the Food Administration for a conference at which cost of doing business was discussed, with a view to determining a basis for rules and regulations to be drawn up by the Food Administration, governing margins of profit.

More Than 100 Growers Attend.

More than a hundred seed men attended, representing every State in which cotton is raised. At present, dealers who sell seed for planting are included in rules and regulations issued recently for sellers of milling seed, by which profits of the latter are limited to $3 per ton, when they themselves own their business wholly and assume all risks of operation.

It is felt that because of the greater expense incurred in handling seed for planting it is unfair to confine dealers in this seed to the $3 profit.

Seed Carefully Grown.

Dealers who sell for planting develop their product carefully by the most approved methods of horticulture and usually sell these select lots in small quantities to growers. The growers bind themselves to sell back the product of this seed to the dealer at an advance. The dealer then sells in larger quantities to the generality of growers.

159 Men are Landed Sick and Wounded From Oversea Forces

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the Office of the Surgeon General:

During the week ended August 2 the number of sick and wounded landed in the United States from the American Expeditionary Forces was 159. These men were sent to the various Army hospitals, where facilities for treatment and physical reconstruction have been provided.

COLD STORAGE ADVISORS MEET TO DISCUSS SCHEDULE OF RATES

The Food Administration issues the following:

On August 6, the hottest August day ever recorded in Washington, the advisory committee, representing the cold-storage industry in conferences with the United States Food Administration, met in Washington to consider the question of cold-storage rates. It was recommended and decided that a basis of maximum rates be placed by the Food Administration on certain of the important products now being placed in cold storage, such as meat, butter, poultry, cheese, dried fruits, and apples. The intention is that the profits of cold-storage warehousemen shall be limited.

Personnel of Committee.

The committee consisted of Frank A. Horne, chairman, New York, and R. H. Switzler, St. Louis, both of the Food Administration; M. C. Cummings, Chicago; Homer McDaniel, Cleveland; Floyd M. Shoemaker, Elmira, N. Y.; George H. Stoddard, Boston; W. B. Mason, Providence; and Nimmo Old, Norfolk.

Representatives of the subsistence division and the Quartermaster Corps of the Army, men from the Bureau of Markets of the United States Department of Agriculture, and the heads of the various commodity sections of the Food Administration also sat in the conference.

Basis for Regulations.

The facts brought out at the meetings will be given consideration by the Food Administration in formulating the needed regulations on cold-storage notes.

FIRE APPLIANCE STANDARDS SET BY WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

The War Industries Board and the Bureau of Standards have joined in recommending for the duration of the war certain detailed standards covering construction and operation of a number of classes of appliances used in fire protection and fire prevention, including hose, hydrants, and similar extinguishing agents, fire doors and similar fire-retardants, and electrical fittings of all classes which need standardization from the point of view of fire hazard.

To facilitate uniformity in procedure on all matters relating to the subject, A. O. Boniface has been designated as the cooperating agent between the Fire-Prevention Section of the War Industries Board and the United States Bureau of Standards.

STENOGRAPHERS WANTED.

Avenue, Washington, D. C. The minimum entrance salary will be $2,000 a year, and men in the Government service are eligible to apply. Only men are wanted.

There is no examination to take; quick action and immediate results are desired. Qualified men are urged to apply at once at the Washington office.

Federal Trade Commission Urges Control of Meat Packers

or in connection with their preparation and manufacture; to ascertain the facts bearing on alleged violations of the anti-trust acts, and particularly upon the question whether there are manipulations, controls, trusts, combinations, conspiracies, or restraints of trade out of harmony with the law or the public interest," to the end that "proper remedies, legislative or administrative, may be applied."

On July 1, 1917, funds for carrying out this direction became available and the commission undertook the task.

The work fell naturally into various divisions and reports have already been made to you with reference to the milling and jobbing of wheat flour and the preparation and distribution of certain canned food products. Other divisions will be the subject of reports to you as rapidly as the results of our studies can be reduced to proper form. At this time we are reporting to you on the meat-packing industry.

Evidence of Monopolies.

Answering directly your question as to whether or not there exist "monopolies, controls, trusts, combinations, conspiracies, or restraints of trade out of harmony with the law and the public interest," we have found conclusive evidence that warrants an unqualified affirmative.

This evidence in summary form accompanies this letter and will be set forth in more detailed form in seven reports in support of our findings and recommendations, which will be placed in your hand at the earliest possible moment.

While we have found and will disclose to you an intricate fabric of "monopolies, controls, combinations, conspiracies, and restraints" which would seem to indicate a similarly complex and minute system of legislative or administrative remedies, we believe that an adequate remedy may be more simply arrived at.

We believe that if the fundamental and underlying evils are rooted out the whole structure of conspiracy, control, monopoly, and restraint must fall.

If we are correct in this judgment, the task of applying legislative and administrative remedy is greatly simplified.

Five Packing Concerns Named.

It appears that five great packing concerns of the country—Swift, Armour, Morris, Cudahy, and Wilson—have attained such a dominant position that they control at will the market in which they buy their supplies, the market in which they sell their products, and hold the fortunes of their competitors in their hands.

Not only is the business of gathering, preparing, and selling meat products in their control, but an almost countless number of by-product industries are similarly dominated; and not content with reaching out for mastery as to commodities which substitute for meat and its by-products, they have invaded allied industries and even unrelated ones.

The combination has not stopped at the most minute integration but has gone on into a stage of conglomeration, so that unrelated heterogeneous enterprises are brought under control.

As we have followed these five great corporations through their amazing and devious ramifications—followed them through important branches of industry, of commerce, and of finance—we have been able to trace back to its source the great power which has made possible their growth. We have found that it is not so much the means of production and preparation, nor the sheer momentum of great wealth, but the advantage which is obtained through a monopolistic control of the market places and means of transportation and distribution.

If these five great concerns owned no packing plants and killed no cattle and still retained control of the instruments of transportation, of marketing, and of storage, their position would not be less strong than it is.

The producer of live sock is at the mercy of these five companies because they control the market and the marketing facilities and, to some extent, the rolling stock which transports the product to the market.

The competitors of these five concerns are at their mercy because of the control of the market places, storage facilities, and the refrigerator cars for distribution.

The consumer of meat products is at the mercy of these five because both producer and competitor are helpless to bring relief.

Control of Stock Cars.

The stock car is a part of the equipment of the common carrier whose services are necessary to the producer of meat animals so that he may reach the market. The railroads furnish suitable cars for the transportation of other kinds of freight, and as to the use of such cars the miner of coal or the manufacturer of furniture are on an equality, but in the matter of transportation of live stock to a small degree there comes in a private ownership and a control and a manipulation of the means of transportation—the stock car—so it is that we recommend:

1. That the Government acquire, through the Railroad Administration, all rolling stock used for the transportation of meat animals and that such ownership be declared a Government monopoly.

In the transportation of all other kinds of freight the transportation companies provide proper and suitable freight depots. The proper and suitable freight depot for live stock is a stockyard with its equipment of exchange buildings, terminal railways, and means of distributing full, unbiased, helpful market information, etc. We therefore recommend:

2. That the Government acquire, through the Railroad Administration, the principal and necessary stockyards of the country, to be treated as freight depots and to be operated under such conditions as will insure open, competitive markets, with uniform scale of charges for all services performed, and the acquisition or establishment of such additional yards from time to time as the future development of live-stock production in the United States may require. This to include customary adjuncts of stockyards.

A requisite for the proper transportation of fresh meat and dairy products is that type of rolling stock known as refrigerator cars. The railroads supply proper, special types of cars for other classes of freight, but the beef-refrigerator cars and icing facilities, which are absolutely necessary for the transportation and distribution of fresh meats, are in private ownership. This ownership furnishes these five great packing companies one of their most powerful means for controls, manipulations, and restraints. Lacking access on equal terms to these facilities competitors of the five great packers are at their mercy, and, competition being stifled, the consumer similarly is helpless. We therefore recommend:

3. That the Government acquire, through the Railroad Administration, all privately owned refrigerator cars and all necessary equipment for their proper operation and that such ownership be declared a Government monopoly.

Proper freight houses are provided by common carriers for the various sorts of freight except meat and perishable products. The indicated freight depot for such commodities is a cold-storage house. Such a depot used as a distributing station, if free of access to all, would constitute an agency for fair and free competition. Such a depot in private hands, as now, constitutes an invincible weapon for monopoly and control and manipulation. We therefore recommend:

Control of Warehouses.

4. That the Federal Government acquire such of the branch houses, cold-storage plants, and warehouses as are necessary to provide facilities for the competitive marketing and storage of food products in the principal centers of distribution and consumption. The same to be operated by the Government as public markets and storage places under such conditions as will afford an outlet for all manufacturers and handlers of food products on equal terms. Supplementing the marketing and storage facilities thus acquired, the Federal Government establish, through the Railroad Administration, at the terminals of all principal points of distribution and consumption, central wholesale markets, and storage plants, with facilities open to all upon payment of just and fair charges.

The commission believes that these four suggestions strike so deeply at the root of the tree of monopoly that they constitute an adequate and simple solution of a problem the gravity of which will be unfolded to you in the pages which follow.

"International in Activities."

Out of the mass of information in our hands, one fact stands out with all possible emphasis. The small dominant group of American meat packers are now international in their activities, while remaining American in identity. Blame which now attaches to them for their practices abroad as well as at home inevitably will attach to our country if the practices continue. The purely domestic problems in their increasing magnitude, their monopolization of markets, and their manipulations and controls, grave as those problems are, are not more serious than those presented by the added aspect

Number of Women Directly Replacing Men in British Industries Now Nearly 1,500,000

The Department of Labor authorizes the following:

Recent reports concerning the replacement of men by women in Great Britain are made available in the August issue of the Monthly Labor Review.

In April, 1917, the number of women directly replacing men was estimated at 1,256,000, of whom over three-fourths were found in industrial and commercial occupations and in Government employ. In January, 1918, according to the British Labor Gazette of June, 1918, this number had increased to 1,442,000.

The degree to which women replace men varies widely in different industries. In Government establishments, not including controlled establishments engaged in munitions work, they formed 36 per cent of the total employees; in banking and finance, 24.6 per cent; in commercial occupations, 16.9 per cent; in engineering firms, 7.14 per cent; and in all metal trades, 6 per cent. These figures refer only to the women directly replacing men. Many others are engaged in work which they replace only partially, or indirectly, men who have been withdrawn.

Differentials Agreed to on Cotton Prices by Manufacturers and Industries Board

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

In accordance with the agreement between the representatives of the cotton industry and the Price-Fixing Committee, July 1, 1918, the following differentials based on the prices then agreed to have been fixed by the Price-Fixing Committee, to remain in effect until October 1, 1918.

Division No. 1. Toile du Nord, Amoskeag A F C, Bates Seersucker, Glenkirk Zephyrs, and Red Seal Zephyrs, maximum price, the equivalent of .2328 cents per yard, net cash at mill.

Division No. 3. Amoskeag Utility, York Dress Gingham, Red Rose Lancaster, and Appleweb Gingham, maximum price, the equivalent of .2134 cents per yard, net cash at mill.

Division No. 5. Amoskeag 19000, Berwick Chambray, Kilburnie Gingham, Yomac Gingham, White Pine Cheviot, and Essex Chambray, maximum price, the equivalent of .2328 cents per yard, net cash at mill.

Division No. 7. Amoskeag Staples and Lancaster Staples, maximum price, the equivalent of .1892 cents per yard, net cash at mill.

The committee wishes to call attention to the fact that prices on ginghams apply to sales made since June 8 for delivery after October 1, 1918, and to all sales made since June 21 for delivery prior to April 1, 1919.

It has been specifically agreed with the industry that prices on ginghams are to govern all sales made until new prices are established in October, but that such sales shall be made only for delivery prior to April 1, 1919. In October prices will be made to govern sales made on the balance of the product available for that same delivery.

Additional Differentials.

In accordance with the agreement between the representatives of the cotton industry and the price-fixing committee, July 1, 1918, the following differentials based on the prices then agreed to have been fixed by the price-fixing committee, to remain in effect until October 1, 1918:

Article and width.	Yards per pound.	Sley and pick.	Price per yard.
Print cloths:[1]
39 inches	4.00	80 x 80	$0.21½
Drills:
40 inches	3.96	68 x 40	.18
Sheetings:
36 inches	3.50	64 x 68	.20½
36 inches	3.70	64 x 68	.19½
40 inches	3.15	64 x 68	.22¼
3-leaf jeans:
39 inches	2.75	96 x 64	.27½
39 inches	3.00	96 x 64	.26
39 inches	3.10	96 x 64	.25½
Shelter tent duck:
35 inches	1.95	62 x 62	.39
35 inches	[2] 8¼	54 x 56	.36½

Regular hose and belting duck:	Per pound.
Ranging from 12-oz. to 36 oz.	$0.58
10-oz. hose duck	.59

[1] This is a correction of the price published July 8 Correction is made upon careful consideration of evidence showing that the price then published was not a parity with basic prices agreed on.

Evaporated and Fresh Milk Used in the Army

The War Department authorizes the following:

During the first seven months of the present year the Army required 1,612,313 cases of evaporated milk. This number of cases is equivalent to 77,391,024 quarts of fresh milk, and it took approximately 50 milk concerns to furnish this amount.

Evaporated milk is an important element entering into the soldier's ration. It is even more important in France than in this country, for there the rate of actual consumption by the American troops is four times the allowance specified in the Army ration.

The Subsistence Division of the Quartermaster Corps exercises great care to see that the milk is in sterile condition and that it contains the required percentage of fats and solids when it reaches the soldiers. Every car of milk for the Army is inspected and chemical analysis made before being issued for consumption.

The philosophy of the W. S. S. is save, save, save.

WORK OF CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

The Senate Military Committee yesterday afternoon heard Gen. March, Chief of Staff, in connection with its consideration of the pending man-power bill. The Chief of Staff discussed the bill in its various phases with the committee in executive session and explained the War Department's reasons for urging the immediate enactment of legislation extending the draft ages from 18 to 45 years. The committee, it was stated, learned that the definite decision to enlarge the American military program to include an army of five million men was reached about July 30, and is in full accord with an agreement reached in Paris at a shortly earlier date. Navy Department officials appeared before the committee to discuss the suggested application of the selective draft law to the Navy.

In considering the war revenue bill yesterday the Ways and Means Committee decided to adopt an amendment to the income tax schedule under which the salaries of the President of the United States, Justices of the Supreme Court and other members of the judiciary, and all other officials, Federal, State, county, and municipal, would be made subject to the income tax provisions. There was some question among lawyers on the committee as to whether such a tax of the salaries of these officials would be constitutional, but the majority of the committee expressed the belief that such a tax would stand the test. The committee also tentatively agreed to impose a tax upon the interest drawn from State, county, and municipal bonds, except where such bonds are issued for refunding existing indebtedness.

MAXIMUM PROFITS ALLOWED TO JOBBERS IN WHEAT FLOUR

The Food Administration authorizes the following:

A misapprehension as to the maximum profits on wheat flour permitted to jobbers has arisen from a paragraph in Press Release No. 1093, dated July 22, which was published in THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN, page 3, on July 25, 1918.

This paragraph reads as follows:

"A jobber is required to sell at not more than 25 to 50 cents over the delivered cost to him, and the retailer at not more than $1.20 over the price which he pays for the flour."

The above-mentioned margins were named through error. The whole statement was intended as covering sales by mills only, and not sales by jobbers or retailers.

The margin allowed mills on sales of less than carload lots is 50 cents per barrel to dealers, bakers, etc. (not delivered), and $1.20 per barrel to actual consumers, over each mill's carload fair price schedule.

The margins allowed jobbers who are not millers remain unchanged, namely, 50 cents to 75 cents per barrel in selling to retailers, who in turn are allowed margins of 80 cents to $1.20 per barrel over the cost to them.

DEAF MUTES NOT ACCEPTED AS AVIATION CORPS FLYERS

The War Department authorizes the following:

The Division of Military Aeronautics has announced that applications of deaf mutes would not be accepted for war service in aviation and that directions have accordingly been issued to so inform hundreds of young men who have been encouraged to seek such enlistments.

Erroneous Reports Investigated.

The erroneous idea has apparently been deliberately circulated that since deaf mutes possessed little, if any, sensitivity of the inner ear, they would be little subject to dizziness, and, therefore, make good flyers. So persistently have these unauthorized statements appeared from time to time recently, that two separate investigations were started three weeks ago; one to determine the source of this misleading information and the other to make special tests of accuracy of deaf mutes in sensing motion.

The first investigation is not yet finished, but, so far, it is believed that German propaganda is at the bottom of the agitation. The second investigation, completed by the Medical Research Laboratory at Mineola, L. I., included a number of tests during airplane flights to ascertain what effect, if any, the absence of the delicate balancing apparatus that exists in normal inner ears has upon persons who are without them.

Tests Made at Mineola.

At the Mineola tests the same plane was flown by the same pilots over the same course in each test. First, 10 normal men who had never flown were blindfolded, seated in planes, and told that after reaching a certain level the pilot would execute a number of evolutions which he, the passenger, was to record and to make particular note in which direction the plane had been turned to the right or left, up or down. The flights included stretches of level flying, climbing, left and right turns, dips and banks.

With very few exceptions the passengers with normal internal ears made correct notations of the different directions in which the pilots took them, noting each turn and dip correctly. Seven deaf mutes were then blindfolded, given the same instructions, and taken over the same course by the same pilots, to note the movements of the planes.

Regarded as Conclusive.

Being blindfolded, and minus as they were of the equilibrium of balancing organs in their ears, the deaf mutes failed to note changes of even as much as 90 degrees. Nor could they differentiate the deepest right from the deepest left banks, nor notice the difference between climbing or diving in a practically vertical position. Some of the passengers with normal ears, on the other hand, reported changes in direction as slight as 5 degrees, and were apparently sensitive to the slightest deviation.

Virtually "Lost in Space."

After the tests, several of the deaf mutes admitted that they had been entirely in the dark as to their position while in the air and made it known that at times they were strongly tempted to tear the bandages from their eyes. As several of them expressed it on paper, they were virtually "lost in space," and the medical officers, who examined them afterward, stated that it was greatly to the credit of these young men that they were willing to subject themselves to such an unusual and trying experience.

Members of the Medical Research Laboratory of the Department of Military Aeronautics have officially reported that the less the sensitivity of individuals to a change of position, the less efficient would these individuals be in the air.

"Ridiculous" Report States.

It is officially stated that it would be ridiculous for deaf mutes to attempt to fly. Further, it has been determined that one who shows by the turning chair tests that he has a normal ear mechanism possesses good detection of movement in the air and that one who fails to pass this test possesses poor detection of movement in the air.

CONFERENCE ON THE STATUS OF WIRE SYSTEM OPERATORS

The Post Office Department authorizes the following:

Postmaster General Burleson and the other members of the departmental committee for the governmental operation and control of the telegraph and telephone systems gave a hearing August 7 to the representative of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, also to representatives of the Association of Western Union Employees, at which time the various matters affecting the employees were taken up and fully discussed.

The Postmaster General stated after the conference that no final decision had been reached in the matter presented by these representatives and that he had already ordered a thorough investigation through independent sources in order that the committee may not only obtain the facts through this source but receive the benefit of an investigation by persons who were in no wise interested in the controversy.

Mr. Burleson stated that as soon as the reports of these investigations are received they will be considered and the policy of the department as to the employees determined upon and action in accordance with this policy will then be taken immediately.

PRAISES LIGHTHOUSE KEEPER.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE.
August 3, 1918.

SIR: Referring to report of assistance rendered by you on June 10, 1918, in rescuing a man in a disabled launch, under very unfavorable if not dangerous weather conditions, the department commends you for the excellent service thus rendered, which fact will be noted on the records as part of your official history.

Respectfully,

WILLIAM C. REDFIELD,
Secretary.

Mr. EDWARD WIBORG,
Keeper, Trinidad Head Light Station, California (through Commissioner of Lighthouses).

All Shipbuilding Records Smashed in July With 123 Vessels, Totalling 631,944 Tons

The Shipping Board issues the following:

All shipbuilding records went to smash last month. Statistics to-day (Tuesday) assembled by the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, from reports sent in by the various shipyards, show that more ships were launched during the month of July than had hitherto been launched in any 12 months from American shipyards.

The figures reach the impressive total of 123 vessels having a dead-weight tonnage of 631,944. The launchings divide as follows:

Type of vessel.	Number.	Dead-weight tonnage.
Steel	67	433,244
Wood	53	187,700
Composite	3	11,000
Total	123	631,944

This table shows launchings by months for the year 1918:

Month.	Dead weight tons.
January	88,507
February	123,625
March	172,611
April	160,286
May	259,241
June	283,322
July	631,944
Total	1,719,536

DELIVERIES.

There were completed in July 41 vessels totaling 235,025 dead-weight tons.

Of this number 36 were steel vessels of 217,025 dead-weight tons, and 5 were wood vessels of 18,000 dead-weight tons. This does not include 2 steel vessels of 15,855 dead-weight tons which were delivered from Japanese shipyards. If these were counted in the grand total of ships completed for the Shipping Board in July it would be 43 ships of 250,880 dead-weight tons.

During the last four working days of July six contract and six requisition steamships of an aggregate dead-weight tonnage of 66,130 were launched. During the same period four wood ships, aggregating 14,000 dead-weight tons, went overboard, a total of 80,130 dead-weight tons. The steel launchings were:

CONTRACT STEEL SHIPS.

Company.	Name.	Dead weight tonnage.	Date.
Downey Shipbuilding Corporation	Nahama (cargo)	7,500	July 27
Skinner & Eddy Corporation	West Habomac (cargo)	8,800	Do.
American Shipbuilding	Daucey (cargo)	3,550	Do.
Great Lakes & Engine Works	Crawl Keys (cargo)	3,350	Do.
American Shipbuilding	Lake Garza (cargo)	3,550	July 31
Do	Lake Buckeye (cargo)	3,550	Do.
Total		30,300

REQUISITIONED STEEL SHIPS.

Bethlehem (Harlan)	O. T. Waring (tanker)	8,130	July 27
Ames Shipbuilding & Dry Dock	L. J. Drake (tanker)	9,000	Do.
Tampa Shipbuilding Co	Everglades (cargo)	3,500	July 29
J. H. Duthie & Co	Western Hope (cargo)	8,800	Do.
Great Lakes & Engine Works	Lake Marion (cargo)	3,300	July 30
McDougall-Duluth	Lake Orange (cargo)	3,100	July 31
Total requisitioned steel		35,830
Total contract steel		30,300
Total for last four days of July		66,130

From August, 1917, when the present Shipping Board began operations, up to August 1 of this year, there have been completed and delivered 37 steel contract vessels having a deadweight tonnage of 245,700, and 210 requisitioned vessels totaling 1,326,156 deadweight tons, a grand total of 247 ships, aggregating 1,571,856 tons, completed and placed in service. Almost half of this total tonnage was delivered during the last three months, the actual amount being 775,545 tons.

U.S. CONTROL OF MEAT PACKING IS URGED TO THE PRESIDENT of international activity. This urgently argues for a solution which will increase and not diminish the high regard in which this people is held in international comity.

Show of Competition.

Some show of competition is staged by the five great packing companies. It is superficial. There is the natural rivalry of officials and departments, and this is made much of as indicating the existence of real competition. It is not real. How sham it is will be fully set out in the accompanying summary and the complete reports.

Some independent packers exist by sufferance of the five, and a few hardy ones have survived in real competition. Around such few of these as remain the lines are drawing in.

Having answered affirmatively the question to which you directed our attention and having summarized what we believe to be the simplest form of an adequate remedy, and before proceeding to a more detailed discussion of the subject, we make acknowledgment of the tireless industry, the fidelity to the public interest, and the patience and forbearance of the men who have composed the commission's staff in this inquiry.

These men have met and overcome every obstacle that ingenuity and money could devise to impede them. Space forbidding individual mention, we make this general acknowledgment and this seems the proper time to call to your attention again and especially the work of Mr. Francis J. Heney, whose conduct of the case, because of its success, has met with condemnation, misrepresentation, and criticism. We contrast Mr. Heney's legal ethics with the legal ethics of the men by whom he was opposed.

"Deliberate Falsification of Returns."

The commission, through Mr. Heney, had to meet deliberate falsification of returns properly required under legal authority; we had to meet schools for witnesses where employees were coached in anticipation of their being called to testify in an investigation ordered by you and by the Congress of the United States; we had to meet a situation created by the destruction of letters and documents vital to this investigation; we had to meet a conspiracy in the preparation of answers to the lawful inquiries of the commission.

We will not trespass upon your time to go into details as to the legal and business ethics employed, but on the foregoing statement, which we are prepared to substantiate in every detail, we contrast the ethics of the commission's legal and investigating staff with the legal staffs of the five great companies. And in leaving this part of the subject, we say as we have said repeatedly to you during the time of the investigation, that Mr. Heney's conduct of the case, as well as that of the other agents and attorneys of the commission, was under the direct supervision of the commission, the acts were performed with the knowledge and under the direction of the commission, and the commission assumes all responsibility for them.

Respectfully,

WILLIAM B. COLVER,
Chairman.
JOHN FRANKLIN FORT.
VICTOR MURDOCK.

VOL. 2 WASHINGTON, FRIDAY, AUGUST 9, 1918. No. 382

ARMY VOLUNTEERING SUSPENDED BY ORDER OF SECRETARY BAKER

No Candidates Either Will Be Considered for Officers' Training Camps Pending New Legislation.

The following statement is authorized by the War Department:

The War Department to-day has suspended further volunteering and the receipt of candidates for officers' training camps from civil life. This suspension will remain in force until the legislation now pending before the Congress with regard to draft ages is disposed of and suitable regulations drawn up to cover the operation of the selective system under the new law.

This action is taken in order to prevent the disruption of the industry of the country and the impairment of the efficiency of the various governmental agencies which would follow the indiscriminate enlistment of men up to the age of 45. It is the intention of the department to present to the President for promulgation regulations in connection with the operation of the selective system which will make it truly selective and leave it to the Government to determine whether men can be spared from their present occupations for military service.

NEWTON D. BAKER,
Secretary of War.

SECRETARY SUSPENDS NAVY AND MARINE ENLISTMENTS

Secretary Daniels gave out this statement this afternoon:

"The large increase in enlistments in the Navy and Marine Corps has made it possible to suspend further enlistment until pending legislation affecting the draft for the Army is disposed of. When it is resumed it will be in full cooperation with the War Department under arrangements which will secure all the men needed for both services."

Secretary Daniels sent the following order to the Chief of the Bureau of Navigation and to the major general commandant of the Marine Corps:

"Until further orders no enlistments or enrollments will be accepted in the Navy or Marine Corps. Please notify all recruiting stations and officers by wire to accept no new enlistments or enrollments. This order does not apply to those who on or before Thursday, August 8, had filed application for enlistment or enrollment or were being examined with a view to their acceptance."

LAKE PORTAGE IS TORPEDOED OFF THE COAST OF FRANCE

The Navy Department is informed that the American steamship Lake Portage has been sunk by a submarine off the coast of France. The vessel was hit by a torpedo on the port side amidships and sank in an hour and 35 minutes. All the members of the armed guard were landed safely.

Three members of the merchant crew are reported missing: W. Sutton, oiler; J. Banks, second engineer; and P. McDonald, fireman.

ORDER ISSUED WHICH DECREES THAT NATION NOW HAS BUT ONE ARMY—UNITED STATES ARMY

THE INSIGNIA TO BE UNIFORM

Officers Will be Assigned Without Reference to Term of Commissions—Solely in Interest of Service

The War Department herewith publishes General Orders, No. 75:

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington, August 7, 1918.

1. This country has but one army—the United States Army. It includes all the land forces in the service of the United States. Those forces, however raised, lose their identity in that of the United States Army. Distinctive appellations, such as the Regular Army, Reserve Corps, National Guard, and National Army, heretofore employed in administration and command, will be discontinued, and the single term, the United States Army, will be exclusively used.

2. Orders having reference to the United States Army, as divided into separate and component forces of distinct origin, or assuming or contemplating such a divsion, are to that extent revoked.

3. The insignia now prescribed for the Regular Army shall hereafter be worn by the United States Army.

4. All effective commissions purporting to be, and described therein as, commissions in the Regular Army, National Guard, National Army, or the Reserve Corps shall hereafter be held to be, and regarded as, commissions in the United States Army—permanent, provisional, or temporary, as fixed by the conditions of their issue; and all such commissions are hereby amended accordingly. Hereafter during the period of the existing emergency all commissions of officers shall be in the United States Army and in staff corps, departments, and arms of

COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF SIBERIAN EXPEDITION NOT YET DECIDED ON, MR. BAKER ANNOUNCES

SIZE OF TWO FORCES

Volume of American and Japanese Troops May Approximately Be the Same—Enlargement of U. S. Military Program. Reporters and Nonessential Work.

Press interview of the Secretary of War August 8, 1918:

"I went West to confer with Gen. Graves. Gen. March announced to you yesterday that he was going to head the force to Vladivostok, and I had him meet me in Kansas City so that we might have a conference.

"While in the West I visited Leavenworth. I have always been very much interested in the problem there, and I am especially interested in it now, because with this very large increase in the Army of course the number of young men who are likely to go there for breaches of military regulations will be increased. I have long regarded Leavenworth as one of the most progressive and hopeful institutions for dealing with delinquents that there is in the world. I know no place where I think the discipline is more helpful than at Leavenworth, and the return of men to the Army through the disciplinary barracks is really just as fine a thing as I know of anywhere. I do not know of any reformatory institution that does as fine work as Leavenworth. I saw the disciplinary battalions training, about 500 men sent to Leavenworth for various infractions of military law, and they are a body of the most splendid, supple-bodied, bright-eyed young men you can find anywhere.

Reporters Not Indispensable.

"I did not see any conscientious objectors at Leavenworth; I think most of them have gone to Fort Riley.

"With regard to the question as to whether newspaper reporters are men engaged in nonessential work, I do not hesitate to say that the gathering of news for the public information is an indispensable industry, but whether a certain person is indispensable to that industry I think must be determined upon the facts. I think the question of his in-dispensableness would depend upon the possibility of replacing him. I know the situation in Cleveland rather better than most places, and there are on each of the newspapers there men of considerable years, beyond the draft age, and I should imagine there were a good many men in Cleveland who would be able to do pretty expert newspaper reporting. If you can get enough older men to take their places, the younger men would not be indispensable."

Siberian Expedition.

Regarding the commander in chief for the Siberian expedition, the Secretary said:

"I should suppose the ranking officer would be the Japanese general. I understand they are going to send a lieutenant general and we are sending a major general, and undoubtedly the officer of the highest rank will preside at any conferences. Whether there will be any more definite commander in chief I do not know. I infer from the President's statement that the size of the Japanese force will be approximately the same as our own.

"The enlargement of our military program was based upon a study of the subject made by the military representatives of the supreme war council, and a recommendation from them.

"An announcement regarding the remaining parts of our enlarged program will be made soon.

"The Secretary of the Navy and I have discussed the question of extending the draft to cover the men needed for the Navy informally, but no conclusion has been reached. I should not be willing to say anything on this subject except by conference and concurrence with him."

WAR TRADE BOARD NOW WILL RULE ON EXPORTS TO SWEDEN

The War Trade Board announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 191) that applications will now be considered for the exportation of all commodities to Sweden.

Exporters in the United States, before filing applications for export licenses, must obtain from the prospective importer in Sweden advice that there has been issued by an appropriate importing association or by the Statens Handel's Kommission a certificate covering the proposed consignment. The number of the certificate should be forwarded by the importer in Sweden to the American exporter. This number should be specified on Supplemental Information Sheet X-101, which must be duly executed and annexed to the application for an export license.

Applications for licenses to export to Sweden commodities for which a Handel's Kommission certificate or an importing association certificate is required will be considered only in the event that the said certificate has been issued subsequently to June 14, 1918. Certificates issued prior to that date will be treated as void.

Give our boys in the Army and Navy every fighting chance. Pledge yourself to save to the utmost of your ability and to buy war-savings stamps.

REGULATIONS ARE ISSUED FOR FORMING OF SLAVIC LEGION

The War Department authorizes publication of the following from General Orders, No. 70:

By direction of the President, the following regulations will govern in raising troops for a Slavic Legion, to be composed of Jugo-Slavs, Czecho-Slovaks, and Ruthenians (Ukranians), as provided for in the act making appropriations for the support of the Army for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, approved July 9, 1918:

Organization.—As Infantry regiments of the National Army of the United States, organized, armed, and equipped, as provided by existing regulations, but not to be organized at present into units larger than regiments.

The designation of these regiments will be as follows:

——— Regiment of Infantry (Slavic Legion), National Army. ——— companies will, if practicable, be composed of members of the same race, i. e., Jugo-Slavs, Czecho-Slovaks, or Ruthenians. So far as practicable battalions and regiments will also be organized on this basis. After regiments have been formed and assigned to divisions, a sufficient number of officers and enlisted men will be retained in replacement and training camps to provide for the training of replacements, the units formed being limited by this consideration.

Officers' Special Training Course.

The field officers of these regiments will, so far as practicable, be provided according to the rules now governing the designation of field officers for regiments of Infantry of the National Army.

All officers, except field officers, of these regiments will be, so far as practicable, of those races of which the units are composed, and will be appointed after a special course of training to be instituted at the Central Officers' Training School at Camp Lee, Va.

The course followed will conform as closely to the normal course as the special character of the student personnel makes practicable, any necessary variations therefrom being governed by the recommendation of the commandant of the training school, subject to approval of the Chief of Staff.

Aliens commissioned as officers in the Slavic Legion must furnish proof of their loyalty to the United States and of their desire to fight the Imperial Governments of Germany and Austria-Hungary and the allies thereof, and must execute an oath of office.

Voluntary Enlistments.

Enlisted men will be obtained by voluntary enlistment. Applicants will be enlisted at the recruiting stations of the Regular Army, except that there will be no recruiting for the Slavic Legion in any coal-mining district.

The present recruiting regulations will be followed in making enlistments, except that applicants need not speak English, and applicants accepted for enlistment shall not be citizens of the United States nor subject to the draft.

The men obtained at the recruiting stations will be forwarded to recruit depots in the usual manner, and thence to the mobilization point at Camp Wadsworth, S. C. Preliminary organization and training of these recruits will be provided for at Camp Wadsworth.

AUTOMOBILE PRODUCTION IS CURTAILED 50 PER CENT

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

Hugh Chalmers, representative of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, appeared to-day before the War Industries Board and presented resolutions adopted unanimously by the automobile manufacturers at a special meeting in Detroit Tuesday. By these resolutions the manufacturers voluntarily agreed to curtail the production of passenger cars 50 per cent, beginning August 1. Mr. Chalmers also presented a tentative form of pledge which the automobile manufacturers are ready to make concerning their output.

The War Industries Board has appointed a committee with full power to act for the board in the matter of automobile production.

War Industries Textile Officers Are Nominated

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

John W. Scott, director of the textile division of the War Industries Board, announces the following appointments:

William Skinner, of William Skinner & Sons, New York, to be chief of the silk section in the textile division.

H. T. Dunn, president of the Fisk Rubber Co., New York, to be chief of the rubber section in the textile division.

Frank H. Montgomery, president of the Knox Hat Co., New York, to be assistant chief of the felt section, in charge of men's and women's fur and wool felt hats.

E. M. Huyck, New York, to be assistant chief of the felt section in charge of paper-makers' felt.

Under the auspices of the United States Chamber of Commerce, at the request of the felt section, conferences will be held with the felt hat manufacturing industry in New York this week. There will be appointed a war-service committee representative of the combined men's and women's fur and wool felt hat manufacturing industry to work in connection with the felt section.

Patent Office Has Places for Assistant Examiners

The Patent Office announces that a number of vacancies exist in the grade of fourth assistant examiners, carrying the salary of $1,500, to which the attention of technically trained persons is earnestly invited.

Permanent appointments will be secured by passing the required civil-service examination, information whereof may be had upon application to the Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

Temporary appointments also may be given persons qualified.

DEALERS ARE PENALIZED BY THE FOOD ADMINISTRATION

The Food Administration authorizes the following:

Retail Grocer Penalized.

J. A. Rawls, a wholesale and retail grocer of Henderson, Ky., has been deprived of his license to deal in foodstuffs for two weeks for violation of Food Administration rules and has made a contribution of $1,000 to the Red Cross in lieu of more severe penalties. The violation consisted of profiteering and failing to keep his books in shape to show accurate transactions.

The license of the Union Grain Co., of Fort Worth, Tex., has been revoked because the company failed to make adjustment, in accordance with directions of the Texas Federal food administrator, with the Kemper Mill Elevator Co. for four cars of corn handled by the Kemper mill for the Union company.

Sugar Firm Disciplined.

The Food Administration has penalized two firms for violations of rulings regarding sugar. The Consolidated Sugar Co., of Brooklyn, N. Y., for having an excess supply on hand amounting to approximately 32,000 pounds, has been compelled to suspend business for four days. The sugar was ordered held at the disposal of the Food Administration.

Throumoulos Bros., of Biddeford, Me., fruit and confectionery dealers, will not be permitted to handle sugar for the remainder of the year. Their offense was selling sugar in larger quantities than permissible, including as much as 100 pounds to one family.

Deprived of His License.

J. Raia & Co., of 341 Rumney Road, Revere, Mass., has been deprived of its license to deal in foodstuffs for one month, for violation of Food Administration rules. The firm was found guilty, after a hearing, of failing to accept and unload a quantity of fresh fruit and vegetables. The penalty became effective August 1.

David Garber, a wholesale wheat and flour dealer of 1411 Main Street, Hartford, Conn., has lost his license for a week for selling flour without the proper amount of substitutes.

Ordered to Repurchase Flour.

The Red Wing Milling Co., of Red Wing, Minn., and the Ruehlmann Flour Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio, have been penalized by the Food Administration for violation of food regulations. Ruehlmann, handling white rye flour on a commission basis for the Red Wing Co., was charged with selling it in compulsory combinations with wheat flour in Kenton and Campbell Counties, Ky.

The Red Wing Co. was required to repurchase at sale price all unused rye flour it had sold in the two counties except in cases where purchasers wished to retain it, and Ruehlmann was ordered to refund all commissions on sales he had made.

S. Wiedermann, of San Antonio, Tex., has lost his privilege to deal in foodstuffs for violation of Food Administration rules.

Wiedermann is a wholesaler and jobber in corn meal, dry beans, cottonseed oil, evaporated milk, etc. He was found guilty of carrying on a wholesale food business without a license, also for selling at excessive prices to the Government. It was brought out at the hearing that he had given rebates to an Army officer; but this charge was not considered by the Food Administration, because it involved a criminal case now pending.

Lorenzo Balermo, of Silver Lake, N. J., a manufacturer of spaghetti, has lost his license until September 1 for exceeding his allotment for flour and ignoring warnings of the Food Administration.

Remember! the men in our Army and Navy do not expect luxuries. Should we at home expect them? Buy necessities and war-savings stamps.

General Order on Railroad Shipments Consigned for Use of the Government

GENERAL ORDER No. 38.

Pursuant to the act approved March 21, 1918, entitled "An act to provide for the operation of transportation systems while under Federal control, for the just compensation of their owners, and for other purposes," it is ordered that on and after the 15th day of August, 1918, the following requirements and provisions shall apply and be observed in respect to the shipments hereinafter described:

1. Shipments intended for use of any one of the Government departments, either directly or through a contractor with the United States Government, shall not be entitled to or receive any privilege which may be accorded on account of being intended for use of one of the United States Government departments, either directly or indirectly through a contractor with the United States Government, where said shipments are consigned otherwise than in one of the following ways:

(a) To a Government officer designated, not by the name of the individual, but by the title of his position; as, for example: Supply officer, naval inspector or constructing quartermaster.

(b) To a Government officer designated not by name but by title as above, followed by the words "For account of," and then followed by the name of the contractor or agent for the Government engaged on the work at the point of destination.

(c) On some contracts the Government has entered into an agreement designating certain parties as agent, or agents, for the Government on that particular contract. Shipments for such parties shall be consigned to the particular department for which the work is being done, followed by the words "For account of," and then followed by the name of the agent, as, for instance:

> Ordnance Department: For account of Du Pont Engineering Co. Agent, Penniman, Williamsburg, Va.
> Ordnance Department: For account of T. A. Gillespie Loading Co., Agents. South Amboy, N. J.

(d) Shipments of material, equipment, and supplies for any person repairing or building ships under the supervision of the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation shall be consigned only to the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, followed by the words "For account of" and then followed by the name and location of the particular concern performing the work, as, for instance:

> United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation: For account of American International Shipbuilding Corporation, Hog Island, Pa.

2. It is forbidden—

(a) In consigning a shipment to use the words "United States Government," or substantially that term, or abbreviations thereof, as the sole description of the consignee;

(b) Or to consign a shipment to and in the name of the United States Government followed by words indicating that it is sent "care of" a private person, firm, or corporation;

(c) Or to consign a shipment to a Government official or to an officer of the Army or Navy by his name as an individual;

(d) Or to consign a shipment to a Government official or to an officer of the Army or Navy followed by words indicating that it is sent "care of" a private person, firm, or corporation.

3. No shipper or other person seeking or obtaining any privilege which may be accorded on account of the shipment being intended for the use of any one of the United States Government departments, either directly or indirectly through a contractor with the United States Government, shall without authority use or cause to be used as consignee the name or title of the United States or of any department, bureau, agency, employee, or officer thereof, or of the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, or of any officer, agent, employee thereof, or of any other person, or the designation "Emergency Fleet Corporation"; nor shall any shipper or other person offer or cause to be received for carriage, or transported, without authority, any such shipment consigned as specified in the foregoing paragraphs numbered 1 and 2, for the purpose of securing, by such consignment, any privilege which may be accorded on account of the shipment being intended for the use of any one of the United States Government departments, either directly or indirectly through a contractor with the United States Government.

4. Agents are forbidden to sign or issue bills of lading or receipts for shipments which in any manner conflict with any of the foregoing provisions.

W. G. McADOO,
Director General of Railroads.

(Violation of the foregoing order is punishable by fine of not more than $5,000 or by imprisonment for not more than two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment.)

By order of the Secretary of War:

PEYTON C. MARCH,
General, Chief of Staff.

Official:

H. P. MCCAIN,
The Adjutant General.

WORK OF CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

The Ways and Means Committee of the House considering the war-revenue bill yesterday reached conclusions on a number of important questions. The action of a few days ago fixing the automobile owners' tax on the basis of the original cost price was rescinded and the tax based upon the horsepower. This tax will be $10 on 25 horsepower or less; $20 on 25 to 30 horsepower; $30 on 30 to 40 horsepower, and $50 on all over 40 horsepower, the tax to be paid by the user or owner of the car. The proposed increase on tobacco taxes will be double those now in effect. Tentative agreement reached previously, in some cases trebled the existing internal-revenue taxes but the committee believes that its action of yesterday will yield about as much revenue as if the rates were made higher because consumption probably will not be greatly reduced.

Among other new taxes proposed by the committee is a 10 per cent levy on the amount paid by lessees for telegraph and telephone wire services. This will apply to all leased wires, including press associations, newspaper, brokers, etc. Provision was made also for a 3 per cent tax on freight originating in a foreign country and shipped to a destination within the United States, the tax to be applied to that portion of the charges on the transportation within this country. The tax on transportation of oil in pipe lines was increased from 5 to 6½ per cent. In place of the existing tax per linear foot on motion-picture films the committee decided upon a tax of 5 per cent on the rental received by the producer.

Admiral Palmer, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation of the Navy Department, told the Senate Committee on Military Affairs that the Navy had practically all the men it needed, and that enlistments would not be affected by changing the Army draft ages. When the pending bill is enacted into law, he said the Navy would have no trouble in recruiting 15,000 men a month for the merchant marine and other purposes. Chairman Chamberlain said he had requested Secretary Baker to come before the committee and explain the measure now under consideration.

Chairman Dent, of the House committee, stated yesterday that no time would be lost in beginning consideration of the pending bill as soon as the House reassembles for regular business again on August 19. He said that hearings would begin then at once.

POST-OFFICE PROPOSALS.

ORDER No. 1811.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Washington, July 29, 1918.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Purchasing Agent for the Post Office Department until 2 o'clock p. m., August 27, 1918, for supplying 150,000 books of postal-savings certificates (50 certificates to a book) during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, to be printed by lithographic offset process. Specifications and samples will be furnished on application to the purchasing agent.

Individuals Have No Authority to Raise Hospital Funds for the War Department

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the Office of the Surgeon General:

The collection of funds from individuals for the building of hospitals for wounded soldiers is disapproved by the War Department. Persons who are so doing are acting without authority from the War Department.

The War Department has given no authority to any individual to collect money for the erection of hospitals to care for sick and wounded soldiers.

The War Department wishes to discourage any campaigns of this character, as it has funds for the building of all hospitals required. Congress has appropriated sufficient money for the hospital requirements to date, and it is reasonable to assume that it will continue to do so.

RED CROSS ORGANIZES BUREAU TO ASSIST IN CONSERVATION

The Red Cross issues the following:

For the primary purpose of educating the people of the United States in the principles of systematic conservation the American Red Cross, at the request of Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, has established a Red Cross Bureau of Conservation.

Announcement will be made from time to time of the particular materials the collection and conservation of which the War Industries Board deems most important.

Supplemental to Industries Board.

One of the important parts of the work of the War Industries Board relates to the conservation of materials essential to the winning of the war. To meet the need for countrywide, coordinated activity along this line and appreciating the scope and efficiency of the Red Cross organization, Chairman Baruch appealed to it to supplement the conservation work of the War Industries Board. It is believed that the enlisting of the active interest of more than 20,000,000 members of the Red Cross will result in a direct educational force that will bring the United States to the highest degree of conservation efficiency.

To Collect Certain Materials.

In addition to its educational function the Red Cross Bureau of Conservation will collect through Red Cross chapters certain materials, such as platinum, essential to war purposes, to be specified by the War Industries Board. These materials to be sold, but any financial benefit which may accrue to the Red Cross will be merely incidental to the purpose for which the bureau has been created.

In the program of salvage and conserving there are certain materials which can not be reached through existing trade channels, especially where the appeal must be made to the householder and to individuals. It is in this connection that the Red Cross expects to be able to contribute, in a large measure, to the success of the general program.

The new bureau, which will begin activities at once, will be under the immediate direction of Robert L. Raymond, an attorney of Boston, who was for sometime field director at Camp Devens, and who later was connected with the conservation and reclamation division of the Quartermaster Corps.

NUTRITION OFFICERS TO BE STATIONED IN ALL BIG CAMPS

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the office of the Surgeon General:

Nutrition officers are to be stationed in every National Army cantonment and every National Guard camp, as well as in every camp where 10,000 or more soldiers are in training. These officers are food specialists who before they joined the Army as members of the division of food and nutrition of the Medical Department were connected with colleges and public bodies as physiologists, chemists, economists, food inspectors, and experts in other specialized work relating to food.

Surveys in Camps.

Since October of last year the division of food and nutrition has been making surveys of food conditions in the camps. Groups of officers have gone from camp to camp, studied the food served, how it was inspected, stored, and prepared, and have made recommendations which, upon being carried out, resulted in many advantageous changes.

Although the principal work of these groups was inspection of the manner of handling and preparing food, the visiting officers were able to give considerable instruction in the principles of nutrition, the proper selection of foods, and the construction of dietaries to mess officers, medical officers, and others who were interested. Detailed personal instruction was given to the mess personnel on some of these topics, as well as on the various methods of avoiding waste, the importance of keeping kitchens and mess halls clean and orderly, and the methods of judging and storing food.

Reduction of Waste.

Survey parties were instructed to seek in every possible way to reduce waste. It was found that men and officers were very willing to cooperate in making surveys and to reduce as much as possible the waste of food. One of the most effective means adopted for this purpose was introduced at one camp and followed later at other camps.

At this camp seven companies were selected from various organizations, totaling 1,135 men. A two-day survey was run on each mess, and the average edible waste was found to be 1.12 pounds per man per day. Instructions were then given to the mess sergeants and cooks in matters of food and mess economy, and when the officer in charge was satisfied that they had a reasonable understanding of the subject a second two-day survey was made. This showed an average edible waste of 0.43 pound per man per day—a saving of 0.69 pound. This saving amounted to $61.75 per day for the seven messes, or at the same rate would amount to $22,542 per year. If the same rate of saving were brought about for the entire camp, in this case approximately 15,000 men, it would amount to $338,000 a year.

Need of Permanent Officer.

Work of this character showed the necessity of keeping a nutrition officer in each camp at all times so that he might advise about the composition and nutritive value of dietaries, make inspections for adulterations, spoilage, and deterioration, and to cooperate with the mess officials.

Sixty new officers are to be commissioned in the division of food and nutrition to handle the additional work. All will be food specialists similar to those already in the service.

Semiannual Report to Surgeon General on Health of Troops in the U. S. Camps

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the office of the Surgeon General:

The semiannual report of the Chief of the Division of Sanitation to the Surgeon General of the Army shows that despite the severe epidemics of pneumonia, measles, and meningitis during January, February, and March the health of the troops in the United States has been very good. The annual death rate per 1,000 for disease for this period was 8.03. On an average 45 men out of every 1,000 were carried on sick report, although a great many of these were not confined to the hospitals. These included all cases of venereal diseases, the greatest single cause of disability in the Army. In the majority of these cases the disease was contracted before the patient entered the Army.

For the months of January, February, and March, the "pneumonia season," the death rate for disease per 1,000 was 10.4. For the following three months it was 4.93 per 1,000. Of all deaths during the six-month period 63 per cent resulted from pneumonia.

The morbidity and mortality rates for the six months for troops in this country are increased as a result of the fact that numbered among the soldiers in the country are all those sick and disabled men who were left behind when the organizations of which they were members sailed to Europe. This fact in part explains the high admission rate for disease in some of the camps.

Annual Admission Rate.

The annual admission rate for [illegible] diseases reported during the six months ending June 28, by camps, is as follows:

Official Prices Announced for U. S. Cotton Standards

The Department of Agriculture issues the following:

Prices for the Official Cotton Standards of the United States were increased to $45 for the set of 9 grades of white cotton, and $55 for the set of 11 grades of colored cotton August 1, 1918. This is in accordance with an announcement just issued by the Department of Agriculture, which states that the increases have been made because of the rise in the price of cotton, supplies, and materials used in preparing the standards.

The cost of a fractional part of either the white or colored sets of standards is now $5 for each box or grade. New samples to replace old, in any box of the practical forms returned to the department, has been fixed at $4 exclusive of the box container, or at the rate of 40 cents for each sample when the number furnished is 5 or less in one box.

Save for the country's sake.

SHOE MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS INCLUDED AMONG NATIONAL ESSENTIALS IN WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD CIRCULAR

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

Edwin B. Parker, priorities commissioner of the War Industries Board, has prepared a circular informing all manufacturers and dealers in boots and shoes that their industry is one of war as well as national importance, and that the manufacturers will be placed on the preference list for fuel and transportation without separate application from the individual manufacturers. The circular sets forth the pledges required from the manufacturers to the War Industries Board and from the retailers to the manufacturers, and warns that those who do not live up to the letter and spirit of the program to save leather and other materials required in the making of shoes will be denied priority privileges.

Text of the Circular.

Following is the text of the circular:

To all manufacturers of boots and shoes:

Since the conference between your representatives and the undersigned with other representatives of the War Industries Board, careful consideration has been given to the several problems then considered and a decision has been reached that your industry is one of war importance, as well as of national importance in other respects. It is, of course, essential that necessary shoes shall be provided for the use of our soldiers, seamen, and our civilian populations.

The priorities division will place manufacturers of boots and shoes on the preference list for fuel and transportation without requiring individual manufacturers to make separate applications. It will from time to time remove from the list such manufacturers as shall fail or refuse to comply in good faith with the letter and spirit of the following program and such other requirements as may in future appear to be necessary to protect and preserve leather and other materials used in the manufacture of boots and shoes. It is most essential that the utmost economy be practiced in the purchase and use of shoes.

Form of Pledge.

Each manufacturer should execute and send to the War Industries Board its pledge of cooperation in the form following:

Priorities Division, War Industries Board, Washington, D. C.:

The undersigned hereby pledges itself to manufacture useful products only, and (a) to devote the products of its manufacture, as far as possible, to essential uses only, as that term has been or may be defined or applied from time to time by the priorities division of the War Industries Board; (b) to urge and procure so far as lies within its power all dealers in or users of its products to exercise all possible economy and conservation in such products by limiting sales and purchases by intelligently repairing and by otherwise protecting and lengthening the use of such products; (c) to cooperate with the conservation division of the hide, leather, and leather goods section of the War Industries Board; and (d) not to furnish its products for resale to any dealer who shall fail or refuse to cooperate with the undersigned in carrying out the letter and spirit of this pledge.

In addition, each manufacturer will send each month to the hide, leather, and leather goods section of the War Industries Board its reports showing the deliveries made of its products during the preceding month, and given such other information as may be required on said form.

The pledge to be given such manufacturer by its customer who purchases for resale should be addressed to such manufacturer and be in the following form:

To ——— ———,
City of ———,
State of ———.

The undersigned hereby pledges itself (a) so far as lies within its power to urge and procure all dealers in or users of your manufactured products to exercise all possible economy and conservation in such products by limiting their sales and purchases, by intelligently repairing, and by otherwise protecting and lengthening the service of such products; (b) to cooperate with the conservation division in the hide, leather, and leather goods section of the War Industries Board; and (c) not to furnish its products for resale to any dealer or consumer who shall fail or refuse to cooperate with the undersigned in carrying out the letter and spirit of this pledge.

Appeals to All Dealers.

Through you the War Industries Board appeals to every dealer in and user of boots and shoes to help save leather and leather goods for war purposes. The absorption of such material by the war program is reaching such large proportions that it becomes the duty of every man, woman, and child to economize in their use of these materials, so that no shortage may exist for war requirements. It will be expected that every manufacturer and dealer will reverse his ordinary attitude toward trade and will bring to bear all possible influence to curtail output and limit sales, and that every consumer will exercise such careful restraint in his purchases as substantially to save materials. May we with confidence expect that all will whole-heartedly and enthusiastically cooperate in demonstrating to the world that this Nation can and will economize in the consumption of materials to meet the Nation's needs.

LIST OF THE STATES INCLUDED IN ST. LOUIS ORDNANCE DISTRICT

The War Department announces the following:

The Ordnance Department announces that the St. Louis ordnance district, created last week, will include the States of Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, Nevada, and California.

The district also includes all territory in the State of Illinois south of the northerly boundaries of the following counties: Adams, Schuyler, Cass, Macoupin, Christian, Shelby, Cumberland, and Crawford.

The date on which the St. Louis district office will open will be announced later. As previously announced, M. E. Singleton, of St. Louis, is to be ordnance district chief.

The territory embraced in the new St. Louis district now is administered by the Chicago district office. The creation of the St. Louis district modifies the Chicago district so that it will include the States of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, North Dakota, and South Dakota, the State of Illinois north of the northerly boundary of Adams, Schuyler, Cass, Macoupin, Christian, Shelby, Cumberland, and Crawford Counties, and the State of Indiana north of the northerly boundary of Warren, Grant, Clinton, Jay, Tippecanoe, Blackford, and Howard Counties.

SHIPPING BOARD COMMITTEE SURVEY OF SOUTHERN PORTS

The United States Shipping Board authorizes the following:

A survey of southern ports has just been made by representatives of the port and harbor facilities commission of the Shipping Board. This survey covered the ports of Wilmington, N. C.; Charleston, S. C.; Savannah and Brunswick, Ga.; and Jacksonville, Fla. The representatives of the port and harbor facilities commission who visited these ports were Chief Engineer F. T. Chambers, Secretary E. Logan Hill, and Statistician J. Lane.

All Works Inspected.

The committee inspected docks, piers, repair plants, terminal connections, marine railways, bunkering facilities, warehouses, and available sites for expansion of facilities of the above character. It also called for complete data on present and past use of the port facilities of these cities.

At all the ports visited civic officials accompanied the representatives of the port and harbor facilities commission on their inspection tours, and afforded them every opportunity to obtain adequate information.

Local Officials Cooperating.

The local municipal officials and business organizations impressed on the visitors their desire to cooperate with the Federal Government in expanding the facilities of their ports to meet adequately any diversion of trade that may be contemplated from the North Atlantic to the South Atlantic seaboard.

A comprehensive report on ports inspected will be made to Chairman Edward F. Carry of the port and harbor facilities commission.

This preliminary survey will be followed by an inspection by the members of the entire commission.

Business as usual now may mean no business later.

RECEIVES 7,000,000 LETTERS FROM SOLDIERS IN FRANCE

The Post Office Department authorizes the following:

More than 7,000,000 letters were received since July 29 from soldiers in France.

Railway mail clerks worked up 80 per cent of this mail at ports in France for cities and railroad routes in this country. The other 20 per cent arrived at the ports in France too late to be worked and was shipped to save time and worked at the New York post office.

On August 2 there were received on one ship 2,823,000 letters, and on the same day a transport brought in 309,000 at another port. On August 5 there arrived on one ship 2,031,000 letters.

This entire mail was immediately dispatched, the last of it leaving before the expiration of 24 hours of the arrival of the ships in port.

ARMY APPOINTMENTS.

Special Orders, No. 176:

405. The appointments of the following-named officers in the National Army, with rank from July 23, 1918, are announced:

To be major: Capt. William Compton Smiley, National Army.

To be captain: First Lieut. Francis B. Rives, Signal Corps (temporary).

They will report in person to the chief, military intelligence branch, executive division, office of the Chief of Staff, this city, for service on intelligence duty solely and will not be assigned to any other duty or to the command of troops under this appointment.

WARNING BY FUEL ADMINISTRATION THAT COAL PRODUCTION IS FAILING TO KEEP UP WITH EARLY ESTIMATES

RIGID ECONOMY ONLY WILL AVERT SHORTAGE

Splendid Efforts of the Miners to Count for Nothing Unless Consumers Aid in Conservation—Some Recent Statistics Cited.

The Fuel Administration authorizes the following:

The demand for fuel on the part of the war-making branches of the Government and the war industries is growing by leaps and bounds. Every increase in the war-making efficiency of the Nation is forcing a corresponding increase in the fuel demand. Estimates of the coal consumption for the year, which were judged high in April, are now proving inadequate.

Strict Economy Urged.

It becomes increasingly apparent that despite the phenomenal increase in the rate of production at the mines, despite the splendid effort of the mines and miners under pressure from the Fuel Administration, the strictest fuel economy must be enforced if the country is to escape a serious coal shortage next winter. Every means of coal conservation must be observed, and every wasteful and unnecessary use of coal must be eliminated.

Almost daily applications are coming to the United States Fuel Administration from war industries for allotments of coal in addition to those made at the beginning of the coal year. Some are from new plants authorized by the War Industries Board, not known to the Fuel Administration at the beginning of the year. The requirements for these plants are in addition to the original allotments. Other demands are from plants already on the preferred list of war industries, for increased allowances because of enlargements and extensions to original plants made since the Fuel Administration compiled its estimates of consumption.

Increased Demands for Fuel.

The increased demand for coal for the Navy reached almost 100 per cent in July. Whereas three and a half million tons was allotted to the Navy in April, the requirements by the middle of July had reached a basis of 6,000,000 tons. By the end of the calendar year 1919 it is estimated that approximately 8,000,000 tons will be required to cover these demands.

With the launching of new ships, the requirements of the Shipping Board have likewise grown beyond all expectation. When the annual allotment was made, April 1, 10,000,000 tons was assigned for the purposes of the Shipping Board. The actual requirements as demonstrated by experience, and as a result of the phenomenal results being achieved by the Shipping Board, now [illegible] figure at 13,000,000 tons.

So also coal for bunkering purposes, at first estimated at thirteen and a half million tons, has grown in demand until present cadculations call for 21,000,000 tons.

New industries not in operation at the beginning of the coal year are now running full tilt or are about to start. From these come demands for coal of consequential proportions. A few are here enumerated, some of which are new plants, or additions to existing plants, made necessary by the enormously increased demands for war manufacture. To mention some of these new demands:

Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., additional requirements, 45,000 tons by-product coal per month.

Cambria Steel Co., 27,000 additional tons by-product coal per month.

The Edgewood Arsenal, 30,000 tons steam coal per month.

The Perryville Powder Plant, 15,000 tons steam coal per month.

Worth Steel Co., 6,000 tons producer gas and steam coal per month.

These new requirements alone represent an annual consumption of nearly a million and a half tons.

Needs of Old Plants.

Aside from the increased requirements here shown, originating from new or enlarged plants, many old plants, rated at the beginning of the coal year for marked increases of allowance over the consumption of 1917, are now demanding still more coal. Practically all the steel plants and furnaces are running on full time, 24 hours per day. There are no suspensions of operations save for repairs and overhauling of plants. In some instances the yearly coal requirements were underestimated. In many others enlarged production, under increased efficiency, has created a demand for additional coal. Invariably, increased steel production calls for increased coal production, demanding about 5 tons of coal for each ton of steel produced.

The source of supply for the particular new coal requirements cited is within a limited coal area. The extra allowances and demands there made call for coal from New River and Pocahontas low volatile fields of West Virginia, the low volatile fields of Pennsylvania and Maryland, and the high volatile fields of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Kentucky. These fields produce the grades of coal especially needed for the war work. And it is from these same fields—with the exception of Kentucky—that the enormous calls of New England and the Atlantic States for coal for war use must be answered.

Field Service and Cars.

The fields named are working at top-notch speed when accorded full car supply. But, unfortunately, they are the fields where transportation service is most difficult to secure. Not only does the eastern manufacturing section rely entirely upon the fields named for their tremendous coal supply, but by-product plants everywhere, and gas plants, generally, derive their coal supply from this limited territory. The mines within this territory were, on July 27, more than 14,000,000 tons short of their scheduled output, estimated by the Fuel Administration as necessary to meet its fuel needs of the country.

The United States Fuel Administration faces the difficulty of meeting greatly increased demands for coal not from the Nation's big coal pile, but from a much smaller pile, representing the output within a small area. The war necessities must be cared for by coal from these fields, and nonwar industries will be given coal from them only after the war plants designated by the War Industries Board for preference are supplied.

DRY GOODS MERCHANTS URGED TO CURTAIL SAMPLE TRUNKS

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

The conservation division of the War Industries Board has sent notices to dry goods retailers that greater conservation of space through economies in packing is necessary because of transportation conditions. It urges their cooperation in assisting the program to reduce the number of sample trunks carried by salesmen for the wholesalers by placing orders for merchandise shown by economical sampling devices and also by accepting merchandise packed with a view to saving space.

Plans for Space Saving.

Recently the conservation division suggested plans for conservation of space both in packing goods and in the use of fewer sample trucks so that more baggage cars could be released for troop movements. While the savings made have been noteworthy, it is apparent that a more general reduction can be effected.

One of the many items in which it appears that space savings is possible is in the shipment of waists. It has been suggested that it is practical to pack 2 or more of the better grades of waists to a box instead of 1 as at present. In the lower-priced varieties, where they are packed 6 to a box, the number could be increased to 12.

There is being worked out by the conservation division a program for the packing of numerous kinds of merchandise, a plan that will be thoroughly practical and yield the desired savings in transportation space. The retailers are asked to cooperate by accepting shipments so packed.

Photographs as Samples.

In urging the placing of orders for merchandise shown by economical sampling devices the conservation division states that the successful use of photographs, lithographs, and catalogues is reported by many, with the consequent reduction in the number of sample trunks carried by a salesman. A wider use of these sampling devices is suggested.

It further appears, says the conservation division, that in most instances only one full-size model is necessary for each style of merchandise shown. All articles sold in pairs, such as garters, hosiery, and gloves, should be sampled one-half pair for each model, using swatches of fabrics and colors in connection with photographs where necessary for each style.

COMMITTEE NAMED TO INSPECT THE NEW AERIAL MAIL PLANES

OFFICE OF INFORMATION,
POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
August 6, 1918.

A committee composed of Capt. B. B. Lipsner, superintendent Air Mail Service; Lieut. J. C. Edgerton, United States Army, detailed to flying operations of the Air Mail Service, and Edward V. Gardner, aviator in the Postal Service, have gone to Elizabeth, N. J., to inspect, for acceptance by the Post Office Department, six air-mail ships built by the Standard Aero Corporation. The committee will be accompanied by Otto Praeger, Second Assistant Postmaster General; J. A. Edgerton, purchasing agent; G. L. Connor, chief clerk to the Second Assistant Postmaster General, and J. B. Corridon, superintendent railway adjustments, under whose division the expenditure for the service comes.

Call for 100 Miles an Hour.

The specifications for these planes call for a speed of 100 miles an hour and a climbing capacity of 6,000 feet in 10 minutes, with a capacity of 300 pounds of mail. Capt. Lipsner, superintendent of the Air Mail Service, will take charge of the equipment at once and will have the machines piloted by postal aviators to New York, Philadelphia, and Washington. The staff of mechanics who will maintain the equipment are now at the factory of the Wright-Martin Corporation, New Brunswick, N. J., where the Hispano-Suiza motor is manufactured, for observation of the latest developments in this industry. The expert riggers of the Postal Service have been detailed to the airplane factory for a detailed study of the construction of the Standard planes. The postal aviators who will carry the mail on the Washington-New York route are expert fliers and instructors in aviation.

The list comprises Max Miller, former flying instructor at San Diego, Cal., 1,000 hours in the air; Maurice A. Newton, Brooklyn, N. Y., experimental flier and instructor, 1,100 hours in the air; Robert Shank, military flying instructor, Dallas, Tex., 1,200 hours in the air; Ed V. Gardner, advanced flying instructor, Dallas, Tex., 1,450 hours in the air; V. P. Hollingsworth, military flying instructor, Dallas, Tex., 1,000 hours in the air. Reserve fliers, E. Leroy Langley and L. B. Boldenweck.

The transfer of the flying operations of the Air Mail Service is now under way, with a view to taking over the service by the Post Office Department at the close of flying on August 10.

Statement by Mr. Praeger.

Second Assistant Postmaster General Praeger has authorized the following statement of appreciation by the Post Office Department of the work of the War Department in inaugurating the Air Mail Service:

The Army has kindly undertaken to teach us the rudiments of aviation by operating the Air Mail Service until such time as the Post Office Department could obtain equipment and organize its personnel.

With the airplanes which the Standard Corporation has just constructed, and the planes which the War Department is about to turn over to us, together with the continued cooperation of the great fighting and technical branches of the Government, the Postmaster General is in a position to relieve the Army within a few days of the burden of operating the Air Mail Service, which it has so generously undertaken and has conducted with conspicuous success.

Much as the Army has done toward establishing a dependable daily airplane mail route, the Post Office Department expects to do a great deal more, building as we will upon the splendid foundation thus laid down for us.

I have no illusion as to the possibilities as well as the limitations of the present-day airplane. Carefully kept records on nearly 30,000 miles of cross-country work, no little of it in fog, or rain, or hail, has given use a clear idea as to what we have a right to expect of the airplanes now available for mail purposes. The future prospects of the Air Mail Service loom big before us. Mechanical difficulties no longer stand in the way of an immediate far-reaching expansion of the air mail, but no extension of that service will be undertaken without due regard for the war demands on our aircraft industry and personnel. Therefore, its extension at this time will be gradual and always in fullest harmony with those charged with responsibility for the conduct of the war.

Many Proposals Received.

The Post Office Department is being besieged with proposals to operate air mail routes in various parts of the country. It is only fair to those proposing to finance air mail carrier corporations to state that at this time no extension of the Air Mail Service has been determined upon, but that looking to the future the Post Office Department is giving consideration to the operation of a daily airplane mail route between New York and Chicago, which would cut in half the time between the two greatest cities of the United States and bring the entire West, even to the Pacific coast, 12 hours closer to New York and the Atlantic seaports.

Although our chief work lies ahead of us, we are proud of what has been accomplished during the past two and one-half months. During June we flew 96 out of a possible 100 legs of the air-mail route between Washington and New York, with but eight forced landings. In July we flew 106 out of a possible 108 legs of the route with but eight forced landings. There are no surer or more courageous fliers in France than the five Army officers who put the Air Mail Service on the map through their work in fog, rain, and hail.

When the fast airplanes which have just been completed are delivered to us, the Postmaster General will take over from the military authorities the flying operations of the air mail with a picked organization of aviators and mechanicians, full of confidence as to the future and with gratitude to the Army for what it has done for us and what it has taught us.

IS HONORABLY DISCHARGED.

459. By direction of the President, Maj. Frank B. Gilbreth, Engineer Reserve Corps, is honorably discharged from the Engineer Reserve Corps of the Army, to take effect this date, on the approved findings of a board of officers convened under the provisions of section 9, Bulletin No. 32, 1917 series, War Department, on account of physical disability incurred in line of duty.

SPANISH WRITER WARNS SPAIN NOT TO UNDERESTIMATE AMERICA

The Committee on Public Information has received the following cable from its representative in Spain:

MADRID, SPAIN, August 3.

The first Spanish writer to visit the American front in France is now publishing a series of articles in A B C, which are stirring the Spanish nation and giving the people the first real idea they have had as to the magnitude of America's efforts in the war.

The writer uses the pen name "Azorin." He is Joe Martinez Rinz, novelist, essayist, and critic, who ranks among the first literary men of Spain. It is because of the high standing of the writer and the fact that his enthusiasm for America finds a place in A B C, the strongest pro-German newspaper in Spain, that the articles are creating a veritable sensation.

Azorin says: "I will use the full strength of my pen and voice to make my country know the truth about the United States. In 1898 we suffered a disastrous disillusionment because of our own ignorance. It shall not occur again if I can prevent it. The future of Spain is bound up with the future of America and this truth must be recognized."

"Azorin" is made the object of scurrilous attacks in the pro-German newspapers throughout Spain.

SECRETARY COMMENDS SEAMAN FOR SELF-SACRIFICING HEROISM

Secretary Daniels has commended John W. Rogers, seaman, signalman, first class, United States Navy, for his display of self-sacrificing heroism following the explosion on the steamship Florence H on April 17, 1918.

The commanding officer reports that Rogers gave no thought to his own safety, but stayed on deck, getting loose wood material ready to throw over the ship's side to help those already in the water, and that after he went overboard he gave up the timber to which he was clinging in order that others might be saved.

Rogers enlisted at New Haven, Conn., April 30, 1917.

William Henry Watters, jr., carpenter's mate, first class, United States Naval Reserve Forces, and Frank Joseph Grogan, machinist's mate, first class, United States Naval Reserve Forces, have been commended for their gallantry in jumping overboard from the United States ship Aloha on the morning of July 10 and assisting in the rescue of a shipmate who had accidentally fallen overboard and would have been drowned but for their assistance.

Watters enlisted at New York May 22, 1917. Father, William Henry Watters, sr., 843 Boulevard, Bayonne, N. J.

Grogan enlisted at New York October 3, 1917. Mother, Mrs. C. A. Grogan, 491 Fourteenth street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

OVER 130,000 MEN CALLED FOR GENERAL MILITARY DUTY

Provost Marshal General Crowder Thursday issued draft calls as below:

White men for general military service, 100,000, to entrain August 26–30, apportioned as follows:

WAR INDUSTRIES MISSIONERS ARRIVE IN BRITISH CAPITAL

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

L. L. Summers, member of the War Industries Board, and its technical adviser, has arrived in London with a party of 10 other representatives of the board and their secretaries. The other members of the party are:

Chandler P. Anderson, counsel of the War Industries Board in international matters; George M. Armsby, chief of the tin section; Albert M. Patterson, chief of foreign wool section; Lincoln Hutchinson, mineral expert; John Hughes, tin specialist; Edward A. Pierce, formerly of raw materials division of War Industries Board; Paul Mackall, chief of the rail, alloy steel, and projectile section, steel division; Frederick K. Nixon, assistant to Mr. Patterson; Arthur D. Whiteside, statistician; Henry W. Boyd, leather section, and Hubert H. Brocker, Philo B. Galt, and James Bernard Mahoney, secretaries.

Purpose of Trip.

The purpose of their trip abroad is to confer with representatives of the allied nations in various interallied organizations, one of which is the interallied munitions council. The object of these conferences is to discuss the most effective methods of distribution of materials which all the allied nations require; the prevention of price inflation through unnecessary competition; conference with the maritime council in the saving of shipping space and the shortening of ship haulage, and the interchange of information concerning the supplies and requirements of the various countries.

AMERICAN STEAMER MERAK IS SUNK BY SUBMARINE

The Navy Department is informed that the American steamship Merak, 3,023 gross tons, was shelled, torpedoed, and sunk by a submarine at 1.50 p. m., Tuesday, August 6, 15 miles northeast of Diamond Shoals Lightship, off Cape Hatteras, N. C.

Flying Field is Named in Lieut. Hiestand's Honor

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the Division of Military Aeronautics:

It is announced that the new landing field at Fort Meyers, Fla., is named "Hiestand Field," in memory of Second Lieut. Benjamin Hiestand, Aviation Section, Signal Reserve Corps, who was killed in an aviation accident on June 10, 1918, at Dorr Field, Arcadia, Fla., while instructing a flying cadet.

Lieut. Hiestand was born in Marietta, Pa., August 11, 1898. He entered the Air Service on November 3, 1917, being transferred from the Ordnance Department, and received his commission in the Aviation Section on March 21, 1918.

This field is used as a safety landing field and as an auxiliary field for Dorr and Carlstrom Fields, near Arcadia, Fla.

AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY URGED TO GET ON 100 PER CENT WAR WORK BASIS AT ONCE

CAN'T PROMISE NEEDED SUPPLIES

No Material To Be Furnished Manufacturers of Passenger Machines Until Sworn Statement as to Steel on Hand Is Made.

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

The subcommittee appointed Thursday, August 8, with full power to act for the War Industries Board concerning the output of automobiles, makes known its position in the following letter to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

Text of the Letter.

NATIONAL AUTOMOBILE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE,
7 East Forty-second Street, New York City.

GENTLEMEN: We are in receipt of and have given very careful consideration to your communication of August 8 embodying the resolutions passed at your meeting at Detroit Tuesday, August 6. We note that the manufacturers have voluntarily agreed among themselves to curtail the production of passenger cars 50 per cent. While this is clearly a step in the right direction and furnishes a basis for each and all of the manufacturers, without further delay, to make appropriate reductions in selling, general and overhead expenses, still it is only a step, and further curtailment is inevitable. Fairness to your industry impels us to state frankly that the situation as it is presented to us to-day indicates very clearly that there will be little, if any, of the principal materials required in the construction of passenger cars available for nonwar industries after the war requirements shall have been provided for, and the War Industries Board can not at this time make any promise whatsoever regarding the supply to your industry of steel, rubber, or other materials for any definite period in advance. We strongly believe that it is to the best interest of your members and all other manufacturers of passenger automobiles to undertake to get on 100 per cent war work as rapidly as possible and not later than January 1, 1919, for in no other way can you be sure of the continuance of your industry and the preservation of your organization.

We regret that we are not in a position at this time to give you a more definite reply to your communication of the 8th instant, due to the fact that the data and information which on July 16 we requested you to promptly furnish us has yet been received. As soon as received prompt and appropriate action will be taken, of which you will be immediately advised.

No material will be furnished to any passenger automobile manufacturer until it has filed with this board a sworn statement embodying the information requested on July 16, coupled with an agreement to furnish this board with such additional information from time to time as it may require.

Yours, very truly,
WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD.

Resolutions Presented.

At a meeting of the War Industries Board on Thursday representatives of the National Chamber of Commerce presented resolutions, adopted at Detroit, in which the manufacturers of automobiles voluntarily agreed to cut their production 50 per cent beginning with August of this year.

The reference in the above letter to the request made on July 16 for certain information from the automobile manufacturers relates to the inventories of the steel which each manufacturer had on hand at that date.

Give up your luxuries that the Kaiser may be made to give up his ambitions.

PRICE OF COPPER ESTABLISHED AT TWENTY-SIX CENTS A POUND

President Approves Agreement Between War Industries Board Price-Fixing Committee and the Producers.

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

The President has approved an agreement, made between the producers of copper and the price-fixing committee of the War Industries Board (after investigation by this committee in conjunction with the Federal Trade Commission as to cost of production), that the maximum price of copper shall be 26 cents per pound, taking effect August 15, 1918, for shipments after said date, but subject to revision after November 1, 1918, f. o. b. cars or lighters at eastern refineries, f. o. b. cars or lighters at Pacific coast refineries for Pacific coast destinations, and f. o. b. cars or lighters New York if shipped to eastern or interior destinations from Pacific coast refineries and from refineries in the interior of the United States. All shipments made after November 1, 1918, are subject to any change in price made by the price-fixing committee to take effect after that date. This maximum price is subject to the additional charges on copper shapes approved by the price-fixing committee on June 5, 1918.

Four Conditions Laid Down.

The conditions are: First, that the producers of copper will not reduce the wages now being paid; second, that they will sell to the United States Government, to the public in the United States, and to the allied Governments at not above the maximum price; third, that they will take the necessary measures, under the direction of the War Industries Board, in the distribution of copper to prevent it from falling into the hands of speculators, who might increase the price to the public; and fourth, that they will pledge themselves to exert every effort necessary to keep up the production of copper so as to insure an adequate supply so long as the war lasts.

"WORK OR FIGHT" ORDER TO STAND FOR PRESENT WITHOUT ANY CHANGE, MR. BAKER ANNOUNCES

DISCUSSES NEW DRAFT

Age of 19 Preferable Minimum, Secretary Says, but the 18 Minimum Decided on Because of Necessity to get the Men—Inclined to Think Marriage Relation Will Constitute Deferred Classification.

Daily press interview by the Secretary of War August 9, 1918:

From the latest dispatches the offensive undertaken under Marshal Haig is progressing with great rapidity, the penetration being apparently greater than has been made in any recent offensive in the same space of time, though not over so wide a front. We have no report as yet through official channels of the details, but the progress so far made is striking.

I have no information on the subject of morale of the people of Germany except what appears in the various extracts printed in the newspapers from German newspapers and comments by persons who have access in one form or another to German opinion. It seems more or less clear that the people of Germany are beginning to realize that their army is not invincible and that a victorious force is being built up against them on the French front.

American and British Offensive.

I am perfectly clear in the opinion that the fine unity of action and elasticity in the use of troops of the various nations is obviously responsible for some part, and a great part perhaps, of recent allied successes, and that is a clear consequence of the unity of command.

So far as I know no American troops as a division are cooperating in this offensive by the British.

The presence of American troops in training with the British has doubtless so strengthened the British that they have been able to bring forward stronger bodies of troops.

I went before the Senate committee this morning on the question of the draft ages, and the discussion followed very much the lines taken with Gen. March and Gen. Crowder. The committee did not indicate any disposition to question the necessity for this change, but we discussed it in all of its phases. The committee was especially interested in the effect on colleges and also the question as to whether young men from 18 up would be drawn indiscriminately in class 1 or made into a deferred class by age and drawn later, giving them some added months to come to maturity. I told them that no fixed policy had been determined upon by the department, but that the purpose was to allow the President to defer in class 1 the call of the youngest men.

"Work or Fight" Order.

There was some discussion also as to whether it was the intention of the department to extend the "work or fight" order to include classes of persons in various professional occupations. I told them there was no present change of the "work or fight" order in contemplation. I said that when I decided the baseball case I thought perhaps other forms of amusement and entertainment might require an extension of the order to be on a parity with the baseball situation, but that was not in their mind. They had heard from outside sources that the department was considering bringing professional classes, like lawyers, newspaper men, and persons who were not actually engaged in producing material supplies, under the order.

I have always considered, as you perhaps remember, that 19 was the preferable minimum, and I have come to the 18 minimum only because it seems necessary to get the men. Not that I think men of 18 are necessarily too young, because I do not think that. I think that history shows that boys of 18 to 19 are immensely valuable, as valuable, perhaps, as from 19 to 20; but I think there is a sentiment in the country which will look with very much more anxious regard on the boys from 18 to 19 than the boys from 19 to 20. Eighteen years seems to many people a more tender age than 19, and it is for that reason that we are thinking of making this preferential deferment of men from 18 to 19.

Deferred Classification.

The new regulations are not yet drawn. I am inclined to think that the marriage relation will in itself constitute deferred classification. What I want to get in the regulations, if possible, is to have them so that the Government does the selecting, rather than putting it up to the individual. That is, where there is a man who ought to be exempted from the point of view of the national interest, I do not want to put the man in the position of having to claim exemption, but have him only answer some questions of fact and let the rules take care of the classification. This is what I am thinking of just now.

Mr. Rosenwald is going to Europe to make a series of talks to the boys in the camps on America, on conditions at home, and opportunities in American life.

Bridgeport, Conn., Housing Project is Announced

The Department of Labor authorizes the following:

The Bureau of Industrial Housing and Transportation announced to-day the housing project at Bridgeport, Conn. Bridgeport is one of the half dozen most congested munitions cities in the country.

Last week contracts were awarded there for housing accommodations sufficient to take care of 600 families.

The bureau has arranged with a local transportation company to extend traction lines, to make cross-connections, and to increase the rolling stock. The bureau expects, also, to build dormitory accommodations for about 1,000 workmen at Bridgeport. Contracts have been awarded for the construction of dormitories at Quincy, Mass., to care for the workmen employed at the Fore River shipyard. The construction of 500 houses at Quincy is also planned.

Summary of Labor Conditions Throughout the United States

The Department of Labor authorizes the following:

The following is a summary of labor conditions throughout the United States as indicated by reports received by the department for the week ended August 3.

Building Trades.

Building trades seem again to be passing through a period of depression. Activity at shipbuilding and manufacturing centers had previously promised to absorb the surplus workers, but advances in the price of material and difficulty in obtaining it have delayed operations. While demand for workers is active in a few places, the problem in general is one of shortage in material rather than shortage of men.

Mechanics, Electricians, Automobile and Munitions Workers.

Mechanics can find work in almost any locality. Automobile and electrical workers, however, are not so scarce, the lack of material having curtailed operations. Munitions workers are in general demand.

Skilled Workmen.

Boilermakers, machinists, and molders are in demand everywhere. Ship builders are needed at Seattle, Philadelphia, Wilmington, New York, and Galveston. The movement of skilled workmen from the railroads to the yards has declined because of increases in the railway wage scale.

Common Labor.

Common labor shortage still prevails throughout the eastern United States from Maine to Georgia and as far west as Minnesota and Iowa. In the South Central States the release of men from farm work and the droughts has created a surplus.

Farm Labor.

Farm laborers are needed from New Hampshire as for south as Virginia and as far west as Minnesota; Washington, Montana, and a part of Idaho also show a shortage. There is a surplus of farm labor in the Southern and Southwestern States.

Female Labor.

Conditions in general are normal. Women are still needed in factories and munitions plants. There is a surplus of women desiring clerical work. Good stenographers and typists are in demand, however. It is felt that a better supply of workers would be available for factories and munitions plants if working conditions were improved.

President Wilson Sends Telegram To President of Liberia

THE WHITE HOUSE,
August 3, 1918.

His excellency the
PRESIDENT OF LIBERIA,
Monrovia.

On this anniversary of Liberia's associating herself with the countries at war with Germany, may I extend to you and the people of Liberia the sincere felicitations and best wishes of the Government and people of the United States, and confirm to you the interest which the United States takes in Liberia's welfare?

WOODROW WILSON.

RED CROSS GIVES $900,000 FOR ARMENIAN AND SYRIAN RELIEF

The Red Cross authorizes the following:

The Red Cross war council has made an appropriation of $900,000 as an additional contribution to the American committee for Armenian and Syrian relief, of which Cleveland H. Dodge, of New York, is treasurer. The money is to be contributed in three installments of $300,000 each to cover the months of August, September, and October.

During the past year the American Red Cross has made contributions to the American committee for Armenian and Syrian relief totaling $3,000,000. This money has been and is being used by the committee for relief work in Armenia, Syria, Persia, the Caucasus, Mesopotamia, Palestine, and other countries in the Near East. All of the contributions were made on the recommendation of the Red Cross committee on cooperation.

Dying in the Streets.

Recently the Armenian and Syrian relief committee applied to C. A. Coffin, chairman of the Red Cross committee on cooperation, stating that the need of large sums for relief work in the countries above named is still very great. It was stated that reports from Persia, the Mesopotamia, Asia Minor, and Syria all indicated intense suffering, with people dying in the streets from starvation, and that diseases, such as typhus and cholera, were spreading rapidly. As a result of such conditions the Armenian and Syrian relief committee has been confronted with overwhelming demands for money to be expended during the next few months.

GOVERNMENT FIXES MAXIMUM PRICES FOR SOLE AND BELTING LEATHERS

Agreement Entered into on August 8 by Price Fixing Committee, War Industries Board, and Sole Leather Group of the Tanners' Council—Regulations and Differentials.

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

Sole and belting leather.—Maximum prices fixed on August 8, 1918, by the price fixing committee appointed by the President, for three months beginning on August 9, 1918:

In conformity with the Government's program of establishing maximum prices on hides and leather for the purpose of stabilizing prices of leather and articles fabricated of leather, the price fixing committee have come into agreement with the sole leather group of the Tanners' Council in regard to maximum price on belting leather and sole leather and in respect to certain regulations applying to same. The supervision and carrying into effect of the decision of the price fixing committee will be executed by the Hide, Leather, and Leather Goods Section of the War Industries Board.

Regulations.

These maximum prices on grades are based on maximum prices of No. 2 selection as basis for tannery run. When sold in selections, the assortment value of the total selections shall not exceed the maximum price of the No. 2 or tannery run.

In Texas, scoured or bloom oak sole leather (Classification No. 3) the tannery run maximum price is 87 cents, and when sold in selections the assortment value of the four selections shall not exceed the maximum tannery-run price of 87 cents.

These prices apply to all sales made by tanners, or by their representatives, or by jobbers, but do not apply to sales made by retail dealers or by the so-called findings trade.

Differentials.

Tanners who claim preferential differentials on account of low yield of leather will make application for same to the Hide, Leather, and Leather Goods Division of the War Industries Board.

The conditions upon which they will be given this advantage are:

First. That their yield shall be at least 7 points under the yield used as a factor in determining maximum prices on the same season's hides, and that a sworn statement shall be rendered to this effect and shall be the result of at least six months' operation.

Second. That they will make consecutive monthly reports to the Hide, Leather, and Leather Goods Division of the War Industries Board of their yield.

Third. Every side of subdivision of these sides shall be stamped with the name of the tannage.

Tanneries producing leather of such high yield as to exceed the arbitrary factor of yield used in figuring maximum prices on the same season's hides by more than 7 points shall be subject to a differential reduction, such reduction to be figured on the excess yield beyond or above the 7-point allowance. Every side or subdivision of these sides shall be stamped with the name of the tannage.

When requested by the Hide, Leather, and Leather Goods Division of the War Industries Board, tanners will make monthly reports of their yields, stating classes and seasons of hides.

Price of Offal.

These maximum prices are established for three months, and at a time when all offal is a burden on the market. At the expiration of the three months, if the offal has found an outlet and established a higher market level, this additional return in value to tanners will be reflected in the readjustment of a new schedule three months hence.

NEW AGE LIMIT IS ANNOUNCED FOR THE U. S. MERCHANT MARINE

The United States Shipping Board authorizes the following:

New age limits for men entering the merchant marine through the recruiting service of the United States Shipping Board were announced to-day by Chairman Edward N. Hurley, of the board.

From now on adventurous youths from 18 to 20, inclusive, will be accepted as sailors, cooks, and stewards on all American vessels making mercantile voyages, if they first pass through the training course provided by the Shipping Board on its fleet of training ships. Men between 32 and 35, inclusive, will also be accepted in the same way for these three ratings.

Age Limit for Firemen.

Hitherto all the 3,000 men a month accepted for training by the Shipping Board and subsequent service in merchant crews have been within the present draft-age limits of 21 to 31, but in order to draw more lightly on men available for military duty under the present draft regulations the board hereafter will accept men of draft age only for training as officers or firemen. The age limit for officers is much wider, however, being 19 to 55, inclusive, and only men who have spent two years at sea will be accepted for training.

The new age limits for firemen are 21 to 31. Firemen who have fired six months on boilers of 15 pounds pressure will be given special training as oilers and water tenders.

Flying Field Fatalities in Week Ending August 3

The War Department authorizes the following:

Herewith is a summary of deaths in aviation accidents at flying fields in this country for the week ending August 3, 1918.

Place at which fatality occurred.	Number of fatalities.
Carruthers Field, Benbrook, Tex	1
Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill	1
Kelly Field, San Antonio, Tex	1
Love Field, Dallas, Tex	1
Payne Field, West Point, Miss	1
Post Field, Fort Sill, Okla	1
Rockwell Field, San Diego, Cal	1
Total	7

The seven deaths during the week ending August 3 represent one fatality for every 3,249.2 hours flown, or 259,940.5 miles air travel. At 20 flying fields other than those named above there were no fatalities during the week.

Exportation of Cotton-seed Oil Considered

The War Trade Board announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 194) that they will now consider applications for the exportation of cotton-seed oil. Applicants should file their applications on Form X. Licenses issued under this ruling will expire on October 1, 1918. Inasmuch as applications for renewals of expired licenses issued under this ruling may not be granted, exporters should take every precaution to insure that the cotton-seed oil is exported (see W. T. B. R. 152, June 29, 1918) prior to October 1, 1918.

American Official Communique on Operations of U. S. Forces

The following is authorized by the Secretary of War:

Official American Communique No. 86—Continued.

August 8, 1918.

Section B.—A letter written by a German lieutenant to his father has been found in the Bois De La Tournel, southwest of Fere-en-Tardenois. This wood was the scene of sharp fighting from July 24 to 26, in the course of which the officer was killed. The writer describes in the following paragraphs his experiences in the Chateau Thierry sector during the opening days of the Franco-American counter offensive:

"At 2 o'clock in the afternoon artillery fire started which lasted about an hour and a half. We were expecting then that something was going to happen in front of us. Suddenly the fire ceased and immediately runners came to warn us that the Americans were attacking on the entire line. Never have I seen such a thing. Nobody could have withstood them. The enemy was six or eight times as strong as we were. We were disseminated over the advance zone in checker formation by groups of eight men every 200 or 300 meters, and the Americans were arriving by regiments.

"In this case the decision imposed by hand-to-hand fighting played a most important role. Many of the enemy fell, but others took their places. It was like killing a few bees from a swarm.

"What could we do ourselves, very inferior in number, especially when the enemy fire was so terrible? It seemed best to run when we could not hold, take another position, resume the fight, and gradually retire.

"Those who could not run have fallen into the hands of the enemy. Many of them had that fate. There also were large numbers of killed and wounded. Those who are not too severely wounded are the lucky. The country receives them in her arms and they are out of an unlucky situation.

"I did not participate in that fight which lasted until late into the night. At nightfall I went to see the commanders of the company to give them orders for the future. The French and the Americans having attacked and advanced more to the north, we have been obliged to abandon the position, and we went several kilometers toward the north. Yesterday morning they put us at rest in a wood, but the "wicked enemy" was there in front of us. Other troops who are just as tired as we are had stopped them for a while. Last night we were engaged again, but my battalion was in reserve at about 600 meters from the first line for the reason that we had seriously melted in numbers. But any minute we expect to be engaged to repulse a new attack, as the French, with renewed courage, are attacking constantly.

"The battle continually sways back and forth. The village changes hands frequently. With the exception of a few points of minor importance we hold the positions occupied yesterday.

"The blockheads attacked C with several tanks to-day; according to the reports the tanks have been destroyed. Their cavalry also is engaged.

"There is terrible noise here. Our own and enemy shells are passing constantly over our heads and bursting sometimes close to us. Before us the machine guns are crackling; which is proof that the enemy are engaged. Let's hope they will not pass.

"Summing it all up I think we have underestimated Foch and his reserves, and especially the Americans. I have a presentiment I shall lose my skin also. I wish it were to-morrow."

Exportation of Canned Beans to be Permitted

The War Trade Board announces, in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 187) that applications will now be considered for licenses to export canned beans which when packed had at least 17 per cent moisture content. The attention of canners is directed to the fact that it is necessary to secure special permission from the United States Food Administration to purchase such beans for the purpose of canning.

Applicants for licenses to export such canned beans should state on Application Form X, in answer to question No. 5, that the beans covered by the application were of at least 17 per cent moisture content when packed, and applicants should furthermore state on Supplemental Information Sheet Form X–1 that the packers of these beans have secured the permission of the United States Food Administration to purchase the beans for the purpose of canning.

Additions Announced to Export Conservation List

The War Trade Board announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 192) the addition of the following commodities to the Export Conservation List, effective August 10, 1918: Cevadilla, honey, and sabadilla.

WORK OF CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

The Ways and Means Committee, considering the war revenue bill yesterday, made headway toward the completion of the measure and adjourned until Monday. One of the important provisions is the proposed creation of an advisory tax board of five members to be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, at a salary of $9,000 a year each. They would hold office during the period of the war and for one year thereafter. This advisory board would be given full legal status and would be the court of last resort in tax disputes. The committee also agreed to increase the salary of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue from the present $6,000 to $10,000 a year. It is proposed to add $30,000,000 to the revenues by increasing the present tax of 50 cents on each $1,000 of capital stock to $1 on each $1,000, and remove the present exemption of $99,000. A further provision was written into the bill that will make liberty bonds acceptable as security on all Government contracts.

The luxury taxes recommended by the subcommittee were accepted by the full committee. Two groups are provided for, one composed of articles that are luxuries in and of themselves, and the other, articles that become luxuries because of their price. On actual luxuries, such as jewelry, a tax of 10 per cent will be assessed, to be paid by the manufacturer, producer, or importer. This group also would include art objects, pianos, and pipe organs, furs, cash registers, typewriters, photographs, and tapestries. On the second group a basic price is fixed and on all above that price a tax of 20 per cent will be assessed. This group will include the following, the prices named being the maximum and above which the 20 per cent tax becomes operative: Men's and young men's suits and overcoats, $50; men's and women's hats, bonnets, and hoods, $25; women's and misses' dresses, $40; women's and misses' suits, cloaks, and coats, $60; boots, shoes, and slippers for men, women, and children, $10; fans, $1; men's waistcoats, sold distinct from suits, $5; silk underclothing and hosiery, pure and mixed, $10; men's and boys' neckwear, $2; trunks, $50; valises, traveling bags, suit cases, and hat boxes, $25; ladies' purses, pocketbooks, shopping and hand bags, $7.50; carpets and rugs, fiber, $5 per square yard; umbrellas, parasols, and sunshades, $4; men's shirts, $3; house and smoking jackets and bath robes, $10.

Secretary Baker was before the Senate Committee on Military Affairs yesterday and explained the provisions of the pending man-power bill. He told the committee that unless Congress acts promptly in extending the draft-age limits, deferred classes must be invaded to get the necessary man power for forthcoming quotas. He strongly urged that the legislation be completed in time so that September 5, the date selected by Provost Marshal General Crowder, may be registration day for all men within the new draft limits. Secretary Baker explained the enlarged war program behind closed doors. He was the last witness, and the chairman announced, subsequently, that consideration of the bill by the committee would be proceeded with expeditiously. Chairman Chamberlain said the Secretary explained that the decision to extend the draft ages was reached after long study, which showed the step to be absolutely necessary to carry out the agreement made at the allied conference.

Dr. Charles R. Mann, a civilian representative of the War Department, discussed the question of devising some means of permitting youths now in educational institutions who would be drafted to register and then continue with their studies. An amendment to the pending bill, it was stated, would be proposed by Senator Thomas, a member of the committee designed to prevent strikes. Under its provisions an order granting a man a deferred classification for industrial reasons would be nullified by his absence from work for more than five days.

RESTRICTIONS ON LEATHER USE ARE ANNOUNCED BY THE WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD

Schedule Applies to "Personal," Not "Commercial" Luggage, Says Instructions to the Industry.

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

To the trunk and traveling goods industry:

As a result of the information that trunk, bag, and suit case manufacturers have furnished in response to our letter of June 17, 1918, and the various conferences which have been held with representatives of the trade, a proposed schedule for conservation has been drawn up. A copy is inclosed. This schedule applies to "personal luggage" and not to "commercial luggage."

This plan will be put into effect as issued unless substantial reasons are presented before August 15, which necessitate its modification in order to assist more effectively in meeting present war conditions.

The purpose of this program is to release capital and to eliminate needless uses of material and equipment. War conditions make it necessary that manufacturers should operate with far less material than in normal times and that excessive multiplicity of styles and sizes, which mean needless work and tie up large amounts of capital and materials, should be avoided.

In order to conserve space in baggage cars and to facilitate the transportation of troops, personal trunks should not exceed 40 inches in height or length. There is a marked shortage of baggage cars because of the necessity of using them on troop trains. The 40-inch trunk is the maximum height or length that permits the loading of a baggage car to a maximum capacity. Under these circumstances this restriction is clearly essential.

Will you please give us prompt assurance of your assistance and cooperation in carrying out this program?

CONSERVATION DIVISION,
WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD.

Traveling Bags and Suit Cases.

The use of the following leathers should be discontinued in the manufacture of suit cases and bags:

Goatskins.

Sheepskins costing more than 16 cents per square foot.

In the manufacture of bags and suit cases leather used for outside covering should be restricted to black, a medium color of tan or brown, and a natural russet.

All traveling bags and suit cases should be restricted to the following sizes: 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, and 28 inches.

Each manufacturer should restrict his output of each style to two of the above sizes.

Each manufacturer should restrict his output of leather suit cases to not more than 18 styles.

Each manufacturer should restrict his output of suit cases, other than leather, to not more than 36 styles.

Each manufacturer should restrict his output of leather bags to not more than 36 styles.

Each manufacturer should restrict his output of bags, other than leather, to not more than 18 styles.

Each different quality or grain of leather when used in the manufacture of traveling bags and suit cases is to be considered as constituting a separate style of either bags or suit cases.

All secret drawers, secret partitions, and secret sections, also false bottoms, false sides, and false tops, should be discontinued in the manufacture of traveling bags and suit cases.

The selling of traveling bags and suit cases from samples should be restricted to one trunk per traveling salesman.

Estimates of Effective List of Eligibles Under New Draft Under Various Ages, Prepared by the Provost Marshal

The following correspondence has been sent to Congress:

WAR DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL,
Washington, July 27, 1918.

From: The Provost Marshal General.
To: Chief of Staff, War Department, Washington, D. C.
Subject: Changes of draft age.

1. Pursuant to your memorandum of July 24, transmitting a copy (secret) of the approved military program for 1918–19, and calling for the draft of a proposed bill lowering the draft age to 19 and raising it to 40, I transmit herewith estimates of the effectives obtainable by the enlargement of the draft ages in the shape of three studies covering age groups 32–40 combined with 19–20, 32–45 combined with 19–20, and 32–45 combined with 18–20, and showing the estimated effectives for each combination.

2. These figures were made by a careful calculation in this office, checking the calculations at various points with experience in the several items represented; the basic figures, viz, the total males of the respective age groups, were ascertained by comparison of reliable insurance actuarial figures with census tables projected to date.

This explanation is made because the totals shown are considerably below what might have been supposed to be the ample size of the reservoir in the higher ages. The combination ages 32–40 and 19–20 (see study No. 1) designated in your memorandum would yield only a little over a million and a half men (or half a million less than the total amount called for by the program for the nine months, October, 1918–June, 1919). By including age 45 at the top, the second combination (see study No. 2) would yield only a million and three-quarters effectives. By taking the extreme step and adding age 18 at the bottom and including age 45 at the top (see study No. 3) something over two million and one-quarter effectives would be obtained.

3. This seems to indicate that the bill as drafted should at least provide authority to call into service the extreme age of 45 at the top and 18 at the bottom; and it is accordingly recommended that the draft of a bill be prepared with those ages as the limits.

4. Furthermore, the authority to draw upon this new reservoir must be obtained immediately. The estimated number of Class I men under the present ages (and including the class of 1918, age 21, that has been registered under the President's proclamation) will be only about 100,000 men (and may fall below that figure) on September 1, 1918, after filling the calls indicated for July and August, and making deductions for the unexpected heavy losses due to a rush in June and July to the Navy, Marine Corps, and Emergency Fleet.

5. September call: The first question which presents itself is the very urgent one, How to meet the September call for 200,000 men with considerably less than that number in Class I to be drawn upon? There is only one way I can see for accomplishing this, and that is to provide for weekly registration of men becoming 21 since last registration day, June 5, 1918. We could hold such registration, after proper proclamation by the President and upon a bulletin order to boards, designating Monday of each week as registration day, and requiring the necessary personnel to assemble at the headquarters of local boards on that day to effect the registration. The first registration day would be a heavy one requiring, perhaps, special personnel, but the subsequent weekly registration days should be handled with greater ease. In this way we could hope to get, under a rush procedure, approximately 80,000 men available for the September call, which, added to those remaining in Class I, would give a total barely sufficient to fill the September call.

6. We must exclude, of course, from consideration in filling the September quota, registrants who become liable to our draft under the British and Canadian treaty, as it is not practicable to have a registration of these men until August 29, 30 days after the ratification of the treaty; and it is not until 30 days thereafter that their right to elect to service with the British and Canadian contingents ceases.

7. Subsequent calls: The second and more difficult question is, How can we supply, on time, the 150,000 men required for each of the succeeding months of October, November, and December? The British-Canadian treaty would help out to the extent—it is estimated—of about 50,000 men, which is not even the conventional "drop in the bucket."

The House reconvenes on August 19 and the Senate on August 26. How long a period will be consumed in the discussion and enactment of legislation authorizing the extension of the draft ages and in what form such legislation will be enacted it is difficult to anticipate. And yet we must anticipate it if we are to establish as expeditious procedure under it which will produce on time the quotas for the months above stated. If we could assume that the law would be enacted in the remaining days of August, we would have a basis of calculating the results to be obtained under it. As I stated to the Senate Military Committee at its last hearing, a minimum period of 90 days is necessary to enroll and classify all the men registered in the additional classes suggested. We can not therefore wait for the completion of Class I but must take men irrespective of their order numbers as fast as they find their way into Class I.

8. I suggest for discussion with the Military Committees of the two Houses the tentative form of bill hereto attached, to the end that we may obtain assurances that the bill will pass in such a form as will permit me to proceed now with the printing of the large number of forms, including the questionnaire, necessary in connection with the additional registration. The Printing Office contemplates a period of 30 days for the printing of the forms, so it is necessary to move with great promptness. Of course, the distribution of the forms can go on during the period of printing, with the assurance that they will not be invalidated by changes in the legislation. Perhaps, also, we could receive assurances that the registration could be enacted by the House in the period following its reconvening, so that it could be taken up promptly by the Senate on August 26 and passed there. This would enable us to contemplate September 5 as a national registration day, and the machinery of the selective draft operating very soon thereafter in grinding out a Class I available for filling October, November, and December contingents.

E. H. CROWDER,
Provost Marshal General.

Estimate of effectives obtainable by enlargements of draft ages.

SUMMARY OF STUDIES 1, 2, AND 3.

Estimated numbers of effectives for each age group.

I. Ages 32–40	448,086
II. Ages 32–45	601,236
III. Ages 19–20	1,121,634
IV. Ages 18–20	1,797,609

Numbers for combinations of age groups.

By combining ages 32–40 and 19–20 (Study No. 1):
Ages 32–40	448,086
Ages 19–20	1,121,634
Total	1,569,720
By combining ages 32–45 and 19–20 (Study No. 2):
Ages 32–45	601,236
Ages 19–20	1,121,634
Total	1,722,870
By combining ages 32–45 and 18–20 (Study No. 3):
Ages 32–45	601,236
Ages 18–20	1,797,609
Total	2,398,845

STUDY NO. 1.

Ages 32–40 (inclusive)	448,086
Ages 19–20 (inclusive)	1,121,634
Combined ages	1,569,720

Ages 32 to 40.

Estimates of Effective List of Eligibles Under New Draft

Explanation.

1. Line 1 is taken from Prudential insurance actuarial tables of July, 1918, compared with census tables projected in this office. The actuarial tables are brought down to date by the actuaries, and the census tables thus brought down at the bureau are not yet available.

2. Line 2 is taken from same source as line 1.

3. Line 3 is taken from industrial index ledger sheets for occupational registrants. The ratios there shown are: Class I equals 31 per cent; Classes II to IV, deferred for industry and agriculture only, equals 4 per cent. Other deferred classes equal 64 per cent.

The percentage here taken is the same as for ages 21–30 classification. This is too large, in that many more such men in ages 32–40 would get their exemption on dependency grounds, without invoking industrial or agricultural necessity. But it is too small, in that a larger proportion of men in ages 30–40 would be entitled to such deferment. Hence, these two differences may be estimated to set off each other.

4. Line 4 represents the corresponding figure for the 1917 draft. These are too low, if anything, as the numbers of State officials, etc., increase in the higher ages.

5. Line 5 is taken from reports in this office on delinquents, figuring 3.9 per cent of total registration. This would be too high because the total delinquents include at least some portion of the marrieds; hence 3 per cent is a safer figure.

7. Line 7 is thus figured: Total enlistments (Army and Navy) to date 1,400,000; of which, those above 30 are estimated at 10 per cent, or 140,000; of these, 120,000 may be estimated to be within ages 32–40; deduct 20,000 marrieds, leaving 100,000 now enlisted; add 50,000 more probable enlistments before liability accrues in the new draft, 150,000.

8. Line 8 is found thus: In the first registration, 13 per cent were aliens; and the census report shows that the percentage of aliens' ages 20–30 and 30–40 or 45 is not substantially different. But many aliens have left the country, and 12 per cent is a safer figure. Of these, one-quarter are subjects of Great Britain and Italy, who will presumably become liable and largely available; hence the deduction should be corrected to 9 per cent. This might seem too large, by a considerable factor, because in the 1917 draft only 50 per cent of called aliens obtained exemption on that ground, another 33 per cent obtaining it on other grounds, while 17 per cent of all aliens were certified for service; this would seem to show that in any given number of aliens the net number to be deducted on that ground is nearer to 50 per cent. But as the 33 per cent who were exempted on other grounds are already included under the deferments already deducted, and as the 17 per cent volunteers are likely not to reappear (partly because of the Slavic and Polish Legions, etc.), there should be no reduction of the 9 per cent, which is the figure here taken on line 7.

Declarants are not deducted, the neutrals being a negligible amount.

9. Line 9 is based on recent reports in this office.

11. Line 11 (a) is based on the returns of classification of 1918 showing 10 per cent.

Line 11 (b) is based on similar figures, which show not quite 20 per cent, including camp rejections. To this must be added 10 per cent for ages 32–40, according to advices from the Surgeon General's office. This gives 30 per cent in all.

Explanation.

Lines 1 and 2 are taken from the same tables as for ages 32 to 40.

Line 3 obviously here can not use the same 4 per cent as for ages 21 to 30; the ratio one-half of 1 per cent is here taken.

Line 4 similarly is taken at a negligible figure of one-tenth of 1 per cent.

Line 5 is reckoned as for ages 32 to 40.

Line 7 is based upon reports of July 26, 1918, from The Adjutant General's Office, as set forth later in study No. 3.

Line 8 is based upon census figures showing that the numbers of aliens of ages 15 to 19 are less than one-half the number for the next five-year period, while the native born are 10 per cent to 20 per cent more numerous than in the higher-age period. Thus the 9 per cent for ages 21 to 30 should here be reduced to 3 per cent.

Line 9. Emergency fleet withdrawals for these age years should not be allowed.

Line 11 is based on the per cent for ages 21–30. Three officers of the Surgeon General's office agree in believing that the ages 19–20 or 18–20 do not permit of any lower percentage than for ages 21–30.

Explanation.

Lines 1 to 5, 8, and 11 are obtained as for ages 19 to 20 in study No. 1.

Line 9, Emergency Fleet withdrawals for these ages should not be allowed.

Line 11 is reckoned as for ages 19 to 20 in study No. 1.

Line 7 is based on The Adjutant General's Office estimates of July 26, 1918, as follows:

1. On account of the present arrangement of records in the several offices it would require the services of some hundred clerks for months to obtain an accurate count of the number of men in the military service of the United States between the ages of 18 and 20. An accurate count can only be had from a study of all enlistment papers in The Adjutant General's Office, the Navy Department, and the Marine Corps. An estimate may be made from the actual number of enlistments since January 1, 1917, and the number in this age group in service at the present time is 244,326, of which number 36,549 are estimated to be under 19 and 207,777 are estimated to be of ages 19 to 20.

2. This estimate has been arrived at in the following manner:

(a) Enlisted men in the Regular Army and National Guard between 18 and 20.

The chief clerk of the recruiting department of The Adjutant General's Office makes the statement that "due to the Selective Service Regulations practically all enlistments in the Regular Army and National Guard since January 1, 1918, represent men outside of the draft age, and of these about 70 per cent are under the age." This estimate was verified by his assistant, who thought that possibly the reenlistments of older men might place as many as 75 per cent below the draft age. Another assistant in the department at First and B Streets estimated between 60 and 70 per cent, so that the average estimate of 70 per cent had been used in this computation. An actual count of current enlistment papers selected at random revealed 80 out of 115 to be below the draft age. The total number of enlistments in the Regular Army during this period was 113,794, which figure it is estimated is about 90 per cent of the combined figures for the Regular Army and National Guard. Therefore the total enlistments in the above would be approximately 126,436. But this figure includes men registered on June 5, 1918, the percentage of which is estimated to be 45 per cent. The net figure, then, for the age group 18-20 is estimated at 69,540. Of these, 15 per cent, or 10,430, are under the age of 19. For the years 1916 and 1917 an average estimate by the same experts divides the enlistments into three age groups by percentages as follows:

	Per Cent.
Under 21	27
21–30	57
Over 30	16

On this basis of the 235,000 enlistments for 1916–17, exclusive of the National Guard, 63,450 would be between 18 and 20. Assuming that as many of these attained the age of 21 by June 5, 1918, as were enlisted during 1916 under age, it is estimated that this figure 63,450 would be approximately the number of men now in the service enlisted prior to January 1, 1918. No figures for the National Guard are available. Hence the total strength of the Regular Army between 18 and 20 is approximated at 133,000 and under 19 at 19,950.

(b) Navy: The approximate strength of the Navy and Naval Reserve forces at this time is 400,000 enlisted men, or a little over about half in each. Of the 200,000 men in the Navy proper, very close to 50 per cent are between the ages 21–30. Of the 100,000 men outside of these ages it is estimated that 75 per cent are under and 25 per cent over. In the Navy, then, 75,000 are to-day under 21. Of the 200,000 in the Naval Reserves, between 80 and 88 per cent are within the ages 21–30. Assuming 170,000 to be a fair figure, 30,000 remain, which are equally divided into two age groups—those over 30 and those under 21. Hence the number of men in the naval forces under 21 is approximated at 97,500. Of these it is estimated that 15 per cent, or 14,625, are under the age of 19. The above estimates are furnished by the clerk of the enlisted personnel of the Navy.

(c) Marine Corps: Total minors enlisted since April 1, 1917, 13,826, or, applying 15 per cent, 1,974 are under 19.

3. Summarized estimate:

	18–20.	Under 19.	19 and 20.
Army	133,000	19,950	113,050
Navy	97,500	14,625	82,875
Marine Corps	13,826	1,974	11,852
Total	244,326	36,549	207,777

JULY 29, 1918.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE SECRETARY OF WAR.

Subject: Proposed amendments to selective-service act approved May 18, 1917.

1. The first amendment brings all male citizens and male persons residing in the United States not alien enemies, who have declared their intention to become citizens, between the ages of 18 and 45, both inclusive, within the terms of the selective-service law.

It is only necessary to change the ages, inasmuch as males under 21 may, under the laws of the United States, declare their intention to become citizens of the United States.

2. The second amendment is as follows:

"Provided, That the President may draft such persons liable to military service in such sequence of ages and at such time or times as he may prescribe."

This amendment should be incorporated for the purpose of enabling the President to call, for instance, persons between the ages of 32 and 40 or of the age of 20 before calling persons between the ages of 18 and 19 or between the ages of 40 and 45.

The amendment makes it possible to call persons by classes as to ages.

3. The third amendment strikes out the words "in industries, including agriculture," and substitutes therefor the words "in occupations or employments."

This amendment is made to the section of the act which provides for the deferred classification or temporary discharge of persons engaged in industries, including agriculture, found to be necessary to the maintenance of the Military Establishment or the effective operation of the military forces or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency.

Experience has shown that some district boards are inclined to give a narrow construction to the word "industries," and it is thought that the words "occupations or employments" should be substituted for "industries, including agriculture," not only for the purpose of preventing the difficulties arising by reason of the narrow construction placed upon the word "industries" but also for the purpose of enabling a somewhat broader construction of the law in view of the fact that the military age is to be increased and a wider latitude should therefore be given to district boards to give deferred classification to persons whose occupations or employments may be found necessary to the maintenance of the national interest.

4. The fourth amendment is as follows:

"Provided, That nothing in this section contained shall prevent the President, if he deems it advisable, from appointing as a member of a local board any person residing outside the subdivision or area in which such local board

Health Conditions at the National Guard, National Army, and Regular Army Camps as Reported for the Week Ending August 2

The War Department authorizes the following:

Herewith is a detailed report on the health conditions of troops in the United States (including Porto Rico) for the week ending August 2. The report of the Division of Sanitation to the Surgeon General of the Army for that week is as follows:

1. General.—The health of troops continues satisfactory. Admission and noneffective rates continue to show a decline for troops as a whole as compared with last week. The death rate for disease (2.45) remains remarkably low. Measles is quite generally prevalent in all larger stations where new men are being received in considerable numbers; 291 new cases of pneumonia are reported from all camps as compared with 207 last week.

2. Divisional camps.—Camp Cody continues with the lowest sick rates of all camps in this group (admissions 383, noneffective 17.8). Camps Kearney and Greenleaf lead in measles prevalence with 19 and 47 new cases, respectively. Camp Cody leads in the number of new cases of pneumonia (18). Sixty-eight new cases of malaria are reported from all camps of this group; 22 at Camp Shelby, 15 at Camp Beauregard.

3. Cantonments.—Camp Grant, with a command of approximately 50,000, has the best health record of all larger camps and stations (admissions, 370; noneffective, 12.03; deaths, none). Camps Travis, Pike, and Gordon report the highest sick rates of this group. One hundred and ninety-eight new cases of pneumonia are reported, against 158 last week; of this number, Camp Las Casas reports 41, Camp Gordon 26, and Camp Pike 24.

4. Departmental and other troops.—This group has the lowest rates of the week. Very few of the more serious diseases are reported, and health conditions in stations of this group are generally excellent.

[1] First figure in this column for each camp gives the total number of new cases during the week; the figure in parenthesis is the number of those cases which were contracted during the week by men in that camp's command at the time of contracting the disease—the difference, therefore, is the number of cases first reported during the week which were either (a) cases brought from civilian life by recruits, or (b) cases brought by men transferred from other camps to the camp under which the case is reported, or (c) old cases which have previously evaded detection. An interrogation point signifies that the report from that camp did not segregate cases contracted at the camp from other cases.

New cases of typhoid fever also reported from Camps Shelby (1); Wadsworth (2); Devens (1); Jackson (1); Lee (2); Travis (1).

ELIGIBLES UNDER THE NEW DRAFT

has jurisdiction, or from transferring a member of one local board to another local board outside the subdivision or area in which such person resides."

This amendment is advisable for the reason that the selective-service act prevents the President from appointing as a member of a local board any person who resides outside the jurisdiction of that board. It has been almost impossible in some districts to find three qualified persons resident in the district to serve as members of the local board. This amendment will remove that difficulty and will also enable a member to be transferred from one local board to another local board in the interest of good administration of the draft law.

5. The next amendment that needs any explanation is as follows:

"Provided further, That the President may, at such intervals as he may desire, from time to time require all male persons who have attained the age of 18 years since the last preceding date of registration and on or before the next date set for registration by proclamation by the President, except such persons as are exempt from registration hereunder, to register in the same manner and subject to the same requirements and liabilities as those previously registered under the terms hereof."

This amendment is necessary in order to provide for the continued registration of boys as they reach 18 years of age. The selective-service act does not provide for the registration of persons as they reach 21 years of age, and therefore this amendment is necessary.

E. H. CROWDER,
Provost Marshal General.

RED CROSS HOME SERVICE

Information for Soldiers' and Sailors' Families, Issued by Department of Civilian Relief.

Where and When and How to Write for Information.

Soldiers' and sailors' families will find the following instructions of use in writing to the various offices in Washington for information concerning their men in the service. It is important that such relatives should know which is the correct office to write to, how to address that office accurately, and what facts to include in the letter so that the information desired may be promptly obtained. It is also important that such relatives should know when to write so that inquiries will not be made prematurely.

Compensation, Insurance, or Burial Expenses.

If an enlisted man dies, his relatives who are entitled to compensation, insurance, or burial expenses, either or all, under the war-risk insurance law, should promptly notify the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance, as follows:

Pvt. JOHN HOWARD SMITH, deceased, April 12, 1918, Serial No. 85634, formerly of Company I, 125th Infantry, American Expeditionary Force.

BUREAU OF WAR-RISK INSURANCE,
Attention of Compensation and Insurance Claims Section, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C.

GENTLEMEN: On or about April 12, 1918, my son, the above-named enlisted man, died in the service. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown Smith, and two children, John Howard Smith, jr., 10 years old, and Elizabeth Smith, 5 years old. Their address is 84 Pine Street, Rockford, Ill.

His father, Joseph Walter Smith, and myself live at 132 Willow Street, Rockford, Ill. We were both dependent upon him for support to the extent of $10 per week jointly for the last three years. He also leaves one brother and two sisters, as follows:

Henry Smith, 43 Platt Street, Rockford, Ill.

Kate Higgins Smith, 132 Willow Street, Rockford, Ill.

Jane Smith Porter (Mrs. William Townsend Porter), 45 Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.

There are no other members of his own immediate family.

Will you please furnish the necessary forms upon which to file claims for compensation, insurance, and burial expenses?

Very truly, yours,
MARY HUNTER SMITH
(Mrs. Joseph Walter Smith),
132 Willow Street, Rockford, Ill.

It should be clearly understood that the inclusion of information concerning members of the family other than the widow, child, dependent mother, or dependent father does not mean that these other persons are entitled to compensation. Information concerning these other persons is included merely because they are potential beneficiaries of any insurance that the enlisted man may have taken out.

Liberty Bonds Subscribed for by Soldier, and Not Delivered.

If a soldier has subscribed for Liberty bonds and has not received them after completing the necessary payments thereon and after sufficient time has elapsed for their distribution, he or anyone on his behalf should write the following letter to the Deposits and Allotments Branch, Central Disbursing Division, Office of the Quartermaster General:

Pvt. JOHN HOWARD SMITH, Serial No. 85634, Company L, 125th Infantry, American Expeditionary Force. Age, 26 years. Entered service, July 30, 1917.

DEPOSITS AND ALLOTMENTS BRANCH,
Central Disbursing Division,
Office of the Quartermaster General,
United States Army, Washington, D. C.

GENTLEMEN: On October 12, 1917, at Camp Meade, Md., the above-named enlisted man subscribed for two bonds of $50 each of the second Liberty loan, through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York City, each to be paid for in 10 instalments of $5, to be deducted monthly from his pay. He was then a private in Company E, 122d Field Artillery. He designated me, his sister, Kate Higgins Smith, of 132 Willow Street, Rockford, Ill., as the person to whom such bonds should be sent. These bonds have not been received, although it is now 10 weeks since payment of the last instalment thereon. Please inform me when they will be delivered to me.

Very truly, yours,
KATE HIGGINS SMITH,
132 Willow Street, Rockford, Ill.

The subscriptions of most soldiers for the second or third Liberty loans were recorded through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York City. In all such cases the above letter should be used. If, however, the soldier subscribed through some local bank, he should take the matter up with that institution.

Do not write such a letter in reference to a bond of the second Liberty loan until after October 1, 1918, nor as to a bond of the third Liberty loan until after March 1, 1919.

No Letter from Enlisted Man Abroad.

If the relatives of a soldier or sailor serving abroad have received no word from him for an unreasonable length of time and desire to inquire as to his welfare, they should write directly to the Bureau of Communication, American Red Cross, as follows:

Pvt. JOHN HOWARD SMITH, Serial No. 85634, Co. L, 125th Infantry, American Expeditionary Forces. Age, 26. Entered service July 30, 1917.

BUREAU OF COMMUNICATION,
American Red Cross, Washington, D. C.

GENTLEMEN: I have received no letter from my son named above, who has been abroad since last May. Can you secure any word for me as to his welfare?

Very truly, yours,
MARY HUNTER SMITH,
(Mrs. Joseph Walter Smith),
132 Willow Street, Rockford, Ill.

Rumors to be Disregarded.

Relatives should not write to the Bureau of Communication on the slightest rumor that their man is wounded, killed, or missing. In most instances such rumors are false, and frequently they have been circulated as enemy propaganda. Except in rare instances, if the man is wounded, killed, or missing, official notification from the War Department will have been promptly sent to the emergency address which he gave. However, if the statement that the man is wounded, killed, or missing comes from an apparently reliable source, a letter should be addressed to the Bureau of Communication.

Enlisted Man Reported Wounded.

If the relatives of an enlisted man have received word that he has been wounded, and they wish to learn further particulars, they should write directly to the Bureau of Communication, American Red Cross, as follows:

Pvt. JOHN HOWARD SMITH, Serial No. 85634, Co. L, 125th Infantry, American Expeditionary Force. Age, 26 years. Entered service July 30, 1917.

BUREAU OF COMMUNICATION,
American Red Cross, Washington, D. C.

GENTLEMEN: I have received official notification from the War Department (or I have been informed from a credible source) that my son, named above, has been wounded. Can you secure for me any further particulars?

Very truly, yours,
MARY HUNTER SMITH,
(Mrs. Joseph Walter Smith),
132 Willow Street, Rockford, Ill.

Enlisted Man Reported Dead.

If the relatives of an enlisted man are notified of his death, they may obtain further particulars as to his death by writing as follows to the Bureau of Communication, American Red Cross:

Pvt. JOHN HOWARD SMITH, Serial No. 85634, Co. L, 125th Infantry, American Expeditionary Force. Age, 26 years. Entered service July 30, 1917.

BUREAU OF COMMUNICATION,
American Red Cross, Washington, D. C.

GENTLEMEN: I have received official notification from the War Department (or I have been informed from a credible source) of the death of my son named above. Can you give me further particulars?

Very truly, yours,
MARY HUNTER SMITH,
(Mrs. Joseph Walter Smith),
132 Willow Street, Rockford, Ill.

EIGHT-HOUR LAW SUSPENDED ON BUTLER BUILDING WORK

EXECUTIVE ORDER.

In order to effect the more expeditious remodeling and extending of the annex to the Butler Building, Washington, D. C., the early completion of which, in connection with the war activities of the Public Health Service, constitutes a national emergency, and by virtue of the provisions of the act of Congress approved March 4, 1917 (39 Stat., 1192), entitled "An act making provisions for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, and for other purposes," whereby it is provided "that in cases of national emergency the President is authorized to suspend provisions of law prohibiting more than eight hours' labor in any one day of persons engaged upon work covered by contracts with the United States; provided, further, that the wages of persons employed upon such contracts shall be computed on a basic day rate of eight hours' work, with overtime rates to be paid for at not less than time and one-half for all hours work in excess of eight hours," I do hereby suspend the provisions of law prohibiting more than eight hours of labor in any one day by persons engaged in the remodeling and extending of said annex to said Butler Building. This order will take effect from and after this date.

METHOD OF INDUCTION.

Procedure for Securing Special Assignment of a Registrant.

General Orders, No. 58:

VI. Paragraph 1, General Orders, No. 161, War Department, 1917, is rescinded and the following is substituted therefor:

When a chief of any staff corps or department of the Army, the Chief of Coast Artillery, the Chief of Field Artillery, or the Director of the Tank Corps desires a registrant inducted into the service for assignment to his particular corps or department, and the Secretary of War has granted authority for such induction, he will make requisition in duplicate, Form 2006, P. M. G. O., on the Provost Marshal General, who will forward it to the local board concerned, and later notify the staff, corps, or department, whether the registrant accepts or declines the service. This order will not be construed as modifying the restrictions of Section III, General Orders, No. 53, War Department, 1918, relative to induction of men for duty in Washington.

STATE COUNCILS OF DEFENSE URGED BY PRESIDENT WILSON AS AID TO U. S. DEPARTMENTS

LETTER TO SECRETARY OF WAR

Economy and Utility Provided by the System in Helping With War Work Pointed Out—Efficiency of Organization Appreciated.

The State councils section of the Council of National Defense authorizes the publication of the following correspondence between the President and Secretary of War Baker:

THE WHITE HOUSE,
Washington, July 30, 1918.

MY DEAR MR. BAKER: I have read with great interest your account of the achievements of the State councils of defense and your general summary of the activities in which they are now engaged. It is a notable record, and I shall be glad to have you express to the State councils my appreciation of the service they have so usefully rendered. I am particularly struck by the value of extending our defense organization into the smallest communities and by the truly democratic character of a national system so organized.

I believe in the soundness of your contention that in the interest of economy and efficiency such machinery as that provided by the State council system for the execution of many kinds of war work should be utilized as far as possible by Federal departments and administrations. May I suggest, therefore, that you communicate to the heads of all such departments and administrations my wish that when they are considering extensions of their organization into the States or new work to be done in the States, they determine carefully whether they can not utilize the State council system, thus rendering unnecessary the creation of new machinery; and that they transmit all requests for action by the State councils through the State councils section of the Council of National Defense?

Cordially and sincerely, yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

HON. N. D. BAKER,
Secretary of War.

Secretary Baker's Letter.

Secretary Baker's letter to the President follows:

COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE,
Washington, July 24, 1918.

MY DEAR MR. PRESIDENT:

As chairman of the Council of National Defense, I beg to report to you the note-

2 SHIPS, 9 SCHOONERS SUNK BY U-BOATS OFF NEW ENGLAND

British and Swedish Steamers Go Down and U. S. Fishing Fleet Is Destroyed.

The Navy Department has received the following reports of submarine activities:

The British steamship Penistone was torpedoed by a submarine at 12.15 p. m. on August 11, 100 miles east of Nantucket, Mass.

A Swedish steamship was reported bombed and sunk at 4.30 p. m. on August 8, about a hundred miles southeast of Nantucket. The crew was rescued by a British vessel.

Fishing Fleet Attacked.

The fishing schooner Helen Hurley has reached an Atlantic port with four survivors from the crew of the fishing schooner Kate Palmer. The crew of the latter reports that a German submarine came to the surface in the middle of a fishing fleet off the Massachusetts coast and sank the Kate Palmer, the Anita May, the Reliance, the Star Buck, the Progress, and four others whose names are unknown.

The survivors of the Kate Palmer were taken aboard the German submarine and held prisoners one hour and then set adrift in a dory.

Total U. S. Loans to Allies Is Now $6,492,040,000

The Treasury Department authorizes the following:

The United States Treasury has extended additional credits of $100,000,000 to France, $9,000,000 to Belgium, and $3,000,000 to Serbia. The total of credits advanced to our associates in the war against Germany is now $6,492,040,000.

500,000 Bayonets, 2,000,000 Army Mess Knives Ordered

The War Department authorizes the following from the Ordnance Department:

The Ordnance Department has placed orders with Landers, Frary & Clark, of New Britain, Conn., for 500,000 bayonets and 2,000,000 Army mess knives. The price for the knives, 10¾ cents, is the lowest ever paid.

106,860 GIVEN FARM WORK.

In the six months from the 1st of February to the 1st of August the Employment Service of the Department of Labor directed to actual employment on the Nation's farms a total of 106,860 permanent farm workers.

"TIME TO HIT HARDEST" SAYS MAJ. GEN. MARCH OF ALLIED VICTORIES; "KEEP ENEMY RUNNING"

FOE NOW "GUESSING"

Still Much Territory to be Gained, However, and None Should be Deceived into Belief that War is Over—Reason for More U. S. Man Power—Location of American Divisions and Commanders Discussed in Press Interview.

Press interview by Gen. March August 10, 1918:

Surveying the battle line broadly you see that the line along the Vesle has remained just as it was the last time I talked to you. There have been a number of places where we have been nibbling along the river front acquiring a foothold on the northern bank, but have not yet attempted to go up the slopes on the north side where German intrenchments are supposed to be. That part of the line has remained stationary. As the line has become stationary Foch has kept up his pressure on the enemy, working on the perfectly sound principle that when you get an enemy going you keep him going; never give him a chance to recuperate or think it over; keep on hitting him.

British and French Attack.

On August 8 a combined British and French force, commanded by Field Marshal Haig, attacked on a front of 20 miles east of Amiens. This terrain is flat, almost level, and while some time ago there were small clumps of woods, all of those undoubtedly had been leveled long ago by artillery fire, so we can count that country as practically level with very little natural impediment to an advance. There are a few valleys perpendicular to the front of our advancing armies instead of parallel to it, so that the advancing troops can go right throught the valleys.

Enemy Taken by Surprise.

The enemy were apparently taken by surprise and made no essential resistance in the center, confining their strong resistance to the flanks. They made a counter attack toward the north of this advance, and retook part of the ground that had first been taken by the British. Hitting the big salient there on a 13-mile front we pushed it in an average of 8 miles, and reduced it from an outer salient to an inner salient. That gives us a salient somewhat corresponding to the Marne salient and places the enemy again in a bad position. The advance of the British and French at this point comes up so that they are getting into control, or threatening, the railroad line of communications which at that point runs up from the Montdidier sector to Chaulnes.

On the Flanders Salient.

On the Flanders salient the enemy, on August 9, was withdrawing on southern sector of the salient, south of Merville, and British occupied that territory. General effect of these movements is straightening out of the line everywhere. Have not yet, of course, gotten back to the original Hidenburg line of defense where the German began his advances this year. We still have some territory to gain, so when statements appear in the papers that indicate the war is over at that point, discourage it. This is the time for the greatest effort; keep the enemy running. That is the reason the United States is being called upon for increased man power; that is the reason we want the age limits of the draft both lowered and raised to get more men. It is no time now to talk about the war being over. It is the time to hit him hard. The greatest advantage of this whole thing has been the change of the allies from the defensive to the offensive, which is a great military asset. We have the enemy guessing now instead of guessing curselves.

Reads Confidential Cablegram.

Here is a confidential cablegram which I am going to read to you describing the combined French and English advance south of Albert:

"Allied troops found little opposition and have captured more prisoners than is possible for them to handle, including a German general and his staff, showing elements of surprise of attack. British report their prison camps back of Amiens so full that it is impossible to hold any more. Allies have captured all the artillery in this sector."

Questions and Answers.

Question: Can you identify any American units with the British advance?

Answer: No, we have not gotten any report. As soon as it is indicated what American troops are in there I will give it to you.

Question: Is it possible to disclose anything regarding the location of the 29th and 79th Divisions?

Answer: The 29th Division was last reported in Alsace sector, southeast of Epinal. The 79th Division is still in the training area.

Question: Has the 85th Division arrived overseas?

Answer: That division is just arriving. The infantry has all gotten in, but some of the artillery has not yet landed.

The Rainbow Division.

Question: Please give a brief résumé of the principal actions in which the Rainbow Division has participated.

Answer: The Rainbow Division had its combat training in the Lorraine sector north of Luneville. It left that position to arrive east of Rheims, where on July 15 it helped break the main German attack. When the French-American counteroffensive was launched on the Marne salient the division appeared there shortly in relief of other units. Our reports indicate the following: "In eight days of battle the 42d Division has forced the passage of the Ourcq, taken prisoners from six enemy divisions, met, routed, decimated a crack division of the Prussian Guards, a Bavarian division, and one other division, and driven back the enemy's lines for 16 kilometers.

The Twenty-seventh Division.

Question. Can you say anything about the Twenty-seventh Division?

Answer. The division is commanded by Maj. Gen. O'Ryan, and when last reported was with the British on the Flanders front.

Question. You spoke of the railroad line of communication. From what point does that run?

Answer. From Chaulnes, supplying the troops in the Mondidier region. Of course if the German supplies can not get down there it will force the withdrawal of troops from this sector.

Strength of a Division.

Question. You told the Senate Committee that the strength of a division was 40,000, and you have told us that it was 45,000. Has there been a change?

Answer. The strength of a division is roughly 40,000. When you count in corps troops and army troops in order to get a multiplier for the whole army, the whole number is something like 45,000.

President Wilson Issues An Appeal to all Persons Engaged in Coal Mining Asking New Effort to Increase Output

The President has issued the following appeal:

To All Those Engaged in Coal Mining:

The existing scarcity of coal is creating a grave danger—in fact, the most serious which confronts us—and calls for prompt and vigorous action on the part of both operators and miners. Without an adequate supply our war program will be retarded; the effectiveness of our fighting forces in France will be lessened; the lives of our soldiers will be unnecessarily endangered and their hardships increased, and there will be much suffering in many homes throughout the country during the coming winter.

Let Every Man and Boy Do Best.

I am well aware that your ranks have been seriously depleted by the draft, by voluntary enlistment, and by the demands of other essential industries. This handicap can be overcome, however, and sufficent coal can be mined in spite of it if every one connected with the industry, from the highest official to the youngest boy, will give his best work each day for the full number of work hours. The operators must be zealous as never before to bring about the highest efficiency of management, to establish the best possible working conditions, and to accord fair treatment to everybody, so that the opportunity to work at his best may be accorded every workman. The miners should report for work every day, unless prevented by unavoidable causes, and should not only stay in the mines the full time, but also see to it that they get more coal than ever before.

Lessening Numbers by Draft.

The other workers in and about the mines should work as regularly and faithfully so that the work of the miner may not be retarded in any way. This will be especially necessary from this time forward, for your numbers may be further lessened by the draft, which will induct into the Army your fair share of those not essential to industry. Those who are drafted but who are essential will be given deferred classification, and it is their patriotic duty to accept it. And it is the patriotic duty of their friends and neighbors to hold them in high regard for doing so. The only worker who deserves the condemnation of his community is the one who fails to give his best in this crisis; not the one who accepts deferred classification and works regularly and diligently to increase the coal output. A great task is to be performed.

Cooperation to Win.

The operators and their staffs alone can not do it, nor can the mine workers alone do it; but both parties, working hand in hand with a grim determination to rid the country of its greatest obstacle to winning the war, can do it. It is with full confidence that I call upon you to assume the burden of producing an ample supply of coal. You will, I am sure, accept this burden and will successfully carry it through and in so doing you will be performing a service just as worthy as service in the trenches, and will win the applause and gratitude of the whole nation.

WOODROW WILSON.

THE WHITE HOUSE, 9 August, 1918.

ASSIGNED TO WASHINGTON.

Special Orders, No. 179:

177. Capt. Samuel K. Martin, Quartermaster Reserve Corps, is relieved from his present duties and will proceed to Washington, D. C., and report in person to the Acting Quartermaster General for duty in his office.

Save for the country's sake.

FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD'S WEEKLY BANK STATEMENT

Substantial gains in the holdings of discounted paper and in note circulation are indicated in the Federal Reserve Board's weekly bank statement issued as at close of business on August 9, 1918.

Investments.—Total discounts on hand show an increase for the week of 61.6 millions, largely at the New York, Philadelphia, Dallas, and San Francisco banks. For the Minneapolis and Kansas City banks a considerable reduction in discounted paper on hand is shown, mainly under the head of six-month agricultural and live-stock paper. War paper—i. e., member banks' notes secured by United States war obligations and customers' paper similarly secured—increased from 685.9 to 761.6 millions and constitutes 57.9 per cent of the total discounts as against 54 per cent the week before. Acceptances on hand fell off 0.6 millions, the three Eastern banks reporting substantial liquidation of this class of paper. Following redemption of the 1908–1918 bonds, the United States bond holdings of the banks show a further reduction of 1.3 millions. Total earning assets show an increase for the week of 59.5 millions.

Government Deposits Increase.

Deposits.—Government deposits increased 18.7 millions, Chicago reporting the largest gain for the week. Members' reserve deposits show a decline of 2.8 millions, while net deposits went up about 17.5 millions.

Reserves.—Considerable shifting of reserves through the gold settlement fund is noted, the New York and San Francisco banks reporting the largest reductions in reserves. Gold reserves show a gain of 9.4 millions and total reserves a gain of 9.6 millions. Mainly as the result of the large increase in note circulation, the ratio of reserves to aggregate net deposit and Federal reserve note liabilities shows a decline from 58.7 to 57.9 per cent. The ratio of gold to Federal reserve notes in circulation after setting aside 35 per cent against net deposits, shown for the first time in the present statement, works out 76.3 per cent, compared with 78.1 per cent the week before.

Note circulation.—During the week the agents issued a total of 60.3 millions of Federal reserve notes. The banks report a total Federal reserve note circulation of 1,955.3 millions, a gain of 48.8 millions for the week, also an increase of 2.2 millions in their aggregate liability on Federal reserve bank notes in circulation.

Capital.—An increase of $358,000 in paid-in capital is due primarily to payment for Federal reserve bank stock by newly admitted banks in the Philadelphia, Cleveland, and Chicago districts.

Condition of Member Banks, August 2.

Moderate gains for the week in demand deposits and in total investments are indicated by the statement of condition on August 2 of 719 member banks in leading cities.

United States securities on hand decreased about 15.5 millions, a like reduction being shown for United States bonds other than circulation bonds. Holdings of certificates of indebtedness increased about 6.7 millions, a slightly larger gain being shown for the central reserve city banks. Loans secured by United States war obligations show a gain of 12.7 millions for all reporting banks and a gain of 19.4 millions for the central reserve city banks. Other loans and investments show a gain of 67.2 millions, the aggregate increase for the banks in the three central reserve cities being nearly as large. For all reporting banks the ratio of United States war obligations and loans secured by such obligations remains unchanged at 14.6 per cent, and the same is true of the ratio of 16.2 per cent for the central reserve city banks.

A gain of 35.8 millions in Government deposits by the banks outside the central reserve cities is largly offset by net withdrawals of 29.8 millions from the banks in these three cities. Net demand deposits of all reporting banks went up 60.3 millions, the gain at the central reserve city banks being somewhat larger. Total time deposits show a gain of 13.2 millions, larger gains at reserve city banks being offset to some extent by losses under this head shown for the country banks. Total reserves fell off over 8 millions, and cash in vault about 6.4 millions.

Investments and Deposits.

For all reporting banks the ratio of investments to deposits shows a slight decline from 125 to 124.8 per cent, while for the central reserve city banks, owing to the relatively larger gain in investments, a rise in this ratio from 114.2 to 115.0 per cent is noted. The ratio of aggregate reserve and cash to total deposits declined from 14.8 to 14.6 per cent for all reporting banks, and from 15.9 to 15.6 per cent for banks in the central reserve cities. Aggregate excess reserves show a further decrease from 96.5 to 79.6 millions. For the central reserve city banks a decrease of this item from 78.6 to 64.9 millions is noted.

PLANS FOR RELINING OF HEAVY RAILROAD GUNS IN USE BY AMERICAN FORCES ABROAD IS APPROVED BY THE CHIEF OF ORDNANCE

The War Department authorizes the following from the Ordnance Department:

The Chief of Ordnance has approved plans for the manufacture of the machine-tool equipment which the United States Government will install in France for the relining of the heavy railroad guns in use by the American forces.

The project for this relining plant is one of the largest undertaken by the Ordnance Department, and calls for the expenditure of between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000. In size it will be comparable to the Krupp Works at Essen, Germany. The machine tools alone will cost between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000, and will consist of gun-boring lathes, engine lathes, rifling machines, and grinders.

Cost of Giant Planers.

A large number of these gun-boring lathes are designed for a 102-inch swing. To make these lathes there is under construction at one of the machine tool factories in this country a giant planer, the base of which is so long that the curvature of the earth has to be taken into consideration in building it. It is 500 feet long—nearly the length of the Washington Monument or the battleship North Dakota. This planer alone is to cost $450,000, and the lathes it will help make will approximate, in the aggregate, $6,500,000. Prior to the war the longest planer ever built was not more than 80 feet. So long a stretch of ground will this greater one cover, that in order that its two ends might be in perfect alignment, a correction had to be made in the design to take care of the earth's curvature.

Plant to Be Erected In France.

In addition to the machine tool equipment required, the relining plant in France will include extensive shrinkage pits, giant 240-ton traveling cranes, an electrical generating plant of several thousand kilowatt capacity, a large battery of boilers to generate horsepower required in operating the factory, and suitable buildings to house the entire establishment.

Engineering work by the Ordnance Department in the development of the entire project was completed in less than 30 days after its inception. In that period the plans have been reviewed and approved by the Chief of Ordnance, the project has been passed by the Clearance Committee of the War Industries Board, negotiations have been concluded with machine tool builders, and procurement orders have actually been issued for production of the gun-boring lathes of various types required.

Important Salvage Operations.

The relining of big guns is one of the biggest salvage operations in the war. Several times the value of these big guns is saved by this process. Owing to the tremendous heat generated by the charge when the big guns are fired, their accuracy can not be assured after a few hundred shots unless they are relined, notwithstanding the fact that all other parts except the lining are practically as good as new.

When a gun is brought into the shop to be relined, the old lining is first bored out. The jacket is then heated, a new lining inserted, and the gun then dipped into a shrinkage pit, which shrinks the jacket tightly around the new lining. This process may be repeated several times with every gun.

BRITISH IMPORT PROHIBITIONS.

Articles Placed on the Embargo List for the United Kingdom.

Consul General Skinner, at London, cables:

The importation of the following articles into the United Kingdom is prohibited: Canes of all descriptions, unmanufactured or manufactured, not otherwise prohibited; crabs, prawns, shrimps, and oysters, canned; red prussiate of potash.—Commerce Reports.

Visits Battlefield Where U. S. Marines Won Honors

Secretary Daniels has received from Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt a cablegram telling of his visit to the front where the Marines have been in action. Mr. Roosevelt says:

"Have returned to Paris from a visit to Marine brigade. American and French commanders equally enthusiastic over their magnificent showing. Have also visited Belleau Wood, a most difficult position which Marines held against picked German troops and finally cleared. This wood has been renamed Bois de la Brigade de Marines on French maps."

American Official Communiques on Operations of U. S. Forces

The following is authorized by the Secretary of War:

American Official Communique No. 87.

HEADQUARTERS, AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES, August 9, 1918.

Section A.—Along the Vesle the situation is unchanged.

American Official Communique No. 88.

HEADQUARTERS, AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES, August 10, 1918.

Section A.—There is nothing of importance to report from the sector occupied by our troops.

Section B.—There is nothing to report in this section.

American Official Communique No. 89.

HEADQUARTERS, AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES, August 11, 1918.

Section A.—Aside from the usual artillery activity along the Vesle, the day passed quietly in the sectors occupied by our troops.

ORDERED TO CAMP FUNSTON.

Special Orders, No. 179:

174. Col. William H. Burt, Field Artillery, is relieved from assignment to the 4th Field Artillery, Camp Shelby, Miss., and will proceed without delay to Camp Funston, Kans., for assignment to duty with the 28th Field Artillery.

Private Munitions Plants to Fly Special Flag

The War Department authorizes the following from the Ordnance Department:

Every private factory in the United States devoting more than 50 per cent of its total output to ordnance material, is to have the privilege of flying a specially designed flag. Orders to this effect have been issued by Maj. Gen. C. C. Williams, United States Army, and managers of the various ordnance production districts have been requested to inform the Ordnance Department at Washington of the number of plants affected. Replies to this inquiry are beginning to be received.

The flag measures 4 feet by 6 feet. Around the four sides is a red border. Within this border are three broad panels, the center one blue and the outer ones white. In the middle of the center panel of blue there is a design in white of the bursting bomb, insignia of the Ordnance Service.

Physicians Asked to Enroll for Army and Navy

The following statement is authorized by the War and Navy Departments:

Orders issued by the War and Navy Departments on August 8 suspending further volunteering and the receipt of candidates for officers' training camps from civil life do not apply to the enrollment of physicians in the Medical Reserve Corps of the Army and in the reserve force of the Navy.

It is the desire of both departments that the enrollment of physicians should continue as actively as before so that the needs of both services may be effectively met.

Orders Additional Cars on C. and O. Trains

The United States Railroad Administration issues the following:

Director General McAdoo went over the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad on an inspection tour Friday and, seeing the crowded condition of the passenger trains, has directed Federal Manager Stevens to give the public the necessary service by putting on additional cars or running a second section of all trains that are crowded and do not afford the traveling public the necessary facilities. This additional service is to be made effective immediately.

England Lifts Restriction on Consumption of Bacon

Exports of beef from the United States during the month of June totaled 92,173,000 pounds, of which 95 per cent went to the United Kingdom, France, England, and Belgium. The monthly average of beef exports for the three years preceding the war was 1,066,000 pounds.

Pork exports for June totaled 169,331,000 pounds, of which 83.5 per cent went to the four allies. The average monthly exportations of pork for the three years preceding the war were 41,531,567 pounds.

The amount of pork products received in England has enabled that country to lift the restrictions on the consumption of bacon.

PRECIOUS STONES FROM FRANCE.

Export Permission is Given Without Special Authorization.

The American Consul General at Paris cables:

By a decree of the Minister of Finance dated July 20, permission is given for the exportation, reexportation, etc., without special authorization, of cut artificial precious stones to the United Kingdom, uninvaded portion of Belgium, Italy, and countries outside of Europe.—Commerce Reports.

The Sugar Situation

America, which made exports of 140,000,000 bushels of wheat in the closing crop year, where less than 20,000,000 bushels surplus appeared, is called upon now to exercise like virtue with sugar.

The burden of maintaining allied supplies falls on our resources.

No sugar comes from central Europe, none from Java; from Hawaii and West Indies less than usual.

French sugar territory is overrun by German armies; French sugar mills are taken and destroyed.

Submarine sinkings and losses by battle have cost us great stores; labor shortage makes inroads on production.

For England the allowance is 2 pounds of sugar a month; for France, 1 pound; for Italy, 1 pound. America seeks to share equally with all who sit at the common table, joined in the common defense.

JEWISH HOLIDAYS IN ARMY.

Orders for Furloughs on New Year and Day of Atonement.

The War Department authorizes the following:

JULY 22, 1918.

MY DEAR COL. CUTLER: Referring to your telegram of July 12, from the Jewish Welfare Board, concerning furloughs to observe the Jewish New Year and Day of Atonement, I beg to inform you that the following letter of instructions has been sent out to all department and division commanders and commanding generals of the Philippines, Porto Rico, Panama, and also to the commanding general, American Expeditionary Forces, France:

"The Secretary of War desires that furloughs be granted to the members of the Jewish faith for the New Year from noon September 6 to the morning of September 9, and for the Day of Atonement from noon of September 14 to the morning of September 17, if this does not interfere with the public service. If military necessity prevents granting furloughs, provision should be made for them to hold divine services wherever possible on days mentioned."

Very sincerely, yours,

F. P. KEPPEL,
Third Assistant Secretary of War.

Col. HARRY CUTLER,
War Department, Nineteenth and G Streets, Washington, D. C.

PROF. J. T. YOUNG APPOINTED.

The Department of Labor authorizes the following: Prof. James T. Young, of the University of Pennsylvania, has been appointed to the statistical investigating staff of the Bureau of Industrial Housing and Transportation. Prof. Young, who was for several years the dean of the Wharton School of Finance and Economics, is an authority on labor questions, and will give his attention especially to the determination of essential as distinguished from nonessential industries, in so far as they affect the housing program.

NATIONAL BANK EARNINGS BIG AND NO FAILURES THIS YEAR

The Comptroller of the Currency issues the following:

As a result of sounder and more conservative methods of banking, and a stricter observance of the provisions of the national bank act and the regulations of the Comptroller's Office; and also because of the admirable operation of the Federal reserve act, and the closer supervision and more rigid examination by the national bank examining force, the national banks of the United States are to-day being administered more satisfactorily and more successfully than ever before.

Returns Not Completed.

The compilation of the returns for the past six months will not be finished for several weeks; but the analysis recently completed of earnings reports of the national banks for the six months ending January 1, 1918, shows gross profits for that period of $392,742,000, an increase over the corresponding six months in the previous year of $62,448,000, while their net profits for the same six months amounted to approximately $100,000,000, or nearly 20 per cent per annum on the aggregate capital stock of all national banks—excelling all previous records. These large earnings have also been coincident with a radical reduction in interest rates in all parts of the country and the practical extinction of the barbarous usury which until recently was being charged by some banks in certain sections.

For the first seven months of 1918 there has been no failure of any national bank in any one of our 48 States. Never before in the history of the national banks since 1870 (with the single exception of the year 1881) has there been such immunity from failures.

During these same seven months of 1918 22 State banks and trust companies in 14 different States have failed.

Applications for Charters.

During the past seven months 160 applications for charters for new national banks have been received, calling for a capital of $9,090,000. In the same period 88 new charters have been granted by the comptroller's office, with a capital of $9,955,000, and 15 applications for charters for new national banks have been refused. One hundred and seventy-five applications for charters for new national banks are still pending.

One hundred and fifteen national banks, in the seven months ending August 1, 1918, increased their capital by the sum of $9,635,000. In the same period only three national banks reduced their capital—the aggregate amount of these reductions was $175,000.

EXPORTS TO WEST AFRICAN BRITISH AND FRENCH COLONIES

The War Trade Board issues the following:

The War Trade Board, after consultation with the British and French colonial governments affected, announce in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 188) that arrangements have been consummated, effective on and after September 1, 1918, whereby licenses will be issued for the exportation of a limited quantity of foodstuffs, fodders, and feeds to the following British and French West African colonies: Gambia, Gold Coast, Nigeria, Sierra Leone, Togoland, Dahomey, Ivory Coast, French Congo, French Guinea, and Senegal.

Prospective importers in these colonies will be required to obtain the approval of the governors of their respective colonies for all orders for foodstuffs, fodders, and feeds.

Rules for Exporters.

Exporters in the United States, making application for export licenses for the shipment of foodstuffs, fodders, and feeds, will be required, on and after September 1, 1918, to attach Supplemental Information Sheet X–117 to the regular Application Form X, and state thereon that they hold a bona fide firm order, dated subsequent to July 1, 1918, from the consignee named in the application for the quantity of the commodity specified thereon, and that such order has been duly approved by the governor of the colony of destination named in the application.

No licenses to export the following foodstuffs to British and French West African colonies will be granted by the War Trade Board until September 1, 1918: Wheat flour, canned beef, pickled beef, other beef, canned pork, pickled pork, oleomargarine, lard compound, cottonseed oil, and sugar.

All applications now on file with the War Trade Board for licenses to export the commodities mentioned in the foregoing list will be canceled forthwith and applicants will be duly notified of such cancellation. New applications for such licenses should not be filed until September 1, 1918. Prior to September 1, 1918, applications for licenses to export commodities other than those mentioned in the list set out above may be filed as heretofore and the same will be considered without regard to the new procedure described above. On and after September 1, 1918, this procedure becomes operative with respect to all applications to export foodstuffs, fodders, and feeds to these colonies.

Committee to Establish Prices to Rice Growers

The Food Administration issues the following:

Appointment of a committee to assist in carrying out the recent agreements between the Food Administration and rice millers is announced by the Food Administration.

The main provisions of the agreement are that the millers shall pay definite prices to the growers for rough rice and shall not sell the clean rice at more than prices named in the contracts, ranging from 7⅞ cents a pound for choice Japan to 9½ cents for fancy Honduras.

Additions and Modifications Made to the Export Conservation List

The War Trade Board issues the following:

The War Trade Board announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 190) the addition of the following commodities to the export conservation list, effective August 12, 1918:

Chains, anchor.
Cloth, as follows: Press, made of human hair and all animal hairs.
Electrotypes (individual licenses not required to Canada and Newfoundland).
Hair, as follows:
Horse, manufactures of.
Human, manufactures of.
Human, raw.
Press cloths made of human hair and all animal hairs.
Horse hair, manufactures of.
Human hair, as follows:
Manufactures of.
Raw.
Linen and articles manufactured therefrom, X-2.
Press cloths made of human hair and all animal hairs.

The modification to the export conservation list, as shown below, has been adopted, also effective August 12, 1918. Item listed in column 1 includes the new modification and should be substituted for the corresponding item in column 2:

COLUMN 1. EFFECTIVE AUGUST 12, 1918.	COLUMN 2. EXPORT CONSERVATION LIST, JULY 16, 1918.
Instruments as follows: Surgical (individual licenses not required to Canada and Newfoundland when consigned to hospitals and Government officials).	Instruments, surgical.

All Europe Expected to Watch the Result of Fourth Liberty Loan

The Treasury Department authorizes the following:

The campaign for the Fourth Liberty Loan will begin September 28 and close October 19. The result of the loan will be watched with keen interest in Europe, not only by our associates in the war against the Teutonic powers but by our enemies. It will be regarded by them as a measure of the American people's support of the war.

The Germans know full well the tremendous weight and significance of popular support of the war, of the people at home backing up the Army in the field. As the loan succeeds our enemies will sorrow; as it falls short they will rejoice. Every dollar subscribed will help and encourage the American soldiers and hurt and depress the enemies of America.

The loan will be a test of the loyalty and willingness of the people of the United States to make sacrifices compared with the willingness of our soldiers to do their part. There must be and will be no failure by the people to measure up to the courage and devotion of our men in Europe. Many of them have given up their lives; shall we at home withhold our money? Shall we spare our dollars while they spare not their very lives?

CANCELS RAINCOAT CONTRACTS OF ALL INDICTED MAKERS

War Department Also Orders Seizure of Finished Goods and Raw Materials.

The War Department authorizes the following:

Brig. Gen. R. E. Wood, the Acting Quartermaster General, has issued instructions to cancel immediately all contracts now outstanding for raincoats with the firms, companies, corporations, and individuals who or whose representatives have been indicted in connection with alleged fraud, bribery, and corruption with regard to the selling of raincoats to the War Department.

The instructions also direct the commandeering in the hands of all such persons, whose contracts are canceled, their existing supplies of raw materials, partly manufactured materials, and completed raincoats. All raincoats so commandeered are to be inspected. Those which are up to specifications are to be put into stock, and those which are rejected are to be held on account of the contractor from whom they were taken.

New contracts will be let to companies and individuals not involved in these frauds, so as to increase the supply of raincoats until the needed supply is obtained.

BOARD OF OFFICERS CALLED.

Special orders No. 168:

133. A board of officers to consist of—Col. Frank D. Wickham, National Army; Col. George J. Holden, National Army; Lieut. Col. Robert O. Ragsdale, National Army; Lieut. Col. Robert M. Barton, National Army, and Maj. Karl S. Bradford, National Army, is appointed to meet at Camp Hancock, Augusta, Ga., at the call of the senior member of the board, under the provisions of section 9, Bulletin No. 32, War Department, 1917, for the purpose of examining into and reporting upon the capacity, qualifications, conduct, and efficiency of such officers as may be ordered to appear before the board.

COTTONSEED INDUSTRY NEEDS ARE DISCUSSED BY DEALERS

The United States Food Administration issues the following:

Costs of doing business and general conditions in their industry were discussed recently by dealers in cotton seed for planting purposes in a conference with members of the Department of Agriculture and Food Administration.

It was the consensus of opinion among the dealers present that costs had appreciably increased and that the margin of profit allowed dealers in milling seed by recent Food Administration regulations, $3 per ton, would not be adequate for the seedsmen.

Difficulties of estimate arose from the fact that these dealers handle other seed than cotton. The Food Administration has the plea for an increased margin under advisement and will make an announcement soon.

Among Those at Conference.

The attendance was lighter than expected, largely because the hot weather made travel uncomfortable. Those present were: Henry M. Ward, Richmond, Va.; Lea Beaty, Lockhart, Tex.; N. L. Willet, Augusta, Ga.; L. Harry Mixson, Charleston, S. C.; A. L. Wiggins, Hartsville, S. C.; B. F. Summerour, Duluth, Ga.; C. E. Schuster, Waxahachie, Tex.; W. A. Wyatt, jr., Raleigh, N. C.; H. G. Hastings, Atlanta, Ga.; A. M. Ferguson, Sherman, Tex.; Frank W. Bolgiano, Washington, D. C.; Ed Kasch, San Marcus, Tex.; W. A. Wheeler, George C. Edler, J. E. Barr, R. A. Oakley, and J. A. Evans, Department of Agriculture; Dr. G. H. Denny, T. F. Justiss, and S. J. Cassells, of the Food Administration.

American Firms Apply to Use German Patents

The Federal Trade Commission issues the following:

Applications for licenses to use patents they claim are enemy owned or controlled have been filed with the Federal Trade Commission by the following American firms:

National Aniline & Chemical Co., New York City, seeking a dye patent; and the E. C. Klipstein & Sons Co., New York City, seeking two tanning process patents.

PRESIDENT URGES STATE DEFENSE COUNCILS AS AID TO DEPARTMENTS AND WAR COMMISSIONS

worthy accomplishments of the State councils of defense in the 48 States of the Union, and to indicate the war activities for which they seem to me to be peculiarly fitted and peculiarly responsible, and to ask your advice and assistance in a matter vital to their future effectiveness.

The State councils of defense, as you are well aware, were instituted at the suggestion of the Council of National Defense shortly after we entered the war. Almost from the day of their organization they took a prominent part in recruiting our armed forces. Since the early months of the great struggle they have rendered particularly valuable service on behalf of the Department of Agriculture in increasing the production of foodstuffs. Before the creation of the United States Food Administration they led the national campaign for food conservation. Most of them took a leading part in the institution of home guards to take the place of the federalized militia. They met many another State emergency by prompt local action. As time went on, in the natural course of events many of the fields of action which they had occupied were officially taken over by especially created Federal administrations. But new problems constantly arose and the work of the State councils, instead of diminishing, has notably increased in scope and in significance.

Value Rapidly Expanded.

To accomplish this work they have built up an organization uniquely suited to its purpose. Every State council of defense has active county, or equivalent, councils of defense under it, while in nearly every State the organization of community councils in the school districts, bringing the Government to the people and the people to the Government, is progressing rapidly.

Through their speakers, their war conferences, their contact with the press, and their contact with the people themselves through their community councils, the State councils are now in a special sense the guardians of civilian morale in each State, carrying on a work of education and information which we look to see continued and strengthened, in order that the will to win and the knowledge of how to make that will effective may be everybody's possession throughout the war, in the dark hours of trial as well as in the hour of victory.

In States with a considerable population of foreign origin, the State councils of defense are leaders in the work of Americanization, establishing war information bureaus, correlating existing Americanization agencies, increasing as far as possible the educational facilities available to the foreign-born, and seeing that such facilities are used.

Assistance to Draft Men.

The State councils are engaged in preparing the young men of the country for the high duty of selective service, advising and informing them in particular upon the adjustment of their legal affairs and upon military conditions and requirements and social hygiene.

They are bringing their great influence to bear on behalf of economy and thrift throughout the country. It is also their special task, in the interest of economy, to supervise the solicitation of funds for war relief by voluntary agencies, and to coordinate the efforts of these agencies, seeing that they work harmoniously and to a common purpose, and determining what agencies shall be approved and what discouraged.

They act also as the State representatives of the Highways Transport Committee of the Council of National Defense in the increasingly important work of extending and facilitating motor-truck transportation, in order to reduce the tremendous burden on our railroads and to stimulate the production of food by providing means of transporting it to market.

Notable Health Work.

In addition, they are doing notable work in connection with public health, in connection with vocational education, and in studying and assisting in the solution of the difficult housing and rent-profiteering problems which the war has brought to many a locality.

Last, but far from least, their ramifying organization enables them to play a valuable part in the practical execution of the policies of the Department of Agriculture, the Food Administration, the Fuel Administration, the Labor Department, the Shipping Board, and the other Federal agencies which are extended into the States. We expect the State representatives of these Federal agencies to feel in the future, as they have been able to feel in the past, that the organization of the State Council of Defense is their ready right hand. Most of the State councils are incidentally performing the special service of bringing these Federal representatives together for frequent and regular consultation, and in most of the States these Federal representatives are actually members of the councils of defense.

These, in general terms, are the broad lines upon which the State councils are now acting, and I have said nothing of the local industrial and social emergencies which it is their special province to meet by local action.

Valuable to Departments.

The existence of this great national system, valuable for each and every Government department, makes, of course, for economy of effort and renders unnecessary the creation of much local Federal machinery which would otherwise have to be set up for the performance of specific tasks.

May I suggest, then, that you ask all Federal departments, administrations, and commissions, when planning new work or extension of their organizations, to consider carefully the possibility of using the State-council system so as to prevent duplication. A better understanding on this point throughout Washington would, I think, make for the general efficiency of the war machine.

Furthermore, will you not remind the heads of all Federal departments, administrations, and commissions that all requests and suggestions for work on the part of the State councils should be submitted through the State Councils Section of the Council of National Defense? This section has attained a strong position as the agency to which the State councils look for authority and guidance in the programs committed to them for execution. It is clear that in the interest of efficiency all requests for action from the Federal Government should go to them through this single channel. In the past Federal authorities have not infrequently caused confusion by going directly to the State councils with recommendations, sometimes with conflicting recommendations. I believe a word from you would prevent such misunderstandings in the future.

It is difficult to estimate the importance of the service rendered, since our entrance into the war, by these State councils, their county councils, and the multitude of workers banded together under them, whom we estimate to number at least 1,000,000. I feel sure that you, as their commander in chief, will be proud of their unique contribution in the war and will use your authority to broaden the scope of their activities as conditions permit, so that they may go on to still greater achievements.

Very sincerely, yours,

NEWTON D. BAKER,
Secretary of War and Chairman Council of National Defense.

WAR-SAVINGS SERVICE

The Government wishes to enlist every man, woman, and child of the Nation in war-savings service. When an individual buys war-savings stamps he enlists in the production division of the Nation, thereby supporting and backing up the fighting division which is in France and on the seas.

Dental Equipment Given by Red Cross

The American Red Cross issues the following:

Authority has been voted by the War Council to the Red Cross Department of Supplies to purchase twenty-five sets of standardized dental equipment, at a cost of $33,750. Ten of these sets are to be given to dentists now on requisition for France, five additional sets are to be held in reserve for immediate delivery, and the remaining ten sets are to be purchased from time to time to replenish the reserve.

ITALIAN JOURNALISTS HERE ON AN OFFICIAL MISSION

The eight members of the official mission of Italian journalists to the United States, who are in the United States to gain first-hand impressions and information of the war activities of America, reached Washington Friday night from Philadelphia. Saturday morning the party was formally presented to the Italian Ambassador at the Embassy, and then paid an official visit to Capt. Guiseppe Bevione, Chief of Military Aeronautics of the Italian War Mission. Later a luncheon was given in their honor by the Italian Ambassador, Count de Cellere. Members of the press were present, and the Committee on Public Information, at whose invitation the mission is visiting America, was represented by Edgar Sisson.

To Remain Several Days.

The Italian editors will remain in Washington for several days in order to meet the President, the Secretary of State, and other Government officials here. To-day George Creel, Chairman of the Committee on Public Information, entertained the mission.

The mission has started on its swing across the country, during which it will visit the great industrial centers and the scenes of the Nation's leading war work shops, including the shipyards of the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, the munitions plants, and the camps and cantonments. Throughout their tour of the United States the mission will be the guests of the Committee on Public Information, with Robert R. Whiting acting as host. The visiting newspaper men are: Antonio Agresti, Paolo Cappa, Aldo Cassuto, Franco Raineri, Orazio Pedrazzi, Leonardo Vitetti, and Pietro Solari. The members of the mission were chosen by the press associations of Italy, the names being later approved by the Italian Government.

A fortnight ago the Italian journalists arrived in New York, where they were formally entertained by Mayor Hylan and also the Roman Legion of America. Last Wednesday the party visited the Newark Bay Submarine Boat Co., and then went to Philadelphia, where they were again formally entertained. Friday the editors inspected the Bethlehem Steel Works. The party, while in Philadelphia, also made a tour through the Hog Island shipyards.

Proposal to Purchase New Zealand Wool Clip

Consul General Alfred A. Winslow, at Auckland, reports:

The New Zealand Government announces that the British Government had advised the governor general that it is proposed to purchase the New Zealand wool clip for this season and until one year after the close of hostilities at the same prices as were paid during the past two seasons.

The payment for the wool is to be made by the British Government on the fourteenth day after valuation has been made by the official valuers in this country, and all shipping expenses are to be borne by the British Government thereafter.—Commerce Reports.

U-BOAT STOPS U. S. SCHOONER OFF HATTERAS; TAKES STORES

The Navy Department is informed that a British steamer has arrived at Hampton Roads with the captain and crew of the American schooner Stanley M. Seaman, which was stopped by a submarine at 11.30 a. m., August 5, about 100 miles east of Cape Hatteras. The captain and crew of the Seaman were picked up by the steamer on August 8.

The captain of the schooner were ordered to leave the vessel and he put off in a small boat. When he last saw the submarine, the captain reported she was tied up alongside the schooner taking on stores. Before the captain left the schooner he was asked if he had any gasoline. He had no gasoline in the cargo.

NAVAL CASUALTIES

The Navy Department reports the following casualties:

John Thomas Joseph Gillespie, seaman, died on board the U. S. S. Alabama, August 8, as result of injury. Mother, Mrs. Mary E. Gillespie, 2231 Perry Avenue, Kansas City, Mo.

Stanley Elliott Signer, landsman or yeoman, United States Naval Reserve Force, drowned August 4 at Great Lakes, Ill. Father, Charles B. Signer, 6809 Union Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Five men were injured, two fatally, in a boiler accident August 7 on the U. S. S. Nopatin in foreign waters.

DIED OF INJURIES.

Thomas Willis Benham, fireman second class. Mother, Mrs. Anna Benham, 91 Elliot Place, Freeport, Long Island, N. Y.

Roger Hackett, fireman third class. Mother, Mrs. Barbara Hackett, 28 Academy Street, New Haven, Conn.

PISTOL PRACTICE REQUIRED OF ARMY ORDNANCE OFFICERS

The War Department authorizes the following from the Ordnance Department:

All officers of the Ordnance Department below the rank of colonel will be required to take a course of target practice with the .45-caliber automatic pistol. Attendance of officers above the grade of colonel will be optional.

Orders are Issued.

Orders to this effect, and placing Capt. W. C. Prichard, Ordnance Reserve Corp, in charge, have been issued by Maj. Gen. C. C. Williams, Chief of Ordnance.

The purpose of the course is to equip these officers to defend themselves on over-seas duty. Many of them who were in civilian life before war was declared, have not had previous training along this line.

Course Given at Congress Heights.

A total of 1,300 officers, approximately, will be required to attend the course, which will be given at the Congress Heights range of the District of Columbia National Guard. The officers will be divided for instruction into 12 companies. During the hot weather practice will be in the mornings before 9 o'clock.

Percy Cranford, water tender. Father, James Benjamin Cranford, 21 Second Street, Annapolis, Md.

Circular Outlining the Assistance Priorities Board Will Extend to Manufacturers of Motor Trucks

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

Edwin B. Parker, priorities commissioner of the War Industries Board, has prepared for distribution to manufacturers of motor trucks a circular outlining the assistance the board will extend to them in the manufacture of their product.

The circular sets forth that, in so far as motor trucks are used directly or indirectly for war purposes, they are a war essential and their production for such purposes should be facilitated, and, further, that in so far as trucks are employed in essential uses in civilian industry they constitute an important transportation medium and curtailment for such uses should be avoided as far as possible.

Applications for Preference.

The priorities division will receive the application of any manufacturer of motor trucks for a place on the preference list for fuel. In every case it will take into consideration the fuel situation of the manufacturer, the amount of its direct and indirect Government business, and the uses to which the remainder of its products is being devoted.

Any manufacturer whose plant now is or in future shall be exclusively devoted to manufacturing products being or to be absorbed directly or indirectly by the Government, or other uses of essential importance, and whose fuel requirements and output bear proper economical relation to each other, may have such plant placed upon the preference list for fuel upon condition, however, that the manufacturer observe the pledge of cooperation and the rulings of the priorities board.

The Demand for Steel.

After pointing out the tremendous demand for steel and the necessity for its conservation, the circular states that any manufacturer of auto trucks whose plant now is or in the future shall be exclusively devoted to manufacturing products being or to be absorbed directly or indirectly by the Government, or other uses of essential importance, may have such plant given a class B-4 rating for its steel requirements, conditioned however, that such manufacturer shall observe its pledge of cooperation and the rulings of the priorities board.

Should any manufacturer of trucks conceive itself under the priority rules entitled to a higher than class B-4 rating for its steel requirements to complete any particular contract or order, it may present formal application for higher rating, which will receive the consideration of the priorities committee.

The manufacturer's pledge of cooperation shall apply to uses of steel already in its possession and of manufactured or partly manufactured trucks in its possession at the time the pledge is made.

The circular states that the demand for iron and steel are such that no guarantee can be made to the motor truck or any other industry that its steel requirements or any portion thereof will be met. However, the members of the motor-truck industry, complying in good faith with the pledge of cooperation required, will be accorded the preferential treatment mentioned in procuring their supplies of fuel, iron, and steel.

The pledge of cooperation to be given by any manufacturer who desires to be placed on the preference list for its fuel requirements or who desires to be placed in Class B–4 for its steel requirements should be in the form following:

Form of Pledge.

"The undersigned hereby pledges itself (1) to use only in the manufacture of motor trucks or repair parts for motor trucks the steel suitable therefor, which is now in its possession or which may hereafter come into its possession; (2) to sell no motor trucks of its manufacture except (a) for essential uses, as that term has been or may be defined or applied by the Priorities Division of the War Industries Board, or (b) under permits, in writing, signed by or under authority of such priorities division; (3) to sell no user an unnecessary number of motor trucks even for essential uses; (4) to discourage the purchase of any motor truck to replace a usable truck already in service and to give maximum encouragement to the repair of trucks; (5) that this pledge shall bind not only the undersigned but also its branch houses; subsidiaries, dealers, brokers, factors, commission merchants, and all other selling agencies; (6) to make no delivery of any motor truck to anyone for resale, either directly or indirectly, until such one has filed with the undersigned its pledge of cooperation in writing; and to make monthly reports as required by the War Industries Board to the automotive products section of said board or otherwise as said board may direct."

Pledge from Purchaser.

The manufacturer must also require from anyone to whom he delivers a motor truck for resale a subsidiary pledge in much the same terms.

Each manufacturer must forward during the first 15 days of each month a sworn report to the Automotive Products Section of the War Industries Board showing the number of motor trucks manufactured in the preceding month, the number delivered to the United States Government and its allies, the number delivered for essential uses (giving details), the number of finished motor trucks on hand, the approximate stock of steel on hand, and such other information as may be required. These reports will be held confidential by the board, unless the public interest shall require otherwise.

The creation of new plants or the expansion of existing plants for the manufacture of motor trucks is held to be unnecessary and undesirable, inasmuch as existing facilities are ample to produce all the trucks required for essential uses or for which steel can be furnished.

Make thrift your buy-word.

BIG ELECTRIC-POWER PLANT TO CONNECT WITH PITTSBURGH

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

In order to help out the situation in the Pittsburgh district, where the present power supply is inadequate for the Government and other work placed there, the West Penn Power Co. has agreed to build a 40,000-kilowatt station at the mouth of the coal mine in the Allegheny Valley and to connect it up, by appropriate transmission system, with the distribution system of the city of Pittsburgh.

Estimated Cost $5,000,000.

The estimated cost of the plant and transmission lines is $5,000,000. The Ordnance Department will advance $2,000,000 of this amount, and the company, through its bankers, will provide the other $3,000,000.

At a period three years after the end of the war the reduplication cost of the plant is to be determined by three disinterested appraisers, one chosen by the Secretary of War, one by the company, and the third by agreement of the first two, and their finding is to be subject to review and revision by the Secretary of War. The company undertakes to repay to the Government such part of the advance made by the Government as represents the excess of the appraised value over the $3,000,000 originally put up by the company.

Proposals from Other Companies.

Propositions received from other companies to extend their power plants or build new ones in the Pittsburgh district if the War Department would advance 40 per cent of the cost and the finance corporation 60 per cent are not looked upon with favor by the Government. Lacking more favorable propositions, the Government has under consideration the building of its own plants where they are needed in this district.

The promptness of the War Department in extending its aid toward relieving the power situation in the Pittsburgh district is appreciated by the War Industries Board.

PORTO RICAN LABOR IS AVAILABLE FOR U. S. FARMS

The Department of Labor authorizes the following:

A number of Porto Ricans with a knowledge of both Spanish and English and some commercial training have enrolled with the Department of Labor in San Juan, P. R., according to F. C. Roberts, examiner in charge of the San Juan, P. R., office of the United States Employment Service. All of those so enrolled are ready for employment outside of the island, which fact is called to the attention of business firms in this country doing business with South America.

Transportation difficulties are holding up the shipment of thousands of unskilled Porto Rican laborers who have registered at the San Juan office of the United States Employment Service for work in continental United States.

Official Bulletin

PUBLISHED DAILY under order of THE PRESIDENT of THE UNITED STATES by COMMITTEE on PUBLIC INFORMATION
GEORGE CREEL, Chairman ★ ★ ★ COMPLETE Record of U. S. GOVERNMENT Activities

VOL. 2 WASHINGTON, TUESDAY, AUGUST 13, 1918. No. 385

PRESIDENT RECEIVES ITALIAN JOURNALISTS, HERE TO SEE WAR ACTIVITIES OF UNITED STATES

WILL MAKE A SIX WEEKS' TOUR

Visitors are Guests at Luncheon at Which Secretaries Daniels, Lane, and Redfield, Mr. George Creel, and Others Speak.

The Committee on Public Information issues the following:

"Gentlemen," said the President yesterday afternoon to seven noted Italian journalists, "we are not here in the service of Italy," and the Italian journalists looked astonished. "We are not here in the service of America." And then some American newspaper men waited to hear what would come next. "We are here in that greatest of all services, the service which ennobles all who engage in it—the service of mankind."

The Italian journalists are Messrs. Agresti, Cappa, Cassuta, Raineri, Pedrazzi, Vitetti, and Solari. They are members of the official journalists' mission which has recently arrived in America at the invitation of the Committee on Public Information. They represent not only the leading Italian newspapers but, by arrangement with the Italian Government, every paper, large and small, in Italy. They are to spend more than six weeks touring the country under the guidance of Richard Whiting. "You are going to have a chance," the President told them, as he gripped their hands, "to see everything there is."

Last night they dined with the Italian ambassador.

Are Guests at Luncheon.

They were given a luncheon yesterday at the Willard by their hosts of the Committee on Public Information. Mr. Creel for the committee, Secretaries Daniels, Lane, and Redfield, Henry P. Davison of the Red Cross, and others made speeches of welcome. Ambassador Cellere and Mr. Agresti replied for the mission. Mr. Creel told the visitors that above all they must get the message to Italy that America is in this war with no shade of selfishness, with all her resources, and with an absolute determination to see that it ends right. Secretary Lane told of finding that even the children in the Hawaiian schools seemed to understand very clearly what we are all fighting for.

"To help those who need our help," a little Hawaiian girl had answered. "And," said Mr. Lane, "they are going to get it!"

Ambassador Cellere and Mr. Agresti spoke of the confidence which now reigns

Sale of Liquor on Trains or in Railroad Stations Is Forbidden by Order of Administrator McAdoo

The United States Railroad Administration issues the following:

Washington, August 12, 1918.

GENERAL ORDER NO. 39.

The sale of liquors and intoxicants of every character in dining cars, restaurants, and railroad stations under Federal control shall be discontinued immediately.

W. G. McADOO,
Director General of Railroads.

U. S. DESTROYER SIGHTS ENEMY SUBMARINE OFF VIRGINIA COAST

Drops 15 Depth Bombs on Spot Where U-Boat Submerged and Oil Slick Appears.

Secretary Daniels authorizes the following:

The Navy Department has received a report that an American destroyer sighted an enemy submarine about 100 miles east of the Virginia coast, and dropped 15 depth bombs on the spot where the U-boat submerged. The submarine was not seen again, but an oil slick appeared and two more depth charges were dropped on the spot.

Four survivors of the schooner Katie Palmer, which was sunk about sunset August 10 by a submarine, have arrived at New Bedford, Mass. The survivors state that the submarine was about 300 feet long, carried a crew of 60 men, had 1 gun and a conning tower approximately 15 feet high. The crew of the Katie Palmer were taken on board the submarine. The captain of the submarine, they said, stated that he was equipped to stay six months if he desired.

Official Bulletin Index

An index for the Official Bulletin for the first six months of 1918 has been prepared and may be had on application to this office. An index for each month hereafter will be printed in an early issue of the Bulletin after the close of that month.

U-BOAT GAS ATTACK MADE OFF THE CAROLINA COAST; POISON IS SENT IN SHORE, FLOATING WITH THE TIDE

SIX MEN ARE AFFECTED

No Deaths Among Coast Guards Made Ill at Smith Island Station — Fumes Evidently Released from Oil Spots Seen on Surface of Water—Had the Effect of "Mustard Gas," Capt. Willis Reports.

The Committe on Public Information issues the following:

The Navy Department has received a dispatch from the commandant of the sixth naval district, Charleston, S. C., stating that an attack with gas was attempted on the North Carolina coast about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with the result of temporarily "putting out of business the Coast Guard station and lighthouse personnel on Smith Island." The report goes on to say:

Oil Spots on Water Observed.

"About 40 minutes after the attack three large oil spots, each over 1 acre in extent, were observed passing by Smith Island to the north. This oil, from which the gas was no doubt generated, must have been released from a submarine in the vicinity of the entrance to the channel with the hope that it would come in with the tide, but the tide fortunaely set along Smith Island.

"Report was made to Col. Chase, Coast Artillery Corps, Fort Caswell, N. C., by Capt. Willis, of the Smith Island Coast Guard, immediately after the effects of the gas were noticed. Six men were gassed; no deaths.

Had Effect of Mustard Gas.

"The gas had the effect of mustard and was effective about 35 or 40 minutes. Color of the gas has not yet been ascertained, and its effect on trees and shrubbery not yet determined. The entire matter will be investigated, and full report made."

The incident was reported by Col. Chase to the naval district commandant.

"NEW SUPREME GOVERNMENT" OF NORTH RUSSIA TERRITORY IS PROCLAIMED AT ARCHANGEL

TEXT RECEIVED IN WASHINGTON

"Bolshevik Power Has Fallen," Says Proclamation Addressed to Citizens—Promises Defense of All Russia Against Germans.

Under date of August 6 the Department of State has received the following from Archangel:

The new government issued following proclamation on August 3:

SUPREME GOVERNMENT OF THE NORTHERN TERRITORY.

To citizens of the Province and city of Archangel:

Bolshevik power has fallen. The Bolsheviks fled because in the hour of their need they were not supported by the populace, which detested them for their betrayal of Russia at Brest-Litovsk, for civil war, for augmentation of universal famine, the destruction of liberties and rights, legalized system of robbery and shooting squads, and for their ruination of the country's economic and industrial life.

People Forced to Act.

The people's representatives, elected by universal suffrage, are now forced to take into their hands the government of the northern region because as yet there is no legal all-Russian Government.

These presents bring to common notice that the highest governmental authority in the northern territory is "The Supreme Government of the Northern Territory," consisting of delegates to the constituent assembly, and also representatives, zemstvos, and cities.

Supreme Government undertakes the following tasks:

One, the reestablishment of a single all-Russian National Government by cooperation between that and other territories; also the reestablishment of local self-government in the north.

Defense Against Germany.

Two, defense of the north and the entire nation against insolent onslaughts against Russian territory, independence, and inhabitants made by Germany, Finland, and other enemy countries.

Three, reunion to Russia of the lost districts in accordance with the desires of the inhabitants thereof.

Four, the reestablishment of crushed liberties, and the reestablishment of a true organ of popular government, namely, the constituent assembly, the zemstvos, and the city dumas.

Five, the reestablishment of firm administration of justice, assuring citizens satisfaction in economic, social, and spiritual need.

Six, to guarantee laboring classes that they obtain land they are by right entitled to.

Seven, the defense of the rights of labor in accordance with economic and political interests of the north and Russia as a whole.

Eight, to overcome the existing famine.

The Supreme Government will immediately publish orders naturally resulting from the above program.

Asks Support of All Classes.

It relies for support on all classes which treasure the above objects.

In particular it expects to defend the north with the friendly assistance to Russia of Governments and peoples of England, America, France, and others. It also counts on allied assistance against starvation and financial difficulties.

It is convinced that Russia's and the allies' interests in the struggle against foreign enemy are one and the same.

It knows that the allied troops come not to interfere with internal affairs, and their arrival is not against the desires of the local population. Therefore, the Supreme Government greets the allied forces entering the north to wage the contest against the common enemy and summons the entire population to greet them gladly and assist by every possible means.

Calls for Calm and Order.

The Supreme Government proclaims the above, and calls upon the people to maintain calm, order, and pursue its labors.

Members Supreme Government Northern Territory:

Tchaikofsky, member of the Constituent Assembly from Viatka Province. Ivanoff, member of the Constituent Assembly from Archangel. (Omission), member of the Constituent Assembly from Vologda. Goukofsky, member of the Constituent Assembly from Novgorod. Martiushin, member of the Constituent Assembly from Kazan. Dyeduhenko, member of the Constituent Assembly from Samara. Likhatech, member of the Constituent Assembly from (omission). Zuboff, assistant mayor of the city of Vologda. Startzeff, vice president of the Archangel city duma.

Dated Archangel, August 2.

AUTO MAKERS TO BE HEARD BY WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD

Meeting Friday to Discuss 100 Per Cent War Work Plan at Factories.

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

The War Industries Board has received numerous telegrams from officers and members of the National Automobile Dealers' Association requesting that, before the suggestion that automobile manufacturers convert their plants to 100 per cent war work by January 1, 1919, is put into effect, they be given a hearing to state their situation.

Meeting on Friday.

In response to these requests, the committee appointed with full power to act for the board with the automobile industry has named 10 o'clock, Friday, August 16, as the time for the meeting.

The War Industries Board wishes the automobile dealers and everyone else to understand that the letter to the automobile manufacturers was prompted only by labor and material conditions that made it imperative, if the Government's war program is not to be interfered with.

Desire to Work No Hardship.

The board fully appreciates the situation of both manufacturers and dealers and desires to work no hardship on either. It will not deprive the manufacturers of stocks of material they have on hand unless the demands of the war situation require it. In that event the automobile industry will be treated as any other industry would be under like conditions.

FRENCH ORDNANCE ENGINEERS HERE ON SPECIAL MISSION

Foremen from Munitions Plants also in Conference with American Experts.

The following statement is authorized by the War Department:

A mission of French ordnance engineers and experts in the production of ordnance materiel has arrived in the United States. The head of the mission is Lieut. Col. L. Martinon, for many years in charge of manufacturing at the great French ordnance plant of Schneider & Cie, Le Greuset. The other engineers on the mission are Capt. H. Guillemin, Lieuts. Blanchat, H. Dutilh, and P. Berthier, and Mr. A. Combier. With the mission there are also a score of foremen from French munitions plants.

The purpose of this mission is to secure the closest industrial collaboration between the United States and France in order to make the best possible use of the industrial resources of the two countries in the output of ordnance materiel.

Members in Conference.

Following a reception by Maj. Gen. C. C. Williams, Chief of Ordnance, the members of the mission are now engaged in conference with members of the Engineering Division. In the near future the mission will be divided into groups representing the various subjects on which the members of the mission are particularly expert. To each group will be attached officers of the Ordnance Department who also are experts on these subjects. The group and attached officers will consider not only the engineering features involved, but also inspection and production features, where particular projects are far enough advanced to permit. The groups will visit representative plants where the articles on which they are expert are in manufacture.

The mission visits the United States as the result of a conference between the French minister of munitions (Le Minister de L'Armament et des Fabrications de Guerre) and the chief ordnance officer of the American Expeditionary Forces.

American Mission to France.

It is probable that a mission of American experts and superintendents and foremen of munitions plants and arsenals will visit France after the return of the French mission, which will be in about three months. In this way it is proposed to develop a constant exchange of views and information between those engaged in the munitions industry in the two countries.

PLAN ENABLES MANUFACTURERS TO PURCHASE U. S. EQUIPMENT

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

Changes in war supplies contracts which have just been approved by the Superior Board of Review of the General Staff provide that hereafter manufacturers who are furnished with special equipment at the expense of the Government may agree to take over such facilities at a fair value in diminution of the profit which they otherwise would make.

Title Vests in United States.

It frequently occurs that in order to fulfill the terms of the contract it is necessary for the manufacturer to construct additional buildings or provide special machinery or otherwise increase his facilities. Under the terms of Government contracts now made, title in such improvements vests in the United States.

The increased manufacturing facilities that have been created by the War Department, exclusive of the new industries serving the Navy and the Emergency Fleet Corporation, from April 7, 1917, to July, 1918, cost approximately $400,000,000. These investments have been distributed through almost half of the States. Seventy per cent has been or will be spent in sections of the country other than in the New England or East Central States.

Opportunity for Contractors.

The new clauses in the contracts give the contractors an opportunity to take over these new facilities. If the contractor wishes to take title to the facilities he may make written offer to the Government. If agreeable to the Government, the contractor shall be obligated to pay for such facilities at their appraised value at the time of making the offer. This can be done either by the payment of the money direct or by an amortization plan.

The contract now used provides that if the contractor does not make the Government an offer, or in case that his offer is unacceptable to the Government, the Government retains the right to remove all facilities which have been provided after the termination of the contract. A reasonable time is given to the Government to remove all facilities.

United States May Buy Lands.

The contract may also provide that the Government may buy the land upon which such facilities have been erected, in the event that the Government wishes to keep the facilities or in the event that a satisfactory agreement can not be reached on the terms of purchase.

If for any reasons the contract containing these clauses is not desirable and another form requested, such contract shall not be signed until it has been approved by the Superior Board of Review of the General Staff.

Inroads Made by War on French Meat Herds

The Food Administration issues the following:

Since the outbreak of the war France has suffered a loss of 2,600,000 head of cattle. Deducting 1,000,000 for the loss due to the total or partial invasion of some 10 departments, there is a diminution of some 1,600,000 head.

Moreover, the cattle have greatly lost in weight. Before the war the average weight in meat of slaughtered cattle was from 770 to 880 pounds, whereas to-day it hardly exceeds 550 or 570 pounds. To obtain in the future the same quantity of meat as to-day an ever-increasing number of cattle will have to be slaughtered.

LINSEED OIL CAKE AND MEAL FOR EXPORTATION TO CANADA

The War Trade Board issues the following:

The War Trade Board, after consultation with the United States Food Administration and the Canada food board, announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 189) that applications for licenses to export linseed oil cake or linseed oil meal to Canada will now be considered, when presented as follows:

Every application for an export license must have attached thereto a Canadian import permit, issued to the consignee by the Canada food board, Ottawa, for the importation of the quantity mentioned in the application for an export license.

Exporters, therefore, should obtain such Canadian import permits from their Canadian customers before making application to the United States War Trade Board for an export license.

MANUFACTURE OF WOOLEN HAND-KNIT YARNS STOPPED

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

The War Industries Board has served notice on spinners of hand-knitting yarns that, because of the needs of the military forces, no more woolen or worsted hand-knitting yarns may be manufactured until further notice.

The woolen section of the board has held up all shipments of yarn or wool by the spinners and has started an inventory of the stocks on hand and the contracts being filled.

Letter Sent to Spinners.

Following is the letter sent to the spinners by Herbert E. Peabody, chief of the woolens section, and Lewis Penwell, chief of the wool section of the War Industries Board:

To all spinners of hand-knitting yarns:

This is to advise you that the military needs of the Government are such that no more woolen or worsted hand-knitting yarns may be manufactured until further directed by the War Industries Board.

You are requested to report to the undersigned, Mr. Herbert E. Peabody, the amount of yarn you now have on hand, the amount of raw wool in stock and grade of same, and what contracts you are now working on. You are requested to refrain from making any shipments of either yarn or wool until you receive further notification from the War Industries Board.

After the foregoing information has been received you will be directed as to what disposition to make of the yarn and wool you now have on hand.

NEW SPECIAL EXPORT LICENSE COVERING "PERSONAL BAGGAGE"

The War Trade Board issues the following:

The War Trade Board announces, in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 195), that special export license RAC-49 which had previously been issued to the customs service was revised on August 5.

Collectors of customs are now authorized under license No. RAC-49 to permit the exportation without individual export license of personal baggage accompanying a passenger, provided such baggage contains only articles which are necessary and proper for the personal use of the passenger upon his journey. Collectors of customs are also authorized, under this license, to permit the exportation of samples of conserved and nonconserved commodities of no commercial value, to be used in connection with the solicitation of commercial orders.

"Personal Baggage" Defined.

"Personal baggage" under this license is construed to include only articles of clothing or adornment, souvenirs, and also other articles of small value intended to be used by the passenger upon his proposed journey. License No. RAC-49 does not authorize the exportation of firearms, code books, phonographic records, or moving picture or camera films. This license also does not authorize anything forbidden by subsection C of section 3 of the trading-with-the-enemy act, which forbids any form of communication intended for or to be delivered to any enemy or ally of enemy being taken into or out of the United States without license.

Applications for Licenses.

Passengers are advised that if they desire to take with them from the United States any articles which can not be construed to be covered by license No. RAC-49, it is necessary for them to obtain individual export licenses for the same. Applications for such licenses should be made in accordance with the rules and regulations of the War Trade Board and may be sent to the Washington office of that organization or to any branch office thereof.

Contracts Recently Let by the Shipping Board

The United States Shipping Board issues the following:

Contracts have been let during the week ending August 3 for two wooden cargo vessels of 3,500 tons to Wright Ship Yards, Tacoma, Wash.

Eight wooden cargo vessels, each 3,500 tons, to Midland Bridge Co., Houston Ship Channel, Tex.

Ten wooden barges, each 2,500 tons. This contract supersedes and cancels former contract with Midland Bridge Co.

Four wooden cargo vessels, 4,500 tons each, Kiernan & Kern, Portland, Oreg.

Four wooden cargo vessels, 3,500 tons each, John H. Fahey, Jacksonville, Fla.

Six wooden barges, 2,500 tons each. This contract supersedes and cancels former contract with Hillyer Sperring Dunn Co.

DEATH OF LIEUT. FOSS.

Naval Officer Fatally Scalded in Boiler Accident on Ship.

The Navy Department has been advised of the death of Lieut. (Junior Grade) Frank Foster Foss, United States Naval Reserve Force, which occurred as the result of scalds received in a boiler accident on August 6 on board the U. S. S. Nopatin.

Lieut. Foss was born in West Machias, Me., July 20, 1885. He was appointed an ensign in the United States Naval Reserve Force from March 13, 1917. On January 16, 1918, he was appointed lieutenant (junior grade) for engineering duties only. He served on the U. S. S. Manhattan, and was subsequently transferred to the U. S. S. Nopatin, on which vessel he was serving at the time of his death.

Next of kin, Mrs. Teresa V. Foss, wife, 189 Cass Street, Providence, R. I.

Summary of the Progress Being Made In Rehabilitation of Wounded Soldiers

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the office of the Surgeon General:

Detailed reports compiled at five general hospitals indicate the progress being made by the Reconstruction Division of the Medical Department of the Army. Of the 537 cases sent to these hospitals from overseas and base hospitals in this country, 151 are now able to return to full duty and 212 are able to return to partial duty. Only 39 of these soldiers will be unable to follow their old occupations. A total of 122 will be able to return to their old employment and do efficient work, despite their injuries.

Minds and Hands Occupied.

From the time these men landed in the United States an effort has been made to keep their minds and hands occupied. Curative education has been practiced with satisfactory results. The men have shown interest in the "ward occupations," which consist of wood carving, knitting, weaving, block printing, beadwork, knotted work, embroidery, educational work, and typewriting. Where facilities have been provided to give the men academic studies a genuine interest has been shown to improve their mental condition so as better to prepare them to make progress in civil occupations.

After the men reached the point where they could leave the wards they were instructed in shops and schools. Quartermaster repair shops are located near some of the hospitals and these are used to give instruction to the men in mechanical occupations. At the present time 132 soldiers are taking courses in auto mechanics and repair work.

Trades and Vocations.

Shorthand and typewriting have attracted the attention of 151. Other popular trades and the number of patients receiving instruction in them are as follows:

Drafting, 53; business, 49; agriculture, gardening, and other work of similar nature, 235; telegraphy, 31; carpentry and bench work, 32; telephone, 47; furniture repairing, 18; painting, 11; electrical, 5.

A few men are taking courses in each of the following subjects:

Blacksmith, concrete working, bricklaying, plumbing, commercial law, printing, shoe repairing, woodworking, sign painting, cabinetwork, cartooning, drawing, ring making, bookbinding, and willow work.

Patients and Disabilities.

The disabilities of these men and the number suffering from each is given below. In some cases men are being treated for more than one ailment, hence the difference between the number of patients, 537, and the number of disabilities, 1,034.

Medical diseases: Cardio-vascular, 172; pulmonary tuberculosis, 83; functional neurosis (shell shock, etc.), 31; insanity, 11; nephritis, 25; gastro-intestinal, 17; gassed, 7; other general medical, 166; convalescent, 96; lung conditions (empyema), 23.

Surgical conditions: Orthopedic, 155; amputation, 42; eye, ear, nose, throat, 6; wound or injury, nervous system, 14; severe injury, face and jaw, 1; venereal diseases or sequelae, 5; surgical condition genito-urinary system—venereal, 9; non-venereal, 1; other surgical conditions, 59; convalescent, 111.

Total, 1,034.

The five hospitals reporting are: The Walter Reed, of Washington, D. C.; general No. 2, at Fort McHenry, Md.; general No. 6, at Fort McPherson, Ga.; general No. 9, at Lakewood, N. J.; and general No. 17, at Markleton, Pa.

CERTAIN PASSES TEMPORARILY TO BE HONORED ON RAILROADS

The United States Railroad Administration issues the following:

AUGUST 1, 1918.

CIRCULAR No. 16.

As a temporary measure, and until definite regulations governing the issuance of passes can be provided, the following instructions will be observed:

1. Until further notice, passes previously issued by the individual railroads will continue to be honored over such lines.

2. Annual and trip passes will be issued by the Federal manager or by the general manager on roads where there is no Federal manager, and will be limited to the lines over which the jurisdiction of such Federal manager or general manager extends.

3. They will bear the facsimile signature of the Federal manager or general manager, with countersignature as indicated thereon.

4. Passes, annual or trip, will be issued by the Federal manager or general manager on account of employees of other than the issuing line, upon request of the Federal manager or general manager of such line, in the same manner that exchange passes have heretofore been handled.

Passes, annual or trip, will be issued by the Federal manager or general manager on account of employees of his line, in the same manner that such passes have heretofore been issued.

5. Annual passes for officials of the Railroad Administration connected directly with the Director General and his staff, regional or district directors and their staff, will be issued by the office of the Director General.

6. Current regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the matter of issuance and record of passes must be observed.

7. Pass stock now on hand must not be destroyed, but by correction, either with rubber stamp or by printing, should all be used.

C. R. GRAY,
Director, Division of Operation.

Approved:
W. G. MCADOO,
Director General of Railroads.

WORK OF CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

The recess of the Senate is to be cut short in order to proceed expeditiously with the new bill to increase the draft age limits to from 18 to 45 years. In the Senate yesterday afternoon Chairman Chamberlain said he hoped to report the bill from the committee Thursday when the Senate again will meet, and that arrangements would be made to abolish the unanimous consent agreement and proceed with consideration of the man-power bill next Monday. All absent Senators were telegraphed to by party leaders yesterday to be in their seats Thursday next so that the recess agreement may be terminated. A quorum must be present to do this. During the session of the Military Committee yesterday an amendment by Senator Kirby that would retain the present draft minimum age of 21 years was rejected by an almost unanimous vote. During the two hours the Senate was in session yesterday afternoon the pending man-power bill was under discussion, every speaker urging the immediate reassembling of the Senate so that prompt action may be had on the measure. Immediately upon assembling, Senator Reed introduced a resolution to reassemble the Senate at once.

National Guard Officers Discharged.

Responding to a recent resolution of the Senate, Secretary Baker informed that body concerning the number of officers discharged from the service since the National Guard had been incorporated with the Federal troops. He reported that there were 16,971 National Guard officers, of whom 972 have been discharged for various reasons. Of these 464 were discharged upon the recommendations of efficiency boards, while 476 were discharged because of physical unfitness for over-seas service, 30 were court-martialed, and 2 deserted.

The Ways and Means Committee of the House yesterday raised the taxes on all soft drinks by placing a 10 per cent tax on all such drinks when sold by the manufacturer, importer, bottler, or producer, and a tax of 2 cents on each 10-cent drink sold at a soda fountain and a tax of 1 cent on drinks sold for less than 7 cents. The tax on near beer, ginger ale, grape juice, and all similar beverages containing one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol will be taxed 10 cents a gallon. It was estimated that these new taxes would yield about $100,000,000 in revenue. The tax on proprietary medicines was changed from a 10 per cent tax on the manufacturer to a 10 per cent tax on each article, to be paid by the purchaser in the shape of a stamp tax.

Receives Thanks of France.

The Secretary of State yesterday transmitted to both Houses of Congress a communication from Ambassador Jusserand conveying the gratification of France at the adoption of the resolution by Congress for a celebration of Bastile day, which was observed all over the United States.

Representative Thomas F. Smith, Democrat, of New York, introduced yesterday a bill providing for the creation of a Federal election commission of six members to supervise the casting, receipt, and transmission of the votes of soldiers and sailors. The commission would be appointed by the President, not more than three of the same political party. Their salaries would be $5,000 a year each, and the commission would be authorized to appoint the necessary deputies at a salary of $3,000 a year. The bill provides that the soldier vote may be taken not more than 20 days prior to the regular election day, but must be held not later than the day of the regular election.

NORWEGIAN STEAMER SUNK BY TORPEDO OFF FIRE ISLAND

The Navy Department is informed that the Norwegian steamer Somerstad was sunk at 8.15 a. m. yesterday, August 12, 25 miles southeast by east from Fire Island. The captain and 30 members of the crew were rescued and have reached port. There were no casualties.

Torpedo Returns.

Capt. Hansen reports that he saw the wake of a torpedo; the engines were reversed, avoiding the torpedo, which was seen to go under the bow of the vessel. The ship was drawing only 7 feet of water, and the torpedo continued on its course. The captain ordered full speed ahead. The torpedo, he states, turned sharply to the left and returned, hitting the vessel between the third and fourth holds on the port side. In five minutes after being struck the whole deck amidship was awash, and the crew left the ship. The ship, they state, was standing directly up and down with the bow out of water, about 14 feet being visible.

Rescued by Chaser.

The captain and his 30 men got into two boats and made for Sandy Hook. They were sighted by a submarine chaser at 6.35 p. m. and rescued.

Four of the men of the crew reported that they saw a periscope sticking about 6 feet out of the water, moving very rapidly. The torpedo, they estimated, was about 12 feet long.

PRESIDENT RECEIVES ITALIAN JOURNALISTS.

everywhere in Italy, a confidence that even a few days in America—they had just come back from a visit to the Hog Island shipyard—would more than confirm. Secretary Daniels replied that he had recently been getting abundant proofs of what the Italian Navy is doing just now toward ending the career of such stray "stilettos of the sea" as are left in the Mediterranean. And Secretary Redfield added that we now had no less than 30,000 factories engaged in war work, and five different steel and munitions plants all of which are greater than Germany's once unparalleled Krupp's.

No trouble to buy, cheap, convenient, a real investment—WAR-SAVINGS STAMPS.

CORPS OF FLIGHT SURGEONS AND PHYSICAL DIRECTORS

The War Department authorizes the following:

For the care and conditioning of fliers in the Air Service the United States Government is now appointing a corps of doctors and trainers large enough to equip each training field and camp for fliers, both here in the United States and in France, with a proper organization. The doctors will be known as flight surgeons and the trainers as physical directors.

The medical branch of the Air Service is not alone confined to the selection of the flier but to his care and condition after he has been admitted to the service. It has become apparent that the flier is unlike other soldiers. In the Air Service he has become an intricate, highly sensitized piece of mechanism with troubles all his own. To keep his complex organism physically fit a special master mechanic had to be provided solely for him.

Study Fitness of Flyers.

The flight surgeon, therefore has been given freedom of independent initiative in all questions of fitness of the fliers. Subject to the approval of the commanding officer, he is expected to institute such measures as periods of rest, recreations, and temporary excuse from duty as may seem advisable. He takes sick calls of aviators; he visits such cases as may be in the hospital and consults with the attending surgeon regarding them. He makes the examination of candidates for aviation and lives in close touch with fliers.

The physical directors are assistants to the flight surgeons and their duty is to supervise such recreation and physical training of the fliers as is considered necessary.

DOMESTIC COKE DISTRIBUTION IS PLACED UNDER CONTROL

The Fuel Administration issues the following:

The quantity of coke available for distribution as household fuel having been greatly reduced by reason of the increased consumption in industries engaged in war work, it has become necessary to control the distribution of domestic coke in harmony with other fuels for household use.

Accordingly the United States Fuel Administration has provided for weekly reports from all shippers of coke in carload lots for household use or for general distribution by retail dealers. The reports are to be mailed by the shippers to the Federal fuel administrator of each State to which such shipments have been made or are expected to be made, and are required to [illegible] ments during the preceding week, an estimate of the probable shipments during the coming week, the [illegible] of each consignee, with [illegible] of coke and the [illegible] weights thereof, whether shipped or to be shipped. Duplicates of the reports are to be mailed to the Bureau of Coke of the United States Fuel Administration.

OHIO TOMATO MEN INVOLVED WITH FOOD ADMINISTRATION

The Food Administration issues the following:

R. J. Meguiar, tomato packer and catsup manufacturer at Greenville, Ohio, is again in difficulty with the United States Food Administration. The R. J. Meguiar Co. and the Meguiar Co., both tomato packing firms, have lost their licenses. The Federal food administrator for Ohio will supervise the limited operation of both companies which may continue to operate only long enough to fill existing contracts. This is being done in order that the large tomato crop in that section of Ohio may be saved. The companies have contracted for the production of much of the tomato acreage in that part of the State. Rather than have the farmers lose their crops, the food administrator will require Meguiar to continue operations until after he has purchased all tomatoes contracted for. Neither will he be allowed to purchase tomatoes not already contracted for unless they are grown in Greenville or the Burkitsville districts of Ohio.

Announced Last Winter.

The Food Administration announced last winter that, upon the recommendation of the Federal Trade Commission, it would refuse a license to the Purity Preserving Co., of which Meguiar was president, or any other concern in which Meguiar was financially interested. The Federal Trade Commission had reported that the Purity Preserving Co. had taken advantage of a rising market by failing to live up to its contracts and selling at higher prices through Meguiar, who had then started to trade as the R. J. Meguiar Co. Later, however, at the request of the Federal food administrator for Ohio, the Food Administration rescinded its original order and issued licenses to the R. J. Meguiar Co. and the Meguiar Co., in order that facilities could be provided for preserving the 1918 tomato crop in that part of Ohio. Since that time, however, Meguiar has been guilty of grave and frequent misrepresentations to the Food Administration. On this account the Federal food administrator for Ohio recommended the revocation of both licenses, but has asked that the plants be kept in operation until the present crop could be preserved.

FOREST RESERVE REDUCED.

27,877 Acres Eliminated from Lincoln National Forest, N. Mex.

The Department of Agriculture issues the following:

On August 9 the President signed a proclamation eliminating 27,877 acres from the Lincoln National Forest, N. Mex. Of this area over one-third is already alienated and in private ownership. Part of the land excluded was found to be mainly valuable for farming purposes, and the remaining areas were eliminated from the forest to simplify the boundary lines and exclude tracts of land having practically no value for forest or watershed protection purposes.

The action taken by the President was based on recommendations from the Secretary of Agriculture, as a result of field examinations by the Forest Service.

Summary of Federal Trade Commission's Activities During the Month of July

The Federal Trade Commission issues the following:

A summary of the commission's activities during the past month, including a full list of complaints, orders, and enemy patent licenses issued, institution of cost inquiries, statements of foreign trade combinations filed under the Webb export act, etc.

EIGHT-HOUR LAW SUSPENDED ON WAR HOUSING CONTRACTS

EXECUTIVE ORDER.

In order to secure the more expeditious construction, etc., of the projects contemplated by the act of Congress entitled "An act to authorize the President to provide housing for war needs," approved May 16, 1918, and by the act of Congress entitled "An act making appropriations to supply additional urgent deficiencies in appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, on account of war expenses and for other purposes," approved June 4, 1918, in so far as the same relates to "Housing for war needs," by virtue of the authority vested in me by the provisions of the act of Congress approved March 4, 1917 (39 Stat. 1192), entitled "An act making provisions for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, and for other purposes," whereby it is provided

> "That in case of national emergency the President is authorized to suspend provisions of law prohibiting more than eight hours labor in any one day of persons engaged upon work covered by contracts with the United States: Provided further, That the wages of persons employed upon such contracts shall be computed on a basic rate of eight hours work, with overtime rates to be paid for at not less than time and one-half for all hours worked in excess of eight hours,"

I do hereby suspend during the present national emergency the provisions of law prohibiting more than eight hours of labor in any one day by persons engaged in or on any and all work to be done in connection with or under contracts for the construction, equipment, management, maintenance, alteration, repair, improvement, or suitable arrangement for living purposes of houses, buildings, improvements, or any parts thereof, in providing housing and facilities related thereto for industrial and other war needs. This order will take effect from and after this date.

Important Notice to U. S. Purchasing Agents

Purchasing agents for the various Government departments and the special United States war administrations are earnestly reminded to send to the Official U. S. Bulletin at the earliest possible moment all copy for bids to be advertised and purchase awards, in order that these may be promptly and correctly printed in the Bulletin in accordance with the orders of the Secretary of War and other heads of departments.

The task of preparing this copy for publication, with a view to absolute correctness and continuity, is a considerable one, but, with the cooperation of the purchasing agencies, should result in a great help, not only to the departments themselves, but to bidders throughout the country, all of whom, through the medium of the Official Bulletin, are desirous of keeping informed of the Government's needs.

For the Genoa Indian School, Genoa, Nebr., bids will be received until 4 o'clock p. m., August 24, 1918.

Order Regulating Margins and Profits to be Charged by Lake Fuel Forwarders

The United States Fuel Administration issues the following:

ORDER ESTABLISHING REGULATION RELATIVE TO COMMISSIONS, MARGINS, AND PROFITS TO BE CHARGED BY LAKE FORWARDERS AND LAKE FUELERS ON THE GREAT LAKES.

It appearing to the United States Fuel Administrator that the rules fixing the commission, margin, or profit which may be charged by any person, firm, association, or corporation engaged in the forwarding of coal on the Great Lakes and the fueling of vessels on such lakes and now contained in Rule No. 22 of the "Additional rules and regulations governing the distribution of coal and coke by persons, firms, corporations, and associations subject to license, and referred to in such rules and regulations as licensees," should be modified, Commission, Margin, or Profit.

The United States Fuel Administrator, acting under authority of an Executive order of the President of the United States, dated August 23, 1917, appointing said administrator, and of subsequent Executive orders, and in furtherance of the purpose of said orders and of the act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917,

Hereby orders and directs that Rule No. 22 of the "Additional rules and regulations governing the distribution of coal and coke by persons, firms, corporations, and associations subject to license, and referred to in such rules and regulations as licensees," as established by order dated April 24, 1918, and as amended by order dated June 5, 1918, be and the same hereby is in all respects canceled and revoked from and after 7 a. m., August 7, 1918.

And hereby makes and establishes the following regulation, effective August 7, 1918, at 7 a. m., until further or other order and subject to modification hereafter from time to time and at any time.

REGULATION RELATIVE TO COMMISSION, MARGIN, OR PROFIT TO BE CHARGED BY LAKE FORWARDERS AND LAKE FUELERS ON THE GREAT LAKES.

I.

No person, firm, association, or corporation who or which arranges for the loading of bituminous coal over any of the lower Lake docks and for the transportation of the same on the Great Lakes in boats owned or chartered by or through such person, firm, association, or corporation shall charge for such service a commission, margin, or profit in excess of 20 cents per net ton.

II.

No person, firm, association, or corporation who or which sells bituminous coal produced by such person, firm, association, or corporation, or purchased from a producer or from or through a licensed distributor, which is to be used exclusively as fuel by vessels operating on the Great Lakes, and who arranges for the loading of such bituminous coal over any of the lower Lake docks into the bunkers of such boats, shall charge a commission, margin, or profit in excess of 25 cents per net ton, plus an additional gross charge of not to exceed 50 cents per net ton in cases where the coal is delivered to such vessels by barge, lighter, or scow.

III.

A licensed distributor who acts as purchasing agent for a person, firm, association, or corporation who or which performs the services specified in Sections I or II of this regulation, or for the owner or operator of a dock on the upper lakes may, subject to the provisions of rule 3 of the rules and regulations governing the distribution of coal and coke by licensees, charge and receive the purchasing agent's commission allowed by rule 2 of such rules and regulations.

IV.

Any person, firm, association, or corporation who or which performs the services specified in either Sections I or II of this regulation may add to the commission, margin, or profit allowed by said sections any purchasing agent's commission charged by or paid to a licensed distributor under the provisions of Section III of this regulation.

V.

A licensed distributor who performs the services specified in either Sections I or II of this regulation may, in addition to the commission, margin, or profit allowed by said sections, include a charge of 15 cents per net ton if such licensed distributor has purchased, or acted as purchasing agent for, the coal from a mine which is not owned nor controlled directly or indirectly by such licensed distributor, or the controlling owners of such licensed distributor, or by another licensed distributor customarily engaged in performing the services specified in Sections I or II of this regulation, or from a mine whose owner, or the stockholders, members, or partners who control such owner, do not also control directly or indirectly such licensed distributor, or any other licensed distributor customarily engaged in performing the services specified in Sections I or II of this regulation. This additional sum shall not be charged when the purchasing agent's commission provided in Sections III and IV of this regulation has been paid.

VI.

Any person, firm, association, or corporation who has performed the services specified in Sections I and II of this regulation between June 1, 1918, and the effective date of this regulation may charge and receive in full settlement therefor a commission, margin, or profit not in excess of that fixed by Sections I and II of this regulation, and may include in such settlement any purchasing agent's commission which has been charged by, or paid to, a licensed distributer under the conditions specified in Section III of this regulation, or, if a licensed distributer, may include in such settlement a purchasing agent's commission earned as provided by, and under the conditions specified in, Section V of this regulation.

VII.

No commission, margin, or profit shall be charged for the performance of the services specified in Sections I or II of this regulation in connection with anthracite coal.

U. S. Fuel Administrator,
By CYRUS GARNSEY, Jr.,
Asst. U. S. Fuel Administrator.

Comments on Bulletin As a Helpful Medium in Prosecuting War

The following pronouncement, published in the leading magazines of the country, is reproduced in the hope that the business world may render such aid as possible to the Government by observing, as far as practicable, the suggestions contained therein; and to the directing heads of the 56,000 post offices of the country, in which the Official U. S. Bulletin daily is posted, by order of the Postmaster General, the suggestion is ventured that if these facts were more fully appreciated, the Government would be much relieved:

READ THE BULLETIN.

Owing to the enormous increase of Government war work, the Governmental departments at Washington are being flooded with letters of inquiry on every conceivable subject concerning the war, and it has been found a physical impossibility for the clerks, though they number an army in themselves now, to give many of these letters proper attention and reply. There is published daily at Washington, under authority of and by direction of the President, a Government newspaper—THE OFFICIAL U. S. BULLETIN. This newspaper prints every day all the more important rulings, decisions, regulations, proclamations, orders, etc., as they are promulgated by the several departments and the many special committees and agencies now in operation at the National Capital. This official journal is posted daily in every post office in the United States, more than 56,000 in number, and may also be found on file at all libraries, boards of trade, and chambers of commerce, the offices of mayors, governors, and other Federal officials. By consulting these files most questions will be found readily answered; there will be little necessity for letter writing; the unnecessary congestion of the mails will be appreciably relieved; the railroads will be called upon to move fewer correspondence sacks, and the mass of business that is piling up in the Government departments will be eased considerably. Hundreds of clerks, now answering correspondence, will be enabled to give their time to essentially important work, and a fundamentally patriotic service will have been performed by the public.

NEW REGULATIONS ISSUED FOR THE BRITISH COTTON INDUSTRY

Consul Ross E. Holaday, Manchester, England, reports as follows:

New regulations have just been issued by the cotton-control board with reference to Government work in the cotton industry. Spinning firms engaged on American and mixed cotton may obtain licenses to run as from July 8, 1918, in accordance with the following scale:

Government work.	Private work.	Working hours.
From 30 to 45 per cent.....	20 per cent....	40
From 45 to 50 per cent.....	17 per cent....	45½
From 50 to 60 per cent.....	15 per cent....	50
60 per cent and upward....	15 per cent....	55½

The conditions under which manufacturers can run extra looms or work increased hours are unchanged. The increased rates of levy are to be paid by mills running 50 or 55½ hours, but not by those running 40 or 45½ hours.

By arrangement with the control board the War Department (cotton textiles office) will certify class A priority certificates presented by its contractors requiring spinners to give priority over all private trade to orders needed to fulfill War Office contracts.

All firms, whether spinners or manufacturers, who apply for licenses to work extra hours or machinery on account of Government work must apply to the control board by the Tuesday in the week preceding that for which the application is made. This, however, does not apply in cases where licenses have already been granted, unless it is desired to vary the license.

Returns have to be sent to the control board of the amount of machinery engaged on Government and private work, and the actual weight produced for Government purposes.—Commerce Reports.

Sealed Bids Wanted

General Engineer Depot, United States Army, 1438 U Street, Washington, D. REPORT ON STORM DAMAGE AT GERSTNER FLYING FIELD

The Division of Military Aeronautics is in receipt of dispatches from Gerstner Field, Lake Charles, La., stating that two men have died at the field as a result of the hurricane which swept that vicinity on August 6. Damage done to Government property is estimated in the amount of $991,000. All the planes except 5 scout and about 38 training planes were completely demolished. These will be quickly repaired and ready by the time the hangars are reconstructed. The lighting system at the field will need entire overhauling as a result of the storm. Clearing up of debris and the salvaging of engines and machines is now going on.

Wind 95 Miles an Hour.

The wind velocity at the height of the storm was 96 miles an hour. Twelve hangars were totally wrecked; 10 partially; only 2 were left in any condition to afford shelter to property now being salvaged. The quarters of the officers and men held together and defied the storm. Eight men were injured but not seriously. All the wires are down in the vicinity of Lake Charles and Lake Charles village is badly damaged. Practically all the houses within a radius of 30 miles have been laid flat. The training camp at Gerstner Field also reports that it furnished a guard of soldiers to the village of Lake Charles, who assisted in the relief work there.

SCHOOL TO INSTRUCT SOLDIERS IN BOX MAKING AND CRATING

The War Department authorizes the following:

In order to utilize cargo space to the best advantage there has been opened at Madison, Wis., a school to instruct officers and enlisted men in boxing and crating. Instructions will be given to men from all departments that make overseas shipments.

Forestry Experts to Lecture.

The instructors detailed for the various lectures are the experts in woods and woodworking now engaged in research work at the Forest Products Laboratory. The classrooms are donated by the University of Wisconsin and there is in addition a practical box-making factory and testing machinery for scientific and practical demonstrations.

The men detailed for instruction take a three-weeks' course at the University and one weeks' practical work and demonstration in the box factories of two corporations. At the end of the four weeks, they will return to their respective corps and will be used in boxing and crating inspection work by the various branches.

Features of the Course.

The course includes instructions on the structure of wood, how to identify it and determine wood strength, factors affecting the strength of wood and shop exercises in making boxes and crates.

Toy Makers Co-operate With U. S. Shipping Board

Toys for American kiddies will soon include a wide range of steamers, sailing vessels, and other things connected with the new American mercantile marine. Manufacturers of games will use the mercantile marine and foreign trade as a basis for new games.

A delegation of American toy makers has visited Chairman Hurley, of the Shipping Board, and undertaken to help bring home to every child in America, through toys and games, the idea of our new merchant marine. Chairman Hurley asked the toy manufacturers to cooperate and they have responded. The American Toy Manufacturers' Association represents 110 toy-making plants, making 18 different varieties of toys and comprising 90 per cent of American toy production. The delegation included the following members of their war-service committee: Fletcher D. Dodge, secretary; Harry C. Ives, Alfred C. Gilbert, Leo Schlesinger, Alfred R. Scharps.

CHANGES IN CIRCULAR PROPOSAL.

The General Engineer Depot of the Army has issued the following notice to contractors:

Referring to Circular Proposal 1072, calling for reconnaissance sketching case, kindly note the following changes:

(A) The opening date, August 20, 1918, to be changed to August 30, 1918.

(B) The original quantity, 16,200, to be changed to 15,960.

FOOD DEALERS PENALIZED FOR VIOLATING REGULATIONS

The Food Administration authorizes the following:

The Palermo Baking Co., of Rochester, N. Y., has been permitted to contribute $250 to the Red Cross in lieu of other penalties for violating the substitute rules.

The Neosho Grocer Co., of St. Louis, Mo., has contributed $600 to the Red Cross in lieu of other penalties for violating the Food Administration regulations.

Put On Unfair List.

An unlimited unfair order has been issued against the Stedaco Co., manufacturers of soft drinks, of Boston, Mass., by the Food Administration, effective July 15.

The firm was found guilty of obtaining sugar secretly in large quantities after certificates had been refused them. The sugar was collected from small dealers who were told by representatives of the Stedaco Co. that the company had political influence in Washington and that it was not concerned about rulings of the Food Administration. The unfair order means that the company will be unable to get any more licensed supplies and will have to suspend operations.

Moise Bros. Co., of Santa Rosa, N. Mex., dealers in wheat flour and grains, has lost its license by profiteering.

The firm kept no adequate books, but it was learned that a profit of more than 100 per cent had been made on some old stocks. Officials of the firm said that they realized that their profits were too high, but that they were waiting for Food Administration officials to come and check them off. After the checking up process the firm was ordered to suspend business.

Food License Revoked.

Because they used more flour and sugar than the quantities permitted under Food Administration regulations, the Shepard Co., Providence, R. I., have had their baking license revoked by the Food Administration for an unlimited period, upon recommendation of the Food Administration for Rhode Island. The Shepard Co. operate a big department store and make their own baker's goods.

The Industrial Transportation Co., L. H. Edwards, president, of New York City, has lost its license to deal in foodstuffs for failing to file reports and for disregarding summons to appear at hearings.

The company does a varied business, including a bakery; also dealing in grains, feeds, copra, palm kernels and oil, and corn and its products.

R. B. Dickey, attorney, of Washington, D. C., was named as a representative of the company, but could tell nothing of its operations.

R. W. Shropshire, a retail merchant of Rockingham County, N. C., has lost his license for six months for violating Food Administration rules. The charges proved at the hearing were selling flour without substitutes and altering books for the purpose of deception.

The penalty was made severe chiefly because Shropshire refused to make explanations and his flat refusal to observe regulations.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE RULES FOR PUBLICATION OF TARIFFS

The United States Railroad Administration, Division of Traffic, issues the following:

WASHINGTON, July 27, 1918.

CIRCULAR NO. 4—COMPLIANCE WITH INTERSTATE COMMERCE RULES IN PUBLICATION OF TARIFFS.

To traffic committees, railroad and water lines under Federal control, and tariff publishing agents:

Instances have been called to the attention of this division which indicate a lack of compliance on the part of many carriers with the rules of the Interstate Commerce Commission as published in its Circular 18-A.

The attention of all agents, officers, and employees of carriers under Federal control is directed to the fact that any authority which has been or may be given to publish and file with the Interstate Commerce Commission schedules containing rates, fares, charges, classifications, regulations, or practices of carriers under Federal control does not supersede or modify the rules of the Interstate Commerce Commission as to such publication and filing, except as may be expressly stated in such authority, and that these rules of the commission must be complied with, both as to method of publication and notice by filing.

Circular No. 1-A, of July 1, 1918, expressly provides that no application should be made to the Interstate Commerce Commission, or to any State commission, for authority to advance or modify rates, fares, charges, classifications, regulations, or practices applying wholly to carriers under Federal control, nor for authority to publish changes therein on short notice. This makes it unnecessary as to such rates, etc., to file applications commonly known as "Short Notice Applications" or "Fifteenth Section Applications." Otherwise Circular 1-A gives no authority to deviate from the rules of the Interstate Commerce Commission as to publication and filing of either freight or passenger schedules.

Your attention is particularly drawn to the following features:

A suspended schedule may not be canceled, nor may a change be made in a rate, fare, or provision that is held in effect by virtue of a suspension order, except by special permission of the commission.

No tariff or supplement will be accepted for filing unless it is delivered to the commission the full number of days in advance of its effective date as required by law or by the special permission or the authority under which it is issued.

A rate, fare, or provision in a tariff remains the legal rate, fare, or provision until it is lawfully canceled or changed. The publication of a different or conflicting rate, fare, or provision by the same or another carrier, without proper cancellation of the existing rate, fare, or provision by the same carrier that published it does not lawfully effect a change.

All "freight-rate authorities" and "passenger-fare authorities" issued by this division will show specifically the number of days' notice on which publication shall be made, and you are directed to insure the forwarding of schedules published thereunder to the Interstate Commerce Commission in ample time to be received and filed to give the required notice.

EDWARD CHAMBERS,
Director of Traffic.

U. S. RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION CIRCULAR CONCERNING DELIVERY OF FREIGHT WHEN BILLS OF LADING ARE LOST OR DELAYED

UNITED STATES
RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION,
DIVISION OF PUBLIC SERVICE AND ACCOUNTING,
Washington, D. C. July 27, 1918.

P. S. & A. CIRCULAR No. 20.

Consideration has been given to several inquiries concerning the practical application of General Order No. 25, as affecting certain long-established practices of the carriers, and paragraph 5 of the order is amplified to read as follows:

Freight consigned to "order" or to "order notify" shall be delivered only upon surrender to the agent of the carrier of the original bills of lading for such freight and the payment of the freight charges thereon as herein provided. Provided, however, if such a bill of lading be lost or delayed the freight may be delivered in advance of surrender of the bill of lading upon receipt by the carrier's agent of a certified check for an amount equal to one hundred and ten (110) per cent of the invoice, or upon receipt of a surety bond either individual or corporate, acceptable to the treasurer of the carrier, in an amount for twice the amount of the invoice.

Blanket Bond Acceptable.

When conditions require it, a blanket bond may be accepted, but such blanket bond may only cover shipments received at one station on one railroad. If shippers desire to arrange for the delivery of their "order notify" shipments to consignees on shipper's written or telegraphic orders without the surrender of bills of lading, a blanket bond in satisfactory amount must be filed with the treasurer of the initial carrier, and reference to this bond must be shown on shipping orders. Initial carrier will notify all interested lines and show reference to bond on each waybill.

When shipments from foreign countries move on "order notify" bills of lading, delivery may be made to final consignee upon presentation of customhouse certificate indicating deposit of indorsed bill of lading with the customs officer at port of entry or upon presentation of customs permit indicating that consignee has filed bond with customs officer guaranteeing production of bill of lading.

Fruit and Vegetables.

Fruit and vegetables consigned to shipper on "straight bill of lading—original—not negotiable" shall be delivered only upon surrender of consignor's written or telegraphic order for such freight to the agent of the delivering carrier, and the payment of freight and other charges. In such cases a blanket bond, in satisfactory amount, idemnifying the railroads against the delivery of shipments on fraudulent orders, must be filed with the treasurer of the initial carrier, and reference to this bond must be shown on shipping orders. Initial carrier will notify all interested lines, and show reference to bond on each waybill.

Care should be exercised to differentiate the forms of bonds required by the order. The bond applicable to freight charges, provided for by paragraph 2, is not available in compliance with the provisions of paragraph 5. To protect the carrier in the delivery of "order notify" shipments on straight consignments to be delivered on shipper's order, a separate form of bond must be executed; such form of bond has been approved by the Division of Law and is hereto attached.

C. A. PROUTY,
Director.

BOND.

Know all men by these presents that ------, as principal, and -----, as surety, are held and firmly bound unto W. G. McAdoo, Director General of Railroads, operating the following railroad ------, and unto the following railroad company ------, as their respective interests may appear, in the sum of ------ ($------) dollars, the maximum liability hereunder, lawful money of the United States, for the payment of which the said principal, and the said surety, bind themselves, their heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns, jointly and severally, firmly by these presents.

Signed, sealed and dated this ------ day of ------ A. D., 191--.

Whereas, pursuant to the authority granted by General Order No. 25 of the Director General of Railroads, it has been agreed that the said railroad company or companies will deliver "order notify" shipments from the principal to parties designated in written or telegraphic orders from the principal without surrender of bills of lading and will deliver shipments from the principal on "straight bills of lading—original—not negotiable" upon written or telegraphic order from the principal without surrender of bill of lading;

Now, therefore, the condition of this obligation is such that if the principal shall upon demand of the Director General of Railroads, or any railroad under Federal control, pay, or cause to be paid, to said railroad company or companies, all loss or damage incurred by said Director General or any railroad under Federal control, by reason of the delivery of such shipments without surrender of bills of lading, then this obligation shall be void, otherwise to be in full force and effect, subject, however, to the following express conditions:

First. In event of a default by the principal hereon, in any payment for which the surety shall be liable hereunder, the obligee shall give notice of such default to the surety within ninety (90) days after such default, and shall make claim hereunder as promptly as may be convenient.

Second. The surety shall not be liable hereunder for monies accruing after the expiration of sixty (60) days after the receipt by said Director General, and said railroad company, or companies, of written notice from the surety of its desire to withdraw as surety for said principal, and any claim hereunder against the surety must be duly presented to the surety within nine (9) months after such termination of the surety's liability.

Third. In event of payment by the surety of any claim hereunder, the surety shall be subrogated to all the rights of the obligee with respect to such claim, and the obligee shall execute the necessary assignment of the said subrogation.

WAR LABOR BOARD'S RULING AND AWARD IN BETHLEHEM STEEL COMPANY WAGE QUESTION

The National War Labor Board authorizes the following:

The National War Labor Board has rendered its finding in the case of the Bethlehem Steel Co., Bethlehem, Pa.

This decision, one of the most important in many respects which has been reached in the history of the board, grants the workers the right to organize and to bargain collectively, orders the revision or complete elimination of the bonus system now in operation at the plant, the revision of piecework rates, and the establishment of a designated, guaranteed minimum hourly wage rate for some 5,000 machine shop workers in conformity with one of the scales now being applied by the War or Navy Departments; applies the basic eight-hour day with payment of time and half time for all overtime and double time on Sundays and holidays, and provides for just overtime payment to pieceworkers; calls upon the company to pay men and women alike when performing the same work and to allot women no tasks disproportionate to their strength.

Piecework Rates.

It provides that the piecework rates shall be revised by the plant management cooperating with committees of the workers and representatives of the Ordnance Department, which is the department principally interested in the product of the plant; and also that a permanent local board of mediation and conciliation, consisting of six members, three chosen by the company, three by the workers, be established to effect agreements on future disputed points and on disputed points not covered in the award. This board is to be presided over by a chairman to be selected by and to represent the Secretary of War. In addition, an examiner of the War Labor Board is to be assigned to interpret and enforce the award, being specifically instructed to investigate and report to the board upon all charges of discrimination against union men by the company.

Specific Wage Increases.

Specific wage increases are granted to the 440 electrical workers who made an issue of their wage rates. They demanded increases to 67½ cents an hour for electricians and at least 40 cents an hour for helpers. The board awarded 67½ cents an hour for first-class electricians, 62½ cents for second-class electricians, and 40 cents for helpers. Wages for other workers will be fixed through the system of bargaining and cooperation between the company and the men provided for in the award. Approximately 28,000 workers will be affected by the award.

The case came before the War Labor Board on May 7, following a series of strikes by machinists and electrical workers, and after various Government agencies bent on mediation had exhausted their efforts to effect a settlement. Since that date the War Labor Board has conducted a thorough investigation into the relations of the company and its workers, both by hearings of facts and investigations of conditions. Hearings were first held in Washington by a section of the board composed of Herbert H. Rice, vice president of the General Motors Co., and Thomas J. Savage, executive officer of the International Association of Machinists. The section disagreed, however, and the case came before the entire board, which instructed the secretary, W. Jett Lauck, to conduct an investigation in the field. Hearings were held in Bethlehem by Mr. Lauck and by H. S. Hanna, chief examiner, and these were supplemented by the work of trained investigators.

Eight-Hour Day Principle.

Stated generally, the workers demanded the application of the basic eight-hour day, with time and half time for overtime, with double pay for Sundays and holidays; the right to bargain collectively through committees; prohibition of discrimination of any kind because of trade-union activities; readjustment of the hourly and piecework rates on the basis of the rates paid in the shipyards of the Bethlehem Steel Co.; elimination of the bonus system of payment. It was contended by the machinists' representatives that the bonus system, with the alleged practice of continually changing rates under it, operated to hamper production because the men do not understand the method by which their pay is computed. They asserted that the bonus method was in effect a substitute of time and half time for overtime. On the other hand, the company maintained that the bonus system offered a premium for increased production and that the time and one-half was paid independent of the bonus.

Concerning collective bargaining, representatives of the men said the controversy would have been settled had the company chosen to meet with committees of its own workers. The president and vice president of the company stated that the custom of the company in dealing individually with its employees would not be changed and that no committee in the choice of which the management had not some voice would be received.

Claims of Machinists.

The machinists said the question of collective bargaining was an issue as vital to them as the methods of payment and conditions in the shops; for it was, they said, the refusal of the company to meet a committee of the workers, seeking to discuss the question of overtime payment at the time the working day was changed from 8 hours to 10 hours and 25 minutes, that caused the strikes at the plant. They made no demands for a closed union shop or for union recognition, but merely that the company receive committees of its own workers selected by their fellow workers. They presented evidence to support their assertion that the machinists' union was denied the privilege of meeting in any hall or meeting place in the city of Bethlehem and that its leaders and members were discriminated against in various ways, including dismissal from the shops. It was charged that a number of workmen were taken from the shops by the police because they held membership in the machinists' union. A list of names of 91 union workers was submitted by the workers. They declared it to be a copy of a list furnished the employment officers at the various shops. It was captioned, "These men are undesirable and should not be employed." Several witnesses testified that they had been discharged in one shop and secured employment under false names in others. One of these workers told his story in the presence of Vice President H. A. Lewis, who told him to go back to the original shop under his right name and promised the board that he would penalize a particular foreman against whom charges of unfair dealing had been made. It was also brought out that J. A. Kresge, proprietor of the Colonial Hall, leased a portion of the building for a meeting of the machinists, but later refused to permit the meeting on the ground that he had been instructed by the chief of police against permitting labor unions to meet in the building. The chief of police admitted this on the witness stand. Archibald Johnson, vice-president of the company, is the mayor of the city.

Attitude of Company.

The attitude of the company with respect to collective bargaining, as expressed by Eugene C. Grace, the president, was that the company was willing to meet employees individually, but not through committees or by any methods "savoring of organization." As to charges of discrimination against union workers, Vice President Lewis said: "So far as the company knows, there is no such thing."

The machinists employed at Bethlehem held their meetings in the city of Allentown. Following the first hearing of the case in Washington they caught a Pinkerton detective in their meeting. The man was arrested and fined $50 by the mayor of Allentown.

The investigations of the board revealed conditions that undoubtedly were reflected in lost production of important war materials. It was discovered, for instance, that during the year ended May 31, 1918, the company employed 57,423 workers, while during the same period 56,771 left for other employments. It was stated that during the Bethlehem hearings by Vice President Lewis that the labor turnover for the month of May, 1918, was 10.39 per cent, or at the rate of 118 per cent per year.

A charge made by the men, testimony in support of which was turned over to the War Department, was that the company was employing the draft law to coerce workers into remaining at the plant.

The importance of the case from the standpoint of the Government's war program was emphasized by representaives of the War Department in several communications to the board.

Following is the board's decision and award in full:

NATIONAL WAR LABOR BOARD.

MACHINISTS AND ELECTRICAL WORKERS AND OTHER EMPLOYEES

MEDALS FOR U. S. WAR WORKERS TO BE READY ABOUT SEPT. 1

The Department of Labor authorizes the following:

The design for the United States War Industries Badge has been created and every effort will be made to have the dies completed and the first batch of medals in readiness by September 1, the date set for inaugurating the award of the Department of Labor's industrial service insignia to deserving civilian war workers.

All Patriotic Workers Eligible.

On and after that date, every man and woman who is faithfully doing his or her share in producing war supplies will be eligible for this Federal recognition of patriotism, proved by unflagging effort in shipyards, munition plants, and factories engaged on Government contracts.

The awarding of the War Industries Badges as an insignia of merit to deserving industrial workers has been authorized by Secretary of Labor Wilson, on the recommendation of the War Labor Policies Board following an agreement between the war production departments of the Government.

This move to extend official recognition to civilian war workers is responsive to the general acknowledgment that those who are steadily producing war supplies are taking a vital part in the prosecution of the war, second only to the part played by the men in actual contact with the enemy.

Form of the Badge.

Charles T. Clayton, director of the Civilian Insignia Service of the Department of Labor, announces that the War Industries Badge will be disk-shaped, slightly larger than a quarter, and will be attached to a red, white, and blue enamel bar 1¾ inches long. Four consecutive months of uninterrupted service in war production will entitle a worker to the first badge, which will be of bronze. Eligibility to the second badge, which will be cast from the same die, but made of different metal, possibly silver, will result from eight consecutive months of war service. Award of the bronze badge will be retroactive on properly supported application, but no silver badges will be given for industrial war service performed prior to September 1.

For the present eligibility to the War Industries Badge will be limited to civilian workers in industries under the supervision of a Government official, or in a plant that is certified to the Civilian Insignia Service by the chief of a Government department as being of sufficient importance in war production to have the badge issued to its workers. In all cases, only those actually engaged on Government contracts shall be eligible.

The artist chosen to design the medal is Jo Davidson, of New York, one of whose recent commissions was to prepare for the French Government a heroic group commemorating the first victory of the Marne. This statue will be placed at the high-water mark of German invasion, where Gen. Joffre broke the Kaiser's drive on Paris in the early days of war.

War Labor Board Ruling and Award in Bethlehem Steel Wage Controversy

unquestionable importance from the standpoint of the war. It appears beyond doubt that the dissatisfaction among the employees of the company has had and is having a seriously detrimental effect upon the production of war materials absolutely necessary to the success of the American Expeditionary Forces. This was clearly developed in the testimony of the officials of the Ordnance Department.

The main cause of the dissatisfaction is a bonus system so complicated and difficult to understand that almost one-half of the time of the hearings was consumed in efforts to secure a clear idea of the system. The absence of any method of collective bargaining between the management and the employees is another serious cause of unrest; as is also the lack of a basic guaranteed minimum wage rate.

After having carefully reviewed all the evidence in the case the board makes the following findings:

1. Piece rates. Bonus and basic hourly rates, machine shops.—(a) That the bonus system now in operation should be entirely revised or eliminated; that piecework rates should be revised also; and that a designated, guaranteed minimum hourly wage rate be established in conformity with one of the scales now being applied by the War and Navy Departments as most nearly fits the conditions in this particular case. (b) That any necessary revision of piecework rates shall be made by an expert in cooperation with the Ordnance Department, the plant management, and a committee from the shops, such expert to be selected by the National War Labor Board and with the approval of the Secretary of War. (c) That the piece rates thus established shall not be reduced during the period of the war.

2. Overtime.—That the principle of daily overtime should be compensated at the rate of time and a half and double time on Sundays and holidays. That in the fixing of piece rates provisions be made for overtime payment such as are now provided in the case of time workers. The application as to the definition of what days constitute holidays and the division of the weekly work periods can in the opinion of the board be best settled by conference between committees hereinafter provided and the management of the plant.

3. Committees.—The right of the employees to bargain collectively is recognized by the National War Labor Board; therefore the employees of the Bethlehem plant should be guaranteed this right. The workers at the Bethlehem plant should use the same method of electing committees as is provided in the award of the National War Labor Board for the workers of the General Electric Co. at Pittsfield.

4. Employment of women.—That on work ordinarily performed by men women must be allowed equal pay for equal work and must not be allotted tasks disproportionate to their strength.

5. Military exemption.—That the evidence relative to the complaints of the workers that foremen and other subordinate officials of the plant have made improper use of the selective draft act shall be referred to the War Department for such action as may be warranted by the facts and the law.

6. Electrical workers.—The board finds in the case of the electrical workers that the following rates should be established: First class, 67½ cents per hour; second class, 62½ cents per hour; helpers, 40 cents per hour. Overtime provisions should be the same as hereinbefore specified.

7. Other departments.—That wages and working conditions of other departments and crafts shall be considered and adjusted by the committees provided for in paragraph "b," subsection 1.

8. Local board.—That a local board of mediation and conciliation, consisting of six members, shall be established, three members of which shall be selected by the company and three by the employees, for the purpose of bringing about agreements on disputed issues not covered by this finding. In the event of the local board failing to bring about an agreement, the points at issue shall be referred to the National War Labor Board. The members of the local board shall be compensated for their services by the parties whom they represent. This board shall be presided over by a chairman, who shall be selected by and represent the Secretary of War.

9. No reductions.—The revision of wages or earnings provided for in this award shall in no case operate to reduce the wages or earnings of any employee.

10. Discrimination. — The examiner hereinafter provided for shall investigate the charges of discrimination, and shall report his conclusions, with recommendations, in each unsettled case to the National War Labor Board and to the company.

11. Examiner.—The National War Labor Board shall detail an examiner to supervise the application of this finding. The examiner shall hear any differences arising between the parties in respect to this finding, from which an appeal may be taken by either party to the National War Labor Board. Pending the appeal the decision of the examiner shall be enforced.

12. Duration.—This finding is to take effect August 1, 1918, and shall be effective for the duration of the war, except that either party may reopen the case before the board at periods of six-month intervals for such adjustments as changed conditions may render necessary.

13. The board desires to point out to both parties to this controversy that the questions raised and for which the board has endeavored to find solution have largely to do with matters which will require a reasonable time to satisfactorily adjust, and that in view of the vital importance of the output of the Bethlehem Steel Co. both sides should address themselves with patience and good spirit to finding fair and reasonable adjustments of the matters to which the board here directs attention.

FRANK P. WALSH,
Joint Chairmen.

COMPTROLLER'S ANALYSIS OF NATIONAL BANK CONDITIONS

The Comptroller of the Currency authorizes the following:

The reports of condition of all national banks, as of June 29, 1918, just compiled, show total resources on that date of $17,839,502,000. This is an increase over the corresponding call a year ago, June 20, 1917, of $1,688,462,000, but a reduction as compared with the call of May 10, 1918, of $410,403,000.

It is noteworthy that the total resources of the national banks of our country at this time exceed by more than a billion dollars the whole world's production of gold from the discovery of America in 1492 up to the year 1917 as officially estimated, the world's production of gold for the 424 years indicated being reported at $16,601,641,319.

Deposits.—Total deposits of all national banks on June 29, 1918, were $14,021,609,000, an increase over June 20, 1917, of $1,249,776,000, but a reduction from May 10, 1918, of $363,511,000.

Loans and Discounts.

Loans and discounts amounted on June 29, 1918, to $9,620,402,000, an increase over June 20, 1917, of $808,090,000, and an increase over May 10, 1918, of $360,361,000.

The holdings of United States bonds, including Liberty bonds and United States certificates of indebtedness, amounted to $2,116,785,000, an increase over June 20, 1917, of $1,040,529,000, but a reduction as compared with May 10, 1918, of $540,738,000. The increase since June 20, 1917, is mainly in United States short-term certificates of indebtedness.

The cash on hand and due from Federal reserve banks June 29, 1918, was $1,696,150,000, an increase over the corresponding call of June 20, 1917, of $122,855,000 and a reduction as compared with May 10, 1918, of $43,690,000.

Circulation outstanding on June 29, 1918, was $681,631,000, an increase over June 20, 1917, of $21,200,000, and an increase over May 10, 1918, of $1,186,000.

Bills Payable, Etc.

Bills payable and rediscounts on June 29, 1918, amounted to $883,923,000, an increase over June 20, 1917, of $512,974,000, and an increase over May 10, 1918, of $39,752,000.

The reserve and central reserve cities showing an increase in deposits of 3 million or more since May 10, 1918, were: San Francisco, 30 million; Cleveland, 16 million; Pittsburgh, 12 million; Boston, 8 million; Columbus and Detroit, each 4 million; Baltimore, 3 million; Indianapolis, 3 million.

The reserve and central reserve cities showing a reduction in deposits of as much as 5 million were: New York, with 68 million; Philadelphia, 33 million; Kansas City, Mo., 21 million; St. Louis, 19 million; Dallas, 14 million; Minneapolis, 13 million; Buffalo, 11 million; Omaha, 11 million; Chicago, 8 million; Cincinnati, 7 million; New Orleans, 6 million; Atlanta, 6 million; Fort Worth, 5 million.

The only States whose country banks showed in the aggregate an increase in deposits of 3 million or more were: Connecticut, 6 million; Ohio, 5 million; Massachusetts, 4 million.

The States in whose country banks the falling off in deposits since May 10 amounted to 10 million or more were: Texas, 22 million; New York, 15 million; Pennsylvania, 11 million; Iowa, 13 million; Illinois, 11 million.

Over 20 Million Americans Hold Bonds Thus Far Issued on Account of the War; Fourth Liberty Loan to Be Opened Sept. 28

The Treasury Department authorizes the following:

The United States entered the war on April 6, 1917. Eighteen days later by a practically unanimous vote Congress passed the Liberty loan bond bill.

On May 2 the first Liberty loan was announced, on May 14 the details were made public, and on the 15th the campaign began and closed one month later. The issue was for $2,000,000,000, the bonds bearing 3½ per cent interest and running for 15–30 years. The bonds carried the conversion privilege, entitling the holder, if he chose, to convert them into bonds of a later issue bearing a higher rate of interest.

Oversubscribed a Billion.

Four and a half million subscribers from every section of the country, representing every condition, race, and class of citizens, subscribed for more than $3,000,000,000 of the bonds. Only $2,000,000,000 was allotted.

The outstanding features of the first Liberty loan were the promptness with which it was arranged and conducted, the patriotism of the newspapers, banks, corporations, organizations, and people generally in working for its success, and the heavy oversubscription of more than 50 per cent. Another notable feature was that there was no interruption to the business of the country occasioned by the unprecedented demand upon its money resources.

The Second Loan.

The second Liberty loan campaign opened on October 1, 1917, and closed on October 27. The bonds of this issue bear 4 per cent interest and run for 10–25 years. They carry the conversion privilege. It was announced that 50 per cent of the oversubscription would be taken. Nine million subscribers subscribed to $4,617,532,000 of the bonds, an oversubscription of 54 per cent. Only $3,808,766,150 of the bonds was allotted.

This campaign was marked with the same enthusiastic support of the public as its predecessor. The labor and fraternal organizations were especially active in this campaign, and the women of the country did efficient organized work which greatly contributed to the success of the loan. The men in the Army and Navy worked for and subscribed largely to the loan.

Third Bond Issue.

The third Liberty loan campaign opened on April 6, 1918, one year exactly after our entrance into the war, and closed on May 4. The bonds of this issue bear 4¼ per cent interest and run for 10 years, are not subject to redemption prior to maturity, and carry no conversion privilege. The loan was announced for $3,000,000,000, but the right was reserved to accept all additional subscriptions. Seventeen million subscribers subscribed for $4,170,019,650 of the bonds, all of which was allotted.

A great feature of this loan was its very wide distribution among the people and throughout the Union and the fact that the country districts promptly and heavily subscribed to the loan, in a great measure making up their quotas earlier than the cities. Secretary McAdoo pronounced this loan the soundest of national financing.

Vast Army of Bondholders.

A little over a year ago there was some 300,000 United States bondholders; there are now somewhere between 20,000,000 and 25,000,000. Awakened patriotism has made the American people a saving people, a bond-buying people. The effect of the Liberty loans on the national character, on our national life, on the individual citizen and our home life is immeasurable—of incalculable benefit. Not less incalculable is their effect on the destiny of the world as our ships plow the seas and our men and material in Europe beat back the Hun.

The fourth Liberty loan campaign will begin Saturday, September 28, and close October 19. No American doubts its success; no good American will fail to contribute to its success. The blood of our men fallen in Europe calls to us; our answer must be and will be worthy of them and our country.

WASTE RECLAMATION IS SUBJECT OF CONFERENCE

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

Hugh Frayne, member of the War Industries Board and chairman of its War Prison Labor and Reclamation Section, held a meeting recently with various section chiefs in the War Industries Board and representatives of other agencies concerning the important matter of waste reclamation. He explained the general plan in order that there might be uniformity of method and cooperation among the various agencies in reclaiming materials much needed in the Government's war program. Several of these agencies have been operating on different, if not conflicting, plans.

As an illustration of the value of the reclamation work that can be done, Mr. Frayne pointed out that during June and July 17,000 soldiers were completely outfitted with shoes, hats, and clothing out of material which other soldiers had discarded. All of this material was disinfected, renovated, and repaired or remade, instead of being allowed to go to the junk pile. This work was done through the reclamation division of the Quartermaster's Department, of which Col. J. S. Fair is in charge.

New Regulations in Support of Policy of Absolute Repression of Prostitution in the Vicinity of Army and Navy Camps

New regulations in support of the War and Navy Departments' policy of absolute repression of prostitution in the vicinity of Army and Navy camps and stations have been signed by Secretaries Baker and Daniels, it is announced officially by the law-enforcement division of the Commissions on Training Camp Activities.

Within a radius of 10 miles of all Army and Navy camps, stations, posts, forts, etc., prostitution or the aiding or abetting of it in any way is declared unlawful. Heretofore the zone was but 5 miles in width. The change is significant, because many important camps and stations are located more than 5 but less than 10 miles from the nearest large cities.

Agreed Upon at Conference.

The new regulations were agreed upon at a conference held by representatives of the War and Navy Departments, the Department of Justice, and of the training camp commissions.

The following regulations are established by the Secretary of War, to continue during the present emergency, and shall supersede all former regulations issued under the aforesaid authority:

1. Ten miles from any military camp, station, fort, post, cantonment, training, or mobilization place is hereby designated as the distance determined to be needful to the efficiency and welfare of the Army, within which it shall be unlawful to engage in prostitution or to aid or abet prostitution or to procure or solicit for purposes of prostitution, or to keep or set up a house of ill fame, brothel, or bawdy house, or to receive any person for purposes of lewdness, assignation, or prostitution into any vehicle, conveyance, place, structure, or building, or to permit any person to remain for purposes of lewdness, assignation, or prostitution in any vehicle, conveyance, place, structure, or building.

Transportation Prohibitions.

2. To suppress and prevent violation of the aforesaid act, within 10 miles of any military camp, station, fort, post, cantonment, training or mobilization place, directing, taking, or transporting, or offering to take or transport, any person, for immoral purposes, to, or assisting by any means any person for such purposes to find, any prostitute or any house of ill fame, brothel, or bawdy house, with knowledge or reasonable cause to know of the character of the person or house, is hereby prohibited.

3. To suppress and prevent violation of the aforesaid act, within 10 miles of any military camp, station, fort, post, cantonment, training or mobilization place, entering or residing in, for immoral purposes, any house of ill fame, brothel, or bawdy house is hereby prohibited.

4. All prior violations of former regulations and all penalties incurred thereunder shall be prosecuted and enforced in the same manner and with the same effect as if these superseding regulations had not been established.

NEWTON D. BAKER,
Secretary of War.

AUGUST 1, 1918.

By Secretary of the Navy.

The regulations established by the Secretary of the Navy are as follows:

NAVY DEPARTMENT,
Washington, D. C., August 3, 1918.

General Order No. 411:

1. Section 13 of the selective-draft act, approved May 18, 1917, as amended and reenacted by Chapter XIV of the act making appropriations for the support of the Army for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, approved July 9, 1918, reads as follows:

"That during the present emergency it shall be unlawful, within such reasonable distance of any military camp, station, fort, post, cantonment, training or mobilization place as the Secretary of War shall determine to be needful to the efficiency and welfare of the Army, and shall designate and publish in general orders or bulletins, to engage in prostitution or to aid or abet prostitution or to procure or solicit for purposes of prostitution, or to keep or set up a house of ill fame, brothel, or bawdy house, or to receive any person for purposes of lewdness, assignation, or prostitution into any vehicle, conveyance, place, structure, or building, or to permit any person to remain for purposes of lewdness, assignation, or prostitution in any vehicle, conveyance, place, structure, or building and any person, corporation, partnership, or association violating the provisions of this chapter shall, unless otherwise punishable under the Articles of War, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and any person subject to military law violating this chapter shall be punished as provided by the Articles of War, and the Secretary of War is hereby authorized, empowered, and directed to do everything by him deemed necessary to suppress and prevent violation thereof."

2. Section 13 of the selective-draft act, above cited, is amended by the act approved October 6, 1917, which reads as follows:

"That in construing the provisions of sections 12 and 13 of the selective-draft act approved May 18, 1917, the word 'Army' shall extend to and include 'Navy'; the word 'military' shall include 'naval'; 'Article of War' shall include 'Articles for the government of the Navy.' The words 'camps, station, cantonment, camp, fort, post, officers' or enlisted men's club,' in section 12, and 'camp, station, fort, post, cantonment, training, or mobilization place,' in section 13, shall include such places under naval jurisdiction as the President may prescribe, and the powers therein conferred upon the Secretary of War with regard to the military service are hereby conferred upon the Secretary of the Navy with regard to the naval service."

3. The President has prescribed that the words "camp, station, fort, post, cantonment, training, or mobilization place," as contained in section 13 above, shall include all places under naval jurisdiction. Under the authority of said section, as amended, the following regulations are issued by the Secretary of the Navy; they shall supersede all former regulations issued under the aforesaid authority (G. O. 359) and continue during the present emergency:

(1) Ten miles from any place under naval jurisdiction is hereby designated as the distance determined to be needful to the efficiency and welfare of the Navy, within which it shall be unlawful to engage in prostitution or to aid or abet prostitution or to procure or solicit for purposes of prostitution, or to keep or set up a house of ill fame, brothel, or bawdyhouse, or to receive any person for purposes of lewdness, assignation, or prostitution into any vehicle, conveyance, place, structure, or building, or to permit any person to remain for purposes of lewdness, assignation, or prostitution in any vehicle, conveyance, place, structure, or building.

(2) To suppress and prevent violation of the aforesaid act within 10 miles of any place under naval jurisdiction, directing, taking, or transporting, or offering to take or transport, any person for immoral purposes to or assisting by any means any person for such purposes to find, any prostitute or any house of ill fame, brothel, or bawdyhouse, with knowledge or reasonable cause to know of the character of the person or house, is hereby prohibited.

(3) To suppress and prevent violation of the aforesaid act, within 10 miles of any place under naval jurisdiction, entering or residing in, for immoral purposes, any house of illfame, brothel, or bawdyhouse is hereby prohibited.

(4) All prior violations of former regulations and all penalties incurred thereunder shall be prosecuted and enforced in the same manner and with the same effect as if these superseding regulations had not been established.

JOSEPHUS DANIELS,
Secretary of the Navy.

GERMAN DECREE IS ISSUED FOR CONTROL OF THE PAPER TRADE

Consul General Halstead, at Stockholm, Sweden, reports:

The Reichsanzeiger of May 25 published a decree for Government control of paper and pasteboard. Under this decree only those who were engaged in the paper trade previous to June 1, 1916, are permitted to continue in business, except upon evidence that they are untrustworthy.

Persons not engaged in the paper trade who are in the possession of more than 20 kilos of paper may not sell them without permission from the Kriegswirtschaftstelle (War Economy Office) for the Deutsch Zeitungsgewerbe (German Newspaper Trade), which organization has authority to seize paper held in stock.—Commerce Reports.

STEAMER KELLOGG TORPEDOED AND SUNK OFF JERSEY COAST; 7 OF CREW REPORTED MISSING

35 SURVIVORS LAND AT NEW YORK

Schooners and Submarine Chaser Bring to the Massachusetts Coast Survivors of Other Vessels Sent Down by Submarines.

The Navy Department is informed that the steamship Henry S. Kellogg was torpedoed and sunk at 5 p. m. yesterday, about 30 miles south of the Ambrose Channel lightship. Thirty-five of the survivors have been landed at New York; seven members of the crew are reported missing.

The Navy Department is informed that a schooner brought to Provincetown, Mass., yesterday morning the master and five survivors of the schooner Reliance, which was sunk by a submarine August 10. Another vessel brought into Boston members of the crews of the Progress, Lena May, and Star Buck.

A submarine chaser arrived at Nantucket with 10 survivors from the fishing fleet—six from the schooner Earle L. Netty and four from the schooner Alida May, which was sunk at 6 a. m., August 10. Those from the Netty are: Thomas Hendrick, captain and owner, 496 Court Street, Brooklyn; Azro Bly, 265 Howard Street, Boston; Thomas McGowan, Noank, Conn.; Joseph Antone Peters, Hicks Street, Brooklyn; Thomas Jensen, 539 Clinton Street, Brooklyn; Toleff Torkelsen, 14 Howard Street, Boston, Mass. Those from the Alida May are: Arthur Rodenheiser, 519 North Front Street, New Bedford, Conn.; John Hamilton, 16 Prospect Hill, Newport; George R. Dickson, East Boston, Mass.; George Amiro, Publico, Nova Scotia.

Four survivors of the schooner Katie Palmer were landed by a schooner at New Bedford Monday, and three others were landed at Nantucket Monday night.

Survivors of the Earle L. Netty report that, in addition to the schooners named above, the submarine on August 10 sank the Sybil, of Boston; the Cruiser, of Boston; and the Mary Sennett, of Gloucester, Mass.

HOSPITAL APPRENTICE WOUNDED.

The Navy Department is informed that Savala Eustace Gunn, hospital apprentice, first class, United States Navy, attached to a headquarters company, United States Marine Corps, was severely wounded in action in France June 22; mother, Mrs. Mary B. Gunn, Sutherland, Va.

250 Watchmen Wanted for Government Jobs; Age Limits, 22 to 65

The Department of Labor authorizes the following:

Two hundred and fifty watchmen or guards are wanted at once, at salaries of $70 to $75 a month. White men only can be employed, and applicants should inquire at once at the office of the United States Employment Service, 1410 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C.

Only men physically active and intelligent and exempt from the draft can be used in this work. The age limits are 22 to 65 years.

The jobs must be filled at once and therefore applicants should come to the employment office without delay.

Keep Bulletin Posted in All U. S. Post Offices

Reports having been made that at some post offices THE OFFICIAL (United States) BULLETIN is not being posted regularly for public reading in accordance with Postmaster General Burleson's orders, postmasters are again reminded of this important duty. It should be remembered that THE BULLETIN is the only publication available to all sections of the country that prints daily the complete and correct casualty lists from our armies oversea exactly as they are issued by the War Department. Many newspapers print only the lists having local interest in their own territory. THE BULLETIN prints every name and address, thus making it a certain means of informing friends and relatives, wherever they may be, of the fate of a soldier or sailor, no matter where his home town or city.

Postmasters are urged, aside from their duty as officials, to make it their patriotic and personal duty to see that the public has the fullest benefit of this privilege.

The Postmaster General's order follows:—

All postmasters are directed to post the OFFICIAL BULLETIN daily in a conspicuous place in the lobby or other portion of their respective post-office buildings where the public can read it; and, without expense to the Government, each and every postmaster is earnestly urged to see that this BULLETIN is made available to as many people as possible in the manner suggested.

A. S. BURLESON,
Postmaster General.

FISMETTE AGAIN OCCUPIED BY THE AMERICAN FORCES, GEN. MARCH ANNOUNCES IN DAILY PRESS INTERVIEW

MARNE LINE THE SAME

British-French Attacks Are Somewhat Extended—Counter Attacks by the Enemy—Should Not Call U. S. Soldiers "Sammies"—No American Troops Landed in Siberia—Rank of Gen. Pershing's Chief of Staff.

PRESS INTERVIEW BY GEN. MARCH, AUGUST 14, 1918.

The line across the Marne salient is practically where it was when I talked to you on Saturday morning. We have official information this morning that the German attack which drove our troops out of Fismette for a short period of time was met by a counterattack on our part and we now are holding Fismette again.

British-French Attack Extended.

Concerning the British-French attack, which was in operation on Saturday when I talked to you: The rapid retreat of the enemy which had begun on August 8, on the plain between the Ancre and Avre was extended to include the remaining southern portion of the Montdidier salient, which ground was no longer tenable, because the railroad communications at that point were threatened. On the Avre and the Oise the French pressed forward on a front of 29 miles, gaining on last Saturday to a depth of 6 or 8 miles.

On the plains north of the Avre the British and French encountered resistance near the 1916–17 line, which was held by the Germans before they withdrew to the so-called Hindenberg defensive line. There the enemy probably found ready for them the same old trenches they had before.

Counter Attacks Repulsed.

Counter attacks by the enemy have been repulsed at Chipilly, where the 131st Infantry of the 33d United States Division was engaged. In that connection we have a report showing that this regiment itself captured 3 officers and 150 men, and seven 105-caliber guns.

Counter attack by the enemy was also repulsed at Lihons, which is a flat ridge west of Chaulnes.

Allied tanks, cavalry, and armored cars advanced ahead of the line at several points, but the line itself came to rest about the old 1916–17 line.

Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday progress was made by the British and French south of the Avre, particularly by the French, who gained possession of the bluff near Lassigny, a small plateau 250 feet above the plains and 450 feet above the Oise Valley. The French pushed up the slopes, which are very heavily wooded, and around the western end and over the flat top. The line there still falls short of the old 1916–17 line. The salient has been trimmed to a maximum depth of 14 miles. The enemy's line is now more than 50 miles from Paris at the nearest point.

Doesn't Like to Be Called "Sammy."

The conduct of the American troops continues to win highest praise from our British and French allies. In that connection, if there is one thing that the American soldier dislikes in France it is to be called a "Sammy." Nobody seems to know how that term started, but on seeing the strong, virile men from over here the British rejected it at once, and they call the American troops "Yanks."

The statement in some of the papers that it was originated by the French is absolutely not so, because all the French people want to have it explained why it is these big, strong men are called "Sammies." Nobody in France wants to be called by that name, and nobody here ought to call them "Sammies."

Gen. Pershing cabled that on August 10 he had formally organized the First American Army, which has already been reported in the press, and had taken personal command of it.

Questions and Answers.

Question. Is the 33d Division operating as a division?

Answer. The official dispatches simply indicate the regiment which I have given you. The 131st Infantry of the 33d Division took part in the fighting and made those captures.

Question. Can you tell anything about the recent fighting and casualties of the 28th Division?

Answer. The 28th Division on July 16, during the enemy's offensive, held a sector of the line south of the Marne and southwest of Dormans. On July 28 and 31 it advanced across the Ourcq, having the 42d Division on its left and the 3d Division on the right, and passed over the plateau to the north between Sergy and Roncheres. On August 6 it was again reported as relieving the 32d Division on the Vesle near Fismes. It was still there on August 10. The confidential reports indicate it had 400 casualties in the 24 hours of July 30, which is the only specific statement about casualties in that Division.

The First Field Army.

Question. Would you be willing to explain the significance of forming the first American Field Army?

Answer. The organization of the American Expeditionary Force has progressed gradually. When the number of divisions gave the strength necessary for the formation of a corps, which is six divisions

President's Proclamation Putting Into Effect Law Designed to Prevent the Acquisition of U. S. Ships or Yards by Foreign Interests

By the President of the United States of America:

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, an act of Congress, entitled "Shipping act, 1916," approved September 7, 1916, as amended by an act of Congress entitled "An act to amend the act approved September 7, 1916, entitled, 'An act to establish a United States Shipping Board for the purpose of encouraging, developing, and creating a naval auxiliary and naval reserve and a merchant marine to meet the requirements of the commerce of the United States with its territories and possessions and with foreign countries; to regulate carriers by water in the foreign and interstate commerce of the United States; and for other purposes,'" approved July 15, 1918, contains the following provisions:

SEC. 37. That when the United States is at war or during any national emergency, the existence of which is declared by proclamation of the President, it shall be unlawful, without first obtaining the approval of the board:

(a) To transfer or to place under any foreign registry or flag any vessel owned in whole or in part by any person a citizen of the United States or by a corporation organized under the laws of the United States, or of any State, Territory, District, or possession thereof; or

(b) To sell, mortgage, lease, charter, deliver, or in any manner transfer, or agree to sell, mortgage, lease, charter, deliver, or in any manner transfer, to any person not a citizen of the United States (1) any such vessel or any interest therein, or (2) any vessel documented under the laws of the United States, or any interest therein, or (3) any shipyard, dry dock, shipbuilding or ship-repairing plant or facilities, or any interest therein; or

(c) To enter into any contract, agreement, or understanding to construct a vessel within the United States for or to be delivered to any person not a citizen of the United States, without expressly stipulating that such construction shall not begin until after the war or emergency proclaimed by the President has ended; or

(d) To make any agreement, or effect any understanding whereby there is vested in or for the benefit of any person not a citizen of the United States, the controlling interest or a majority of the voting power in a corporation which is organized under the laws of the United States, or of any State, Territory, District, or possession thereof, and which owns any vessel, shipyard, dry dock, or ship-building or ship-repairing plant or facilities; or

(e) To cause or procure any vessel constructed in whole or in part within the United States, which has never cleared for any foreign port, to depart from a port of the United States before it has been documented under the laws of the United States.

And whereas the destruction of maritime tonnage during the present war has rendered it imperative that the American merchant marine be retained under American control and free from alien influence;

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, acting under authority conferred in me by said act, do hereby proclaim that a state of war and a national emergency within the meaning of said act do now exist, and I do hereby enjoin all persons from doing of the things in said act declared to be unlawful.

For the purposes of said act of Congress, the national emergency herein proclaimed shall be deemed to continue until its termination has been evidenced by a proclamation of the President.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the District of Columbia this 7th day of August, in the year of our Lord 1918, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and forty-third.

[SEAL.] WOODROW WILSON.

By the President:

FRANK L. POLK,
Acting Secretary of State.

Act to Prevent Transfer of U. S. Ship to Foreigner Explained by Mr. Hurley

The United States Shipping Board, through Edward N. Hurley, chairman, authorizes the following statement:

The President's proclamation, made public to-day (Aug. 14), puts into effect the provisions of the recently adopted amendments to the shipping act designed to make it impossible for foreign interests to obtain control of American shipping or shipyards.

The new act provides that during war or national emergency proclaimed by the President it is a criminal offense to sell, mortgage, lease, or deliver an American ship to a foreigner without the consent of the Shipping Board, or to make any agreement by which control of a ship is turned over to a foreigner. The prohibition applies not only to completed ships, but to ships under construction. It is also made illegal, without the board's consent, to make any contract for ship construction for foreign account, unless the contract expressly provides that construction on the ship shall not begin until after the war or emergency has ended. Shipyards, also, can not be transferred to foreigners without the consent of the Shipping Board.

The act also has provisions which it is believed will absolutely prevent all attempts to evade the ship-transfer sections of the law by means of dummy directors and stockholders in corporations nominally American but actually dominated by foreigners.

Recruits Still Wanted by the Shipping Board for Merchant Marine

The United States Shipping Board authorizes the following:

Chairman Hurley has called attention to the fact that volunteering for the merchant marine is not suspended by the recent order holding up recruiting for the Army and Navy pending the passage of the new draft bill. Men are being accepted for training by the Shipping Board as sailors, firemen, cooks, and stewards. Chairman Hurley said:

"The board needs 1,500 firemen at once. It has 6,000 drug store and enrolling stations at which the men wanted in all grades may volunteer."

MR. PIEZ RENAMED MANAGER OF THE FLEET CORPORATION

The United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation makes the following announcement:

Charles Piez has again been named general manager of the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation. At the time of the appointment of Charles M. Schwab as director general of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, Mr. Piez resigned his title as general manager and retained that only of vice president in charge of construction.

Mr. Piez, however, continued at all times to handle the office details of the corporation, Mr. Schwab not desiring to encumber himself with them. The appointment of Mr. Piez as general manager merely recognizes a condition that has existed.

The readjustment of the organization of the Emergency Fleet Corporation in addition to naming Mr. Piez general manager, also confirms Mr. Howard Coonley as vice president in charge of administration, subject to the managerial direction of Mr. Piez. The direction of auditing, finance, contract, general office, publication division, personnel section, and industrial relations group are directly under Mr. Coonley's charge.

J. L. Ackerson was made executive assistant to the general director and his duties will include the direction of the division of shipyard plants, supply, wood ship and steel ship construction, passenger transportation and housing, plant protection, and planning and requirement section.

Mr. Schwab has outlined more specifically the duties and activities of his assistants in the Emergency Fleet Corporation in order to define more clearly the lines of responsibility and control.

Second Assistant P. M. Gen.

Report of Allegheny Regional Director on Railroad Operations for Two Months

The United States Railroad Administration authorizes the following:

Mr. McAdoo has received the following report from C. H. Markham, regional director for the Allegheny region of the United States Railroad Administration, summarizing the work of the railroads in that region for the two-month period ended July 31, 1918:

AUGUST 6, 1918.

MY DEAR SIR: There follows a brief review of the work of the Allegheny region organization for the two-month period beginning June 1 and ending July 31:

Transportation conditions during June and July were fair and showed continued improvement. Freight traffic, considering the volume, moved with reasonable promptness. There was no congestion, as the movement of business to the larger industrial centers and for export is controlled by permits. The embargo against lumber from the South has been removed, except as to points on the seaboard between Washington and Jersey City, where it is moved on permits.

Car Supply Meets Demand.

During June and July the car supply was generally good and met the demand.

In June anthracite coal loading was 63,187 cars, increase 4,179 cars over last year; bituminous 191,767, increase 22,781. July anthracite loading was 69,630 cars, increase 2,329 cars; bituminous 223,014 cars, increase 35,100.

Coal dumped at tidewater increased 223,537 tons in June and 444,916 tons in July, as compared with corresponding months last year.

Blast-furnace operations reports for the last week in June and July show:

	June.	July.
By-product ovens in operation_____ per cent__	95	93
Blast furnaces in operation_____ per cent__	94	90
Open hearth and Bessemer converters in operation_____per cent__	88	85

and the operations not affected by any transportation deficiencies.

Perishable Service Improved.

There has been a material improvement in our perishable service in the past 60 days, and the vegetable movement from the trucking sections of Maryland, Delaware, and New Jersey is being handled in a manner satisfactory to shippers. The southern peaches were handled in excellent shape.

The heavy passenger business was well handled, and passenger train schedules were maintained with reasonable regularity.

Troop movements have been heavy throughout June and July, but were handled in a most satisfactory manner.

Shortage of mechanics and laborers is retarding progress in repairing bad order cars, resulting in an accumulation above normal. Repairs to locomotives are progressing satisfactorily.

Coordinating Facilities.

Constant study is being given the question of coordinating facilities and service and the handling of traffic via the most favorable routes.

Since June 1, 204 unifications have been effected, relieving a large number of employees for other service. There have been 36 diversions of freight traffic of considerable magnitude for the purpose of relieving congested routes and districts, using routes which are shorter or have more advantageous grades, or increasing capacity of certain routes for other traffic. Typical of this is the rerouting of B. & O. freight and passenger trains over the P. & L. E. tracks between McKeesport and New Castle Junction and the coordination of passenger traffic on the Pennsylvania, and Philadelphia & Reading, between Philadelphia, Norristown, Reading, and Pottsville, effecting a saving of 322,296 passenger-train miles yearly, all of which represents a yearly saving of approximately $1,240,000.

Additions and betterment work is progressing well, considering the difficulty in obtaining labor and materials.

Yours, truly,

C. H. MARKHAM.

REQUISITIONS FOR SUPPLIES FROM CAMP QUARTERMASTERS

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington, July 3, 1918.

General Orders, No. 64:

IV. 1. Hereafter quartermasters of all forts, posts, camps, and other military stations within the continental limits of the United States will forward requisitions for needed supplies through their commanding officers direct to such general depots as are designated by the Quartermaster General from time to time. A copy of requisition will, at the same time, be sent to the department quartermaster.

2. The depot quartermaster of a general supply depot to which a fort, post, camp, or other military station is assigned for supplies is responsible for the proper supply of the station and is authorized to transfer surplus stocks, to prevent accumulation or shortages, from one station to another, after assuring himself that the future needs of the troops at station from which supplies are transferred and those of incoming troops are provided for. He is also authorized to correspond with and call upon quartermasters direct for reports as to status of supplies at their stations.

3. He will promptly report to the chief quartermaster of the department in which the requiring troops are stationed, for the information of the department commander, the action taken by him on their requisitions, and will keep the chief quartermaster advised of surplus supplies transferred from one post, camp, or other place to another as far as such transfer affects the department concerned.

4. Instructions in conflict with the above are revoked.

[400.311, A. G. O.]

By order of the Secretary of War.

PEYTON C. MARCH,
General, Chief of Staff.

Official:

H. P. MCCAIN,
The Adjutant General.

10 Navy Men Commended for Heroism at Sea in Saving Lives of Others

Secretary Daniels has commended the following-named men of the Navy for their brave and courageous conduct in volunteering to take a boat through a dense fog and rescuing 26 officers and men from the British steamer City of Vienna July 2:

Frank L. Pease, boatswain's mate, first class; wife, Grace Maude Pease, West Hampton Beach, N. Y.

Benedict L. Knitter, coxswain; father, Frank Knitter, 135 Mulberry Alley, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Edward J. Teevan, seaman; mother, Mrs. James Teevan, 1155 East Fortieth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

James C. Ogilvie, seaman; father, George Farquhar Ogilvie, 26 Sanford Street, East Haven, Conn.

Walter E. Fox, seaman; father, Samuel Fox, 58 Garden Street, South Manchester, Conn.

Lincoln C. Freels, seaman; mother, Mary E. Freels, 981 North Broadway, Knoxville, Tenn.

Robert E. Hill, gunner's mate, second class; father, Robert Hill, 145 West One hundred and thirty-first Street, New York City.

Floyd B. Landis, quartermaster, second class; mother, Mrs. Mayme Landis, R. F. D. No. 7, West Morland, Ill.

Raymond E. Shoup, pharmacist's mate, second class; wife, Mrs. Catherine Shoup, 2322 Fernon Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Navy Department has commended Frank L. Robart, seaman, second class, for his heroism in jumping overboard from the U. S. S. Louisiana on the morning of July 7 and rescuing a shipmate from drowning. The commanding officer reports that the night was dark with a tide of sufficient strength to carry Robart below the next ship at anchor, but that he did not hesitate to go to the rescue. Robart enlisted at Montgomery, Ala., October 29, 1917. Father, Frank Louis Robart, sr., 28 Austin Street, Cambridge, Mass.

Smoking and Other Opium for U. S. Medical Uses

The Treasury Department issues the following concerning the disposition of forfeited opium and its derivatives:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
July 29, 1918.

To collectors of customs:

Referring to T. D. 37094 of April 7, 1917, and T. D. 37694 of June 28, 1918, the department is informed that the medical departments of the Army and Navy will accept smoking opium and other opium preparations and derivatives for conversion into medical preparations for use of their respective services. You are hereby directed to forward opium, preparations, and derivatives either to the "Officer in Charge, Field Medical Supply Depot, U. S. A., 21 M Street NE., Washington, D. C.," or "U. S. Naval Medical Supply Depot, 301 Flushing Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y."

Accordingly, collectors of customs will make alternate shipments of forfeited opium, preparations, and derivatives to the Army and Navy supply depots. If the shipments are not over 4 pounds they should be sent by mail; if weighing more than 4 pounds they should be forwarded by express under Government bill of lading to the above addresses, the express charges to be paid by the War or Navy Department, as the case may be.

Assistant Secretary.

COMMISSION MERCHANT LOSES LICENSE TO DEAL IN FOODS

The Food Administration issues the following:

Dishonest business methods and the refusal to accept 22,000 cases of Alaska salmon according to contract has cost the George T. Renke Corporation, commission merchant, of 66 Broadway, New York City, its privilege to deal in foodstuffs. Its license has been revoked by the Food Administration, effective August 3, for an unlimited period. Besides its commission business, the corporation deals in rye, barley, wheat, cottonseed cake, copra, peanuts, and malt.

Contributes $2,000 to Red Cross.

Peter Landbern, a baker, of Moline, Ill., has been found guilty of making inaccurate reports to the Food Administration concerning his use of substitutes in making bread. Instead of having his license revoked, in view of the bread situation in Moline, he has been permitted to contribute $2,000 to the Red Cross and has been notified that he will have to give up his license if he is found guilty of further infractions of the rules.

L. and R. Mayer, hotel proprietors, of Baton Rouge, La., were found guilty of hoarding sugar and of making false reports of sugar on hand. They have been allowed to contribute $1,000 to the Red Cross in lieu of more drastic penalty.

Loses License for Month.

John H. Brooks, a wholesaler and commission merchant, of Jacksonville, Tex., has lost his license for one month, effective August 12, for wasteful practices and methods in shipping tomatoes.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

The bill to extend the draft ages to include from 18 to 45 was finally agreed upon by the Senate Military Committee yesterday afternoon and will be formally reported to the Senate to-morrow. Chairman Chamberlain announces that he will call it up for consideration next Monday. One amendment written into the bill was introduced by Senator Reed and relates to exemptions of those engaged in occupations necessary to the maintenance of the military forces. It is as follows:

Persons engaged in occupations or employments found to be necessary to the maintenance of the Military Establishment or the effective operation of the military forces or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency; Provided, That when any person shall have been placed in a deferred or exempted class for any of the reasons in this paragraph set forth, he shall not be entitled to remain therein unless he shall in good faith continue while physically able to do so, to work and follow such occupation, employment, or business, and if he fails so to do, shall again become subject to the draft. The President shall make regulations for enforcing this provision.

Other Amendments Adopted.

Other amendments adopted were as follows: Providing that the wife of a soldier or sailor shall not be disqualified for any position under the Government because she is a married woman; providing that soldiers and sailors regardless of age, either as drafted men or volunteers, shall be eligible to receive commissions in either branch of the service, and shall be eligible for admission to officers' schools; providing that any person under the age of 21, either drafted or as a volunteer, shall be entitled at the conclusion of the war to receive an education at the expense of the Government for a period not to exceed two years.

Progress on Revenue Bill.

The Ways and Means Committee yesterday, in further consideration of the war revenue bill, decided to impose an occupational tax of $10 a year on every business, occupation, and profession earning $2,000 or more a year, and a tax of $25 a year on wholesale concerns doing a business of $200,000 or more a year. Farmers, clergymen, school teachers, and employees, including salaried men, are exempted from the payment of the tax. The proposed tax on leased telegraph and telephone wires was amended so as to exclude press associations, newspapers, and periodicals. Another amendment was adopted providing that citizens of the United States residing in Canada or other foreign countries shall pay to those countries the income tax on that portion of their income derived there.

Taxes on Luxuries.

The proposed taxes on luxuries, as agreed to, are as follows: From and after November 1, 1918, there shall be levied, assessed, and collected on the consumption and use of the following enumerated articles a tax equal to 20 per cent of the amount paid in excess of the amounts specified: 1. Fiber carpets and rugs in excess of $5 per square yard. 2. Picture frames, $10 each. 3. Trunks, $50 each. 4. Valises, traveling bags, suit cases, hat boxes used by travelers, and filled toilet cases, $25 each. 5. Purses, pocketbooks, shopping and hand bags, $7.50 each. 6. Umbrellas, parasols, and sunshades, $4. 7. Fans, $1. 8. House or smoking jackets or coats, and bath or lounging robes, $10. 9. Men's waistcoats, sold separately, $5. 10. Men's and boys' suits and overcoats (not including uniforms for the Army and Navy), $50. 11. Women's and misses' dresses if bought ready made, $40; if made up by seamstress, $50. 12. Women's and misses' dresses, if bought ready made, $40; if made up by seamstress, $50. 13. Women's and misses' hats, bonnets, and hoods, $25. 14. Men's and boys' hats $5. 15. Men's and boys' caps, $2. 16. Men's, women's, misses', and boys' boots, shoes, pumps, and slippers, $10. 17. Men's and boys' neckwear and neckties, $2. 18. Men's and boys' silk stockings or hose, $1. 19. Women's and misses' silk stockings or hose, $2. 20. Men's shirts, $3. 21. Pajamas and nightgowns, $3.

Perfumes and Essences.

There shall be levied, assessed, and collected a tax equal to 1 cent on each 10 cents or fraction thereof paid for the following enumerated articles: On all perfumes, essences, extracts, toilet water, cosmetics, petroleum jellies, pomades, hair dressings, hair restoratives, hair dyes, tooth and mouth washes, dentifrices, pastes, aromatic cachous, toilet soaps and powders, or any similar substance, and a 10 per cent tax on the amount paid for pills, tablets, powders, and other proprietary medicines, lotions, and the like.

The tax on cosmetics and proprietary articles will be collected as stamp taxes from the consumer.

LIMITED FURLOUGHS APPROVED FOR TEACHERS OF CHEMISTRY

The War Department authorizes the following:

The War Department has just approved the request of the Director of Chemical Warfare Service to furlough back to approved institutions a limited number of teachers of chemistry. This furlough will be administered by the Committee on Education and Special Training, old Land Office Building, Washington, D. C., upon recommendation of the officer in charge of university relations, Chemical Warfare Service.

Plan of Procedure.

Approved institutions which have already lost many of their instructors through draft or enlistment may now make application for the return of such men, provided that the return is agreeable to the men themselves. In the event of failure to secure the men asked for, the relations section may be able to provide for the assignment of other men whose qualifications would seem to fit them to carry on the work of instruction. Application for furlough of enlisted men should be made to Chemical Warfare Service, University Relations Section, Seventh and B Streets, Washington, D. C.

Better than money because they earn money; buy a WAR-SAVINGS STAMP TO-DAY.

HONOR ROLLS AND TRIBUTES BY COMMUNITIES TO SOLDIERS

The Council of National Defense issues the following:

WASHINGTON, July 26, 1918.

Bulletin No. 106 (corrected form):

To the several State councils of defense:

The military morale section of the Office of the Chief of Staff has suggested that the Council of National Defense recommend that you call on your county and community councils to make provision in their communities for the generous recognition of all acts of heroism on the part of our men in service.

Method of Procedure.

In order to carry out this request most effectively the Council of National Defense recommends:

1. That each local community maintain an honor roll recording the names of all men in service, with their achievements and dates of entry and discharge. In compiling such a list no mention should be made of the organization to which the men belong.

2. That each local council of defense appoint in each community a committee or an individual to read all official and unofficial military news and to watch for any mention of men from the community.

3. That this committee or individual send, on behalf of the community, a letter to each man cited for special bravery, expressing the pride his fellow citizens feel in him, and their appreciation of the honor he has brought to his community.

This letter of recognition should not be over a page in length and should be in such form as to merit permanent preservation. It should be signed in the name of the local council of defense, and should recite the specific deed of heroism commended. A copy of the letter should be given to the local newspapers and clippings of the papers should be mailed to the man in service.

4. That the committee also address an appropriate communication to the next of kin of all men of the community whose names appear upon the list of casualties, and arrange for some individual of standing in the community to deliver the letter in person.

Read at Patriotic Meetings.

Letters from men in service, shorn of all reference to their organization; accounts of special deeds of valor or heroism; and the names of men added to the honor roll should be read at patriotic community gatherings.

The recommendations here made are already being carried out in whole or in part in many communities. We believe that the time has now come for a nation-wide effort, sponsored by State councils of defense, to see that each community arranges to accord generous recognition to all acts of heroism on the part of their men in service by maintaining an honor roll and by giving personal recognition to the distinguished service of their sons in the armed forces of the Nation.

THREE KILLED IN SEAPLANE ACCIDENT AT PENSACOLA, FLA.

The Navy Department is informed that the following men of the United States Naval Reserve Force were killed at 2.30 p. m., August 12, in a seaplane accident at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.:

Augustus Topp, chief quartermaster. Mother, Mrs. Eula I. Topp, 19 West Sixty-ninth Street, New York.

Guy Barstow Fraley, chief quartermaster. Father, Charles J. Fraley, Geneseo, N. Y.

Garrett Thompson Mandeville, chief quartermaster. Mother, Mrs. Clara E. Mandeville, 2115 Lyndale Avenue South, Minneapolis, Minn.

Three Slightly Injured.

The following-named men were slightly injured August 10, in an aeroplane accident at the Naval Air Station, Cape May, when the machine fell and nosed into the water:

Ensign J. L. Schwab. Mother, Mrs. Rachael S. Schwab, 5106 Washington Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Herbert Elmer Groh, machinist's mate, first class. Mother, Margaret A. Groh, Pasadena, Anne Arundel County, Md.

Frank C. Lynch, electrician, third class (radio). Father, William Lynch, 38 High Street, Somerset, Mass.

FISMETTE AGAIN OCCUPIED BY THE AMERICAN TROOPS

in the American system of organization, we started organizing corps. When the men at Gen. Pershing's disposal got over a million and a quarter, which is the approximate size of a field army, he then gathered together his corps into the First Field Army and took command himself. As the number of men increase so that we will have more field armies, more millions over there, we will then organize into still higher units, i. e., groups of armies. Then Gen. Pershing will be commander in chief of the groups of armies, and he will command them through the head of each group.

The Siberian Expedition.

Question. Can you say anything further about the expedition to Siberia?

Answer. None of our troops have landed so far.

Question. Can you say anything about the formation of new divisions?

Answer. We are going to form new divisions each month. As they are determined upon I will tell you about them.

Question. Do the dispatches make any special mention of the scarcity of airplanes along the Marne, or is there anything to be said about it?

Answer. Gen. Pershing's dispatches do not indicate the reported scarcity of airplanes to be a fact. I can't say whether it is or not. We have called upon him for specific information about the use of airplanes in fighting and when that comes it will be given out.

Pershing's Chief of Staff.

In reply to a question as to whether a certain colonel was Gen. Pershing's chief of staff of the field army, Gen. March said:

"The proper rank for the chief of staff of a field army would be at least major general, and perhaps higher. It would be impossible for him to have only a colonel as his chief of staff. We assume that he has taken with him his entire general headquarters staff, and that the chief of staff of the first army is Maj. Gen. McAndrew, who is now chief of staff of the Expeditionary Force."

Question. Can you say anything about the appointments of lieutenant generals?

Answer. No lieutenant generals are to be appointed for the present.

GENERAL IMPORT LICENSE FROM CANADA AND NEWFOUNDLAND

The War Trade Board issues the following:

In view of the adoption by the Canadian Government of the same policy of import control as that indorsed by the War Trade Board through their import restrictions, the War Trade Board have determined to continue to permit the importation from Canada and Newfoundland under a generela license, PBF–3, of all articles except those mentioned in the President's import proclamation of November 28, 1917, and except calcium carbide, olive oil, tapioca, sago, peanuts, rabbit skins, toys, manufactures of cotton not produced in Canada, tallow, cocoa beans, feathers, pumice, and wheat products.

Previous Order Rescinded.

Pursuant to the foregoing ruling (W. T. B. R. 200), the War Trade Board have rescinded the order heretofore issued (W. T. B. R. 161, amended July 21, 1918), which provided for the revocation as of August 15, 1918, of the above-mentioned general license PBF-3. As to restricted commodities, general license PBF-3 authorizes their importation from Canada and Newfoundland only when they are shipped by other than ocean transportation and when they originate in Canada or Newfoundland or in a country from which their importation direct is permitted. Shipment from Newfoundland to Canada by boat and thence overland by lake or rail to the United States is not considered ocean transportation within the meaning of this ruling.

General License Issued.

As a part of the new arrangement with Canada the War Trade Board has issued a general license permitting the entry into the United States of commodities arriving at United States ports in bond for shipment to Canada, upon presentation to the collector of customs of a Canadian import license number covering the shipment in question. The Canadian authorities on their part have agreed to authorize collectors of customs at their ports to permit the entry of shipments arriving at Canadian ports in bond for shipment to the United States upon submission of proper evidence of the issuance of a United States import license covering the importation in question.

WANTS ARMY OF SAVERS

THE PURPOSE of the War Savings Committee is to create an army of savers who will, by saving, release labor and materials for the use of the Government in the war, and who will lend their savings to the Government to prosecute the war.

DETROIT WAR INDUSTRY HEADS ASK MORE COAL FOR WORKERS

The Fuel Administration issues the following:

A committee of industrial coal consumers for the city of Detroit conferred Tuesday with officials of the United States Fuel Administration. The Detroit representatives said that the supply of industrial fuel for Detroit was in excellent condition, but they sought additional assurances as to the supply of coal for domestic consumers.

Needed for War Work.

The Detroit representatives took the position that their city must be guaranteed a satisfactory supply of coal for domestic consumption in order that the many war industries located at Detroit might not be embarrassed in maintaining a proper supply of labor. The withdrawal of a part of Detroit's authracite coal supply, made necessary by the increased demand for anthracite in the congested eastern territory has left the city partially dependent upon domestic sizes of bituminous coal for household heating.

While the officials of the Fuel Administration were unable to increase the allotment of anthracite to Detroit, the Detroit representatives were assured that a satisfactory supply of domestic sizes of bituminous coal would be forthcoming.

Personnel of Visitors.

The Detroit representatives were headed by State Fuel Administrator William K. Prudden. They were: Henry M. Leland, Liberty Motor Company; J. J. Crowley, Crowley Bros. Co., president Detroit Board of Commerce; Henry Hoyt, vice president Great Lakes Engineering Company; W. J. Schultz, Packard Motor Company; J. E. Spencer, Studebaker Corporation; A. R. Demory, vice president Timken Detroit Axle Company; O. C. Hutchinson, Hupp Motor Corporation, and E. J. DuBois, Detroit Board of Commerce.

Sealed Proposals Asked for Postal Card Paper

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Washington, August 12, 1918.

Order No. 1833:

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the purchasing agent for this department until 2 o'clock p. m. on September 16, 1918, for furnishing postal-card paper as it may be ordered for use of the postal service from time to time during a term of one year, or for a term less than one year, beginning October 16, 1918. Blanks for proposals, with specifications and instructions to bidders, will be furnished upon application to the purchasing agent.

J. C. KOONS,
Acting Postmaster General.

Postmasters will give the widest publicity possible to the above notice without cost to the department.

J. A. EDGERTON,
Purchasing Agent.

Intensive Training of Unskilled Workers as a Means of Overcoming Labor Shortage

The Committee on Labor, Advisory Commission of the Council of National Defense, of which Samuel Gompers is chairman, authorizes the following:

The grave situation of shortage of labor (it now being estimated that there is a shortage of 250,000 skilled workers) is being met by a new quick method of training operatives. All over the country, day by day, one factory after another falls into line and puts in a training department to train its own people—the same sort of quick, intensive-training plan to meet the same sort of situation which the regulations in France prescribe for every manufacturer employing 300 people or more, and the English ministry of munitions requires in its contracts for materials. And the situation must be met in greater degree and substantially all factories must train their workers if the 750,000 new skilled workers which the country needs by January 1 are skilled and efficient and standing at their job by that time.

Proved by the Factories.

To-day 100 important factories making war orders are proving that it is possible to train their own men. They do not assume to teach a worker a whole trade in the brief time available. They do teach him by the methods of the training department how to master one process or one machine in a few weeks or a few days. These 100 factories are spending, or preparing to spend, at the rate of $1,500,000 solely in this business of intensive training of new workers. This training investment is not an expense, as the training is immediately upon production and the product from the training room is expected to equal that in the factory. All the training departments mentioned are on a production basis at all times, with speed and accuracy as the watchword.

Declaration of Policy.

One year ago that section of the committee on labor of the Council of National Defense which has been instrumental in developing the training department or vestibule schools above noted recorded the following as its declaration of policy:

"The section on industrial training for the war emergency is concerned with industrial training only as a war measure. It is not concerned with vocational education in general. In all cases in the existing crisis shortage of labor must be met first by training operatives from allied trades who are unemployed and by advancing operatives of ability from lower to higher positions in the occupation itself. For instance, apprentices should be advanced rather than outsiders. It is possible that many sewing women will be without work, and many men in the building trades. For all such, new and fitting places must be developed where possible. Nonwage earners must not be trained to take places for which unemployed wage earners may reasonably be trained."

At the same time the section on industrial training stated the following to be its plan and scope:

1. Increased use of the public vocational schools through the cooperation of local manufacturers. This is being done very fortunately in Worcester, Bridgeport, and some other cities.

2. Introduce new workers, men and women into industry through these schools.

(3) Arrange for the training of present mechanics and others in existing workrooms in connection with regular production, and by more scientific procedure than heretofore.

(4) As of particular importance, act as a clearing house, that the judgment and experience, good and bad, in each locality may be available to all.

The section on industrial training, a part of the welfare division of the committee on labor, is composed of one-third representatives of labor, one-third employers, and one-third experts in factory training. State committees similarly organized have been developed where war products are being made. There are at present nine associate branch committees of the section on industrial training, which are Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, New England, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin.

Keeping Check on Training.

The section recommends three checks on the factory training department, to be made daily by report:

(1) How many operatives are sent into the factory? (If this were the only test, they might be sent in too fast and only partly trained.)

(2) Cost, net, after crediting production which should equal the shop average.

(3) Wastage.—There should be none. There should be 100 per cent Government inspection.

These training departments, because of the thorough training given, have yielded from 10 to 40 per cent increase in production, both for men and women, and the labor turnover has been reduced materially thereby.

Great care has been taken to advocate that unemployed men be adapted and trained in new trades for the period of the war and that unskilled men be educated wherever possible before resorting to the employment of women.

Possibilities of Development.

As an indication of the possibilities of this development, the experience of the State of New Jersey cooperating with this section may be cited. In order to overcome possible objection which labor might have to the introduction of emergency training a program was agreed on, after a series of conferences, which was heartily approved by all the employers and by the representatives of the employees. Some of the clauses of this agreement are as follows:

"All skilled labor available within the surrounding territory should be brought into the essential war industries before it is unduly diluted by the introduction of unskilled labor. When such dilution is necessary, and in the opinion of the committee that time has already arrived, the more skilled activities should be supplied by training those already at work and successful in handling the lesser skilled activities of the same general type. The lesser skilled activities should be supplied by training those already skilled in nonessential activities and not engaged at present in essential war industries, and who, because of such skill, are peculiarly capable of quickly learning the rudiments of the new activities.

"Exploitation of labor and reduction of wages through dilution for war purposes is to be avoided, and to this end persons brought into an essential industry, or promoted from one grade of work to another, are to be paid the prevailing rate of wages for the class of work for which they have been trained, after a training period of reasonable duration.

"Dilution of labor by the employment of women when necessary is recommended, provided women receive wages equal to men for the class of work performed by them, and provided the working conditions surrounding their activities are carefully controlled for their comfort and well-being."

Eliminating Housing Problem.

One interesting result of training resident unemployed is the practical elimination of the housing problem in certain instances.

This is exemplified in the city of Detroit, where it is estimated that 50,000 additional mechanics will be needed before the end of the year. If those now engaged in the war plants could be advanced to more skilled positions, and their places be filled by present residents of Detroit engaged in nonessential or unskilled industries, or those not now at work, the need for housing of the 50,000 mechanics with their families could be, if not entirely, at least, in part, eliminated.

All who have tried these intensive methods of training are happily surprised at the shortness of time required to make skilled operatives for precision work in tool room and factory of men from nonessential trades and of the more intelligent women now entering industry for the war.

Activities of the Chairman.

To stimulate effort and arouse interest in training the idle and potential workers in each community, as well as to facilitate the upgrading of the old operatives, the sectional chairman has traveled untiringly from one manufacturing center to another for the past 12 months, addressing leading metal, machine-tool, and other manufacturers' associations. He has also actually assisted in the establishment of vestibule schools in the plants.

Both single shops and great industrial communities are acting upon the advice of this section, which will furnish experts for investigation and planning upon request. The address of the section on industrial training for the war emergency is 107 Council of National Defense Building, Washington, D. C.

MAJ. M'ADAM ASSIGNED.

Special Orders, No. 181:

174. Maj. John V. McAdam, Ordnance, National Army, is relieved from duty in the office of the Chief of Ordnance, Washington, D. C., and will proceed at once to New York, N. Y., and report to the chief, district ordnance office, for duty.

Remember! the men in our Army and Navy do not expect luxuries. Should we at home expect them? Buy necessities and war-savings stamps.

Important Notice to U. S. Purchasing Agents

Purchasing agents for the various Government departments and the special United States war administrations are earnestly reminded to send to the Official U. S. Bulletin at the earliest possible moment all copy for bids to be advertised and purchase awards, in order that these may be promptly and correctly printed in the Bulletin in accordance with the orders of the Secretary of War and other heads of departments.

The task of preparing this copy for publication, with a view to absolute correctness and continuity, is a considerable one, but, with the cooperation of the purchasing agencies, should result in a great help, not only to the departments themselves, but to bidders throughout the country, all of whom, through the medium of the Official Bulletin, are desirous of keeping informed of the Government's needs.

WEEKLY REPORTS REQUIRED FROM THE SHIPPERS OF COKE

The United States Fuel Administration issues the following:

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 31, 1918.

Order requiring weekly reports from shippers of coke for household use or for general distribution by retail dealers:

It appearing to the United States Fuel Administrator that the quantity of coke available for distribution for use as household fuel has been greatly reduced by its increased consumption in industries engaged in war work, and that the distribution of such coke should be controlled in harmony with the distribution of other fuels for household use,

The United States Fuel Administrator, acting under authority of an Executive order of the President of the United States, dated August 23, 1917, appointing said administrator, and of subsequent Executive orders, and in furtherance of the purpose of said orders and of the act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917, hereby orders and directs that until further or other order of the United States Fuel Administrator, and subject to modification by him at any time and from time to time hereafter, the following regulations shall be in effect, beginning 7 o'clock a. m., August 1, 1918:

All shippers of coker in carload lots for household use or for general distribution by retail dealers shall, not later than Monday of each week, mail reports of all such shipments during the preceding week, and estimates of probable shipments during the coming week to the Federal fuel administrator of each State to which such shipments have been made or are expected to be made, giving the name and address of each consignee with the size and grade of coke, the number of cars and weights thereof shipped or to be shipped to such consignee, and shall mail duplicates of such reports to the Bureau of Coke, United States Fuel Administration, Washington, D. C.

Castor Bean Growing Revived to Supply Millions of Gallons of Oil Required as Lubricant for American Aircraft

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the Bureau of Aircraft Production:

The necessity of securing millions of gallons of castor oil for lubricating rotary aviation engines during the first two years of the war, when the supply then available was only 700,000 gallons, was one of the several unexpected problems encountered in 1917 in attempting to carry out the American air program.

In the solution of it a lost American industry—the growing of castor beans—has been revived, another good paying crop has been revived for the planters of the South and Southwest and the manufacture of castor oil has been increased.

2,000,000 Gallons Predicted.

The latest advices indicate that the planting of 108,000 acres with beans has been accomplished throughout eight Southern States and California, and on a large acreage in Cuba, Haiti, and Santo Domingo. The supply of oil from this immense territory should be available this fall, some of it as early as August. It is estimated that the average acre will produce 20 gallons of oil of No. 1 grade making 2,000,000 gallons for the first year.

Although castor beans are not native to this country, it is believed that they will grow readily and bear well in the South. They can be grown between rows of citrus trees and also on land previously ruined for cotton growing by the boll weevil. The Government will let contracts for crushing the picked crops.

Briefly, the process of manufacturing castor oil entails the cold pressing of the beans for the extraction of the oil suitable for aviation engines and medicinal purposes. This oil is purified by a filtration process and is then ready for use. The residue of the first pressing is treated and an additional supply of inferior oil is obtainable. This is known as No. 3 grade. After the extraction of the inferior oil, castor pomace remains, which when ground, makes a valuable fertilizer.

Needs Before the War.

Before the war and the consequent demand for castor oil for airplane engines, American medicinal and industrial needs called for about 2,500,000 gallons per year. Commercially it was used in the manufacture of soaps, inks, dies, artificial leather, and fly paper.

The results of this work, now well under way, are due in great extent to the cooperation between the Department of Agriculture, the War Trade Board, and the materials department of the Bureau of Aircraft Production, with foreign advice and assistance.

India has long been the world's leading source of supply for castor beans. Of the total imports into this country before the war 80 per cent came from India. America's own industry, which once flourished in the States of Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, and Illinois, had succumbed some years ago to the cheaper importations from India, and could contribute but little to the demands upon the air service.

In September, 1917, the castor oil situation assumed such a serious aspect that the Signal Corps, through the Secretary of War, secured the appointment of a board to deal with the difficulty. This body comprised representatives of the old Aviation Section of the Signal Corps, Department of Agriculture, export bureau of War Trade Board, and civilian experts. Deliberations of the Castor Oil Production Board resulted in the planting of castor beans in more than 100,000 acres in and near this country under Government contracts. The price recommended to be paid for beans so grown was $3.50 per 46-pound bushel.

Arrangements With England.

Arrangements made with Great Britain for the seed supply resulted in releasing the steamship Adelaid, then being held at Bombay, although already consigned to this country. On January 7, 1918, this ship arrived with about 6,000 long tons of castor beans. Approximately 200 tons were used as seed and the remainder pressed for oil by the original contractors for immediate Government needs. This supplied about 500,000 gallons of oil. Over 1,000,000 gallons of oil were secured from England for shipment direct to France. These supplies, together with oil from other sources, made available a total of 2,400,000 gallons.

While castor oil is not essential as a lubricant for the Liberty engine, or most of the other reciprocating engines, it is essential to the efficient operation of rotary motors. In this type of motor the gas is taken in through the crank case where it comes in contact with the oil, but as castor oil is only slightly soluble in gasoline it is practically unaffected. Other important properties of this lubricant are its heavy viscosity and high lubricating value.

Although little has been said regarding the rotary motors in the air program, great numbers are now in use abroad and many more are in course of manufacture. The Air Service is using motors of this type in advanced training planes. One hundred and fifty of them have been finished and are now in use. Some 500 more, now under manufacture, will take rotary motors, as will a new single-seater pursuit-type plane for advanced training. The need of castor oil as a lubricant, therefore, became a feature of the air program and the lack of it a serious handicap.

HOTELS FOR NAVY YARD WORKERS

Partial Relief Obtained from Shortage in Housing at Portsmouth, N. H.

The Department of Labor authorizes the following:

Partial relief in the difficulties which have beset the navy-yard workers at Portsmouth, N. H., by reason of shortage in housing accommodations is provided by the purchase, through the Bureau of Industrial Housing and Transportation of the Department of Labor, of the Pepperell and Champernowne hotels at Kittery, Me., together with the cottages immediately adjoining the latter. Because of their proximity to the Portsmouth Navy Yard and other plants engaged in the fabrication of war materials, it is expected that these establishments will afford satisfactory accommodations for workers at Portsmouth.

Arrangements are now going forward with all possible dispatch for the management of these hotels under Government direction, and it is expected that comfortable and satisfactory quarters for 425 employees will be available within the very near future. The Government's program for Portsmouth also contemplates the erection of a number of houses, the construction of which may be begun shortly.

FUEL ADMINISTRATION RULING ON SELECTED FOUNDRY COKE

The United States Fuel Administration issues the following:

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26, 1918.

Order establishing regulation in respect to selected foundry coke.

It appearing to the United States Fuel Administrator that under certain conditions it is necessary to have a hard-burned selected coke for smelting certain metals in blast furnaces and that provision should be made to meet these conditions,

The United States Fuel Administrator, acting under authority of an Executive order of the President of the United States dated August 23, 1917, appointing said administrator, and of subsequent Executive orders, and in furtherance of the purpose of said orders and of the Act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917,

Hereby orders and directs that until further or other order, and subject to modification hereafter from time to time and at any time, the following regulation additional to those already set forth shall be in effect beginning 7 a. m., July 29, 1918:

The expressions "72-hour selected foundry coke" and "selected foundry coke" when used in regulations or orders fixing the prices of beehive or by-product coke, shall include only coke selected in accordance with the usual trade practice for foundry use, and the prices heretofore or hereafter allowed for such coke shall in no cases be charged for any coke shipped after the effective date of this regulation to blast furnaces for smelting iron or other metals unless a special permit has been obtained from the director of the Coke Bureau of the United States Fuel Administration before the shipment of such coke. Applications for such permits must be in writing signed by both the consumer and the producer, and must show the necessity for the use of such selected foundry coke for smelting purposes in a blast furnace.

Circular Giving Detailed Information To Persons Assisting the Custodian In Locating Alien Enemy Property

The Council of National Defense has sent to all State councils copies of a circular of information to those who are assisting the Alien Property Custodian in locating enemy property. The circular follows:

CIRCULAR OF INFORMATION (REVISED TO JULY 1, 1918).

Section A.—Persons Whose Property Should Be Reported.

Reports are required regarding any and all property belonging to any person included in one or more of the following classes:

(1) Residents in enemy territory.—All persons, without regard to citizenship, parentage, or place of birth, residing in enemy or ally of enemy countries or in territory occupied by the military or naval forces of enemy or ally of enemy nations. (Such territory, for convenience, will hereafter be referred to as "enemy territory" or "ally of enemy territory," as the case may be.) This class includes even citizens of the United States so residing.

(2) Doing business in enemy territory.—Persons resident outside the United States and doing business within "enemy" or "ally of enemy" territory.

(3) Interned or imprisoned subjects of enemy nations.—(a) Persons interned in custody of the United States War Department; or

(b) Citizens or subjects of enemy nations detained as prisoners of war by the United States or by any nation associated with it in the prosecution of the war; or

(c) Citizens or subjects of enemy nations interned by any of the nations which is an associate of the United States.

(4) Officers, agents, etc., of enemy nations.—Governments (including subdivisions) and officers, official, agents, or agencies of enemy or ally of enemy nations.

(5) Women enemies, by reason of marriage.—Women who are citizens or subjects of enemy nations, resident outside the United States, and whose husbands are—

(a) Officers, officials, or agents of enemy nations (the country in which husband resides in this case is not material); or

(b) Residents of enemy territory; or

(c) Resident outside the United States and doing business in enemy territory.

(6) Disseminating propaganda, etc.—Citizens or subjects of enemy nations resident or doing business outside of the United States—

(a) Who have, since the beginning of the war, or shall hereafter disseminate propaganda calculated to injure the cause of the United States or to aid the cause of an enemy; or

(b) Who have assisted or shall hereafter assist in plotting or intrigue against the United States or any of its associates.

(7) Names on enemy trading list.—Subjects or citizens of an enemy nation resident outside of the United States whose names appear on the Enemy Trading List, as published from time to time by the War Trade Board. This includes firms and copartnerships appearing on said list, if one or more of the members are citizens or subjects of an enemy nation.

(8) Persons who have visited in enemy territory since beginning of European war.—Citizens or subjects of enemy nations resident outside the United States who have been resident in enemy territory at any time since August 4, 1914.

(9) Corporations.—Corporations, incorporated in enemy or ally of enemy territory, or incorporated outside the United States and doing business in such territory.

(10) Additional classes created hereafter by presidential proclamation.—Such other individuals, or body or class of individuals, as may be natives, citizens, or subjects of any enemy or ally of enemy nation, wherever resident or wherever doing business, as the President may hereafter by proclamation designate. Wide publicity is generally given to such proclamations in the newspapers.

(11) Officers, directors, stockholders of corporations—Form 101 only.—In making reports on A. P. C. Form 101 (which covers officers, directors, and stockholders of corporations) in addition to any persons falling under any of the preceding classes, you must include: All subjects or citizens of enemy or ally of enemy countries residing outside of the United States.

Section B.—Who Should Make Report.

If you are custodian of property whose owner you have reasonable cause to believe is included within any of the above classes you must make report.

If you have information as to such property, but are not custodian thereof, it is your patriotic duty to furnish the Alien Property Custodian the name and residence of owner, description of property, and name and address of person in charge or with as much of this information as you can secure.

Section C.—Property to be Reported.

(1) Property, rights and claims of every kind, tangible or intangible, stocks, bonds, notes, money, chattels, securities, lands, indebtedness, accounts receivable, copyrights, patents, safety-deposit boxes, etc., which belong to or in which any person included in one of the classes hereinbefore enumerated is interested. Even if the property is held in the name of another—by a dummy or in trust, for example—the real beneficial interest is to be reported.

(2) Executors, administrators, trustees, and other fiduciaries must report any interest of an enemy, whether vested or contingent, present or future, divided or undivided.

Section D.—List of Report Forms.

The following are the forms upon which reports must be made:

(1) Form 101: List of officers, directors, and stockholders required to be filed by corporations incorporated within the United States, and by unincorporated associations, companies, or trustees within the United States, issuing shares or certificates representing beneficial interests.

(2) Form 102A: Reports by insurance companies of indebtedness arising out of life, accident, or health policies.

(3) Form 102B: Reports by insurance companies of indebtedness arising out of fire, marine, or other insurance policies and fidelity and surety bonds.

(4) Form 103: Reports by banks regarding bank deposits.

(5) Form 104: Reports by safety deposit companies and others leasing safety-deposit boxes, vaults, or receptacles, where such lessors do not have access to the boxes, vaults, or receptacles.

(6) Form 105: Reports by executors, administrators, guardians, trustees, receivers, and all others acting in like fiduciary or representative capacity.

(7) Form 109: Reports by enemies, interned in the United States, regarding property owned, held, or controlled by them, or in which they are interested beneficially or otherwise.

(8) Form 100: All enemy property or funds not required to be reported upon any of the forms above enumerated.

Above forms will be supplied by the Alien Property Custodian on request.

Section E.—Who Are "Enemy" and "Ally of Enemy" Nations.

At this date, July 1, 1918, "enemy nations" are: Germany, Austria-Hungary, and "ally of enemy nations" are: Bulgaria, Turkey.

Section F.—Enemy Property to be Kept in Statu Quo.

If you hold property or funds which you have reason to believe to be proper subject for report to this office, permit no change to be made, either in the investment itself or in the name or title in which it is held, unless authorized to do so by the Alien Property Custodian or the War Trade Board. Even reinvestments in Liberty bonds can not be made.

Section G.—Penalty.

Failure to make report to the Alien Property Custodian, where required by law or by regulation of the Alien Property Custodian made under such law, is punishable by imprisonment for not more than 10 years or a fine of not more than $10,000, or both.

NOTE.—This circular of information is based on:

The trading with the enemy act, approved October 6, 1917;

Amendment to said act included in the urgent deficiencies act, approved March 28, 1918;

The Presidential proclamation of February 5, 1918;

The Presidential proclamation of May 31, 1918;

Executive order, dated October 12, 1917;

Executive order, dated October 29, 1917; and

Executive order, dated February 28, 1918.

PROMOTED TO MAJOR.

Special Orders, No. 180:

232. The appointment of Capt. Jesse Siddall Reeves, Aviation Section, Signal Reserve Corps, to the grade of major, Judge Advocate Section, Officers' Reserve Corps, with rank from August 2, 1918, is announced.

ANCIENT ARMOR EMPLOYED AS MODELS IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF STEEL DEVICES TO PROTECT U. S. SOLDIERS IN BATTLE

Mail Coats, Helmets, and Shields Worn by Knights of Old Being Studied by Experts in Metropolitan Museum.

The War Department authorizes the following:

Armor for the American soldiers—helmets, shields, and breastplates—is being modeled in the workshop of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, in New York City.

Comprising all that was best in the types of armor used in the days of the ancients this armor, in some instances, is being wrought into shape on ancient anvils and by hammers that were actually used centuries ago.

And in direct charge of the workshop is a French artisan whose skill has been known to collectors the world over and whose forebears, for generations back, have kept alive the dying trade of the armorer.

New Use for Armor.

This war in Europe, which has brought back into use many discarded weapons and practices of medieval warfare, has found use for armor as well. This is shown in the adoption of steel helmets by all the warring powers; in the use of heavy breastplates by the Germans, and lighter breastplates, for attack, by the English; in the armored waistcoats used by the Italians, and in trench shields which all the armies are using.

Because of this it has become desirable to review the entire study of ancient armor, to which for centuries some of the greatest artists and scientists gave their best efforts. To such masters of the science of armor design as Leonardo, Guilio Romano, Cellini, Holbein, Duerer, Michael Angelo, and others, are ordnance experts of to-day turning for guidance and inspiration. In fact, it can be stated that so completely were armored defenses studied in the past that to-day there is scarcely a technical idea brought forward which was not worked out in elaborate detail by the old-time armor makers.

Museum Collection Studied.

Fortunately for the Ordnance Department, one of the greatest collections of ancient armor in the world, accessible to sudy by the American armor designers, is in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City. This collection, ranking probably seventh in the world, now includes the famous Riggs Collection, which represents the life work of a wealthy student of the subject, and includes some of the richest and rarest pieces that have been in the market since 1850.

It is as an incident to this collection that there was established at the museum an armorer's workshop. So far as is known it is unique. It was established for the purpose of cleaning, repairing, or, in rare cases, restoring pieces that were defective. To this end the museum has studied exhaustively the processes of making armor, and has collected from all parts of the world the tools of the ancient armorer's art. Included among these are about 90 kinds of anvils and "stakes," several hundred different types of hammers, curious shears, and instruments the very knowledge of which has to-day almost disappeared—almost, because there still exists armorers who have inherited the skill of their ancestors. At least six of them are known to be working to-day: One is in Dresden, one in Switzerland, two in Japan, one in London, and one, a French artist named Daniel Tachaux, who is now working under the supervision of Maj. Bashford Dean, of the Ordnance Department, in the armor workshop of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

An Artist in Hammer Work.

As an artist in hammer work M. Tachaux, many students believe, is superior to all. He was born in Blois, where his forbears had been doing metal work for many generations. Going to Paris in the seventies, he was apprentice to the famous Klein, who was brought from the Dresden armory at the order of Napoleon III to clean and repair the armor which Napoleon III was then installing in the beautiful Chateau of Pierrefonds. Thus, both by training and descent, M. Tachaux represents the skill of the armorers of ancient times. Ten years ago he was brought to New York and given an appointment as assistant to Maj. Dean, then curator of the armor collection at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. There the Frenchman's skill was needed in cleaning and mounting the armor of the collections.

When the war broke out, learning that the Government was in need of skilled makers of models for the preparation of armor, Director Robinson, of the Metropolitan Museum, with the sanction of the trustees, placed the department of armor at the disposition of Secretary of War Baker. Since then numerous designs have been carefully worked out by Maj. Dean and actually made by Tachaux and his young French assistant, Sergt. Bartel, now of the Ordnance Department.

In Service of the Army.

Maj. Dean himself was brought into the service of the Army in November, 1917. Owing to his lifelong study of the subject he was commissioned as a major and sent abroad at once to report on the status of armor. He returned to the United States late in January and has kept the armor workshop of the museum busy, week days and holidays, turning out models in accordance with the suggestions of Gen. Pershing and the Ordnance Department. No less than 25 different types of armor defenses have been made in various factories in experimental lots, including in number from a few score to many thousand pieces, some of which have found favorable comment at American headquarters. These armor defenses include even arm and leg guards, the use of which was suggested by the study of hospital statistics in France and England. It appeared that more than 40 per cent of the hospital casualties suffered were leg wounds, and no less than 33 per cent arm wounds.

Improved Metal Employed.

In connection with this work every effort has been made to improve the character of metal used in the armor making. A committee of the Nation Council of Defense, including the names of such armor experts as Alexander McMillan Welch, Edward Hubbard Litchfield, Ambrose Monnell, Dr. G. O. Brewster, and Clarence H. Mackay, has dealt especially with the problem of personal armor. And some of the most eminent metallurgists of the country, including those on the committee, have devoted almost their entire time to the question. Among these is Prof. Henry M. Howe, of Columbia University, who has made an exhaustive study of helmet metal, aiming to give the American soldier better protection than the soldier of any other nation.

FUEL ADMINISTRATION ORDER AMENDING PUBLICATION ORDER

The United States Fuel Administration issues the following:

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26, 1918.

Order amending paragraph (1) of an order of the United States Fuel Administrator regulating the making of contracts by operators, producers, and jobbers of coal and coke, entered December 24, 1917, and known as publication No. 16.

The United States Fuel Administrator, acting under authority of an Executive order of the President of the United States, dated August 23, 1917, appointing said administrator, and of subsequent Executive orders, and in furtherance of the purpose of said Executive orders, and of the act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917,

Hereby orders and directs that paragraph (1) of the "Order of the United States Fuel Administrator regulating the making of contracts by operators, producers, and jobbers of coal and coke" of December 24, 1917 (Publication No. 16) be amended to read as follows:

(1) No such contract shall provide for the delivery or supply of coal or coke over a period longer than one year; and such period of one year shall terminate at a date not more than 18 months from the date of actual execution of the contract; provided, however, that the United States Fuel Administrator may in his discretion upon application and submission to him of satisfactory evidence specially approve of the making of any particular contract covering a period longer than one year, or without limitation as to date of termination. Any such contract so specially approved shall, however, be subject to all orders, rules, and regulations of the United States Fuel Administrator then or thereafter at any time in force.

This order shall be effective at 7 a. m. on the 29th day of July, A. D. 1918.

H. A. GARFIELD,
United States Fuel Administrator.

Maximum Prices for Gas Coke Announced in Order by the U. S. Fuel Administrator

U. S. FUEL ADMINISTRATION,
Washington, D. C., July 31, 1918.

ORDER OF THE UNITED STATES FUEL ADMINISTRATOR ESTABLISHING MAXIMUM PRICES FOR GAS COKE.

It appearing to the United States Fuel Administrator that as anthracite coal is not obtainable in certain districts where gas coke is produced, therefore various additional regulations should be put in force for the better control of distribution of gas coke, and of the prices at which it should be sold,

The United States Fuel Administrator, acting under authority of an Executive order of the President of the United States, dated August 23, 1917, appointing said administrator, and of subsequent Executive orders, and in furtherance of the purpose of said orders and of the act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917,

Hereby orders and directs that until further or other order, and subject to modification hereafter from time to time and at any time, the following regulation additional to those already set forth shall be in effect beginning 7 a. m. August 1, 1918:

(1) The price of coke shall be understood as the price per ton of 2,000 pounds, f. o. b. cars at the plant where the coke is manufactured.

(2) All the maximum prices mentioned herein shall apply to car lots sold to consumers or to dealers for wagon delivery; any commissions paid to selling agencies, or margins allowed to jobbers, shall be paid by the vendors, and shall not be added to the prices established hereby.

(3) In all cases where wagon deliveries are made by the coke producer, a reasonable charge for such handling and delivery may be made, subject to approval of the Federal fuel administrator for the State in which such delivery is made.

(4) In those localities where anthracite coal is not obtainable by dealers under the distribution plan of the United States Fuel Administrator, and in those localities where anthracite is not in general use as a domestic fuel, the maximum price of each grade of gas coke, per ton of 2,000 pounds, f. o. b. cars at the plant where such coke is produced, shall be the base price for such grade, plus the lowest published coke freight rate to such point from any beehive coke district. The base price shall be as follows:

Run of retorts	$5.50
Run of retorts screened above ¾-inch size	6.00
Prepared sizes above ¾-inch size	6.50
Prepared sizes below ¾-inch size	4.50

(5) Where anthracite coal is obtainable:

The maximum prices of various grades of gas coke per ton of 2,000 pounds, f. o. b. cars at the plant at which it is produced, sold to dealers for distribution in less than carload lots, or delivered direct to consumers for household purposes, shall be as follows:

Screened and sized above ¾-inch: The same price as that established by the United States Fuel Administrator for stove anthracite f. o. b. cars at the mines in that district which takes the lowest railroad freight rate to the plant where the coke is produced plus the said freight rate.

Run of retorts screened above ¾-inch: 25 cents less than the price of above anthracite plus such freight rate.

Run of retorts not screened: 75 cents less than the price of above anthracite plus such freight rate.

The maximum price of gas coke sold for other purposes than those heretofore mentioned in this paragraph shall be the prices established in paragraph (4) of this order.

(6) The maximum price, per ton of 2,000 pounds, f. o. b. cars at plant at which it is produced, for breeze shall be one-half the price established by the United States Fuel Administrator for run of retorts coke unscreened made in the gas retorts where such breeze is produced.

The term "breeze" shall be understood to include:

(a) All small coke that is left after loading coke into cars by means of forks if shipped without further screening or sizing.

(b) Any portion of this coke that is left after removing prepared sizes.

(c) Any undersized coke that is left after removing the metallurgical coke, the foundry coke, or the prepared sizes by screening.

In any district where a maximum price established by this regulation appears to be unreasonable on account of local conditions, the United States Fuel Administrator at the request of the Federal fuel administrator for the State in which such district is located, will investigate local conditions and establish such maximum prices for gas coke as appear reasonable.

The regulation contained in the above order supersedes the regulation contained in the order dated July 8, 1918, and all previous orders or regulations establishing prices for gas coke.

H. A. GARFIELD.
United States Fuel Administrator.

BOARD TO SELECT CAMP SITES.

Special Orders, No. 182:

201. A board of officers to consist of Maj. Thomas Hitchcock, Signal Corps; Capt. Charles Buckner, Medical Reserve Corps; and First Lieut. Richard H. Dixon, Aviation Section, Signal Reserve Corps, is appointed to meet at Garden City, Long Island, N. Y., at the call of the senior member of the board, for the purpose of selecting camp sites for a training brigade in New Jersey.

Regulation Fixing Prices of Sized Screenings Established by the U. S. Fuel Administrator

U. S. FUEL ADMINISTRATION,
Washington, D. C., July 31, 1918.

The United States Fuel Administrator having by a regulation promulgated May 27, 1918, and contained in Publication No. 25, defined the term "slack or screenings" and "prepared sizes" as used in the Executive order of the President dated August 21, 1917, and in the orders of the United States Fuel Administrator fixing the prices for bituminous coal, and it having been provided in section 4 of such regulation that the United States Fuel Administrator upon application from producers and consumers in any district might establish prices for any special sizes different from those defined in said regulation, or for any mixture of sizes required for the proper distribution of coal from such district, and application having been made from producers and consumers in various districts of the United States for the establishment of prices for special sizes of bituminous coal passing over ½-inch or larger mesh and over ¼-inch and under ½-inch mesh, and it having been determined by said United States Fuel Administrator that the establishment of prices for such special sizes and for the resultant screenings whether sold separately or mixed with other coal is required for the proper distribution of coal throughout the various districts of the United States;

The United States Fuel Administrator, acting under authority of an Executive order of the President of the United States dated August 23, 1917, appointing said administrator, and of subsequent Executive orders and in furtherance of the purpose of said orders and of the act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917.

Hereby makes and establishes the following regulation, effective August 1, 1918, until further or other order and subject to modification hereafter from time to time and at any time.

REGULATION FIXING THE PRICES OF SIZED SCREENINGS.

The prices of sized screenings shipped on and after the effective date of this regulation are hereby fixed f. o. b. cars at the mine per net ton as follows:

1. For all special sizes passing over a mesh over ½ inch in size, the applicable Government mine price for prepared coal at the mine where such screenings are produced.

2. For all special sizes passing over a mesh over one-quarter inch and under one-half inch in size, the applicable Government mine price for run of mine coal at the mine where such special sizes are produced.

3. For all fine sizes from sized coal passing through a mesh one-half inch or smaller in size, the applicable Government mine price for standard screenings at the mine where such fine screenings are produced, less 30 cents per net ton.

4. If fine screenings or "carbon" passing through one-half inch or smaller mesh as the result of producing special sized screenings are mixed with other coal, whether the same be mine run, prepared or standard screenings, the selling price of the mixture shall not exceed the applicable Government mine price for standard screenings at the mine where such mixture is produced, less 30 cents per net ton.

H. A. GARFIELD,
United States Fuel Administrator.

BRITISH ORDER REGULATING HOUSEHOLD FUEL AND LIGHT

The British (Government) Board of Trade Journal prints the following:

The new household fuel and lighting order, which was signed by the president of the board of trade on June 28, came into operation on July 1. The object of this order is to save coal.

Not less than a quarter of the coal previously available for domestic use and consumption must now be saved. If household coal alone had been considered the saving required would have necessarily been greater, but it was felt that it would be unfair to make heavy reductions in the supply of coal if gas and electricity for fuel had been allowed unchecked. The saving required has therefore been distributed over all three and a household may take the fuel it requires as gas or coal or electricity up to a given total quantity according to its size and needs. If it takes less coal it obtains more gas and vice versa. So with electricity. As gas and electricity for lighting are usually supplied through the same meters as gas and electricity for fuel, the order must extend to cover this.

Shortage of Coal.

There is a serious shortage of coal which has made this effort at economy unavoidable. This shortage is due to several causes.

(a) The withdrawal of 75,000 skilled miners from the collieries, which means a reduction in output of about 22,500,000 tons of coal in the year.

(b) The requirements of the allies. The coal essential to the war industries of France and Italy has now to be found almost wholly by Great Britain. Coal is also sent to neutral countries in exchange for the food and supplies needed by us, and has obtained for the nation the use of neutral ships in all parts of the world. The further supplies for these purposes will be about 12,500,000 tons per annum.

(c) The restriction on coastwise shipping occasioned by the submarine pest and the diversion of tonnage to war transport have aggravated the strain thrown upon the heavily burdened railway system of the country, and apart altogether from the quantity of coal available a reduction in the quantity to be moved is inevitable.

This order deals with household coal only, but includes in this supplies for home industries and for bakeries, laundries, and other businesses which may be used in substitution for household work. It is useless to economize in coal at home if the washing or baking is done elsewhere. It also includes supplies of coal for heating and cooking, wherever used. Later on it may be necessary to proceed to the rationing of coal for industrial purposes of all kinds not directly associated with the conduct and support of the war.

Analysis of the Order.

The following analysis has been prepared setting out the principal points in the order. It is designed to be a guide to consumers of fuel, gas, and electricity in private dwelling houses, flats, tenements, and similar buildings. The allowances for fuel and lighting in the table below apply to England south (and inclusive) of Gloucestershire, Oxfordshire, Northamptonshire, Cambridgeshire, and Norfolk. The order itself contains two scales of allowances for fuel; one for the southern counties of England and the other for the northern counties and for Wales.

The quantity of coal, gas, and electricity allowed for fuel and lighting is set out in the following table:

Rooms occupied.	Fuel, year's allowance.	Lighting, year's allowance—
		Gas.	Electricity.
	Tons.	Cubic feet.	B. T. units.
2	3	7,500	120
3	3½	7,500	120
4	4	11,250	180
5	4½	11,250	180
6	5	11,250	180
7	6	15,000	240
8	7	15,000	240
9	8	15,000	240
10	9	18,750	300
11	10	18,750	300
12	11	18,750	300
13	12	22,250	360
14	13	22,250	360
15	14	22,250	360

The lighting allowance above shown is for either gas or electricity; both can not be taken.

Special Grants to Prevent Hardship.

Additional allowances for both fuel and lighting may be granted to consumers by the local fuel overseer where necessary to prevent hardship in the following cases:

1. The presence of aged or infirm persons, invalids, or young children.

2. The occupation of separate rooms by lodgers.

3. The use of rooms for a business or profession in a dwelling house or other building in connection therewith.

4. Night and day workers living in the same house.

5. Illness (temporary allowance to be granted on a medical certificate).

These allowances can not be made except for good cause shown, and only to a very limited extent as supplies of fuel permit. Additional allowances may also be made for industrial purposes where an industry is carried on at home.

Allowances of gas or electricity must not be consumed at a greater rate than one-third in any quarter. Where, however, a saving is made in one quarter it may be consumed in any succeeding quarter of that year.—Commerce Reports.

Authorizing Payment of Invalid Pensions

[PUBLIC—No. 184—65TH CONGRESS.]

[H. R. 12000.]

An act making appropriations for the payment of invalid and other pensions of the United States for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and nineteen, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the following sums are appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the payment of pensions for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and nineteen, and for other purposes, namely:

Army and Navy pensions, as follows: For invalids, widows, minor children, and dependent relatives, Army nurses, and all other pensioners who are now borne on the rolls, or who may hereafter be placed thereon, under the provisions of any and all acts of Congress, $220,000,000: Provided, That the appropriation aforesaid for Navy pensions shall be paid from the income of the Navy pension fund, so far as the same shall be sufficient for that purpose: Provided further, That the amount expended under each of the above items shall be accounted for separately.

For fees and expenses of examining surgeons, pensions, for services rendered within the fiscal year nineteen hundred and nineteen, $50,000.

Approved, July 2, 1918.

FOOD ADMINISTRATION RULES ON MANUFACTURE OF CHEESE

The Food Administration has just issued special regulations governing manufacturers, dealers, brokers, and commission merchants in all of the important kinds of cheese. They supplant the former rules on American or Cheddar cheese and include also such foreign types as Swiss, brick, Limburger, and Munster.

Margins Over Cost.

The maximum margins over cost which dealers must not exceed are definitely fixed, those for American being the same as in the earlier regulations. The items that may enter into the cost are stated explicitly. All cheese must be sold without regard to the market or replacement value and only on the basis of the actual cost plus a reasonable profit. The margins given are not to be considered as "reasonable," as they were purposely made wide enough to take care of cases in which the cost of doing business is unusually high.

Full reports on costs and margins or prices charged in any given period must be furnished on demand of the Food Administration or the Federal food administrator for the State.

There are certain kinds of cheese that have not been specifically mentioned in these rules, as they are not of sufficient importance on the market, but dealings in these varieties come under the general rules in respect to excess profits.

Raising of Standards.

It is anticipated that certain provisions in these rules will be of great benefit in raising the standard of quality of some of these foreign types, particularly round Swiss, which have had such a large demand since the war cut off imports of foreign cheese. Due to the keen competition among dealers to get the product of factories, cheese was taken out of the factory before being properly matured and as a result the quality has suffered. Hereafter a dealer who buys ungraded cheese can not sell any portion of a lot at a higher price than the actual price paid per pound for the entire lot plus the specified margins. The tendency now should be for dealers to delay buying cheese until it is more mature and the quality can be more nearly determined. The improvement in quality should help the industry meet the competition that is sure to return with the end of the war.

DEATH RATE FROM DISEASE IN THE AMERICAN ARMIES LESS THAN 2 MEN PER 1,000

LOWER THAN FOR CIVIL LIFE

Record Established for July Never Surpassed So Far as Known—Improvement in Military Sanitation Shown by Comparison.

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the Office of the Surgeon General:

A health rate, which as far as known has never been surpassed, has been established by the American Armies both here and overseas. For the week ended July 26 the combined reports of the American Expeditionary Forces and of troops stationed in the United States show an annual death rate for disease of 1.9 per 1,000—less than 2 men per 1,000 per year. The annual death rate for disease of men of military age in civil life is 6.7 per 1,000.

Overseas Record While Fighting.

This new rate is based on an approximate strength of 2,500,000 men, and includes men living under abnormal conditions. The overseas record was made while American soldiers were participating in the heavy fighting in the Marne salient, when they were frequently compelled to sleep and eat under the most primitive conditions.

That this record is truly representative of the general health of the troops is shown by the combined reports, which indicate the figure of 2.8 per 1,000 as the average death rate for disease during the past two months.

Compared With Other Wars.

An idea of the progress being made in military sanitation is gained by a comparison with the following:

During the Mexican War the annual death rate for disease was 100 per 1,000. During our Civil War the rate in 1862 was 40 per 1,000, while during 1863 the rate jumped to 60 per 1,000. The disease death rate for the Spanish-American War was 25 per 1,000.

As far as available records show, the lowest figure heretofore recorded was 20 per 1,000 during the Russo-Japanese War.

NEW RESERVE BOARD SECRETARY.

Effective September 1, 1918, Mr. J. A. Broderick has been appointed secretary of the Federal Reserve Board to succeed H. Parker Willis, resigned to accept the chair of banking at Columbia University, New York. Mr. Broderick has been acting as secretary of the board since August 6.

150,000 ESTIMATED TOTAL

New Enrollment Made Necessary By Fact that Class 1 is Practically Exhausted and Must be Replenished to Meet the Calls for September—No New Drawing.

The War Department authorizes the following from the office of the Provost Marshal General:

The President has issued a proclamation calling for the registration, on August 24, 1918, of all young men in the United States who have reached the age of 21 years since June 5, 1918, or shall have reached that age on or before August 24.

This registration should not be confused with the larger registration which must be undertaken after Congress has acted on the legislation now pending increasing the age limits.

Class 1 Practically Exhausted.

The enrollment on August 24 is made necessary by the fact that men are being sent to the training camps so rapidly that class 1 is practically exhausted and must be replenished to meet the calls for September.

On the basis of the registration on June 5 last of those who had become 21 years of age since June 5, 1917, it is estimated that approximately 150,000 will have reached that age between June 5, 1918, and August 24, 1918. Of this number, judging by previous experience, something over 50 per cent should be available for class 1.

Telegraphic instructions have been sent by the Provost Marshal General to the draft officials in the various States and the District of Columbia directing that local boards be asked to arrange at once for a sufficient number of registration offices and to give public notice as soon as possible of the locations selected.

It is strongly urged that all young men who will be affected by this registration ascertain from their local boards or from the local boards of the towns where they expect to be on August 24 just where they should apply for registration. Those unable, on account of sickness, to register in person may deputize responsible persons to register for them.

It will not be necessary to hold another drawing in Washington to determine the order of liability to service of those who

Text of Proclamation Calling to Registry Men Reaching Age of 21 Since June 5, 1918

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas Congress enacted and the President on the 20th day of May, 1918, approved the following public resolution:

"Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That during the present emergency all male persons, citizens of the United States, and all male persons residing in the United States, who have, since the 5th day of June, 1917, and on or before the day set for the registration by proclamation by the President, attained the age of 21 years, shall be subject to registration in accordance with regulations to be prescribed by the President, and that upon proclamation by the President, stating the time and place of such registration, it shall be the duty of all such persons, except such persons as are exempt from registration under the act of May 18, 1917, and any act or acts amendatory thereof, to present themselves for and submit to registration under the provisions of said act approved May 18, 1917, and they shall be registered in the same manner and subject to the same requirements and liabilities as those previously registered under the terms of said act: Provided, That those persons registered under the provisions of this act shall be placed at the bottom of the list of those liable for military service, in the several classes to which they are assigned, under such rules and regulations as the President may prescribe.

"SEC. 2. That after the day set under section 1 hereof for the registration by proclamation by the President at such intervals as the President may from time to time prescribe, the President may require that all male persons, citizens of the United States, and all male persons residing in the United States, who have attained the age of 21 years since the last preceding date of registration, and on or before the next day set for the registration by proclamation by the President, except such persons as are exempt from registration under the act of May 18, 1917, and any act or acts amendatory thereof, shall be registered in the same manner and subject to the same requirements and liabilities as those previously registered under the terms of said act: Provided, That students who are preparing for the ministry in recognized theological or divinity schools, and students who are preparing for the practice of medicine and surgery in recognized medical schools, at the time of the approval of this act, shall be exempt from the selective draft prescribed in the act of May 18, 1917.

"SEC. 3. That all such persons when registered shall be liable to military service and to draft under the terms of said act approved May 18, 1917, under such regulations as the President may prescribe not inconsistent with the terms of said act.

SEC. 4. That all such persons shall be subject to the terms and provisions and liabilities of said act approved May 18, 1917, in all respects as if they had been registered under the terms of said act, and every such person shall be deemed to have notice of the requirements of said act and of this joint resolution upon the publication of any such proclamation by the President.

And whereas the act of Congress approved May 18, 1917, entitled "An act to authorize the President to increase temporarily the Military Establishment of the United States," contains the following provisions:

"SEC. 5. * * * And any person who shall willfully fail or refuse to present himself for registration or to submit thereto as herein provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, upon conviction in the district court of the United States having jurisdiction thereof, be punished by imprisonment for not more than one year, and shall thereupon be duly registered: Provided, That in the call of the docket precedence shall be given in courts trying the same, to the trial of criminal proceedings under this act. * * *

"SEC. 6. That the President is hereby authorized to utilize the service of any or all departments and any or all officers or agents of the United States and of the several States, Territories, and the District of Columbia, and subdivisions thereof, in the execution of this act, and all officers and agents of the United States and of the several States, Territories, and subdivisions thereof, and of the District of Columbia, and all persons designated or appointed under regulations prescribed by the President, whether such appointments are made by the President himself or by the governor or other officer of any State or Territory to perform any duty in the execution of this act, are hereby required to perform such duty as the President shall order or direct, and all such officers and agents and persons so designated or appointed shall hereby have full authority for all acts done by them in the execution of this act by the direction of the President. Correspondence in the execution of this act may be carried in penalty envelopes bearing the frank of the War Department. Any person charged as herein provided with the duty of carrying into effect any of the provisions of this act or the regulations made or directions given thereunder who shall fail or neglect to perform such duty, and any person charged with such duty or having and exercising any authority under said act, regulations, or directions who shall knowingly make or be a party to the making of any false or incorrect registration, physical examination, exemption, enlistment, enrollment, or muster, and any person who shall make or be a party to the making of any false statement or certificate as to the fitness or liability of himself or any other person for service under the provisions of this act or regulations made by the President thereunder, or otherwise, evades or aids another to evade the requirements of this act or of said regulations, or who, in any manner, shall fail or neglect fully to perform any duty required of him in the execution of this act, shall, if not subject to military law, be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction in the district court of the United States having jurisdiction thereof be punished by imprisonment for not more than one year, or, if subject to military law, shall be tried by court-martial and suffer such punishment as a court-martial may direct."

And whereas the last preceding date of registration under the terms of the said public resolution approved May 20, 1918, was June 5, 1918:

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, do call upon all male persons, either citizens of the United States or residing in the several States, or in the District of Columbia, who have, since the 5th day of June, 1918, and on or before the 24th day of August, 1918, attained their twenty-first birthday, to register in accordance with the above law and the regulations prescribed thereunder: Provided, however, That the following persons are hereby exempted from registration: Officers and enlisted men of the Regular Army, the Navy, the Marine Corps, and the National Guard and Naval Militia while in the service of the United States, and officers in the Officers' Reserve Corps and enlisted men in the Enlisted Reserve Corps while in active service.

And I do further proclaim and give notice to every person subject to registra-will register August 24. The same method will be followed as that adopted for belated registrants whose names went on the books after June 5, last. In other words, advantage will be taken of the fact that enough numbers were drawn in the official drawing of June 27, 1918, to fix the order of liability, not only for all who registered June 5, 1918, but for all who are expected to be enrolled on August 24. Altogether 1,200 numbers were drawn at that time, although the total number of registrants in any one registration district on June 5 did not exceed two-thirds of that number. Thus one-third of these numbers are available for distribution among the new registrants.

This distribution will be made by The Adjutant General or draft executive in each State for each of the registration districts under his jurisdiction, copies of all registration cards, with blank spaces for the numbers, having been been furnished him. He will pick the available numbers at random and assign them according to the order in which he takes up the registration cards. When a registrant has thus received his number he will be able, by reference to the official drawing of June 27, 1918, to which he will have access, to determine the order in which he will be called.

QUESTIONNAIRE ON CARTONS USED IN THE SHOE INDUSTRY

The War Industries Board has sent the following letter to carton manufacturers, shoe manufacturers, shoe wholesalers, and shoe retailers:

The present situation in the pulp and paper industry makes it essential that we institute every practical method of conservation in the use of paper. This division is undertaking, in cooperation with the allied shoe industry, to bring about economies in the cartons used in the shoe industry. The elimination of paper coverings on shoe cartons will assist in conserving the paper supply.

In view of the fact that there is a large variety of styles and sizes of shoe cartons now in use, we wish to ascertain if it would be practicable to standardize the sizes of all shoe cartons. Standard cartons would apparently yield substantial savings in manufacturing and release a considerable amount of capital now tied up in stocks on hand.

We are sending copies of the inclosed schedule to shoe manufacturers, carton manufacturers, shoe wholesalers, and shoe retailers in order that all branches of the allied shoe industry may be consulted.

Will you please give us the benefit of your judgment and experience by answering the questions on the inclosed schedule and return it before August 16, 1918.

CONSERVATION DIVISION,
WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD.

MAXIMUM LEATHER PRICE REGULATION IS ANNOUNCED

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

In connection with the maximum prices on sole and belting leathers fixed August 8, 1918, by the price-fixing committee of the War Industries Board to be effective for a period of three months beginning August 9, 1918, the hide, leather, and leather goods section of the War Industries Board announces this regulation:

These maximum prices are to apply to contracts made or entered into for the sale or purchase of sole or belting leather, made or executed within the period for which maximum prices were fixed, except that any contracts made or entered into to be executed or fulfilled after November 8, shall be made subject to any future regulation of prices by the price-fixing committee.

Maximum Prices Not Fixed Prices.

The leather-goods section also makes this statement in connection with the action of the price-fixing committee in fixing the maximum prices referred to:

It should be understood that maximum prices do not mean fixed prices. Maximum prices merely establish a level beyond which commodities or grades and selections of commodities can not sell, and are established to stabilize the industry in order to protect the industry, the Government, and the community at large against a runaway market.

Within the maximum prices, the law of supply and demand should have its influence on trade prices of all commodities, or grades and selections of commodities. The price-fixing committee does not intend that maximum prices shall obtain unless such prices are justified by the law of supply and demand.

To Cover All Kinds.

In fixing maximum prices on leather, the price-fixing committee has and will endeavor to cover all important kinds, grades, and selections, and provides the means to fix maximum prices for all possible differentials.

In all cases where differential kinds, grades, and selections present themselves on the market and an agreement as to their relative value compared with the nearest kind, grade, or selection for which maximums have been fixed, can not be arrived at to the satisfaction of buyer and seller, the facts should be referred to the hide, leather, and leather goods section of the War Industries Board for consideration, and if necessary for submission to the price-fixing committee for decision.

WAR DEPARTMENT PURCHASING LISTS FOR MANUFACTURERS

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

In order that all manufacturers and the public generally may obtain full information regarding the needs of the War Department the General Staff has prepared a plan for obtaining publicity of lists of all articles purchased by any supply bureau. Any manufacturer in the United States who wishes to manufacture Government supplies should send his name to the supply bureau purchasing the kind of supplies which he manufactures and indicate what he is in a position to furnish. His application should be accompanied by satisfactory references from banks or reputable business concerns or from the chairman of the local regional manufacturer's organization associated with the War Industries Board. If found satisfactory his name will be placed on the mailing lists of the bureau which handles the supply in which he is interested.

Circulars to Manufacturers.

Whenever the bureaus need supplies they will send circular proposals to all persons on their mailing lists interested in the desired supplies, inviting them to submit bids. These bids will be opened and given publicity at such time and place as may be specified by the bureau inviting them. There will also be full publicity of awards.

Only in cases where it is decided that valuable information could be transmitted to the enemy will information about supplies and contracts be withheld. The final determination of what is of military value will be decided by the military censors and not by the officers or persons handling the supplies in the bureaus.

To Establish Information Desks.

As a further service to the public each supply bureau will maintain one or more information desks where there will be available information as to the officers handling the articles purchased by the bureau, together with blanks for proposals and a bulletin board upon which shall be posted all circular proposals. The location of the information desks in each bureau will be published in THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

There will also be maintained a central information office at the office of the Director of Purchases and Supplies, General Staff.

Certain Bones Added to Export Conservation List

The War Trade Board issues the following:

The War Trade Board announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 196) the addition of the following commodities to the export conservation list, effective August 15, 1918:

Bones, as follows: Shin, thigh, unground.

Flour, as follows: Tapioca, X–1; shin bones; tapioca flour, X–1; thigh bones; unground bones.

Section A.—In Lorraine one of our patrols made a successful raid on the enemy's lines and brought back prisoners. In the Vosges a hostile raiding party was repulsed. With the exception of considerable artillery activity along the Vesle there is nothing further to report.

NAVY ENLISTED MAN DROWNED.

The Navy Department is informed that John S. Maurer, hospital apprentice, first class, U. S. Navy, was drowned on August 11, at Minneapolis, Minn. At date of enlistment, May 7, 1917, Maurer gave as his next of kin, mother, Alice Maurer, East "A" Street, Ontario, Cal.

King George Praises American Fleet in Personal Message to the President

Following is a letter from the British ambassador to the President:

JULY 24, 1918.

MY DEAR MR. PRESIDENT:

I have the honor to inform you that I have received a telegram from London requesting me to convey to you the following personal message from His Majesty the King:

"It has given me a great pleasure to have visited this afternoon the United States ship ———— and to have made the acquaintance of Rear Admiral ———— and the captains of the remarkable battleship force now operating with my Grand Fleet and I also had an opportunity of seeing representatives from other ships of the squadron. I should like to express my admiration of the high efficiency and general smartness of the force, and the happy relations which exist between the United States squadron and their British comrades, and the unity of purpose which characterizes their work and sure guarantees of the continued success of the allied arms at sea."

I have the honor to be, my dear Mr. President,
With the highest respect,

READING.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,
The White House.

THE PRESIDENT'S RESPONSE.

In response to the above the President has sent the following:

The White House, Washington, July 24, 1918.

My Dear Mr. Ambassador:

Thank you for your letter of this morning conveying to me the very kind and interesting message of His Majesty, the King, sent after his visit to our battleship ————. When you reach London, will you not be kind enough to express to the King, in person, my appreciation of the message and my pleasure that he found our men so fit? He may be sure that our cooperation with the British Navy is rendered with the heartiest spirit, and I am sure that it will net greater and greater advantages to the cause of the nations associated against Germany.

With the best wishes,

Cordially and sincerely, yours,

WOODROW WILSON.

His Excellency, the Earl of Reading,
Ambassador of Great Britain.

Ruling on Importation of Gutta Joolatong

The War Trade Board issues the following:

The restriction imposed by the War Trade Board upon the importation of gutta joolatong (variously known as jelutong and pontianac) has been modified in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 193.) to the extent of permitting the importation of a limited amount necessary for essential purposes in this country during the remainder of the calendar year. The amount so licensed will be allocated by the Bureau of Imports of the War Trade Board among manufacturers in accordance with their requirements for the production of commodities essential to the successful prosecution of the war.

Restriction Is Modified on Creosote Oil Imports

The War Trade Board issues the following:

List of restricted imports No. 1 has, by a new ruling of the War Trade Board (W. T. B. R. 201), been so far modified as to permit the importation from Japan of 2,000,000 gallons of creosote oil (item 14) during the remainder of the present calendar year.

Licenses for the importation of this quantity of creosote oil from Japan may be issued during the remainder of the present calendar year when the applications are otherwise in order, with the proviso that such oil is shipped on vessels approved for that purpose by the shipping control committee of the United States Shipping Board. The amount so permitted to come forward will be allocated by the Bureau of Imports of the War Trade Board.

WORK OF CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

Secretary McAdoo discussed the war-revenue bill before the Ways and Means Committee yesterday. His closing statement was that it is imperative that the revenue bill should be enacted into law before the opening of the fourth Liberty loan campaign on September 28. The Secretary of the Treasury expressed his opposition to increases in the present rates upon excess-profits taxes. He urged the adoption of an 80 per cent tax upon war profits, pointing out that the distinction between a war-profits tax and the excess-profits tax is not a matter of form, but of substance. He also renewed his recommendations for a higher rate upon unearned than upon earned incomes. The Secretary said he wished to say that a war-revenue act such as this must be should be made with a broader point of view than that of merely producing revenue—from the point of view also of curtailing wasteful expenditure. From this point of view, he said, such taxes as that proposed upon the employment of numerous domestic servants are of great importance. Secretary McAdoo called attention to the "importance of not increasing the supertax rates to a point where they will be destructive rather than productive of revenue. Obviously," he added, "a point may be reached whereby making the supertaxes too high in the higher brackets, persons subject to these topmost rates will find it to their advantage to dispose of their taxable securities in the market and invest the proceeds in exempt securities."

Statement by Mr. Kitchin.

Upon the adjournment of the committee, Chairman Kitchin made the following statement:

"Secretary McAdoo, Assistant Secretary Leffingwell, Dr. Adams, and Commissioner Roper have met with the committee to-day. Most of the time was occupied by Secretary McAdoo, who discussed the war-profits and excess-profits tax. We adjourned with the idea of conferring again to see if we can work out a relation between the excess-profits tax and the war-profits tax that will be satisfactory."

This statement was made in the presence of Secretary McAdoo, who added:

"I do not think there is any question that we will be able to work out a bill upon which both the Ways and Means Committee and the Treasury Department will be in substantial agreement."

Earlier in the day Mr. Rainey, of Illinois, proposed an amendment to greatly increase the taxes upon inheritances but the committee voted him down. Mr. Rainey said he would carry the fight to the floor of the House.

Protest by Mr. Gompers.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, yesterday sent to each member of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs a letter protesting against the adoption of the Reed amendment which would remove from deferred classification any workmen of draft age in essential industries who remained away from work without cause for five days. In the letter Mr. Gompers asserted that labor was doing its full share and insisted that the proposed legislation would be most unwise and would be bound to create discontent. While here and there there might be annoying incidents, he declared that taken as a whole labor was responding nobly and patriotically to the demands of the Government and the proposed legislation was an unjust reflection upon labor.

Gold Mining is Declared Essential War Industry

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

The Priorities Board of the War Industries Board, after carefully considering the matter of gold production, has adopted the following resolution:

"BE IT RESOLVED by the Priorities Board that gold mining is an essential war industry, and the powers of this Board will be so exercised as to accord to such industry preferential treatment in the supply not only of tools, machinery and equipment, but in transportation service, fuel supply, and labor supply."

Keep Bulletin Posted in All U. S. Post Offices

Reports having been made that at some post offices THE OFFICIAL (United States) BULLETIN is not being posted regularly for public reading in accordance with Postmaster General Burleson's orders, postmasters are again reminded of this important duty. It should be remembered that THE BULLETIN is the only publication available to all sections of the country that prints daily the complete and correct casualty lists from our armies oversea exactly as they are issued by the War Department. Many newspapers print only the lists having local interest in their own territory. THE BULLETIN prints every name and address, thus making it a certain means of informing friends and relatives, wherever they may be, of the fate of a soldier or sailor, no matter where his home town or city.

Postmasters are urged, aside from their duty as officials, to make it their patriotic and personal duty to see that the public has the fullest benefit of this privilege.

The Postmaster General's order follows:

All postmasters are directed to post the OFFICIAL BULLETIN daily in a conspicuous place in the lobby or other portion of their respective post-office buildings where the public can read it; and, without expense to the Government, each and every postmaster is earnestly urged to see that this BULLETIN is made available to as many people as possible in the manner suggested.

A. S. BURLESON,
Postmaster General.

SCHOONER SHELLED BY U-BOAT OFF THE NEW JERSEY COAST

Vessel Set on Fire and Crew Abandons It—Seaplanes and Chasers on Search.

The Navy Department is informed that the schooner Dorothy Barrett, bound to New York from Norfolk, was attacked by a submarine 6½ miles off Northeast End Lightship, near Cape May, N. J., yesterday afternoon. The crew abandoned the vessel as soon as the submarine appeared and opened fire. The schooner took fire after the crew left.

Depth Bombs Dropped.

Seaplanes and submarine chasers were sent to the locality immediately. The aviators reported that they saw a wake and air bubbles near where the schooner was on fire. Bombs were dropped. One exploded within 75 feet of the bubbles. Following the plane attack, two submarine chasers dropped depth bombs over the spot where the bubbles were observed. Mine sweepers are at work in the vicinity. The seven members of the crew of the Dorothy Barrett landed safely at Cape May.

Kellogg Partially Afloat.

The Navy Department is informed that the steamship Frederick Kellogg, the tanker attacked by a submarine off the New Jersey coast Tuesday afternoon, is partially afloat, and it is believed that the vessel can be salvaged.

The torpedo struck amidships on the port side. Thirty-five of the crew were safely landed. Seven are reported lost.

[The name of this steamer was originally given as the Henry S. Kellogg.]

WILL TEST WEST COAST COAL IN SOUTH AMERICAN PLANTS

The Fuel Administration authorizes the following:

As a means of relieving the pressure upon eastern coal, the United States Fuel Administration has arranged a test of State of Washington coal in South American industrial plants.

Trial cargoes were recently shipped from Puget Sound to Chile. The coal cargoes were accompanied by fuel experts who will conduct the experiments.

Would Relieve Eastern Mines.

Heretofore the coal for South American export has been taken from the mines of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Maryland, which mines are now carrying the heaviest burden in producing coal for Government uses. It is estimated they are 14,000,000 tons behind the production required from them to meet the war demands.

If it should be demonstrated that the western coast coals will answer the South American demands, a measure of protection will be afforded the eastern mines, the product of which is under heavy demand for Navy uses, for bunkering of ships, and for industrial purposes in the congested manufacturing section of the Northeast.

NO NATIONAL RESTRICTIONS ON LAUNDRIES IN USE OF COAL

The Fuel Administration issues the following:

Commercial laundries, according to a decision of the United States Fuel Administration, will not be subject to any national restrictions in the use of coal at this time. The industry uses large quantities of coal, consuming approximately a million and a half tons annually, but a conference of officers of the Laundry Owners' National Association with officials of the United States Fuel Administration showed that fuel conservation in this industry could best be handled locally. Therefore, a plan has been formulated whereby regulations for effecting coal economy in laundries will be entirely in the hands of local fuel administration authorities.

Large Opportunity for Conservation.

Investigation showed that, while many of the larger laundries are operated efficiently, taking the industry as a whole, there is a large opportunity for coal conservation.

The recommendations to the State fuel administrators are that laundries be asked to overhaul their steam plants, and, with the advice of the State administrative engineer, make such changes in their plants as will effect a fuel saving; also, that laundries running only part capacity should consolidate, wherever possible, with others to secure the greatest amount of completed work with a reasonable quantity of coal.

WOUNDED IN ACTION.

The Navy Department is informed that Savala Eustace Gunn, hospital apprentice first class, United States Navy, attached to a headquarters company, United States Marine Corps, was severely wounded in action in France June 22. Mother, Mrs. Mary B. Gunn, Sutherland, Va.

Serve abroad or serve at home. Buy war-savings stamps.

COTTON GOODS DIFFERENTIALS AS FIXED UNDER AGREEMENT

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

In accordance with the agreement between the representatives of the cotton industry and the price fixing committee, July 1, 1918, the following differentials based on the prices then agreed to have been fixed by the price fixing committee, to remain in effect until October 1, 1918:

Wide Sheetings.

The price is 80 cents per pound net cash f. o. b. mill. This price divided by the weight of the 11/4 brown will give the yardage price of 11/4 brown and 10/4 bleached; divided by the weight of 10/4 brown will give the yardage price of 10/4 brown and 9/4 bleached, and so on, through the various widths.

TEXT OF THE REGISTRATION PROCLAMATION

tion in the several States, and in the District of Columbia, in accordance with the above law, that the time and place of registration shall be between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. on the 24th day of August, 1918, at the office of the local board having jurisdiction of the area wherein he permanently resides, or at such other place as shall be designated by public notice by such local board.

And I do call upon the governor of each of the several States, the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia, and all members of local boards and agents thereof appointed under the provision of the act of Congress approved May 18, 1917, to perform certain duties in the execution of the foregoing law, which duties have been communicated to them directly in regulations prescribed under the terms of said public resolution.

A day for registration in the Territories of Alaska, Hawaii, and Porto Rico will be named in a later proclamation.

As required by the regulations, every local board having jurisdiction in a city of 30,000 population or over will promptly cause the mayor thereof to be notified of the place or places designated for registration; every local board having jurisdiction in a county, parish, or similar unit will promptly cause the clerk thereof to be notified of the place or places designated for registration, and every local board having jurisdiction in a State or Territory the area of which is divided into divisions for the administration of the act approved May 18, 1917, will promptly cause the clerks of the townships within its division to be notified of the place or places designated for registration.

And I do call upon every mayor, county clerk, or township clerk receiving such notification to have a list of said places of registration posted, and do charge him with the duty of having all persons making inquiry informed of the place or places at which they may register.

Any person who, on account of sickness, will be unable to present himself for registration may apply on or before the day of registration at the office of any local board for instructions as to how he may register by agent.

Any person who expects to be absent on the day designated for registration from the jurisdiction of the board in which he permanently resides may register by mail, but his registration card must reach the local board having jurisdiction of the area wherein he permanently resides by the day herein named for registration. Any such person should apply as soon as practicable at the office of a local board for instructions as to how he may register by mail.

Any person who has no permanent residence must register at the place designated for registration by the local board having jurisdiction of the area wherein he may be on the day herein named for registration.

Any person who, on account of absence at sea, or on account of absence without the territorial limits of the United States, may be unable to comply with the regulations pertaining to absentees, shall, within five days after reaching the first United States port, register with his proper local board or as provided in the regulations for other absentees.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the District of Columbia this 13th day of August in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eighteen and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and forty-third.

[SEAL.] WOODROW WILSON.

By the President:
ROBERT LANSING,
Secretary of State.

Mr. Schwab Calls Meeting of Eastern Shipbuilders to Speed Up Production

The United States Shipping Board authorizes the following:

Charles M. Schwab, Director General of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, announces that he has called a meeting of the eastern shipbuilders for next Tuesday in Philadelphia to speed up production. It is the hope of the Director General that by a get-together meeting the shipbuilding of the East will be speeded up.

Douglas Fir Price Date Extended to October 15

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

Upon the request of the industry, the price-fixing committee of the War Industries Board has extended the date of the expiration of the maximum prices on Douglas fir lumber logs from September 15, 1918, to October 15, 1918.

First Step in Organizing Employers and Workers in all War Factories

The Department of Labor authorizes the following:

Frank T. Hawley, head of the Industrial Plants Division of the Information and Education Service, Department of Labor, is sending out to employers engaged on Government contracts letters notifying them to to have shop committees selected by employers and employees in all the plants. This is the first step in a nation-wide organization of employers and employees for increased production in all lines of war work.

The Industrial Plants Division, as a part of the Information and Education Service, of which Roger W. Babson is chief, is concerned equally with manufacturers and workers, with employers and employees. Both are to be organized on the common ground of fullest cooperation in furnishing the greatest output for the fighting forces of the United States.

Medical Cards for U. S. Labor Recruits Urged to Secretary by Mr. Gompers

The committee on labor of the Council of National Defense authorizes the following:

Samuel Gompers, chairman of the committee on labor, has recommended to Secretary William B. Wilson, of the Department of Labor, that medical examination of applicants be made one of the functions of the Government labor recruiting agencies.

This recommendation was the outcome of a conference under the auspices of the national subcommittee on welfare work of the committee on labor held in New York City July 15. The following resolution was adopted on that occasion. It embodies the consensus of opinion of experts on this subject, representatives of labor, employers, industrial physicians, and public-health workers.

Text of Resolution.

"It is the sense of this conference that the physical examination of workers is primarily a measure of health conservation and also essential to maximum production—a war necessity.

"That the purpose of a medical examination is not to eliminate the worker from industrial service but to adapt him to the work he is physically fitted for.

"Therefore, be it resolved, in view of the publicly announced policy of the Government centralizing the recruiting of labor in the United States Employment Service, that this conference recommend that medical examination of the workers be one of the functions of the Government labor recruiting agency.

"It further recommends the establishment of a central examination board composed of representatives of the workers, employers, and the Government;

"That this board issue examination cards indicating the health of the workers and classify according to physical fitness.

"Such a system of centralizing physical examination of workers does not prevent employers from maintaining their own system of physical examinations and follow-up methods for the purpose of conserving the health of their workers."

No Restriction on Employer.

It is intended that this should not prevent the employer from supplementing these examinations and pursuing certain follow-up or curative methods, after using the information thus gained in placing men where they may safely be employed.

The proposed central examination board, to be composed of representatives of the workers, employers, and the Government, the committee regards as being of primary importance, and suggested that it would be the part of wisdom to place upon any such board, and particularly upon the important ones in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, and Boston, men who have the confidence of the workers in the locality in which they are appointed. It was recommended that there should be another board to hear all appeals that might be made from decisions of the local board, and that a physician should be appointed on each local board.

The committee on labor also had prepared and submitted with this general recommendation a proposed standard card to be used in making physical examinations, believing that the entire plan would prevent duplications both with reference to examinations and classifying and recording them. It is also of the opinion that to have official examinations made by the Government would reduce about 50 per cent of the grievances resulting from such physical examinations when conducted by employers.

The standard-examinations card deals with such subjects as laboratory diagnosis, previous occupations, general appearance relating to deformities, malnutrition and glands, diseases of eyes, ears, nose, mouth and throat, lungs, heart, nervous system, extremities, and such general matters as hernia, hemorrhoids, and evidence of actual venereal disease.

It is believed that by having an adequate number of physicians in each governmental agency these examinations can quickly be made, and with the detection of communicable diseases, as well as the placing of subnormal employees in occupations fitted to their peculiar conditions, spread of communicable sickness will be prevented, and employment made possible of those who are below par, all of which will greatly augment and help to maintain the health of our industrial army.

Statement by Mr. Gompers.

In indicating the possibilities in this plan Samuel Gompers said:

"There can be no question as to the wonderful effects that such a movement as here proposed will bring about. It is only a matter of education before employers throughout the country will come under this rule that people generally should be physically examined and that the examination should be standardized—at least the minimum.

"Well, we are thinking in such terms now as would have been impossible if we had not gotten into the war. I feel that we are going through a baptism of fire that will make for quicker and better thinking and a better conception of life. It seems that in this world's history it has been clearly shown that no human achievement of a tangibly great character has ever been accomplished or ever will be accomplished except through a baptism of fire. It is the sanctification of such achievement—and I have taken occasion to say that the newer conception of man's interdependence upon man; the establishment of new relations between man and man as well as the new relations between nation and nation; the question of the centuries, 'Am I my brother's keeper?' is being answered now and answered in the affirmative. We are our brother's keeper! You can not help it; you can not get away from it, and the sluggishness of thought and the heavy handicap upon the feet of progress have been cut away and we are thinking more clearly and keenly and acting better in one comprehensive whole—first, to win this war, to root out autocracy, tyranny, and injustice of all sorts, as far as it is humanly possible to wipe them out, and at last to give the opportunity for the development of a higher and better mankind."

MEAT RESTRICTIONS MODIFIED IN WESTERN DROUGHT SECTIONS

The Food Administration issues the following:

The extreme drought in Texas, Oklahoma, and other sections of the Southwest, which also affects Montana and certain areas in adjacent States in the Northwest, is endangering the meat herds in these great cattle-producing sections. As an immediate result the present cattle runs are 50 per cent heavier than in the corresponding period of last year. The larger part of this stock is below the most desirable market weights and would normally remain on the ranges until it had attained a larger growth. So far as is practicable these cattle are being moved to sections where conditions of grass, grain, and water are more favorable. The surplus must, however, be handled.

Meat Restrictions Released.

The Food Administration, therefore, is for the present releasing the meat restrictions. This is about one month earlier than was originally contemplated. It is desired, however, to continue the same careful regard for economy in beef and in all essential foods as a measure to safeguard the future.

There is always a liberal run of the lighter cattle at this season of the year, but the present supply is excessive. Practically all of the heavier and fatter cattle are more needed for export purposes for our own armed forces and those of our allies because on account of their thickness and fatty covering they are less subject to deterioration during transfer from cars to ships and freezers, when they are not protected by refrigeration.

Freer Use of Beef.

In rescinding regulations which prohibited public eating places from serving beef more than once a day and in releasing the householders from their voluntary agreement to curtail purchases to 1½ pounds per week, including bone, the Food Administration requests that this freer use of beef be restricted so far as practicable to the cattle which dress under 475 pounds. To achieve this the retail meat markets are asked to specialize in the use of these lighter cattle, and families and patrons of all public eating places are requested to patriotically accept beef of this weight, even though they have heretofore been accustomed to using the heavier beef only.

Desire of the Administration.

The desire of the Food Administration at present is not primarily to increase the consumption of beef as a whole, but to induce a preference in favor of the lighter weight cattle, of which we have an abnormal surplus. This will bring about a conservation of the heavier cattle needed for our soldiers and for export to our allies. At the same time it will afford a measure of protection through increased outlet for cattle raisers in the drought-afflicted areas.

RESIGNATION IS ACCEPTED.

Special Orders, No. 180:

The resignation of Capt Alexander P. Duff, Quartermaster Corps, National Army, is accepted by the President to take effect this date (Aug. 2).

DIGEST OF OPINIONS BY THE JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL IN DECIDING VARIOUS ARMY QUESTIONS

Sale of Ordnance Supplies.

Except where otherwise provided by statute or clearly authorized by the language of particular appropriations, the Ordnance Department should procure from its appropriations and issue the supplies of ordnance and ordnance stores required for all branches of the armies of the United States. Accordingly, not all requests for ordnance material made by the Aviation Section, Signal Corps, should be treated as sales, but only those specifically covered by the appropriations contained in the Signal Corps act of July 24, 1917 (40 Stat. 243). Supplies of the character supplied by the Ordnance Department to the Army, required in connection with any other service of the Signal Corps than the air service should be furnished by way of issue and not by way of sale, unless, as to the particular supplies, there is an appropriation for the Signal Corps clearly available for the purchase of the same. It is not sufficient that there might be an appropriation broad enough by its terms to include these supplies, if they were not otherwise procurable, for the reason that the appropriations of the Ordnance Department are specifically available for the procuring of this character of supplies for the use of the armies of the United States. In order to exclude the ordnance appropriation there must be an appropriation of the particular branch of the service specifically providing for such supplies for that branch of the service. (Ops. J. A. G. 400.32, Mar. 27, 1918.)

Qualifications for Honor Graduates.

The cadets to be appointed to the United States Military Academy from the honor graduates of "honor schools" pursuant to the act of May 4, 1916 (39 Stat. 62), should be selected and determined in accordance with the provisions of Changes No. 1, Comp. of Orders, W. D., Mar. 12, 1917, and not according to the rules and regulations of any such institutions by which they may determine who is or who is not entitled to the grade and designation of honor graduate. (Ops. J. A. G. 351.1, Mar. 16, 1918.)

Payment of Desertion Reward.

A soldier having been for three days absent without leave from his post, Washington Barracks, D. C., his company commander wrote a letter to the chief of police of Manchester, N. H., stating that unless said soldier returned the following day he would be considered as a deserter from the service of the United States. This official arrested the soldier several days later and delivered him to the commanding officer of Fort Constitution with a copy of the letter aforesaid and secured from him the usual reward of $50. Upon being advised of the payment of the reward, the commanding officer at Washington Barracks protested that the soldier was not a deserter. Held, that the police official was justified in arresting the soldier as a deserter, and that in view of the said letter the commanding officer of Fort Constitution was justified in paying the reward. Held further, that the company commander should be required to reimburse the Government, unless he can furnish a satisfactory explanation for thus advising the chief of police, causing the arrest of the man as a deserter and the consequent payment of the reward, when the soldier was only absent without leave. A. R. 132 provides that no man will be reported as a deserter unless the company commander, after a thorough investigation, has reason to believe that the absentee does not intend to return.

(Ops. J. A. G. 251, Mar. 21, 1918.)

Trial of Alleged Deserter.

In the case of a soldier who has been dropped from the muster rolls as a deserter, where it appears that the charge of desertion can not successfully be sustained, either because of absence of necessary witnesses, or for any other reason, it is proper to prefer charges of absence without leave and try the soldier therefor. Conviction or acquittal on a charge of absence without leave, covering the whole period of absence involved in an administrative charge of desertion, will effectually eliminate the charge of desertion and all the consequences thereof, except such as pertain to absence without leave as well as desertion. Men who have deserted from their organizations just before the latter left for overseas duty should, wherever practicable, be sent to their organizations for trial, or for such other disposition as shall be there made of them, otherwise they have escaped overseas service and thus have achieved the purpose for which they deserted.

Ops. J. A. G. 250.4, Mar. 18, 1918.)

Signal Corps Line and Staff.

There is no established legal definition of what constitutes the line and what the staff of the Army. As a matter of common law military, the distinction between line and staff organizations depends upon whether or not they are designed primarily for actual combat; and except where bound by statute, the War Department is at liberty to determine whether organizations should properly be considered as belonging to the line or the staff, being governed by this distinction. The Signal Corps was formerly a staff department. Its duties were staff duties as distinguished from combat duties. But the recent development of the air service as a combatant service, with the placing of that service under the Signal Corps, has changed the organic character of that corps by adding to its long-established functions duties and functions which did not exist in the old scheme of organization. The Signal Corps act of July 14, 1917 (40 Stat., 243), contemplates organizations and units in the Signal Corps which are designed primarily, and perhaps solely, for fighting. Therefore, such organizations of the Signal Corps as are designed for actual combat are properly to be classified as organizations of the line of the Army as distinguished from the staff.

(Ops. J. A. G. 320, Mar. 25, 1918.)

Appointment as Ordnance Sergeant.

Section 12 of the national defense act of June 3, 1916 (39 Stat. 166, 174) providing that ordnance sergeants shall be selected from sergeants of the line of the Ordnance Department who shall have served faithfully for eight years, including four years in the grade of noncommissioned officer, is not suspended during the present emergency. There is, however, no legal objection to the appointment of ordnance sergeants in the National Army and the assignment of them to duty with a Regular Army division; but an ordnance sergeant can not be appointed as a part of the personnel of a Regular Army division under authority of the act of May 18, 1917 (40 Stat. 76).

(Ops. J. A. G. 221.15, Mar. 18, 1918.)

Delivery of Supposed Deserter.

The statutory authority for the payment of rewards in the military service applies only to deserters from the military service. Where, however, a police officer in good faith arrested a man and delivered him to the military authorities, in accordance with erroneous information received from The Adjutant General that the man was a deserter at large and amenable to arrest, the actual and necessary expenses of such police officer should be paid. Such expenses may be paid from the appropriation "Contingencies of the Army" upon approval and authority of the Secretary of War (40 Stat., 40.)

(Ops. J. A. G. 251, Mar. 1, 1918.)

Military and Civil Authorities.

The military authorities have no power to order the military police or any other part of the Army, as such, to assist the civil authorities in the execution of the law, except when called upon in the manner provided for in the Constitution of the United States and the acts of Congress. (20 Stat., 152.) This is equally true within as well as without the 5-mile zones around military camps prescribed by the President, within which is forbidden the sale of alcoholic liquors and the keeping of bawdy houses. The foregoing does not contemplate the situation where, under the well-known conditions, military power may by proper authority be exercised in aid of the Federal civil power.

(Ops. J. A. G. 014.1, Mar. 21, 1918.)

Right to Open Deserter's Mail.

Mail addressed to a soldier in desertion and received at a local post office or by his company commander is subject to the laws and postal regulations and can not be lawfully opened and examined with a view of discovering the whereabouts of the deserter. It is a criminal offense for a postmaster or any person other than the addressee of a letter to open the same without the consent of such addressee. (Criminal Code, secs. 194, 195.) Hence, such letters can not be opened except in the manner provided by law.

NEW TRAINING CAMP FOR 500 OFFICERS AT JACKSONVILLE

The War Department authorizes the following:

An officers' training camp for the training of 500 men from civil life will be established by the Quartermaster Corps at Camp Joseph E. Johnston, Jacksonville, Fla. The camp will be under the control of the Quartermaster General of the Army and the training will cover a course of instruction of approximately three months. Graduates of the camp who are commissioned will be assigned for duty with the conservation and reclamation division of the Quartermaster Corps.

Men Over Draft Age.

The men selected for attendance at this camp are to be over the draft age and subject to the prescribed physical examination. While at this camp they will receive the pay of a private, first class, of the Quartermaster Corps, $33 per month, and will be furnished with clothing, equipment, and subsistence.

The conservation and reclamation division of the Quartermaster Corps is charged with the conserving and reclaiming of all materials and supplies of the Army; the operation of shops for the repair of clothing, hats, shoes, rubber boots, rubber coats, ponchos, tents, leggings, cots, stoves, field ranges, saddles, harness, and other equipment; the operation of dry cleaning and laundry plants; with the prevention of all unnecessary waste resulting from the preparation, handling, and consumption of food; with the segregation from garbage and other waste matter of fats and other elements that have a commercial value, and the disposal of same; and also with the operation and conducting of camp gardens at the various camps and cantonments throughout the United States.

Assigned to Camp Johnston.

It is planned to send the first 100 candidates selected for this school to Camp Joseph E. Johnston on August 15, the remaining 400 on September 1. Any civilian over the draft age may submit his application to attend this training camp in the form of a statement setting forth his special qualifications, age, citizenship, previous military training, if any, and any other information which may have bearing on the case, together with three letters of recommendation from prominent citizens in his locality and a certificate from a recognized physician as to his physical fitness.

Applications should be addressed to the Quartermaster General of the Army, Washington, D. C., and will be received until midnight of August 20, 1918.

P. O. FRAUD ORDER REVOKED.

OFFICE OF THE POSTMASTER GENERAL,
Washington, August 9, 1918.

Order No. 1829:

Order No. 1772, dated July 27, 1918, forbidding delivery of mail and payment of money orders to the Gallstone Remedy Co., its officers and agents as such: L. E. Bowers, manager, and L. E. Bowers, at 219 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill., is hereby revoked in so far as it affects the personal name L. E. Bowers.

Acting Postmaster General.

Army Surgeons Find Means To Combat Empyema, Strange Disease of Lungs, That Has Attacked Soldiers In Camps

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the office of the Surgeon General:

By means of teamwork on the part of specialists, the Medical Department of the Army has now erected a dependable line of defense against empyema, the disease of the lungs that assumed the proportions of an epidemic in the camps and cantonments last winter, causing many deaths. The cause of the disease has been definitely ascertained and the best method of treatment established.

Differs from Ordinary Form.

The form of the disease that appeared in the camps last winter differed from the ordinary disease seen in civil life, being due to the streptococcus, one of the most dreaded germs known. Next winter, or at any other time, if a similar epidemic should attack the men in training or overseas, it is certain—that is, as certain as a forecast can be in reference to a disease as virulent as empyema—that the Surgeon General will be able to prevent a serious spread and will be able to rob the disease of its greatest danger.

To appreciate fully the nature and magnitude of the victory achieved it is necessary to understand in brief the nature of empyema and also to recall the general health conditions in American Army camps last winter.

Camp Conditions Considered.

The men at the camps were experiencing their first winter campaign. Many of the troops from the country districts had never suffered from the diseases of childhood, such as measles. Cases of measles appeared in the camps and the disease spread through the recruits from the country. Measles in adult life is very serious, frequently being followed by pneumonia. Other complications occurred to increase the gravity of the infections, none of which were more serious than empyema.

Empyema is an infection that attacks the membrane covering the lungs or the membranous lining of the chest walls. It produces a fluid, oftentimes pus, which remains between the two membranes. The amount of the exudate constantly increases and the lungs are forced up into a smaller and smaller space as the fluid tends to fill the pleural cavity. During this stage of the disease breathing becomes more labored and difficult, due to the restricted air space in the lungs. Aside from this aspect of empyema, which alone may prove fatal, the virulence of the germ is such that the infection is always to be dreaded.

Cause Long Unknown.

While similar epidemics have ravaged all armies for the last three centuries, at no time has the cause been known. The first known operation for empyema was performed in a similar epidemic during our War of 1812.

At the very inception of the epidemic Surg. Gen. Gorgas ordered special investigations to be made. Following this, the cause was discovered by an intensive study in the laboratory divisions of the bacteriology and pathology, the exact nature of the disease and the medical treatment outlined by the Army physicians, and the method of its spread determined by active work carried on by the medical department in every camp.

Best Method of Treatment.

The Surgical Division was charged with the problem of devising the best method of treatment. To this end a special group, consisting of surgeons, internists, and laboratory workers, was located at Camp Lee, Va., where a large group of patients were available for study. At the same time empyema teams, consisting of a surgeon, a medical man, and a laboratory expert, were appointed from the staff of each base hospital to treat and make a special study of all cases at their particular hospital.

In civil practice the ordinary type of empyema is operated upon almost as soon as diagnosed. But to-day a patient in an Army hospital would probably not be operated upon until the primary acute infection had spent its virulence, as it has been found that this disease is entirely different from that met in civil life.

Risks of Early Operation.

The medical officers feel that early operation may involve great risks without compensating benefits. The treatment carried out by the Empyema Commission consists of removing the pus by aspiration at as frequent intervals as necessary; that is, drawing off the fluid contained in the pleural cavity with the aid of a needle and suction apparatus. The laboratory men on the commission proved that the virulence of the exudate usually decreased during the periods between aspiration; in other words, nature herself seems to take a hand. The medical officers have found that the best time to operate is when the general condition of the patient begins to improve. The operation is usually performed under a local anaesthetic. In operations means are taken to prevent collapse of the lung. Many ingenious devices for the treatment of the disease have been introduced. In one hospital, where a ward was filled with patients suffering from empyema, the entire group of draining abcess cavities were attached by tubing to a central suction pump so as to keep the pus sucked out and keep the lungs of the patients expanded.

The following figures, taken from the report of the empyema team at the base hospital at Fort Riley, Kans., demonstrate the effectiveness of the new technique of treatment. From October 20 to January 29, 85 cases were under treatment which were not aspirated. Of these, 52 died. From January 29 to April 30, 69 cases were being treated. All of these were aspirated. The deaths numbered 6.

THE HANDLING OF CASUALS AT PORTS OF EMBARKATION

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington, July 3, 1918.

General Orders, No. 64:

VI. Hereafter, in order to facilitate the handling of casuals and to simplify the keeping of records in connection therewith, the following measures will be employed:

(a) An enlisted man absent from his company or detachment at the time of embarkation will be dropped from such company or detachment and taken up on the records of the over-seas casual camp at the port of embarkation, at which his company or detachment embarked, as unassigned in the arm, corps, or department of which he is a member. He will retain the grade which he held in his company or detachment as an extra number unless reduced by court-martial or by competent orders.

(b) The individual records of all such absentees will be delivered to the personnel adjutant of the port of embarkation, who will transmit them to the commanding officer of the over-seas casual camp. When the records of absentees are not with the company or detachment, lists giving names, station, and status of such absentees will be furnished to the personnel adjutant. This list will be transmitted to the commanding officer of the over-seas casual camp, who will inform the commanding officers of the organizations or stations indicated on the list that the men have been transferred from their original company or detachment to the over-seas casual camp as prescribed in (a).

(c) An enlisted man absent without leave at time of embarkation of the company or detachment of which he was a member will be brought to trial upon reporting to the commanding officer of over-seas casual camp. If he fails to return within 10 days, he will be reported to The Adjutant General of the Army as a deserter.

(d) The service record and other papers of a deserter will be forwarded to The Adjutant General of the Army with the report of desertion.

(e) In individual cases where an error or injustice might occur by reporting an absentee as a deserter at the end of 10 days, the period may be extended at the discretion of the commanding officer of over-seas casual camp. When report is forwarded after such extension, the reasons for extending the time will be stated.

(f) The individual equipment of each man absent without leave at the departure of the organization for embarkation will, if practicable, be left in the hands of the reclamation officer at the port of embarkation for suitable and proper disposition, and casuals reporting at the over-seas casual camp will be reequipped at that point.

TO HELP RAILROAD AND FARMS IN GETTING UNSKILLED LABOR

The Department of Labor authorizes the following:

While the prohibition against recruiting of unskilled labor by employers engaged in war work, except under the direction of the Department of Labor, does not include railroads and farmers, the transportation and agricultural industries will be assisted by the United States Employment Service in every way possible.

Farm and Railroad Labor.

Specialization in farm and railroad labor supplying is a feature of the central labor recruiting program, and the leading branch offices have special railroad labor and farm labor divisions, while in the West and in some places in the South and East offices have been established which devote their entire attention to supplying farm labor and railroad unskilled labor. Recently the employment offices of railroads in western territory were made a part of the Federal Employment Service system.

This statement is made necessary by the existence of an erroneous belief that railroads and farms must obtain labor through means other than the United States Employment Service. The service will not only assist railroads and farms in getting unskilled labor, but they will be protected by the Department of Labor from recruiting by other industries.

PROPOSALS FOR LOCK WALLS.

Special Orders, No. 183:

52. Maj. Charles D. Wilkins, Medical Reserve Corps, is relieved from duty at Camp Dodge, Des Moines, Iowa, and will proceed to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and report in person to the commandant, medical officers' training camp, Camp Greenleaf, that post, for a course of instruction.

APPOINTMENTS AND REDUCTION OF ENLISTED VETERINARIANS

General Orders, No. 58:

IV. 1. The following methods of appointments and reduction of the enlisted personnel of the Veterinary Corps will govern during the existing emergency:

(a) In divisions, the division veterinarian may promote enlisted men of the Veterinary Corps up to the authorized allowance and may sign warrants "for the Surgeon General."

(b) In veterinary, base veterinary, corps veterinary, and Army mobile veterinary hospitals the enlisted personnel of the Veterinary Corps will be promoted by the veterinarian in charge, who may sign warrants "for the Surgeon General," except that while any of these units are in a training school any appointment must be approved by the senior veterinary instructor.

(c) In veterinary detachments assigned to auxiliary remount depots, or to remount squadrons, or to any other detached command, the sergeants first class, sergeants, and corporals will be issued warrants by the Surgeon General upon recommendation of the veterinarian. Farriers, horseshoers, cooks, privates first class, and saddlers will be appointed by the veterinarian.

2. Any veterinarian may make reductions when in his judgment the same may be necessary, provided that the officer ordering the reduction shall have the power to fill the vacancy thus created.

MORE COAL FOR NEW ENGLAND THROUGH THE CAPE COD CANAL

The United States Railroad Administration authorizes the following:

Director General McAdoo announces that the operation of the Cape Cod Canal between Buzzards Bay and Sandwich, Mass., a distance of 8 miles, by the United States Railroad Administration under authority of the President's proclamation of July 23 will make possible the water transportation to New England consumers of a much larger tonnage of coal hereafter than would have been possible under the previous status.

Saving of 70 Miles.

The canal is now operated by the Boston, Cape Cod & New York Canal Co. Putting boats and barges through the canal means a saving of approximately 70 miles compared with the distance traveled by sea, and a much greater freedom from fogs.

While the present depth of 19 feet at mean low water will permit the movement of a large tonnage of coal and other freight, the prompt dredging of the canal under Government auspices to its original charter depth of 25 feet will permit the safe and quick movement of all the vessels now engaged in carrying coal to New England with the exception of 10 or 12 whose draft exceeds 25 feet, and it is estimated that out of the 12,000,000 tons of water-borne coal now moving annually to New England ports of destination north of Cape Cod a maximum of 10,000,000 tons can be moved through the canal after two months' dredging of the sand accumulation at the entrances of the canal and Sagamore Bridge.

Towage to Be Restored.

The towage facilities which the canal company withdrew about a year ago will be immediately restored to a large extent by the Railroad Administration and pilotage service will be installed for the assistance of vessels of all types, steam, sail, and barges. Additional terminal facilities will be promptly established near the west end of the canal, at which point the large ocean-going tugboats bringing the barges from New York Harbor, Philadelphia, and Hampton Roads will turn over their barges and a special towing service will be established from Buzzards Bay to Boston and other ports north of Cape Cod. Coal and other supplies for vessels will be available at these barge terminals.

Depth to Be Maintained.

The effort of the Railroad Administration will be to maintain the charter depth of 25 feet at all times, which will require the constant service of special dredgers.

It is the intention, as promptly as possible, to operate through the canal the vessels of the Ocean Steamship Co., Clyde Line, and Merchants & Miners' Transportation Co., now operated between Boston and Philadelphia, Baltimore, Norfolk, Charleston, Savannah, and Jacksonville. The daily passenger and freight service of the Eastern Steamship Co. between Boston and New York will be continued through the canal as heretofore.

The development of traffic on the canal by the Railroad Administration opens additional interesting possibilities. In good weather barges may move through Long Island Sound to Boston and other ports north of Cape Cod without breaking bulk. It will facilitate the delivery at all seasons, regardless of weather or submarine interference, of the fuel, food, cotton, wool, lumber, pig iron, copper, and other raw materials originating in the South and so essential to New England's industrial activities.

An attitude of cordial cooperation has been evidenced by the United States Shipping Board, the United States Fuel Administration, the Departments of Commerce, War, and Navy, the New England Boat Owners and Towers Association, the Eastern Steamship Co., and many independent vessel owners.

Rules for the Guidance of Threshermen Pledged to Aid in Grain Conservation

The Food Administration, Farm Journals Section, Educational Division, issues the following "rules and regulations" as prepared by the Grain-Threshing Division. Threshermen who agree to observe these rules are granted a certificate of membership in the Food Administration:

In accepting membership in the United States Food Administration, it is expected that threshermen will do their best to observe the following:

(1) I will do my bes to properly repair my machine so that it can be adjusted to save grain.

(2) I will encourage the threshing of grain only when it is dry and ripe, unless a greater loss will be incurred by waiting, and only then with the approval of my county threshing committee.

(3) I will discourage the tendency to rush threshing operations beyond the capacity of my machine.

(4) If possible, I will use a large canvas under and around my machine in order that I may make a thorough grain-saving clean-up after each move.

(5) I will insist on careful and regular feeding of the bundles (sheaves) to the machine and supervise my pitchers as much as possible so that they will avoid unnecessary shattering.

(6) I will keep my engine in such condition that it will deliver the necessary power to keep the cylinders moving at the speed required by the manufacturers.

(7) I will advise the raking of shock rows so that no grain is left in the fields by the bundle wagons.

(8) I will encourage the use of tight-bottom bundle racks so that grain will not shatter and be lost when it is hauled to the machine.

(9) I will encourage the saving of grain, and if any wastage occurs which should be prevented, I will appeal to the county threshing committee, in cases where I can not adjust the matter myself.

GREAT LAKES TRAINING STATION AUTHORIZED BY SHIPPING BOARD

The Shipping Board, through Edward N. Hurley, chairman, has authorized the commissioning of a training ship on the Great Lakes for the training of apprentices as seamen, firemen, and cooks on lake cargo carriers. The ship will be based at the station to be established at Cleveland, under the direction of Capt. Irving L. Evans, of Cleveland, section chief of the board's recruiting service for the Lakes.

Men Now in Training.

This service, of which Henry Howard, of Boston, is director, is now training 3,000 men a month for the new merchant marine on a fleet of training vessels maintained in Atlantic and Pacific waters. Capt. Evans is now seeking a suitable vessel for the Lakes, which will be the thirteenth in the board's training fleet.

The training of men by the Government for service on the Great Lakes is a novelty. It was ordered by the Shipping Board, through Chairman Hurley, July 27, as one means of meeting demands of Great Lakes' sailors, firemen, oilers, and water tenders, who had voted to strike. The strike was called off July 29.

Board to Have Charge.

Recruiting of apprentices for the Great Lakes training ship will be carried on in the same recruiting stations of the board that are now providing large numbers of young men for coastwise and overseas ships. The board has nearly 2,000 of these stations in the seven States touching the Lakes.

DIRECT LOANS TO LIVE-STOCK RAISERS WILL BE GRANTED BY WAR FINANCE CORPORATION

INDUSTRY SUFFERING HARDSHIP

Owing to Excessive Drought Conditions, Cattlemen Are Experiencing Great Difficulty in Feeding and Protecting Stock.

The Treasury Department authorizes the following:

Secretary McAdoo yesterday announced that the War Finance Corporation would make direct loans to individuals, firms, and corporations whose principal business is the raising of live stock, including cattle, sheep, goats, and hogs. The live-stock industry, and particularly breeding stock, in some parts of the country is suffering great hardship by reason of excessive drought conditions, and cattlemen are experiencing great difficulty in feeding and protecting their cattle. The action of the corporation is intended to relieve this situation.

Loans Direct to Borrowers.

The loans will be made directly to the borrowers under section 9 of the War Finance Corporation act. That section authorizes advances to be made in exceptional cases directly, without the intervention of banks, to borrowers whose operations are necessary or contributory to the prosecution of the war.

The Federal reserve banks of Kansas City and Dallas will be designated by the corporation as agencies for this business. Temporary organizations will be immediately created for passing upon the applications for loans as submitted.

It is not proposed at the present time to establish agencies except at Dallas and Kansas City. Applications from stock raisers operating in the Atlanta and Richmond Federal reserve districts will for the present be handled by the Federal reserve bank at Dallas, and applications from stock raisers operating in the San Francisco, Minneapolis, and St. Louis districts will be handled at Kansas City. Applications from other districts will be made to the corporation direct in Washington.

PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL PLANNING IN ADVANCE FOR 18-45 REGISTRATION; LOCAL BOARDS ARE TOLD TO BE READY

38 SURVIVORS OF PENISTONE ARE PICKED UP OFF CAPE COD

The Committee on Public Information issues the following:

The Navy Department is informed that two boats, one containing 18 survivors of the steamer Penistone, the other containing 11, were towed into Cape Cod by a Coast Guard vessel on Thursday. A naval vessel picked up nine other survivors of that ship south of Nantucket Island and took them to port.

WARNED AGAINST EMPLOYMENT OF PRIORITIES "SOLICITORS"

Manufacturers Told They Can Gain Nothing Through Agents Claiming Influence.

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

Edwin B. Parker, priorities commissioner of the War Industries Board, has issued a letter pointing out to manufacturers and the public generally the uselessness and inadvisability of employing agents to obtain priority certificates or preference treatment from the board. The letter follows:

"TO THE PUBLIC:

"The attention of the Priorities Division of the War Industries Board has been called to the fact that certain individuals are offering their services and soliciting employment to present priority applications and procure the issuance of priority certificates, and also to use their alleged influence in having industries accorded preferential treatment.

"The rules and regulations of the Priorities Division are clear, simple, can be readily followed and will be furnished to anyone applying therefor. The employment of agents not only burdens the applicant for priority with a wholly unnecessary expense, but an attempt on the part of such agents to exert personal influence—which it is needless to say they do not possess—may have a tendency to prejudice the applicant's cause.

MUST LOSE NO TIME SAYS GEN. CROWDER

Speed and Cooperation of the Public Necessary if Reservoir of Class 1 Men Is Kept Filled — Expects Early Date in September to Be Set After Bill Is Passed — Should Be at Least 13,000,000 Registrants, He States.

The Provost Marshal General authorizes the following statement:

Preliminary steps have been taken by the Provost Marshal General to provide for the registration of those men who will be affected by the act which Congress is expected shortly to pass extending the age limits of the selective draft.

State headquarters, local boards, and other officials in the various States have been advised to hold themselves in readiness to proceed promptly with their work as soon as Congress has acted and the President, by proclamation, has fixed the date of registration.

Early Preparatory Work.

Until the legislation is actually passed it can not be stated with exactness, of course, what the new age limits will be. But, because of the urgency of the situation, it is essential that as much of the preparatory work as possible be done at this time in order that the administration may promptly avail itself of the new law. To that end now, as in the past, the utmost reliance is placed on the American people to supply the necessary cooperation and teamwork.

The situation is urgent because by October 1 Class I, under the age limits of the original act, will have been entirely exhausted. Unless there is to be a very serious interruption in the flow of American troops to the camps and thence across the seas to France, Class I must be replenished at the earliest possible moment by available men both below and above the present age limits of 21 to 31. There is literally no time to be lost.

What the Bill Proposes.

The bill which has been introduced in Congress at the request of the War Department would fix the new age limits at between 18 and 45 years. That is to say, it would include, in addition to the men within the present limits, those between 32 and 45, inclusive (14 annual classes), and those between 18 and 20, inclusive (3 annual classes).

These limits were suggested to Congress by the War Department because the military man-power program of the United States requires that the now nearly depleted reservoir of Class I men shall be replenished by more than 2,000,000 men available for full military service. On the basis of actuarial figures from insurance companies, census computations, and the experience of this office in the previous registration, it has been estimated that the required number of men for Class I may be had only by including within the draft-age limits men between 32 and 45 and between 18 and 20.

Must Add 13,000,000 Names.

That is to say, approximately 13,000,000 men must be added to the list of registrants in order that, with all exemptions allowed, at least 2,000,000 men will remain in Class I.

In other words, here is the problem presented: If the bill as introduced is passed, it will be necessary between the date of its passage and October 1 to register and begin to classify by questionnaire 13,000,000 men not heretofore included in the draft age limits, or approximately one and one-third as many men as were registered on June 5, 1917. And, when this has been done, draft calls upon the new Class I must start to fill the places in the training camps of those men going to France.

Early September Date Expected.

Assurance having been given that the legislation will receive immediate consideration upon the assembling of the House and of the Senate, this office, in its preliminary instructions sent out to draft executives in the various States, has proceeded on the assumption that the new registration might be held early in September. If, for example, the bill is passed by August 31 or soon thereafter it would be necessary for the President's proclamation to fix a registration date as soon as possible, allowing ample time to be given for posting his proclamation in every region of the country. Thus registration day might be as early as September 5 or shortly thereafter. To have the first installment of the new Class I ready for camp by October it would be necessary to have the registration not later than September 15. In any event it is obvious that we can not wait until the act is passed before beginning the preliminary work in this vast undertaking.

Additional Draft Machinery.

Existing draft machinery in the different States is to be used with such increased facilities and additional registrars as appear likely to be required for the larger enrollment. The governors of the various States and the Commissioners of the District of Columbia will be called upon to supervise the registration in their respective jurisdictions. The adjutant general or draft executive in each State, acting under the direction of the governor, will be the central administrative authority of the registration within that State. Local boards will have immediate direction and supervision within their respective jurisdictions. The actual registration will be made in the customary voting precincts within the jurisdiction of each board. The local boards have been requested to proceed at once with the appointment of one or more registrars for each precinct within their respective jurisdictions on the basis of probably 1 registrar for each 80 registrants. On the basis of the bill as introduced in Congress one and one-third times as many registrars will be needed as were required on June 5, 1917.

Public Support Essential.

Entirely aside from the powers which the new law may confer on the Government, it is essential that the public shall accord the fullest measure of cooperation, and the War Department has implicit confidence that the response of the men who will be required to register under the new law will be as patriotic and as complete as that which marked the registration on June 5, 1917. Fundamentally the processes of the selective draft rest upon the principle of heroic sacrifice that has made of the American Army in this war an establishment faithful to the best traditions of the American people. Now, as in the previous registration, the manhood of America is to be given opportunity to demonstrate its undying loyalty to the Republic, and to manifest its faith in those principles of free government for which the civilized nations of the world are battling in the most momentous war of the ages.

ALL MEN 21 SINCE JUNE 5 MUST REGISTER AUGUST 24

Required of Them Regardless of Any Grounds for Exemption That May Exist.

The War Department authorizes the following from the office of the Provost Marshal General:

In order to clear up any misunderstanding that may exist the Provost Marshal General desires to emphasize the fact that, regardless of any grounds for exemption that may exist, all young men in the United States who shall have reached their twenty-first birthday since June 5 and on or before August 24, must present themselves before their local boards for registration between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. August 24.

Any claims for exemption may be filed subsequently in filling out the questionnaire blanks which will be furnished to the registrants.

Provision will be made for the registration by mail of any person who expects to be absent on registration day from the jurisdiction of the board where he permanently resides, but in such a case extreme care should be taken by him to see that his registration card reaches his home board on or before August 24. Such persons are advised to apply at once to a local board for instructions as to how to proceed.

RESIGNATION IS ACCEPTED.

Special Orders, No. 181:

195. The resignation of Maj. Robert W. Briggs, Infantry, National Guard in the service of the United States, is accepted by the President, to take effect this date.

TREASURY CERTIFICATE ISSUE OVERSUBSCRIBED 75 MILLIONS

The Treasury Department authorizes the following:

Secretary McAdoo announces that the fourth biweekly issue of United States Treasury certificates of indebtedness in anticipation of the fourth Liberty loan was oversubscribed $75,706,500. The total subscriptions aggregate $575,706,500. The aggregate of subscriptions for certificates in anticipation of the fourth Liberty loan to date is $2,759,541,500.

Nine of the 12 Federal reserve districts oversubscribed their quotas.

Results by Districts.

The quotas (in round numbers) and subscriptions by districts are as follows:

Federal reserve bank.	Quota.	Subscription.
United States Treasury		$4,581,000
Boston	$43,300,000	49,500,000
New York	169,000,000	207,287,000
Philadelphia	35,300,000	38,400,000
Cleveland	45,300,000	52,500,000
Richmond	17,300,000	14,397,000

Dallas	12,000,000	7,579,500
San Francisco	35,300,000	37,750,000
Total	500,000,000	575,706,500

COTTONSEED PROFIT MARGINS ON THE SEED FOR PLANTING

The Food Administration issues the following:

Seedsmen who deal in cotton seed for planting purposes will not be held to the same margin of profit designated for dealers in milling seed, but will be limited to sales at an advance over cost that will not return more than the normal average profit realized in their business prior to July 1, 1914, the Food Administration announces.

Believes Margin Inadequate.

Dealers in milling seed were recently limited to a margin of $3 per ton in cases where they themselves own their business wholly and assume all risks of operation. The Food Administration believes that in view of the greatly increased cost of handling this margin is inadequate for seedsmen who deal in seed for planting purposes.

Permits for Holding Seed.

Permission to hold cotton seed for planting purposes more than 60 days must be obtained in advance from the Food Administration. These problems were discussed at a conference last week at Washington, attended by dealers from all the Southern States, at which recommendations were made that margins of profit be increased.

BRITISH HAY ACREAGE DECLINE.

The area of hay in the United Kingdom is about 10 per cent less than last year, indicating additional difficulty in securing forage for live stock, the Food Administration reports. The farm labor supply continues to be deficient and there is difficulty in keeping cultivated lands clean.

KNIT GOODS REPRESENTATIVES DISCUSS SPACE SAVING PLANS

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

Representatives of the hosiery and underwear industry of the United States conferred with the Knit Goods Section and the Conservation Division of the War Industries Board to discuss means whereby space could be saved in packing merchandise for shipment.

Possible Saving Considered.

From the information presented by the representatives of the various associations it appears that a saving of at least 20 per cent can be brought about in improvements in the methods of packing. Committees from the associations have undertaken to work out a detailed plan which they will submit to the Conservation Division later.

These committees will take up also the question of reduction in styles in hosiery and underwear along lines that have been put into effect in other industries by the Conservation Division.

The Organizations Represented.

The organizations represented at the knit goods conference were: Knit Goods Manufacturers of America, Utica, N. Y.; National Association of Knit Goods Selling Agents, New York; National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers, Philadelphia, Pa.; National Retail Dry Goods Association, New York; Jobbers' Association of Knit Goods Buyers, Philadelphia; National Wholesale Dry Goods Association, Philadelphia; Southern Wholesale Dry Goods Association, Richmond, Va.

LABOR BOARD NAMES AN UMPIRE TO DECIDE BRIDGEPORT ISSUES

The National War Labor Board authorizes the following:

The National War Labor Board has failed to agree unanimously upon a decision in the case of the Bridgeport, Conn., industries, 58 in number, in which both employers and workers submitted to arbitration of their differences by the board. Pursuant to the rules governing procedure of the board in such cases, the board proceeded to the selection of an umpire to decide the undetermined points in the controversy. Otto M. Eidlitz, of New York City, director of the Bureau of Housing of the Department of Labor, was unanimously chosen as the umpire, and will proceed at once to a hearing and determination of the issues, the principal one of which is the method of classification to be established for the government of wage rates in the respective plants.

Mr. Eidlitz has accepted and will meet with the board to-morrow.

Reclamation Service Asking for Proposals

The United States Reclamation Service, Department of the Interior, is asking for proposals for furnishing a 5,000-kilowatt vertical hydraulic turbine and generator. Bids will be opened at the office of the United States Reclamation Service, Denver, Colo., on October 1, 1918.

URGES MOVEMENT OF ALL NAVY MATERIAL POSSIBLE BEFORE THE SEASON OF BAD WEATHER

CIRCULAR No. 15.

NAVY DEPARTMENT,
BUREAU OF SUPPLIES AND ACCOUNTS,
DIVISION OF INLAND TRAFFIC,
Washington, August 6, 1918.

To: All bureaus, headquarters Marine Corps, commandants, and supply officers, all naval districts, yards, and stations, the officers in charge naval ammunition depots, training camps, air stations, supply depots, naval hospitals, etc., superintending constructors and inspectors at private works, and all Navy offices in the United States interested in the purchase, shipment, and storage of Navy material and supplies.

All Navy contractors.

Subject: Shipment of Navy material and material in which the Navy is interested.

1. Although the volume of business being handled by the various carriers is very heavy, rail conditions have materially improved, and at the present time the transportation situation is comparatively well in hand.

2. As time progresses the volume of traffic will increase—certainly more rapidly than it will be possible to increase freight equipment and terminal facilities, including storage. While weather conditions during the winter of 1917–18 were unusually severe, it is quite possible that during the coming winter we may experience similar conditions.

3. The object of this communication is to impress upon all concerned the absolute necessity for cooperation in the endeavor to have moved during the period prior to the time for bad weather such materials and supplies as are or will be needed later. This will to a great extent confine subsequent movements to actually current and imperative needs and will materially assist in the endeavor on the part of the Director General of Railroads to keep the transportation situation under control.

4. It will, of course, be necessary to give careful study to the matter in order that needs may be anticipated. This is intended to apply to all activities in which the Navy is interested, including Navy contractors and subcontractors.

5. It is desirable that this circular be given the widest possible publicity, and with this in view additional copies will be furnished upon request.

H. P. ANEWALT,
Manager Inland Traffic.

28 DISTRICT COAL PRODUCTION MANAGERS ARE APPOINTED

The Fuel Administration authorizes the following:

The United States Fuel Administration through James B. Neale, director of production, announces the completion of a list of 28 production managers appointed, one in each coal-producing district.

Each production manager will have charge of the campaign for increased production in his own district, and to him the production committees, which are being formed at the great majority of the soft coal mines throughout the United States, will report.

Personnel of Committees.

Each production committee will consist of six members, three to represent the mine management and three to represent the mine workers. Thus both parties in interest will be represented. In case a mine has failed to produce the maximum tonnage, it will be up to the production committee to learn the cause or causes of the failure and to place the blame where it belongs, either with the mine management or with the men, and thus point out the way for improvement.

Whenever blame is placed, it will doubtless be accepted in good part, as it will have been placed by a committee on which both parties are represented. Each week the production committee will post a list showing the names of the men who have been absent, or who have worked short hours, or who have loaded less than a fair amount of coal, and the reasons will be given, setting forth clearly whether in each particular case the blame lies with the company or with the worker.

Names of Managers.

The production managers and the fields over which they will exercise authority are:

Charles O'Neill, central Pennsylvania; F. B. Reiman, western Pennsylvania, north of Pittsburgh; R. W. Gardiner, Pittsburgh and Panhandle District; James S. Amend, Westmoreland, Irwin, Gas Ligonier, Latrobe, and Greensburg; W. L. Byers, Connellsville region; Howard P. Brydon, Cumberland, Piedmont, and upper Potomac, Md., and W. Va.; F. M. Lockhart, Somerset-Myersdale; J. J. Roby, eastern and central Ohio; William H. Wallace, Michigan; James H. Pritchard, southern Ohio; H. F. Price, Big Sandy and Elkhorn; A. L. Allais, Hazard; J. W. Dawson, high volatile fields of southern West Virginia; E. E. White, New River and Winding Gulf; R. D. Patterson, Tug River and Pocahontas field; G. D. Kilgore, Clinch Valley and southwestern Virginia; Howell J. Davis, Harlan field in Kentucky, Tennessee, and Georgia; Judge H. C. Selheimer, Alabama; W. G. Duncan, western Kentucky; W. J. Freeman, Indiana; F. C. Honnold, Illinois; Ira Clemens, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Texas; A. K. Craig, Montana and northern Wyoming; Thomas Sneddon, Utah and southern Wyoming; J. F. Welborn, Colorado; George T. Brown, New Mexico; Brooks Fleming, Fairmont-Clarksburg; and D. C. Botting, State of Washington.

MUST TELL PRODUCE SHIPPERS HOW GOODS WILL BE MARKETED

The Food Administration issues the following:

Because of a lack of understanding of the way in which a commodity was to be handled and sold on the market there has been a great deal of trouble between shippers and receivers. The Food Administration, however, has made rules and regulations which are designed to force receivers who handle poultry, eggs, butter, and other produce to make clear to the shipper just how his goods will be sold.

Act in One of Two Capacities.

Licensees act in either one or the other of two capacities. They are agents who sell for the shipper on commission or they are actual purchasers for their own account. Some of them are engaged in both lines of business, and the shipper is often at a loss to know whether the receiver has bought the goods for his own trade or sold them to some one else. In such case there is the possibility that the price realized would not be so high as when sold on a competitive market.

Information for Shippers.

The Food Administration now requires a receiver to give detailed information to the shipper regarding the disposal of his consignment so that he may judge whether or not he has received the best treatment possible. When he buys the goods outright he must not use any expression in reporting to the consignor that would tend to give the impression that the sale had been a commission transaction. The expression "net return basis" is not to be used at all in describing purchases. It can be used only in reference to an agency transaction.

By this action the Food Administration is discouraging a very prevalent unfair practice.

War Trade Board Ruling Permits Rubber Imports

The War Trade Board issues the following:

After a study of the situation regarding supplies of crude rubber in this country, rate of consumption and related matters, and after consultation with the War Industries Board, the War Trade Board has decided to permit importation of crude rubber during the months of August and September at the rate tentatively fixed for the quarter ending July 31, 1918, viz, 100,000 tons per annum (W. T. B. R. 106).

The amount of crude rubber to be licensed for importation from overseas during the months of August and September has, therefore, by this ruling of the War Trade Board (W. T. B. R. 197), been limited to 16,666 tons. This amount will be allocated by the Bureau of Imports of the War Trade Board along the general lines of the previous allocation, certain changes therein having been made to take care of new manufacturers and increased Government requirements.

WORK OF CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

The new man-power bill, extending the draft-age limits to include all men between the ages of 18 and 45 years, was favorably reported to the Senate yesterday by Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs.

Owing to the absence of a quorum, the unanimous consent agreement now prevailing could not be revoked so that consideration of the new bill might be undertaken promptly next Monday. In making the report on the measure, Senator Chamberlain presented brief excerpts from the testimony before the committee of Secretary of War Baker and Chief of Staff March. Secretary Baker said:

Secretary Baker's Statement.

"The need for the increase in the age limits is directly the outcome of the determination on the part of the War Department to speed up and also to increase in size the military program.

"After the recess of Congress, the study of the situation went on, and a few days ago it became clear to us that the 80-division program was perhaps the maximum which we could possibly hope to accomplish, and that to accomplish that it would be necessary to change the age limits from the present limits to 18 to 45.

"I asked the Surgeon General for a formal opinion as to the changes he would recommend. In the light of the experience of other countries and our own experience, the Surgeon General independently came out with the suggestion of 18 to 45, so that the Surgeon General's opinion sustains that arrived at by the General Staff.

"The bill as it is written meets with my entire approval.

"Question (by Senator JOHNSON). I find in talking to Members of Congress a decided reluctance to decrease the draft age to 18. I confess to a similar reluctance. I think, however, that those with whom I have talked—and I know this is my personal attitude—are all willing to do it if the military necessities and the exigencies demand and require it. As I understand it, that is the situation?

"Secretary BAKER. That is my belief about it.

"Senator JOHNSON. So, in order to carry out the purposes for which we have entered this war, successfully to prosecute it, this particular measure you deem essential?

"Secretary BAKER. I believe that to be the fact. My own judgment about it originally was that 19 should be the minimum, and I came to the 18 minimum only after very thorough study of the situation, and with some reluctance, but finally believing it to be necessary to secure the appropriate number of men.

"The President's policy is that the United States will concentrate its military efforts on the western front in France, including the Italian frontier as a part of the western front. The theory of the fighting in the future is that we must force the issue and win it on the western front."

Testimony of Gen. March.

Gen. March testified as follows:

"Gen. PEYTON C. MARCH. The United States Government has been asked by her allies to embark upon a program so large that it was necessary very carefully to ascertain whether we could go through with it or not, and one of the features of this enlarged program was providing men. The desire of the administration is to establish limits, both maximum and minimum, which will accomplish this program and at the same time disorganize the industries of the country as little as possible. The policy of the War Department is to put the maximum number of men in France with the idea of shortening the war. We found from the figures furnished by the Provost Marshal General that we could embark on a program of 80 divisions in France by June 30, 1919, with 18 divisions at home. These divisions consist of, roughly, 40,000 men to a division. After prolonged study of the available man power of the United States, the Provost Marshal General showed that it was necessary to drop to 18 years of age and go to 45 in order to get the men to carry it through. All of the men obtained under the proposed change in the draft law—approximately 2,300,000—we expect to have in France by June 30, 1919.

"Question (by Senator REED). As a matter of fact, is it not your opinion that it is better for the country, better for the Army, better for the service, to call out these younger classes—that is, the men 18, 19, and 20 years of age—than it is to call out the men 32 and up? Is not that your personal opinion?

"Gen. MARCH. My opinion is unqualifiedly in favor of the young man.

"The young men between 18 and 20 are usually not married; they have not settled down in life; they have not any encumbrances; and they are better off physically.

"The President has finally announced that the American military policy from this time on is centered on the western front and we have declined to be diverted from that one thing. The War Department has now adopted this as a policy, and it is the policy of the United States that the military program is to be centered in France.

"If the ages are changed to 18 to 45, the system of volunteer enlistments in the United States Army disappears.

"The purpose of America is to furnish enough man power to whip the Germans from now on. The only way that Germany can be whipped is by America going into this thing with her whole strength.

"Question (by Senator Kirby). Then America has got to put enough men over there to whip Germany?

"Gen. MARCH. That is it in a nutshell.

"The authority which was granted the President in this bill gives him the power to call out classes, but does not make it mandatory.

"It is up to us to win the war, and we can win it. How long it will take will depend exactly upon what we do. If we drag along with this thing and put a small force over there, we will be playing Germany's game. It is my belief that with an American army of 4,000,000 men in France under one commander in chief we can go through the German line wherever we please.

"Question (by the Chairman). In order to carry out this program you must have this law?

"Gen. MARCH. Yes. This law will let us lean on class 1 until June 30 of next year.

"We reached the conclusion that the enlarged program was necessary on the 30th day of July.

Thanks to Army and Navy.

Senator Jones of New Mexico yesterday introduced a joint resolution tendering public acknowledgment of gratitude to the Army and Navy of the United States. It reads as follows:

Resolved, etc., That the thanks of Congress and of the people of the United States are due, and are hereby tendered, to the officers, soldiers, and sailors of the United States Army and Navy for their gallant and arduous service and splendid accomplishments in the present struggle. By their skill, energy, and enthusiasm they have sustained the best traditions of American valor and achievement, and have inspired the world with confidence in the ultimate triumph of those principles of right and justice for the vindication of which we entered the war;

Resolved further, That the Secretary of War and Secretary of the Navy communicate this resolution in appropriate form to the officers, soldiers, and sailors of the Army and Navy.

New Revenue Bill.

The Ways and Means Committee of the House yesterday continued consideration of the $3,000,000,000 revenue bill, the morning session being devoted to hearing Commissioner of Internal Revenue Roper, who has recommended that an appropriation of $25,000,000 be made for the administration of the new law, which will require 3,000 additional employees. The present force in the internal revenue office numbers about 9,000.

"I think the committee will agree to the increased appropriation," said Representative Kitchin later. "We were impressed by the recommendation of Commissioner Roper, who explained to us that with an increased force of expert accountants and field workers a resurvey can be made of returns and new sources of taxation revealed which he thinks will yield an additional $1,000,000,000 in revenue."

At the afternoon session Dr. T. S. Adams, chairman of the Advisory Tax Committee, presented a further discussion of the Treasury Department scheme of levying an 80 per cent war-profits tax, with the present rate under the excess-profits taxes, within the discretion of the Internal Revenue Commissioner to enforce.

Tariff Amendments.

A subcommitte of five members, consisting of Chairman Kitchin, Representatives Rainey, of Illinois, and Dixon, of Indiana, Democrats; and Fordney, of Michigan, and Moore, of Pennsylvania, was appointed yesterday to consider amendments to the present tariff law as a possible source of revenue. The subcommittee was appointed on motion of Representative Garner, of Texas, and was instructed "to look into the question of the tariff and report back to the full committee at some time in the future as to whether the tariff can be resorted to to get more money during the war."

SERIES OF WAR LECTURES.

A series of lectures illustrated with slides on the various war activities of the United States up to this time is being prepared by George F. Zook, professor of modern European history, Pennsylvania State College. The cantonments, airplanes, the Navy, shipbuilding, the trenches, and many other features of the war are described in an interesting and instructive way. The lectures will be especially useful for the work of teachers, Y. M. C. A. secretaries, and club officials.

Each lecture is accompanied by from 45 to 65 slides, which are being sold at the nominal price of 15 cents each. The lectures and slides will be available for use about October 1. For further information address the Division of Civic and Educational Publications, Committee on Public Information, Washington, D. C.

Shellac and Other Lacs Under Import Restriction

The War Trade Board issues the following:

The War Trade Board has, by a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 202), placed shellac, button lac, seed lac, garnet lac, and keerie or refuse lac on the list of restricted imports. All outstanding licenses for the importation of these commodities have been revoked as to ocean shipments after August 15, 1918, and hereafter no licenses for their importation will be issued except such as will cover the following:

(1) Shipments from Canada or Mexico by other than ocean transportation.

(2) Shipments from Calcutta between the 1st day of October, 1918, and the 31st day of March, 1919, inclusive, of a total of not to exceed 5,000 tons.

(3) Shipments on vessels of the United States Navy of quantities for military or naval use.

LARD SUBSTITUTE MAKERS HOLD NATIONAL CONFERENCE

The Food Administration issues the following:

Because the size of the coming cotton crop can not yet be predicted with accuracy, manufacturers of lard substitutes closed their two-day conference at the Food Administration without making recommendations concerning a price to be set on cottonseed oil.

Committees appointed Wednesday made reports on the the industry generally, and cooperation to help in winning the war was discussed. The rules and regulations recently promulgated by the Food Administration were heartily indorsed.

The war service committee, a permanent organization chosen Wednesday, and the oil millers' committee were invited by representatives of farmers who grow products from which vegetable oils are made to meet in Washington August 26 for a general discussion of their problems. The Food Administration has no official connection with this meeting.

Among the organizations that sent representatives by invitation to the meeting just closed were the National and Southern Wholesale Grocers' Associations, the Interstate Cottonseed Crushers' Association, the National Peanut Cleaners' and Shellers' Association, and the Wholesale Bakers' Supply Houses. Soap manufacturers were represented unofficially.

Personnel of Committees.

The committees are as follows:

War Service.—J. H. Du Bose, Memphis, chairman; J. A. Hawkinson, Chicago; John Aspergren, New York; H. M. Tucker, New York; E. L. Flippen, Dallas; W. M. Thompson, New York; E. E. Chandler, Chicago; W. E. McCaw, Cincinnati; B. D. Cash, Houston; H. B. Earling, Atlanta; J. D. Hill, Baltimore; E. Butterworth, Washington.

Rules.—E. Kissling, Chicago, chairman; N. E. English, Chicago; J. Tyler, Atlanta; J. G. Cash, Jacksonville; Arjay Davies, Easton, Pa.; A. Boyd, Memphis; J. A. Hawkinson, Chicago; F. W. McKee, New York.

Packages.—William Rowe, New York, chairman; C. A. Sanford, Greenville, Tex.; W. P. De Jarnette, Montgomery, Ala.; O. T. Shreve, Baltimore; W. W. James, Memphis; and John Edward, Montgomery.

Price and Margins.—E. L. Flippen, Dallas, Tex., chairman; H. M. Tucker, New York; E. E. Chandler, Chicago; F. M. Barnes, Cincinnati; E. T. George, New Orleans; Ben D. Cash, Houston, Tex.

Marketing.—R. R. Dupree, Cincinnati, chairman; H. M. Tucker, New York; J. T. Smith, Chicago; H. B. Darling, Atlanta; P. J. Beach, Houston, Tex.; Howard R. Smith, Baltimore; Walter Hodson, Athens, Ga.

Associated with this committee the following jobbers acted as advisors: L. M. Hooper, Selma, Ga.; M. H. Hunt, Memphis; E. E. Humphreys, McClelland, Okla.; D. D. Milligan, Springfield, Mo.; A. W. Hershey, Charleston, W. Va.

The use of horseflesh for human consumption in France has greatly increased. Last year more than 70,000 horses were killed for food in Paris.

POULTRY AND EGGS MOVEMENT FROM PRODUCER TO CONSUMER

The Food Administration issues the following:

With the object of keeping fresh poultry and eggs moving from the producer to the consumer in as direct a line as possible, the United States Food Administration emphasizes the rules which must be observed regarding resales within the same trade. In the cases of both fresh poultry and fresh eggs the following classes of dealers are recognized: (1) Original packers and shippers, (2) commission merchants and wholesalers, (3) jobbers and suppliers of hotels and institutions, (4) retailers.

Sales Between Dealers.

With a few exceptions, sales between dealers in any one of the above classes are prohibited. For the present, sales between wholesalers in different cities will be permitted when necessary to supply the reasonable requirements of the buyer's business. However, there must be an actual shipment of the goods and the movement between cities must be in the direction of normal crop movement from producer to consumer. In addition to these sales between cities, only two sales between dealers in Class 2 may be made without obtaining the consent of the local Federal food administrator, and then only if such sales are necessary to supply the reasonable requirements of the buyer's business. Further sales in this class can not be made without the written consent of the local administrator.

Limits to Other Classes.

In the other classes only one sale between dealers in the same class can be made without the consent of the local Federal food administrator, and such a sale must be for the purpose of supplying the reasonable requirements of the buyer's business. Further sales can be made only after written consent has been obtained.

No backward movements of poultry and eggs will be allowed. That is, no dealer in one class can sell to a dealer in a preceding class. For example, a jobber is not permitted to sell to a wholesaler, or a retailer to a wholesaler.

Any licensee who violates these rules may expect to have his license suspended or revoked at once.

Nearly 50,000 Soldiers in Vocational Training

The committee on education and special training issues the following:

Of 47,243 soldiers in the United States Army training detachments being given vocational training for overseas service, 17,429 are being taught auto mechanics, 5,450 auto driving, 2,137 blacksmithing, 4,506 carpentry, 2,969 electricians, 1,251 gas engine, 1,130 general mechanics, 2,054 machinists, 3,724 radio operation, and 996 sheet metal work.

The other work varies from that of wheelwrights to cobblers and locomotive engineers. Under the direction of the committee on education and special training of the War Department the training is conducted in two-months' courses.

WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD RULE ON SHOE COLORS TO STAND

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

According to a letter sent out to the tanners of upper leather, the War Industries Board will insist on its ruling that the only permissible colors for the tanners to make and shoe manufacturers to cut after October 1, exclusive of black, will be a medium and a dark shade of brown and tan. Other colors will not be permitted, although some tanners seem to prefer and are insisting on them.

Statement to Makers.

The hide, leather, and leather goods section of the War Industries Board advises the tanners, shoe manufacturers, shoe wholesalers, and shoe retailers that:

"Reports continue to come to this office to the effect that 'field mouse' and 'field mouse brown' are permissible colors for the tanner to make and the shoe manufacturer to cut after October 1.

Contrary to Rulings.

"This is absolutely contrary to the rulings of the War Industries Board, which has provided distinctly that a medium shade of brown and tan and a dark shade of brown and tan are the only colors that will be permitted, and it has actually gone so far as to send out samples of those shades to the tanners.

"The War Industries Board looks to the entire industry to live up to these regulations, both in spirit and in fact."

Nondelivery of Soldiers' Mail Due to Bad Addresses

OFFICE OF FIRST ASS'T P. M. GEN.,
Washington, July 29, 1918.

The chief cause of the nondelivery of mail intended for soldiers in the military camps in the United States is insufficiency of address.

Postmasters are, therefore, enjoined to notify the relatives and friends of soldiers that unless mail is addressed to company and regiment or other distinctive organization, delays in delivery or failure to deliver may result, and to urge upon patrons the necessity for placing correct and complete addresses and return cards upon all classes of mail intended for soldiers, particularly at this time when many new men are being inducted into the service and the old units are being transferred to different camps.

No trouble to buy, cheap, convenient, a real investment—WAR-SAVINGS STAMPS.

First Woman Sworn In as Marine Corps Recruit

Secretary Daniels authorizes the following:

The first woman enrolled in the Marine Corps Reserve was sworn in Tuesday morning at the United States Marine recruiting station here by Maj. T. H. Low. She is Pvt. Opha M. Johnson, Marine Corps Reserve, a resident of Washington, her home being at 1745 Kilbourne Street NW. Prior to entering the service she was with the Civil Service Commission.

Pvt. Johnson will look after the interests of the young women who are soon to be enrolled in the Marine Corps Reserve and detailed as clerks at Marine Corps headquarters. It is expected that a number of the clerical positions at headquarters will be filled by women in the near future, to release for active duty in the field the enlisted men who are now detailed to this work.

New Regulations for Stockyards in Force

The Department of Agriculture authorizes the following:

Persons covered by the President's proclamation of June 18, requiring licenses for stockyards and dealers in live stock at stockyards, will not be held for technical violations of the regulations, unknowingly committed, pending the receipt of their licenses and the general regulations, although the principles of the regulations apply to all. Licenses which were required as of July 25 could not be issued to all applicants before that date, but are now being issued as rapidly as possible.

Complaints relative to alleged violations of the regulations governing licensees should be in writing and may be submitted to the Bureau of Markets, Washington, D. C., or to any of its branch offices.

Two New Storehouses at San Antonio Arsenal

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

Work will begin at once on the erection of additional storehouses at the San Antonio arsenal. One of these, which will be used for general purposes, will cost $125,000, while a smaller one, to be used for the storing of oils, paints, and other inflammables, will cost $15,000. There will also be installed at this point additional facilities for the repair of equipment and small arms, which will cost $25,000.

Italian Marble Imports Under Certain Conditions

The War Trade Board issues the following:

The list of restricted imports No. 2 (item 121) has been so amended, under a new ruling of the War Trade Board (W. T. B. R. 198), as to permit the importation from Italy of Italian marble and manufactures of Italian marble when coming from convenient ports where loading can be done without delay.

FARMERS IN DEFERRED CLASS PLEDGED TO GROW BIG CROPS

The United States Department of Agriculture authorizes the following:

"We are ready with a 110 per cent increase of wheat, or whatever else your department may call upon us to do to help win the war." That is the message that 1,400 farmers of Madison County, Ind., flashed over the wires to the Secretary of Agriculture a few days ago.

Special Duty to Nation.

It indicated also that men in deferred classifications realize that they owe a special duty to their country, for it came from farmers who have been given the opportunity to keep at agricultural production. The rest of the telegram, from H. S. Agster, rural director of the deferred registered men of Madison County, said: "Thirty-three hundred men met on Saturday and perfected the deferred registered men's organization of Madison County, Ind. About 1,400 of us are farmers. Although our corn was severely frosted on the 22d of June, we are going to increase our number of brood sows 10 per cent."

Secretary Houston's Response.

In expressing the gratitude of the people of the country to this association of war farmers, the Secretary of Agriculture sent the following telegram:

"Men who have been given deferred classification on occupational grounds owe a special service to their country. That you are conscious of this special responsibility is evidenced by your patriotic action in the organization of the deferred registrants in your county. It is gratifying to the Department of Agriculture to have this expression from you pledging increased food production in face of unfavorable weather conditions. Through the county agents the Department of Agriculture has encouraged action throughout the country similar to that taken in your county."

Assignment to be Given Chiropodists in Army

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the Office of the Surgeon General:

As far as is consistent with the military demands, chiropodists taken into the Army will be transferred to the Medical Department and either assigned directly to the various camps for duty under the camp surgeon or first sent to Camp Greenleaf for further training under the regular orthopedic instructors. On the demonstration of proper skill and attainments they may be advanced to the grade of sergeant. A canvass of the camps is now being made to determine the need of this particular service.

The appointments in the textile division of the War-Industries Board as announced in THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN, page 2, of August 9, constitute the latest changes in personnel, and should have been included in the list of officials of the division published in THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN, page 11, of August 13.

MATURED PLANS OF THE VOLUNTEER MEDICAL SERVICE CORPS AS SUBMITTED TO AND APPROVED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

The Committee on Public Information issues the following statement authorized by Dr. Franklin Martin, member of the Advisory Commission and chairman of the General Medical Board, Council of National Defense:

The Volunteer Medical Service Corps was authorized by the Council of National Defense on January 31, 1918. Under this authorization the membership of the corps consisted of all physicians who, because of overage, physical disability, dependents, and essential home needs, were not eligible for service in the Medical Reserve Corps of the Army or Navy.

Enlarged Scope of Organization.

On August 5 the Council of National Defense authorized a change in the scope of the organization and an increase and amplification of its central governing board. Membership in the corps as now authorized makes eligible to the corps every legally qualified physician, including women physicians, holding the degree of doctor of medicine from a legally chartered medical school, without reference to age or physical disability, provided he or she is not already commissioned in the Government service.

President Wilson's Approval.

This organization has now the approval of the President, as indicated in the following letter:

THE WHITE HOUSE.
Washington, August 12, 1918.

MY DEAR DR. MARTIN: I have received your letter of August 5, laying before me the matured plan for the reorganized Volunteer Medical Service Corps, of which you ask my approval. This work was undertaken by you under the authority of the Council of National Defense; it has had great success in enrolling members of the medical profession throughout the country into a volunteer corps available to supply the needs of the Army, Navy, and Public Health Service.

In cooperation with the general medical board of the Council of National Defense, the strong governing board of the reorganized corps will be able to be of increasing service, and through it the finely trained medical profession of the United States is not only made ready for service in connection with the activities already mentioned, but the important work of the Provost General's Office and Red Cross will be aided and the problems of the health of the civilian communities of the United States assured consideration. I am very happy to give my approval to the plans which you have submitted, both because of the usefulness of the Volunteer Medical Service Corps and also because it gives me an opportunity to express to you, and through you to the medical profession, my deep appreciation of the splendid service which the whole profession has rendered to the Nation with great enthusiasm from the beginning of the present emergency.

The health of the Army and the Navy, the health of the country at large, is due to the cooperation which the public authorities have had from the medical profession; the spirit of sacrifice and service has been everywhere present and the record of the mobilization of the many forces of this great Republic will contain no case of readier response or better service than that which the physicians have rendered.

Cordially and faithfully, yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

DR. FRANKLIN MARTIN,
The Advisory Commission,
Council of National Defense.

Central Governing Board.

At a meeting of the central governing board, held on Friday, August 2, it was moved by Dr. Sawyer, seconded by Dr. Martin, that the central governing board shall consist of the present central governing board (excepting Sherk, Bradford, and Brophy) and others as follows:

Surg. Gen. William C. Gorgas, United States Army.
Surg. Gen. William C. Braisted, United States Navy.
Surg. Gen. Rupert Blue, United States Public Health Service.
Provost Marshal General E. H. Crowder.
Dr. Franklin Martin, chairman of committee on medicine and sanitation, Council of National Defense.
Dr. Edward P. Davis, president Volunteer Medical Service Corps.
Dr. John D. McLean, vice president.
Admiral Cary T. Grayson, United States Navy.
Dr. F. F. Simpson.
Dr. Frank Billings.
Dr. H. D. Arnold.
Mr. W. Frank Parsons, Red Cross.
Dr. Victor C. Vaughan.
Dr. William H. Welch.
Dr. Robert L. Dickinson, Chief of Staff's Office.
Col. R. B. Miller, United States Army, chief of personnel division.
Surg. R. C. Ramsdell, United States Navy, chief of personnel division.
Col. James S. Easby-Smith, executive officer.
Dr. Joseph Schereschewsky, Assistant Surgeon General (personnel).
Dr. C. H. Mayo, or W. J. Mayo.
Dr. William Duffield Robinson.
Dr. George David Stewart.
Dr. Charles E. Sawyer.
Dr. Duncan Eve, sr.

This board is to be constituted of 25 persons, there being two vacancies at present.

GENERAL PLAN.

The Volunteer Medical Service Corps is exactly what its name indicates. It is a gentleman's agreement on the part of the civilian doctors in the United States who have not yet been honored by commissions in the Army and Navy, and a representative board of governors consisting of officials of the Government associated with lay members of the profession, in which the civilian physician agrees to offer his services to the Government if required and asked to do so by the governing board.

It is a method of recording all physicians who are not yet in service and classifying them so that their services when required will be utilized in a manner to inflict as little hardship on the individual as possible. It is a method by which every physician not in uniform will be entitled to wear an insignia which will indicate his willingness to serve his Government.

As more than 60 per cent of the physicians of the country will be utilized in caring for the industries at home and the health of the home people, this large percentage of necessity will be expected to maintain their home status and continue their ordinary professional work.

A. OBJECT OF CORPS.

1. Placing on record all medical men in the United States.
2. Aiding Army, Navy, and Public Health Service in supplying war needs.
3. Providing the best civilian service possible.
4. Giving recognition to all who record themselves either in Army, Navy, public health activities, or civilian service.

B. THIS ORGANIZATION PROVIDES.

1. Means for obtaining quickly men and women for any services required.
2. Furnishes recommendations and necessary credentials to assure the best of service both military and civil.
3. Determines beyond question the subject's attitude toward the war.

NOTE.—Through this organization plan, many men will be registered for Army, Navy, and Public Health Service who can be called when needed without delay, thereby a medical reserve of thousands of men will be created at once which will be immediately accessible for Army, Navy, Public Health, and civilian service, no matter how urgent the needs.

Up to the present there have been so many to be called that no great difficulty has been experienced.

From now on quick needs will be more difficult to fill, except as they have been anticipated by having a direct line on all those who are willing to serve. This necessity the Volunteer Medical Service Corps fulfills, not alone as relates to war needs but also to the increasing civilian needs.

C. CIVILIAN SERVICE.

One great need of definite organization is in relation to civilian service. Unless some fixed plan is adopted home people may suffer and medicine itself my be discredited.

This plan registers all medical men and women for all kinds of service and places them within reach of those who know the needs and will arrange for their supply.

D. RECOGNITION.

In the Volunteer Medical Service Corps everyone will have definite recognition of his standing as related to the war and will receive proper credit for service

Matured Plans of the Volunteer Medical Service Corps

rendered, whether in Army, Navy, Public Health, or civilian service.

E. CONSERVATION OF THE PROFESSION.

If all medical services are conserved, we should not suffer. Indiscriminate placement and inconsiderate acceptance of men for war service may bring suffering, while specific organized handling of all medical forces will afford ample medical attention for all.

Such is the purpose of the Volunteer Medical Service Corps.

TENTATIVE CLASSIFICATION PLAN.

1. Fit-to-fight men under 40.
2. Reserves under 55.
3. Home forces over 55.
4. Ineligibles.

Reserves will consist of those who may be called upon for Army, Navy, Public Health, and civilian service when necessity requires. The home forces are those who are only able to do civilian service.

DEFINITE CLASSIFICATION.

1. Medical Reserve Corps.
2. Volunteer Medical Service Corps.
3. Ineligible.

NOTE.—1. Such as are needed in the present or near future Army or Navy service. 2. Such as may be called for special Army or Navy and Public Health Service and for all civilian service. 3. Such as have been charged with unprofessional conduct, moral unfitness, or professional inaptitude.

RULES OF ORGANIZATION.

I. Name: The name of the organization shall be the Volunteer Medical Service Corps of the United States.

II. Object: 1. The object of the corps shall be to mobilize the medical profession in the present emergency in order to provide for the health needs of the military forces and civil population of the country.

2. Services of members will be called for and rendered in response to requests to the central governing board from the Surgeon General of the Army, the Surgeon General of the Navy, the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, or the general medical board of the Council of National Defense.

III. The corps: The corps shall consist of all members of the organization. The management of the corps shall be vested in a central governing board.

IV. Central governing board: The central governing board shall be appointed by the Council of National Defense and approved by the President of the United States.

V. Officers: The central governing board shall direct the activities of the corps, and shall select from among its own members a president, a vice president, and a secretary.

VI. State governing boards: 1. The State governing boards shall consist of the members of the State committees, medical section, Council of National Defense. The State committees shall select, subject to the approval of the central governing board, from 5 to 10 of their members who are eligible for election in this corps to act as the executive committees of the Volunteer Medical Service Corps in the respective States.

2. The duties of the executive committee of the State governing board shall be to consider applications for membership in the corps from the respective States, and to submit recommendations regarding these applications to the central governing board.

3. The State governing board shall aid in the work of the executive committee of the State and perform such other duties as may hereafter be deemed essential by the central governing board to accomplish the purpose for which the corps was created.

VII. Membership: 1. Every legally qualified physician holding the degree of doctor of medicine from a legally chartered medical school, without reference to age or physical disability, may apply for membership in the Volunteer Medical Service Corps, provided he is not already commissioned in the Government service.

2. Women physicians are eligible.

3. Application for membership in the Volunteer Medical Service Corps shall be made upon blanks furnished for that purpose by the central governing board for proper classification according to training and special fitness.

4. Any member of the Volunteer Medical Service Corps who wishes to change his classification may appeal to the central governing board.

5. The central governing board shall be empowered to elect from time to time to the Volunteer Medical Service Corps members of sanitary engineering and hygienic professions.

VIII. Method of election: 1. The members of the corps shall be graduates in medicine who are licensed to practice medicine in their respective States, who have made application for membership, who meet the qualification requirements that are now or shall from time to time be established by the central governing board, who are eligible as under Article VII above, and who shall be elected to membership in the corps by the central governing board.

2. Each person elected to membership in the corps shall be designated as a member of the Volunteer Medical Service Corps.

3. It shall be the duty of each member of the Volunteer Medical Service Corps to notify the central governing board when he accepts a Government commission.

IX. Insignia: 1. Members of the corps shall be authorized and required to wear the insignia of the corps.

2. The insignia and certificate shall be secured by members of the corps under such regulations as may be determined upon by the central governing board.

3. The insignia shall not be loaned to any person not a member of the corps, nor shall it be worn after notification that eligibility to the Volunteer Medical Service Corps has ceased to exist; and it shall be returned on demand of the central governing board.

X. Any member of the corps may be expelled for conduct which, in the opinion of the central governing board, is derogatory to the dignity of the corps or inconsistent with its purposes.

XI. The central governing board shall be authorized to provide such regulations as shall from time to time become necessary.

XII. Authorization: The organization, the insignia, and the certificate have been authorized by the Council of National Defense.

Ratified by Board.

Dr. Franklin Martin, member of the advisory commission of the Council of National Defense and chairman of the council's general medical board, authorizes the following:

Form of Surety Bond for Railroad Employees

The United States Railroad Administration, Division of Public Service and Accounting, issues the following:

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22, 1918.

CIRCULAR NO. 19.

In paragraph 2 of General Order No. 25, reference is made to the surety bond, either individual or corporate, the form of such bond to be prescribed by the chief local officer of the individual carrier. Suggestion has been made that a single form of bond might well be prescribed for use under General Order No. 25. The Division of Law has prescribed a form of bond to be used; the same is attached hereto and should be used in all cases where bond is required under General Order No. 25.

C. A. PROUTY, Director.

BOND.

Know all men by these presents, That ----------, as principal, and ----------, as surety, are held and firmly bound unto W. G. McAdoo, Director General of Railroads, operating the following railroad----------, and unto the following railroad company ----------, as their respective interests may appear, in the sum of ---------- ($ ———) dollars, the maximum liability hereunder, lawful money of the United States, for the payment of which the said principal and the said surety bind themselves, their heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns, jointly and severally, firmly by these presents.

Signed, sealed, and dated this —— day of ———— A. D. 191—.

Whereas, pursuant to the authority granted by General Order No. 25 by the Director General of Railroads, it has been agreed that the said railroad company, or companies, will receive prepaid shipments from the principal and will deliver to the principal shipments on which the transportation charges have not been prepaid without first exacting payment of the charges thereon.

Now, therefore, the condition of this obligation is such that if the principal shall, prior to the expiration of the credit period allowed by General Order No. 25, or by any amendment thereof, heretofore or hereafter made, pay, or cause to be paid to said railroad company, or companies, all of such charges, then this obligation shall be void, otherwise to be in full force and effect; subject, however, to the following express conditions:

First. In event of a default by the principal hereon, in any payment for which the surety shall be liable hereunder, the obligee shall give notice of such default to the surety within sixty (60) days after such default, and shall make claim hereunder as promptly as may be convenient.

Second. The surety shall not be liable hereunder for charges accruing after the expiration of thirty (30) days after the receipt by said Director General, and said railroad company, or companies, of written notice from the surety of its desire to withdraw as surety for said principal, and any claim hereunder against the surety must be duly presented to the surety within six (6) months after such termination of the surety's liability.

Third. In event of payment by the surety of any claim hereunder, the surety shall be subrogated to all the rights of the obligee with respect to such claim, and the obligee shall execute the necessary assignment of the said subrogation.

Horse-Drawn Vehicle Manufacturers Notified That They May Apply for Places on Fuel Preference List

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

Edwin B. Parker, priorities commissioner of the War Industries Board, has prepared for distribution to manufacturers of horse-drawn spring vehicles a circular outlining the position of that industry and the assistance the board is willing to extend to it.

May File Applications.

All manufacturers of horse-drawn spring vehicles may file their application for places upon the preference list for fuel. The Priorities Division will consider the character of the product of each manufacturer, the amount of its fuel requirements, the volume of its output, the extent of its direct and indirect business for Government agencies, and will place upon the preference list those manufacturers whose fuel requirements bear proper relationship to the character, nature, and volume of their business; upon condition, however, that such manufacturers shall execute and file their pledges of cooperation and shall observe those pledges and the rulings of the Priorities Division.

The circular points out that the necessity for administering priorities in fuel grows out of the fact that the supply available for distribution is and will be insufficient to meet the demands made against it. This situation makes imperative the practice of the utmost economy in the use of fuel and the substitution of wood for coal wherever that is practicable.

Conditions of Allotments.

After pointing out the necessity for saving steel, the circular says:

"Circumstances do not permit the allotment to your industry of sufficient quantities of iron and steel to meet your maximum or even your normal requirements. A careful study of your reports of stocks on hand and of your manufactured and partly manufactured products justifies the allotment to you of a certain agreed maximum which will enable you to liquidate your present stocks. This allotment will be made, and your requirements within this maximum are hereby given a class C priority rating; conditioned, however, that each manufacturer participating in the allotment shall execute, file, and observe the pledge of cooperation in the terms hereinafter set out."

Being accorded a class C rating for allotments of iron and steel does not mean that the War Industries Board guarantees to the industry that it will receive the materials so allotted, but simply that orders may be placed and deliveries made when and as such orders shall be reached in their order of precedence.

Form of the Pledge.

The pledge of cooperation to be given by the manufacturers of horse-drawn vehicles is in the following terms:

PRIORITIES DIVISION,
WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD,
Washington, D. C.

The undersigned hereby pledges itself (1) to use only in the manufacture of horse-drawn spring vehicles or repair parts for same the iron and steel, and iron and steel parts suitable therefor, which are now in its possession or which may hereafter come into its possession; (2) to devote the products of its manufacture as far as possible to essential uses only, as that term has been or may be defined or applied from time to time by the Priorities Division of the War Industries Board; (3) to urge and procure so far as lies within its power all dealers in or users of its products to exercise all possible economy and conservation in such products by limiting sales and purchases, by curtailing the numbers of varieties and models heretofore manufactured by it, by intelligently repairing and by otherwise protecting and lengthening the life of such products; (4) to cooperate with the Conservation Division and the Vehicle, Implement, and Wood Products Section of the War Industries Board to effect the conservation of material and economy in the use thereof; (5) not to furnish its products for resale to any dealer who shall fail or refuse to cooperate with the undersigned in carrying out the letter and spirit of this pledge.

Pledge From Dealer.

It is also required that the manufacturer exact from the dealer a pledge in much the same terms regarding placing the product only in essential use and the general plan of conservation involved.

Each manufacturer desiring to participate in the allotment of iron and steel hereinbefore mentioned will apply to the Chief of the Vehicle, Implement, and Wood Products Section of the War Industries Board for authority to place its orders for its proportionate part of the materials allotted to the industry as a whole, according to the reports of the manufacturers filed with the section. When the application shall have been approved in writing by the chief of the section and by the priorities committee, it will take a class C priority rating, and orders therefor may be accepted and filled accordingly.

The philosophy of the W. S. S. is save, save, save.

ITEMS ADDED TO OR REMOVED FROM BRITISH EXPORT EMBARGO

The American consul general at London has reported by cable of August 7 a number of changes in the British embargo list. The class of prohibition is indicated by the following symbols: (A) Prohibition to all destinations; (B) prohibition to all destinations except British possessions and protectorates; (C) to all Russian ports and to all European ports except those of the allied countries and Spain.

Items Added to the List.

Items added to the list are as follows:

(A) Coke-oven carbon; pitch carbon; ammonia and its salts, simple or compound, and mixtures thereof; barium sulphate and mixtures thereof; synthetic indigo; sodium bicarbonate; grates and registers for heating and component parts; leather goods as follows: Military articles of personal equipment, bandoliers, belts, laces, pouches; nicotine and compounds; vegetable tar.

(C) Acid-resisting apparatus and parts thereof made of quartz; natural indigo.

Removals From List.

The following old items are removed from the list:

(A) Liquefied ammonia; ammonia liquor; ammonium alum and mixtures thereof; ammonium carbonate and mixtures thereof; ammonium chloride, including muriate of ammonia and sal ammoniac and mixtures containing these substances; ammonium nitrate and mixtures thereof; ammonium perchlorate and mixtures thereof; ammonium sulphate and sulphocyanide; barium sulphate; natural and synthetic indigo; nickel ammonium sulphate and mixtures thereof.

(B) Ammonia and its salts, whether simple or compound, except such as are prohibited to all destinations; leather goods as follows: Military articles of personal equipment, bandoliers, belts, laces, pouches; vegetable tar.

(C) Sodium bicarbonate.

[British Board of Trade Journal, July 4.]

Export Embargoes of July 2.

An order in council of July 2 provides for the following amendments in and additions to the embargo list of May 10, 1917, as changed by later orders. The symbols used are those shown above and the headings added to the list are as follows:

(A) Binoculars and their component parts; bone black; materials and tools used in the manufacture of boots and shoes, viz, cutters, drivers, eyelets, groovers, and hooks; bristles; brooms and brushes; capsicum, including oleoresin of capsicum; compasses (other than ships' compasses) and their component parts; diatomite or infusorial earth; field glasses and their component parts; fenugreek seed; guttering, cast iron, and cast-iron gutter fittings and connections; heliographs and their component parts; hollow ware, wrought, made wholly or partly from iron and steel sheet or plate, viz, bottles (empty) braziers, cans, measures, scoops, pails, pans, riddles, skips, troughs and trunks, cisterns and tanks, domestic utensils, fountains, hods, seed hoppers; horns, animal and articles manufactured therefrom in which the total weight of horn exceeds 50 per cent of total weight of the article; iron, oxides of, and mixtures containing iron oxides; nautical instruments and their component parts; cigarette paper; paraffin wax and mixtures and preparations thereof containing 20 per cent and upwards of paraffin wax, but not including waxed paper; pipes, cast iron, and cast-iron pipe fittings and connections; condiments (except table salt) not otherwise specifically prohibited; tea, including tea waste, sweepings, dust, and fluff, whether denatured or not; radiators manufactured of cast-iron pipes; siennas, spices and mixtures thereof, not otherwise specifically prohibited; wood tar; telescopes and their component parts; theodolites and their component parts; tin plate and articles wholly or partly made therefrom (not otherwise specifically prohibited), viz, empty receptacles, empty bottles, cans, measures, pots, pans, tins and bowls, lamps, bakery, dairy, and domestic utensils, gas meters and component parts thereof; umber; vanillin, vanilla, and vanilla pods.—Commerce Reports.

Railroad Administrator Revises Order Relating to Federal Treasurers' Duties

The United States Railroad Administration issues the following:

WASHINGTON, August 1, 1918.

GENERAL ORDER No. 37–A.

General Order No. 37 of July 19, 1918, is hereby revised to read as follows (the words in italics indicating the additions to the order as originally issued):

(1) The local treasurers appointed by Federal managers, or by general managers appointed in lieu of Federal managers, shall hereafter be designated "Federal treasurers" and are expected to devote themselves exclusively to the work of the United States Railroad Administration. They ought not to handle any funds for a railroad corporation or perform any other services therefor except in special cases after obtaining express authority.

The Federal treasurers should be nominated by the Federal manager (or general manager appointed in lieu of Federal manager), and the nomination, when it shall have been approved by the regional director, should be transmitted to the Director of the Division of Finance for consideration and final action. In cases where Federal treasurers have already been appointed the appointments should be submitted promptly through the regional director with his recommendations for confirmation by the Director of the Division of Finance.

(2) Immediately upon the appointment of Federal treasurers the designation of the bank account subject to check of such Federal treasurers shall be "(name of railroad), Federal account."

(3) (a) All cash representing receipts from the operations of its railroad since and including January 1, 1918, now in the hands of the railroad corporation for whose railroad a Federal treasurer has been appointed, or held for account of the corporation, and (b) any and all other cash now in the hands of such railroad corporation or held for its account for use in connection with the operation or improvement of its railroad shall be at once transferred by the railroad corporation to accounts in the same banks in which it is now held, designated as prescribed in paragraph (2) hereof, which shall be subject to check by the Federal treasurer.

(4) Federal treasurers shall draw on the new accounts thus to be opened and subject to their check only for (a) the payment of materials and supplies purchased since December 31, 1917; and also of materials and supplies purchased prior to December 31, 1917; (b) the payment of operating expenses (including approved claims for personal injuries and loss and damage), and also equipment and joint facility rents, traffic balances, overcharges and taxes (other than the war income tax and the excess profits tax) accrued since December 31, 1917; and also all items clearly applicable to the period prior to January 1, 1918, commonly called "lap-overs," which are required to be set up on the Federal books pursuant to Order No. 17; (c) the payment of such addition and betterment costs as may be approved by the Federal manager (or general manager appointed in lieu of the Federal manager).

Federal treasurers shall not draw on such accounts for any other purposes except when expressly authorized to do so by the Director of the Division of Finance and Purchases.

(5) A specimen form of check which has been approved for use by all railroads under Government control is attached hereto. In ordering checks for the use of the railroad the Federal Treasurer will follow as closely as practicable the general arrangement and language of the specimen form. The account with every bank must be stated in the name of the railroad with the name "Federal Account" immediately following on the same line as shown in the attached specimen.

(6) Until further ordered checks signed by the Treasurer should be countersigned according to the practice now in vogue on the different roads where regulations now call for such countersignatures.

W. G. MCADOO,
Director General of Railroads.

The specimen check which accompanied Order No. 37 should govern, except that the heading thereof should be changed to read:

"United States Railroad Administration, W. G. McAdoo, Director General of Railroads."

INFANTRY OFFICERS NAMED.

Special Orders, No. 176:

359. The appointment of the following-named officers in the Infantry, National Army, with date of rank as indicated after their names, is announced:

To be major: Capt. H. Hugh Sydenham, National Guard, July 26, 1918.

To be captain: First Lieut. John C. Luikart, National Guard, July 24, 1918.

To be first lieutenant: Second Lieut. Fred M. Calkins, National Guard, July 24, 1918.

The above-named officers are assigned to the 40th Division for duty and will be assigned to an organization of their branch of service by the commanding general of that division.

Some Details of the Vast Warehouses Built or Now Building for the Army and Costing a Total of $218,000,000

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

The estimated cost for storage warehouse and other construction, to facilitate the speedy handling of materials at storage points for the use of the Army, already erected and in the course of construction in the United States, is about $218,000,000. When completed these projects will provide approximately 33,800,000 square feet of warehouse space, additional wharves and piers, and improved harbor depths at various points.

All work of this nature is done under the supervision of the Construction Division of the Army. The majority of the projects will be completed this year. With few exceptions, they are permanent structures of concrete, brick, and steel.

Under Way and Completed.

Construction is now under way at the following points: New Orleans, Boston, Brooklyn, Chicago, St. Louis, Schenectady, N. Y., New Cumberland, Pa., Columbus, Ohio, Charleston, S. C., Norfolk, Va., Philadelphia, Newport News, and Little Rock, Ark.

Warehouses have been completed at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Hoboken, Jeffersonville, Ind., Port Newark, N. J., Americus, Ga., San Antonio, Dayton, Ohio, Richmond, Va., Chicago, and Middletown, Pa.

The Construction Division has provided 4,000,000 square feet of warehouse space for the storage of ordnance supplies, such as ammunition, guns, etc. The space has been apportioned to various sections of the country. For military reasons locations of the warehouses, magazines, and buildings of a similar nature can not be given.

Ordnance Warehouse and Barracks.

Fitted into the ordnance warehouse space are 75 miles of trackage and 9,000 linear feet of dock and wharf frontage. In addition to this, barracks for 20,000 men in the Ordnance have been provided and 15 miles of vehicular roadway have been built. All of this has cost in the neighborhood of $25,000,000.

There have been completed at Middletown, Pa., warehouses for the Signal Corps, at a cost of $1,800,000, that will give this division an additional 400,000 square feet of warehouse space, besides increased shed area of 128,000 square feet and storage capacity in separate paint and oil shops of 36,960 square feet.

Another 200,000 square feet of space for the Signal Corps is provided in a warehouse just started at Little Rock, Ark. The estimated cost is $494,000. Warehouses, each containing 200,000 square feet, have been built at San Antonio, Fort Sam Houston, Dayton, and Richmond. These cost approximately $2,788,750.

Immense Brooklyn Buildings.

The largest of the warehouse projects is now being constructed at Brooklyn, N. Y. It is estimated that, when completed, it will cost approximately $40,000,000 and provide 3,850,000 square feet of storage space. There are two great buildings, each of nine stories. Building A is 200 feet by 980 feet and has 27 elevators, each with a capacity of 10,000 pounds. Building B is 206 by 980 feet and has 36 elevators. Both buildings are of reinforced concrete and steel construction. There will be three piers, 150 by 1,257 feet, and one pier measuring 70 by 1,300 feet. Five slips will be provided, three of which will be [illegible] feet by 1,300 feet, one 145 by 1,300 feet and one 185 by 1,300 feet. The three main piers will be connected to building A by bridges at the second-story level. These terminals are to be served by railroad yards accommodating 1,480 cars. The estimated date of completion is July 1, 1919, although half of the warehouse space and one slip and pier will be ready for operation October 15, 1918. The work was started May 17 of this year.

Some of the Other Projects.

Some details of the other projects are as follows:

Boston, Quartermaster Terminal.

Main storehouse: In six sections, each section 126 feet by 273 feet; eight stories, reinforced concrete and steel construction.

Wharf shed and wharf: 137 feet by 1,638 feet. Wharf shed, two stories in height, reinforced concrete and steel construction. Between the main warehouse and wharf shed, 77 feet of paved street for railroad tracks and trucks. Main warehouse and pier shed connected by five bridges on second-story level.

The total warehouse area when completed, 1,651,100 square feet.

Estimated date of completion, January 1, 1919.

Main warehouse served by 24 elevators, each with a capacity of 10,000 pounds.

Wharf shed served by five elevators, 16,000 pounds capacity each.

Railroad yards and railroad terminals supporting these buildings, built for the accommodation of 700 cars, that is 350 carloads each way per day.

Pier shed for Navy: 300 feet by 924 feet; three stories, reinforced concrete and steel construction; 2,148 feet of berthing space. Served by 16 elevators, 16,000 pounds capacity each.

The work was begun April 3 and it is estimated that it will cost $28,000,000.

Temporary quartermaster warehouse: 300,000 square feet area floor space. This work has just been started and it is expected that it will be finished in 90 days. It is all wood, of temporary construction. The estimated cost is $1,111,890.

New Orleans Port Terminal.

Three warehouses: Size, 140 by 600 feet each; floor space, each building, 504,000 square feet; available storage space at 80 per cent, 1,200,000 square feet; construction, reinforced concrete on wooden pile foundation. Each building is served by 6 elevators, 16,000 pounds capacity each.

Wharf house: Size, 140 by 2,000 feet; floor space, both floors, 560,000 square feet; available for storage, 300,000 square feet (approximately); served by 6 elevators, [illegible] pounds capacity each; construction, structural steel frame on wooden piles, timber floors, 12-inch brick fire wall every 200 feet; steel rolling doors. The wharf house is connected to the main warehouses by a bridge at the second-story level, passing overhead all railroad yards between wharf shed and warehouses. The railroad comprises 8.46 miles of trackage. This project has just been started and is to be completed by November 1, 1918. The estimated cost is about $20,000,000.

Charleston.

Quartermaster terminal: Length of dock, 3,580 linear feet; type of construction, timber; 6 warehouses with total area of 1,152,000 square feet; 2 open sheds with total area of 380,800 square feet; head house, 264,000 square feet; railroad tracks serving, 9; depth and width of channel, 35 by 800 feet; railroad yards serving, 800 cars capacity. The work was begun on June 1, 1918, and is expected to be completed December 1, 1918. The estimated cost is $11,550,000.

Norfolk Quartermaster Terminal.

Pier 1: Area, 412,200 square feet; building, one story with area of 290,000 square feet; type of construction, brick and tile fire walls and granite side walls; railroad tracks, 7.

Pier 2: Area, 412,200 square feet, building, 2 stories; type of construction, same as No. 1; railroad tracks, 5.

Channel: 35 feet deep, 450 feet between piers and slips, 350 feet wide on each side.

Warehouses: 8, with total area of 2,016,000 square feet; tracks serving, 13; railroad yard serving, 1,000 cars capacity.

The work was begun on February 1, 1918, and is expected to be finished December 1, 1918. The estimated cost is $16,438,000.

Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot.

Pier 1: Area, 382,800 square feet; building, 3 stories with area of 264,000 square feet; type of construction, reinforced concrete; tracks serving, 4.

Pier 2: Area, 435,000 square feet; building, 3 stories with area of 300,000 square feet; type of construction, reinforced concrete; tracks serving, 4.

Channel: 30 feet deep.

Railroad yards serving, 500 cars capacity.

The work was begun July 23 and is expected to be completed August 1, 1919. The estimated cost is $20,000,000.

This project is in addition to two other projects at this point. A general interior storage depot was finished May 31 at an estimated cost of $3,408,973. A space of 921,000 square feet was provided. In addition there was completed an expeditionary storage depot on May 10 at an estimated cost of $1,023,550. This provided 271,000 square feet.

Chicago Permanent Warehouses.

Three buildings, each 277 by 324 feet, providing 1,220,000 square feet; construction, reinforced concrete. The work was started March 5, 1918, and is expected to be completed September 15, 1918. The estimated cost is $3,316,800.

This project is in addition to the Chicago general interior storage depot, which provides 588,000 square feet and cost approximately $809,300.

Wearing of Service and Wound Chevrons as Regulated by Army General Orders

General Orders, No. 53:

IV. Subparagraphs (c) and (d), paragraph 1, and paragraphs 7 and 8, General Orders, No. 6, War Department, 1918, are amended to read as follows:

1. * * * (c) War-service chevrons.

A gold chevron of standard material and design, to be worn on the lower half of the left sleeve of all uniform coats, except fatigue coats, by each officer, field clerk, and enlisted man who has served six months in a theater of operations during the present war as an officer, field clerk, or enlisted man of the armies of the United States, and an additional gold chevron for each six months of similar service thereafter.

When to Be Worn.

A sky-blue cloth chevron of the same pattern and worn in the same manner as the gold chevron by each officer, field clerk, and enlisted man who has served under the conditions prescribed for the gold chevron, but has left the theater of operations prior to the completion of six months' service therein. Should a person subsequently return to the theater of operations for duty therein, the blue-cloth chevron will be replaced by the gold chevron upon the completion of a total of six months of service in the theater of operations, after which only gold chevrons will be worn to indicate war service. The right to wear war-service chevrons is limited to those officers, field clerks, and enlisted men whose official duty requires their presence in a theater of operations, as distinguished from those who may visit such a theater without having been ordered thereto for duty. The term "theater of operations" is as defined in Field Service Regulations, 1914, as corrected to April 15, 1917.

War-service chevrons of the same material and design and similarly placed will be worn on the coat, overcoat, or waist of their prescribed uniform by all other uniformed personnel of the authorized Military Establishment. They will be worn under the same conditions as prescribed for officers, field clerks, and enlisted men.

Wearing of Wound Chevrons.

(d) Wound chevrons.

A gold chevron of pattern identical with that of the war-service chevron, to be worn on the lower half of the right sleeve of all uniform coats, except fatigue coats, by each officer, field clerk, and enlisted man who has received or who may hereafter receive a wound in action with the enemy, or as the result of an act of the enemy, which necessitates treatment by a medical officer, and an additional chevron for each additional wound; but not more than one chevron will be worn for two or more wounds received at the same time. Disablement by gas necessitating treatment by a medical officer shall be considered to be a wound within the meaning of this order."

Wound chevrons of the same material and design and similarly placed will be worn on the coat, overcoat, or waist of their prescribed uniform by all other uniformed personnel of the authorized Military Establishment. They will be worn under the same conditions as prescribed for officers, field clerks, and enlisted men.

Admission to Hospital.

7. When an officer, field clerk, enlisted man, or other member of the authorized Military Establishment is admitted to a hospital for treatment of a wound, or when an officer, field clerk, enlisted man, or other member of the authorized Military Establishment is treated for a wound without being admitted to a hospital, the commanding officer of the hospital, or, in the latter case, the medical officer who treats the wound, will furnish the commanding officer of the wounded person with a certificate describing briefly the nature of the wound and certifying to the necessity of the treatment. This information may be furnished to commanders of higher units in the form of certified lists, and will be transmitted by them to the commanding officers concerned.

Lists in Duplicate.

8. Commanding officers will forward to The Adjutant General of the Army, through military channels, lists in duplicate of those members of their commands who have been honorably wounded in action, or as the result of an act of the enemy, with a statement in the case of each individual, showing time and place wounds were received, and organization in which they were then serving. Whenever a report is made of an action, it will be accompanied by the above-described list and by certified copies of the medical officers' statements described in paragraph 7.

By order of the Secretary of War:

PEYTON C. MARCH,
General, Chief of Staff.

Official:

H. P. McCAIN,
The Adjutant General.

COTTON AS SUBSTITUTE FOR SILK GUNPOWDER BAGS

The War Department authorizes the following from the Ordnance Department:

Chemically treated cotton cloth, as a substitute for silk, is being tested out by the Ordnance Department.

If found practicable for ordnance uses, the discovery will effect the double result of meeting a serious shortage in silk, and of bringing about a money saving in the ordnance program estimated at between $25,000,000 and $35,000,000.

Tests at Aberdeen.

Preliminary tests already made at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds have encouraged the department to proceed further with its experiments, and for this purpose an order for 5,000 yards of the new material has been placed with the concern responsible for developing the process of treating the cotton cloth.

At present millions of yards of silk are required in making the bags which contain the large powder charges used in the firing of heavy artillery. These bags are inserted in the gun immediately behind the projectile, and the firing of them gives the propelling force that hurls the projectile at the target. This propelling charge is, of course, entirely distinct from the charge within the projectile that explodes the missile after it reaches the target.

Use of Silk Heretofore.

Heretofore, silk sas been depended upon for these bags for the reason that no other cloth material has been found that would meet the peculiar conditions required. It is essential that not a particle of the bag container shall remain after the gun is fired. Otherwise a smouldering piece of the fabric might cause a premature explosion when a new charge was inserted.

Owing to the great scarcity of silk, however, the cost of this material has increased enormously. This shortage is felt by all the warring powers, including Germany. Early in the war Germany is understood to have used a chemically treated cotton as a substitute for silk, but has since been compelled by the diminishing cotton supply to resort to other substitutes.

Plentiful and Cheap.

It is estimated that the chemically treated cotton cloth now being tried out by the Ordnance Department, if entirely suitable, could be purchased in almost unlimited quantities, and at a cost far below that of the silk fabric now used.

LIGHTHOUSE LABORERS WHO ARE "DOING THEIR BIT" IN THE WAR

The Department of Commerce authorizes publication of the following:

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
Washington, July 29, 1918.

Commissioner of Lighthouses:

Referring to communication from Warrack, superintendent, office of inspector, seventeenth district, quoting letter from C. A. Wood, laborer in charge Bybee Landing Post Light, Washington, R. 1 56, Kalama, Wash., let me ask that the superintendent be instructed to present my compliments to Mr. Wood and to express my appreciation of his patriotic letter and sacrifice and to tell him that by my instructions his letter is made a portion of his official record, together with a copy of this communication.

You are requested to transmit a copy of the communication sent to me to Commerce Reports, with my request that same be published by them, and you are also asked to have Commerce Reports publish the letter from the laborer in charge of the Mayaguez range lights, Porto Rico, of which copy was recently transmitted to the Red Cross.

I think THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN desires country can have it all."

WARRACK,
Superintendent.

BUREAU OF LIGHTHOUSES,
Washington, D. C., July 25, 1918.

Submitted to Secretary of Commerce for his information.

G. R. PUTMAN.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE.
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
Washington, July 17, 1918.

COMMISSIONER OF LIGHTHOUSES:

I beg you to present my compliments to Pedro A. Hernandez, laborer in charge, Mayaguez Harbor range lights, through the inspector of the ninth district, and to commend him for his patriotic action in giving an amount equal to two days' salary to the Red Cross. I desire that the fact of this contribution, in the form of a copy of the letter stating it, be made a portion of the official record of this employee.

WILLIAM C. REDFIELD,
Secretary.

BUREAU OF LIGHTHOUSES.
Washington, July 31, 1918.

Referred to Superintendent of Lighthouses, San Juan, P. R., for his information to have letters of special interest and merit. Kindly learn if this is so, and if it proves to be the fact, see that copies of these letters are sent them for publication.

WILLIAM C. REDFIELD,
Secretary.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE,
LIGHTHOUSE SERVICE,
OFFICE OF INSPECTOR, 17TH DISTRICT,
Portland, Oreg., July 19, 1918.

To: Commissioner of Lighthouses.

Subject: Purchase of W. S. S. by, and sentiments of, C. A. Wood, laborer-in-charge of post light.

The following is an extract from a letter of C. A. Wood, laborer in charge Bybee Landing Post Light, Washington, R.1 56, Kalama, Wash., and while more or less representative of the feeling here, it is believed worthy of special note. Mr. Wood's compensation is but $10 per month:

"Also received circular No. 30 and pledge card. I bought four W. S. S. stamps about March 1 of our Kalama postmaster and told him at the time that I was going to buy one a month for the full year, if I possibly could. That was before the pledge cards were out. I now have seven on my certificate and intend to keep right on as long as they are needed. My wife and I are getting along toward the 'three score and ten' and felt that the Liberty bonds might outlive us. We only have a few acres that we can cultivate and are trying to support ourselves, but if our property is necessary to win the war, our mation, guidance, and files.

Deliver the inclosed copy of this letter to Mr. Hernandez.

BOWERMAN,
Acting Commissioner.

[Translation.]

MAYAGUEZ, PORTO RICO,
June 12, 1918.

LIGHTHOUSE INSPECTOR,
San Juan, Porto Rico.

DEAR SIR: It is my duty to inform you that it has been impossible for me to purchase or contribute in any form or manner in the purchase of war-savings stamps or subscribing to the last Liberty loan. My shortage is due to the fact that my salary is very small; but, at any rate, I wish to contribute in some way, and I have decided to give an amount corresponding to two days of my salary of the month of May, which amounts to $1.10, and this I am willing to give to the Red Cross Association.

I wish you would inform me whether I should send it to that office or deposit the money in the Mayaguez Red Cross office.

I wish to enter my most energetic protest for the unjustifiable crime of the sinking of the steamship Carolina.

PEDRO A. HERNANDEZ.
Laborer in Charge.
Mayaguez Harbor Range Lights.

OFFICE OF THE INSPECTOR,
NINTH DISTRICT,
San Juan, P. R., June 18, 1918.

Forwarded to the Commissioner for his information and to show the patriotic spirit of the Porto Rican light keepers. This particular keeper is the laborer in charge of the Mayaguez Harbor range lights, and his salary is $15 per month.

JOSEPH ROSE,
Chief Clerk.

One Week's Foreign Relief by American Red Cross

Here is a page from the records of the Red Cross department of foreign relief, which will afford an idea of the immensity of the supply branch of the American Red Cross relief work abroad. The figures are for a single week—that ending August 3—which is stated to be a normal week in the operations of the department. The week's authorization for purchases of materials for shipment to the commissions of Italy, France, and Great Britain were as follows:

ITALY.

Seventy-nine tons of foodstuffs for use in hospitals for American forces in Genoa, Florence, and Rome; 50,000 gallons gasoline; 1,000 barrels of mess pork; 1,000 barrels of mess beef.

FRANCE.

Three hundred and fifty thousand dollars' worth of casings, auto tires, and tubes; 500 tons of jam monthly (three months' supply authorized); 115 trucks; 100 heavy ambulances; 100 portable houses; 675,000 sweaters; 25 sets reserve dental equipment.

GREAT BRITAIN.

One hundred thousand corncob pipes; 1,000 typewriters; 100 tons of chocolate for canteen work; 200 cases of California oranges.

Purchase and shipment of all these materials will be made promptly, with the exception of the item of sweaters, where the shipment will extend over a period of some months.

COAST GUARD OFFICERS RECOMMENDED FOR PROMOTION

The Naval Selection Board, of which Admiral Mayo is president, recommended the following officers of the Coast Guard for temporary promotion to the rank of captain in the Navy: Senior Capt. William E. Reynolds, Daniel P. Foley, and Francis M. Dunwoody.

Thirteen captains of the Coast Guard were recommanded for temporary promotion to the rank of senior captain in the Coast Guard as follows: James H. Brown, James M. Moore, William V. E. Jacobs, Preston H. Ubberroth, Andrew J. Henderson, Richard O. Crisp, Frederick G. Dodge, George C. Carmine, Frederick J. Haake, James G. Ballinger, Charles E. Johnston, Aaron L. Gamble, and Harry G. Hamlet.

Three captains of Engineers of the Coast Guard recommanded for temporary promotion to the rank of senior captain in the Coast Guard: James H. Chalker, Charles F. Nash, and Denis F. X. Bowen.

ADDRESS OF REGISTRANTS.

OFFICE OF FIRST ASSISTANT
POSTMASTER GENERAL,

18 AMERICAN-BUILT DE HAVILAND PLANES MAKE SCOUTING TRIP IN REAR OF THE GERMAN LINES

GEN. FOULOIS LEADS EXPEDITION

Squadron Returns Without Loss, Secretary Baker States — New System of Reporting Sick and Wounded Being Worked Out.

Press interview by Secretary of War August 16, 1918:

"I have a cablegram from Gen. Pershing, which tells me that early in the present month of August a complete squadron of 18 American-made de Haviland-4 planes with Liberty motors conducted a reconnaissance back of the German lines and successfully returned without loss. Gen. Foulois personally led the expedition. Lieut. Blair Thaw is also reported as having been with the expedition.

"I went to the Surgeon General's office to-day to look into the daily reports from the European hospitals on the sick and wounded, with a view to having them carded, catalogued, and tabulated, so that the most instant information can be given to all who inquire about friends abroad. The reports will come in weekly from France by courier. The information will be available through The Adjutant General."

New $200,000,000 Credit Is Extended to France

The Treasury Department has extended an additional credit of $200,000,000 to France, making the total to that country $2,065,000,000, and the total to all co-belligerents of the United States $6,692,040,000.

GASOLINE STEAMSHIP BURNED; NINE MEN OF CREW MISSING

No Submarine Seen When Outside Explosion Fired Mirlo off Cape Hatteras.

The Navy Department authorizes the following:

The British steamship Mirlo, 6,700 gross tons, loaded with gasoline, was discovered on fire yesterday afternoon about 25 miles off Cape Hatteras.

Nine of the crew are reported missing, the remainder having been landed. One of the engineers was badly burned and another member of the crew is suffering from a broken rib.

Saw No Submarine.

The commanding officer of the vessel states that an external explosion took place, but it appears that no one aboard saw a submarine or the wake of a torpedo. The first report that an enemy submarine was sighted has not been confirmed. Gasoline exploded and the surface of the water around the vessel was covered with blazing gasoline.

Schooner Shelled and Sunk.

The crew of the American schooner Madingadah have reached port on a Norwegian steamer, which picked them up on August 15, 11 miles south of Winter Quarter Shoals light vessel. There were 22 men in the crew and 1 Navy radio operator. The master of the Madingadah reports that his vessel was shelled and sunk by a submarine at 7.15 a. m. August 15. The submarine fired 11 shots. After the schooner was abandoned the submarine went alongside and fired two more shots. The ship when last seen was on fire and sinking.

1,450,000 U. S. SOLDIERS IN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES IN ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD GENERAL MARCH STATES

COMMAND FOR M[illegible]CAIN

Adjutant General of the Army Assigned to a New Division, Now Being Organized at Camp Devens, as Reward for Good Service — French Commander's Praise of an American Division is Given.

Press interview by Gen. March August 17, 1918:

When I talked to you on Wednesday the German retreat was gradually consolidating along the old 1916–17 line, and during the last few days there has been small change there. The resistance of the enemy has become stronger along that general position, and the allied attacks have become more or less local.

On the Lassigny Plateau, to which I referred last Wednesday, where the enemy was strongly located with machine guns, the French have gained all except the extreme northeastern corner. The enemy has had to withdraw somewhat from the plain of the Oise, east of the ridge.

The last official gains on August 16, are west of Roye, where a small local salient was flattened out by a direct advance. A small salient north of Albert was given up voluntarily by the enemy, on August 14, and occupied by the British. This is the fourth time that the Germans in local spots have voluntarily retired from the line which they have been holding since the allies took the initiative on July 18 with our counter offensive.

No General Change In Line.

The character of the work being done along the Vesle has been principally exchange of artillery fire, and small raids; but there has been no general change in the line. The announcement has already been made by the Secretary of War about the landing of our forces in Vladivostok.

When I give figures hereafter of troops embarked from the United States, the totals will embrace the troops in Siberia, in Italy, France, and Russia proper. The figures will mean the entire American Expeditionary Force in all parts of the Official Bulletin Authorized Medium For Railroad Administration Publicity

United States Railroad Administration,
Washington, D. C., August 16, 1918.

The Official Bulletin is furnished with and authorized to publish all General Orders and Circulars by the Director General of Railroads, and authorized Circulars of Divisions and Sections of the Railroad Administration at Washington, and is to be regarded as an official means of publication of the same.

world. We have now embarked on all the expeditions more than 1,450,000 men.

The American troops in France, to whose good conduct I have referred in these talks, are beginning to receive official French commendations of various sorts, and here is one that came in this morning and has been translated. This refers to the Second Artillery Brigade, which was with the Second Division in the fighting around Chateau Thierry. After the Infantry was withdrawn our Field Artillery stayed there and helped the French at that point. This commendation is from the French commander of the divisions to which it was attached. It is in the form of an official order, and the translation is something like this:

French Commander's Tribute.

On the eve of the relief of the 2d Artillery Brigade of the 2d United States Infantry Division from the 12th (French) Infantry Division, the general commanding this Infantry division takes the opportunity to express to the brigade commander, Gen. Bowley, to all his officers, noncommissioned officers, and soldiers his thanks for the services rendered their French comrades and his admiration for the splendid American bravery.

"After having vigorously fought with the 2d United States Infantry Division and with the 58th (French) Infantry Division, the 2d American Artillery Brigade has come to show, during two days of severe fighting at the side of the 12th Infantry Division, the finest qualities of energy, endurance, and devotion.

"The fortunes of war separate us from these brave and loyal fighting comrades—I trust that the fortunes of war will reunite us again upon the field of battle.

"The 12th French Infantry Division will faithfully treasure the memory of the 2d Artillery Brigade of the 2d United States Infantry Division."

Gen. Duncan to Return.

The strain of fighting over there, as you have noticed, is very severe, and one of the effects is shown in the necessary sending home of officers who have had high commands, and whom Gen. Pershing has found it desirable to give a rest. One especially noteworthy case is Maj. Gen. George B. Duncan, who has been conspicuous in American news, because he was one of the first men who received the French Croix de Guerre, and his division has behaved excellently throughout. He will be returned to the United States.

The War Department has selected as a reward for good service Maj. Gen. Henry P. McCain, The Adjutant General, to command one of our new divisions. Gen. McCain will command the 12th Division, which is being organized at Camp Devens, Mass. Brig. Gen. Peter C. Harris, now on duty in the office of The Adjutant General, will be detailed as Acting Adjutant General of the Army. Gen. Harris is an officer of wide experience and has done special service in working out the details by which we have been able to eliminate the old-fashioned muster rolls and has cut down paper work in a way that helps the efficiency of the Army very much.

Replies to Questions.

Gen. March replied to the following questions:

Question. Who has been placed in charge of the Militia Bureau, succeeding Gen. Jesse McI. Carter?

Answer. Col. John W. Heavey is now in charge of it. He was serving there under Gen. Carter and had had a previous tour there.

Question. Will you please tell us the location of the 80th Division?

Answer. This division is in training with the British in Flanders.

Question. Has the 320th Field Artillery been in any action?

Answer. That regiment belongs to the 82d Division and our reports do not show that it has been engaged so far.

Question. Where is the 88th Division?

Answer. That has been partly shipped, but there is no report yet that it has landed.

Question. Where is the 82d Division?

Answer. The 82d Division, less artillery, is on the line in the sector north of Toul and has been there since about the 1st of July. It replaced the 26th at that point.

Question. There has been some complaint in and around Pittsburgh about the losses in the 110th Regiment, 28th Division. Have you any information?

Answer. The 28th Division held the center of the American sector during the advance across the Ourcq from July 26 to 31 (there was very heavy fighting there), and again it was placed on August 6 on the Vesle. This division has been in the heart of the fighting and undoubtedly has casualties to correspond.

Question. Is there anything you can say about the American troops in Italy, about their number and what they are doing?

Answer. They are not reported as being in active fighting.

Question. It has been reported that Maj. Gen. Jesse McI. Carter will be in command of the new division at Camp Meade. Is that true?

Answer. Yes.

Question. Can you say who will be in command of the other new divisions?

Answer. As soon as the Senate reconvenes the names of a number of new generals will be sent in, and the information will then be given out.

Question. Have you any information to indicate that American prisoners of war are being singled out for a special show of cruelty?

Answer. We get information about the treatment of American prisoners of war in Germany officially from the Spanish Embassy, which represents us at Berlin. No testimony has been received by us that American prisoners of war have been singled out for any treatment different from what all the rest get. We are now about to embark upon a convention with Germany about the whole matter of prisoners of war, which will be held in Switzerland, and any question about their treatment of our prisoners and our treatment of theirs will be thrashed out. We even have their menus. The Spanish representatives drop in on these camps unannounced and find out exactly what they have to eat, and we receive that information.

SALES OF KNITTING YARNS TO AMERICAN RED CROSS

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

Manufacturers, wholesalers, and large retailers, in response to a request, have reported to the War Industries Board stocks of hand-knitting yarns. Where qualities and quantities have warranted, the American Red Cross has asked owners of stocks to sell to them at a nominal profit. It is gratifying to announce that there has been prompt and hearty cooperation.

Stocks of Smaller Dealers.

There are, however, thousands of smaller merchants not listed in trade organizations who will esteem it a privilege to offer their stocks for consideration of the American Red Cross, and they are requested to report at once to the woolens section of the War Industries Board their stocks of hand-knitting yarns, both woolen and worsted, in oxford, khaki, natural, and natural gray colors, stating counts, make, quality, and cost price. Lots down to 50 pounds will be considered.

AUTO MANUFACTURERS URGED TO PUT BUSINESS ON WAR BASIS

No Order Issued Yet, However, by War Industries Board to Curtail Production.

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

At a meeting of the War Industries Board August 10 with a committee of 25 automobile dealers from various cities in the United States as representatives of the National Automobile Dealers' Association, these facts were developed:

1. While no order has been issued by the War Industries Board canceling motor-car production, and no definite order of curtailment could be given until the automobile manufacturers had submitted inventories of present stocks, the board has suggested to manufacturers of automobiles that they undertake to get war work, even up to 100 per cent, if possible, by January 1, 1919. Automobile manufacturers have already accepted war orders aggregating between $800,000,000 and $900,000,000.

Important to Continue Activity.

2. The War Industries Board realizes the importance of a continuation of all possible industrial activity, so far as it can be brought about without interference with the war program.

3. All automobile dealers, however, should put themselves as rapidly as possible on a war basis, in order to be ready for whatever curtailment may become necessary.

4. The War Industries Board has not classed the automobile or any other industry as nonessential, and in determining the standing and position of any and every industry it will be guided solely by the war requirements and the needs as distinguished from the wants of the civilian population.

5. In view of the fact that the war requirements of steel and rubber exceed the supply and make automobile curtailment necessary, the war service committee of the National Automobile Dealers' Association has agreed to recommend ways and means to stop the unnecessary use of passenger cars and increase their utilitarian uses.

MAXIMUM PRICES ANNOUNCED FOR THE ALLOTMENT OF BEEF FOR ARMY, NAVY, AND ALLIES

FIXED FOR SEPTEMBER DELIVERY

Agreement Reached at Conference Between Packers, the Food Administration and U. S. Army, Navy, and Marine Corps Officers.

The Food Administration issues the following:

Following a two-day conference between packers and the Food Administration, attended by officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, maximum prices are announced at which beef will be alloted for September delivery—excepting on the Pacific coast—for the Army, Navy, and allies.

Prices F. O. B. Chicago.

The following bases are f. o. b. Chicago, per 100 pounds, for steers of quality and grade satisfactory to the authorized inspectors, chilled, and unwrapped. These prices average substantially the same as for the month of August:

475 to 575 pounds	$21. 90
575 to 700 pounds	22. 65
700 to 850 pounds	23. 55

The general meat situation was discussed, conservation programs were canvassed, and relief measures were suggested to take care of beef coming into the market as a result of drought in southern and southwestern States.

Weights Below Average.

The average weight of cattle marketed this year, it was brought out, is 30 pounds lighter than last, 40 pounds lighter than in 1916, and 60 pounds below the 1915 average. This is due in part to excessive marketing of immature cattle owing to drought conditions.

Raisers of live stock are now receiving exceptional profits, probably higher than at any time since the Civil War. During a part of last winter and early spring feeders of cattle were less fortunate and suffered a loss upon their feeding ventures. However, cattle feeders who held their stock until late spring made a profit, but it has remained for the stock raisers who are now marketing cattle of a size and quality to be acceptable for Government use to reap unusual profit.

To utilize cattle below 475 pounds in weight, the minimum now being supplied on Army specifications, housewives and proprietors of public eating places are asked by the Food Administration to buy cuts from lighter weight stock and to urge that meat markets of the country secure a supply of beef from these lighter cattle.

Packers Present or Represented.

Packers and their representatives present at the conference were: A. E. Hayes, Hately Bros. Co., Chicago; Frank W. Waddell, Armour & Co., Chicago; R. T. Sinclair, T. M. Sinclair & Co. (Ltd.), Cedar Rapids, Ga.; the Cudahy Packing Co., G. O. Shepard, Chicago; Edward Morris, jr., Morris & Co., Chicago; William Rohe, Rohe & Bro., New York City; R. Mair, Swift & Co., Chicago; W. J. Russell, Swift & Co., Chicago; Fred R. Burrows, Swift & Co., Chicago; S. T. Nash, the Cleveland Provision Co., Cleveland, Ohio; James G. Cownie, Buffalo, N. Y.; Jacob Dold Packing Co., R. L. Swift & Co., Chicago; J. W. Rath, the Rath Packing Co., Waterloo, Iowa; William Diesing, beef department, Cudahy Bros., Cudahy, Wis.; W. C. Routh & Co., R. Huggins, Logansport, Ind.; M. T. Morgan, the Lake Erie Provision Co., Cleveland, Ohio; C. J. Roberts, Roberts & Oake, Chicago; F. T. Fuller, Iowa Packing Co., Des Moines, Iowa; M. T. McClelland, John Morrell & Co., Ottumwa, Iowa; James Hawkinson, Wilson & Co., Chicago; R. L. James, Swift & Co., Chicago; Lyman J. Craig, Parker Webb & Co., Detroit, Mich.; Edw. G. McDougall, Libby, McNeill & Libby, Chicago; Walter H. Miller, D. R. Robertson, Miller & Hart, Chicago; John S. Munce, Kingan & Co. (Ltd.), Indianapolis, Ind.; Victor H. Munnecks, Armour & Co., Chicago; Boyd Lunham & Co., W. William Trotter, Chicago; Fred L. Wilson Provision Co., Peoria, Ill.; S. S. Jensen, Ogden Packing & Provision Co., Ogden, Utah; W. R. Farrell, Rohe & Bros., New York; Ralph W. E. Decker, Jacob E. Decker & Sons, Mason City, Iowa; M. Mannheimer, Evansville Packing Co., Evansville, Ind.; A. L. Eberhart, George A. Hormel & Co., Austin, Minn.; Interstate Packing Co., Winona, Minn.; Drummond Packing Co., Eau Claire, Wis.; B. G. Brennan, Brennan Packing Co., Chicago; James S. Agar, John Agar Co., Chicago; William Davies Co. (Ltd.), James S. Agar, Cincinnati; Independent Packing Co., Thomas Brennan, Chicago; and Fry & Co., Seattle, Wash., William G. Agar.

NAVY ESTABLISHES A PATROL FOR ATLANTIC FISHING GROUNDS

The Food Administration issues the following:

As a food conservation measure and to prevent destruction of fishing vessels by German submarines, the Navy Department has established a patrol of certain fishing grounds off the Atlantic coast, after discussion of the situation with the Food Administration.

Little Actual Damage.

Recent raids by undersea pirates have done little actual damage to fishing fleet taken as a whole, but much uneasiness among the men has resulted. Wives and families in some cases have induced them to remain on shore. But the American fisherman is not easily kept from the sea, and it is expected that his courage and the knowledge that the jackies are on guard will keep the fish catch up to normal.

The naval patrol will be accomplished without weakening the convoy system that has made it possible for troops and supplies to voyage in safety to Europe. Submarines recently have sunk vessels engaged in cod fishing and have committed depredations among smaller craft after sword fish.

Similar Conditions Abroad.

All the European nations allied against Germany have striven, in the face of like difficulties, to keep their fishing fleets at work, because of food shortage, particularly meat.

DYNAMITE GLYCERIN PRICES FURNISHED TO THE ALLIES

Fixed by Agreement Between Food Administration and U. S. Soap Makers.

The Food Administration issues the following:

Prices at which dynamite glycerin is to be furnished to the allied governments and domestic consumers during the remainder of 1918 have been settled by joint agreement between the Food Administration and makers of soap and candles.

Allied requirements, estimated at 7,000 long tons, will be furnished at 60 cents a pound in August and September; 58 cents in October and November; and 56 cents in December, f. o. b. production points in drums—drums included in price—deliveries to be divided into quotas of approximately one-third for each of the three periods. Sales to domestic consumers will be made on the same basis, and it is suggested that they accept the same deliveries, as nearly as possible.

Stabilizing of Prices.

It is assumed that the price of crude glycerin and chemically pure glycerin will be stabilized by market conditions to a basis conforming to the prices specified for dynamite glycerin.

The price agreement was entered into for the manufacturers by a soap and candle war committee which held its first meeting at the Food Administration June 3. This committee was appointed by the trade and its personnel is as follows:

Sidney M. Colgate, of Colgate & Co., New York, chairman; Samuel S. Fels, of Fels & Co., Philadelphia; W. E. McCaw, of Procter & Gamble, Cincinnati; W. O. Thompson, of N. K. Fairbanks Co., Chicago; L. H. Waltke, of William Waltke & Co., St. Louis; N. N. Dalton, of Peet Bros. Manufacturing Co., Kansas City; Sidney Kirkman, of Kirkman & Son, Brooklyn, and George B. Wilson, of the Globe Soap Co., Cincinnati, ex officio chairman.

Reduction in Percentage.

The committee and Food Administration recommend that all soap makers who manufacture soap containing more than 1 per cent of glycerin take steps at once to reduce it to that percentage. Glycerin is especially in demand at present in Great Britain and Italy, where it is used to make cordite, a smokeless powder, and in Canada for explosives.

Contracts Are Awarded to Build 1,293 Houses

The Department of Labor authorizes the following:

The Bureau of Industrial Housing and Transportation announces the following awards of contracts at—

Bethlehem, Pa., to the Whitney Co., New York City, for the construction of 1,193 houses.

Seven Pines, Va., to the Owen-Ames-Kimball Co., Grand Rapids, Mich., for the construction of 100 ready-cut houses.

As civilian chairman of the committee I appoint Mr. George Creel.

The Secretary of State, the Secretary of War, and the Secretary of the Navy are authorized each to detail an officer or officers to the work of the committee.

WOODROW WILSON.

April 14, 1917.

Asks All Newspapers to Print Daily Notice to 21-Year Registrants

The following request is made by the Office of the Provost Marshal General:

The newspapers of the country can aid the Government considerably if they will make a practice of publishing daily between now and August 24, in conspicuous manner, the following "box" calling the attention of the young men in their respective communities to the registration August 24:

> "All male persons who have reached their twenty-first birthday since June 5, 1918, and on or before August 24, 1918, must register on August 24, 1918.
> "These men should consult with local draft boards as to how and where they should register."

It is apprehended that unless some such distinctive method of advertising the August 24 registration is adopted, it will be lost sight of amid the publicity that will attend consideration by Congress of the new draft-age law and preparation by this office for the registration next month of those who will be included under the new age limits.

PRESIDENT WISHES RED CROSS MEN WITHIN NEW DRAFT AGES TO STAY AT WORK UNTIL CALLED

LETTER TO CHAIRMAN DAVISON

Mr. Wilson States That if the Government Does the Selecting it Can Do so with Due Regard to the Interests of all Services.

The Red Cross issues the following:

President Wilson, in a letter to Henry P. Davison, chairman of the War Council of the American Red Cross, under date August 14, expressed the hope that all Red Cross workers within the new draft ages—18 to 45—"continue to render service unless and until specifically called to other and more important duty."

The President's letter was written in response to one from Mr. Davison, in which the effect of the proposed new draft ages upon the Red Cross personnel was set forth.

The President's Letter.

The President wrote as follows:

"THE WHITE HOUSE,
"August 14, 1918.

"Mr. HENRY P. DAVISON,
"Chairman, Red Cross War Council,
"Washington, D. C.

"MY DEAR MR. DAVISON: I hope that the action we have taken in the matter of voluntary enlistments will help a little in the solution of the difficulties created for the American Red Cross by the probable extension of the draft ages. If the Government does the selecting, it can select with a due regard to the interests of all services, whether within the Government or without, whereas if we permitted men liable to be drafted to rush in and apply for and obtain commissions, there would be chaos, indeed.

Importance as Auxiliary.

"As the American Red Cross is such an important auxiliary to our armed forces, and is also extending relief, not only to our people at home, but to the peoples of the nations associated with us, who are suffering as the result of the war, I hope that every man connected with the work, either at home or abroad, will have a full appreciation of its importance and will, if possible, continue to render service unless and until specifically called to other and clearly more important duty.

"Cordially and sincerely, yours,
"WOODROW WILSON."

Mr. Davison's Communication.

Mr. Davison's communication was in part as follows:

"If the proposed draft bill, including the ages from 18 to 45, should be passed, I shall be more than delighted, believing that it will be but another step in the direction in which you have led the country to demonstrate not only our power, but our purpose, to immediately command every resource to insure a complete victory. I am presuming to express my opinion on this point because the passage of such a bill must inevitably have a very marked effect on the personnel now within the organization of the Red Cross, as well as those whose service we must secure to carry on the work.

"You, of course, appreciate that the men volunteers now serving us throughout the United States and in Europe are of such a type that most of them would wish immediately to volunteer to join the service rather than wait to be drafted.

"At the time the war council was formed we adopted a principle that we would not accept for service abroad men within the draft age, as we did not wish to be in any degree open to the charge of being a 'shelter pit.' Owing to the increased demands for personnel and our difficulty in securing it, we modified, about two months ago, our ruling, accepting men with obvious disability in Class 5–G, as we were informed that this class might reasonably be regarded as exempt from military liability.

Large Percentage Affected.

"As the proposed law would probably cover 80 per cent of our male personnel, we would, I fear, immediately upon its enactment, find men resigning, so that our problem of securing additional personnel now called for in Europe and perhaps later in Russia would not only be greater but indeed the problem of maintaining our present organization would become a serious one.

"I am sure you know that I would ask for nothing except your consideration of steps which would enable us to continue our work, the importance of which I believe is established, and you have given me reason to know of your own appreciation of its value. Whatever the solution of the problem may be, I am sure I express the sentiment of the entire organization when I say that no one could or would ask for exemption from military service on the ground of his work for the Red Cross."

Flying Field Fatalities In Week Ending August 10

The War Department authorizes the following:

Herewith is a summary of deaths in aviation accidents at flying fields in this country for the week ending August 10, 1918:

Place at which fatality occurred.	Number of fatalities.
Gerstner Field, Lake Charles, La	1
Post Field, Fort Sill, Okla	1
Scott Field, Belleville, Ill	1
Taliaferro Field, Fort Worth, Tex	2
Total	5

The five deaths during the week ending August 10 represent one fatality for every 4,408.5 hours flown, or 362,672 miles air travel. At 23 flying fields other than these named above there were no fatalities.

RELIEVED FROM DUTY.

Special Orders, No. 186:

449. Col. George L. Anderson, United States Army, retired, is relieved from duty as a member of the board of ordnance and fortification.

Protect your soldiers with your savings.

WORK OF CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

The House Ways and Means Committee, which is considering the $8,000,000,000 revenue bill, yesterday agreed upon an 8 per cent exemption, in addition to a specific $3,000 exemption on excess profits of corporations, with a tax of 40 per cent on all excess profits between 8 per cent and 40 per cent, and a tax of 60 per cent on all excess profits exceeding 20 per cent. The committee also adopted the Treasury Department's alternative plan for a flat 80 per cent tax on war profits.

The committee agreed to three classifications of business for purposes of deduction from the war profits tax. The deductions for prewar earnings would be: Financial and transportation corporations, 8 per cent; manufacturing, farming, and general business, 10 per cent; and mining and kindred hazardous business, 12 per cent.

Further Income Tax Suggestions.

Chairman Kitchin stated yesterday that the Treasury Department expected to submit further suggestions regarding the income tax. He said that unless the plan is later changed, the normal income tax rate will begin with 5 per cent on the first $4,000 and 10 per cent on all incomes between $4,000 and $5,000, the surtax beginning at $5.000.

The surtax schedule, Chairman Kitchin said, probably would stand as agreed to with the following percentages: $5,000 to $7,500, 3 per cent; $7,500 to $10,000, 6 per cent; $10,000 to $15,000, 10 per cent; $15,000 to $20,000, 15 per cent; $20,000 to $30,000, 20 per cent; $30,000 to $40,000, 25 per cent; $40,000 to $50,000, 30 per cent; $50,000 to $60,000, 40 per cent; $60,000 to $70,000, 45 per cent; $70,000 to $80,000, 47 per cent; $80,000 to $90,000, 48 per cent; $90,000 to $100,000, 49 per cent; $100,000 to $200,000, 50 per cent; $200,000 to $300,000, 55 per cent; $300,000 to $500,000, 60 per cent; $500,000 to $1,000,000, 65 per cent, and $1,000,000 to $5,000,000, 75 per cent.

$25,000,000 for Administration.

All incomes over $5,000,000 would pay a surtax of 75 per cent which, added to the normal tax, would make such incomes taxable to the extent of 85 per cent.

Statement by Mr. Kitchin.

Chairman Kitchin made this statement last night:

"We changed the plan for payment of the taxes by installments, at the suggestion and request of the Treasury Department, so that one-third will be due when the taxpayer makes his returns, another third within two months thereafter, and the remaining third two months later. The committee decided against a rebate for cash payment of taxes.

"The committee appropriated the $25,000,000 requested for the administration of the revenue laws by Commissioner Roper and authorized two additional deputy commissioners of internal revenue.

"It was decided to make a differential of 3 per cent in favor of earned incomes as against unearned.

"The tax will be 10 per cent normal on earned incomes, and 13 per cent on unearned incomes. Unearned income means that part of the net income derived from dividends on preferred stock, from interests, rentals, royalties, and annuities."

The committee agreed to a proposal by Representative Rainey, of Illinois, that the name of every person making returns under the income-tax law be posted in county courthouses in order that the public may know who have not made returns. The amounts will not be posted. The proposal of Representative Treadway, of Massachusetts, to put a tax on billboards was rejected.

The commissioner of supply in Spain has issued a circular ordering that the 1918 crops of barley, oats, rye, and wheat must not be removed from the fields without authorization by agents specially appointed for the purpose by the town councils.

HARDING REAPPOINTED HEAD OF FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD

W. P. G. Harding, of Alabama, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, has been designated for another year's term in that office by President Wilson. Mr. Harding was originally appointed a member of the board upon its organization for a term of eight years, beginning August 10, 1914. Two years later he was designated by the President as governor of the board for a period of one year, and a year later reappointed for the same period. The latest appointment marks the beginning of his third term as governor of the board.

Two vacancies on the board are soon to be filled. One of these is that left by the expiration of the term of Paul M. Warburg, of New York, who will retire, and the other by the resignation of Frederic A. Delano, of Illinois. The latter was appointed two years ago for a term of four years, so that his successor will be named to fill out an unexpired term for two years.

SERIES OF WAR LECTURES.

A series of lectures illustrated with slides on the various war activities of the United States up to this time is being prepared by George F. Zook, professor of modern European history, Pennsylvania State College. The cantonments, airplanes, the Navy, shipbuilding, the trenches, and many other features of the war are described in an interesting and instructive way. The lectures will be especially useful for the work of teachers, Y. M. C. A. secretaries, and club officials.

Each lecture is accompanied by from 45 to 65 slides, which are being sold at the nominal price of 15 cents each. The lectures and slides will be available for use about October 1. INSTRUCTION TO POSTMASTERS REGARDING SHIP ADVERTISING

OFFICE OF POSTMASTER GENERAL,
Washington, August 6, 1918.
ORDER No. 1852.

Instructions to Postmasters:

Your attention is called to the following statement of the Secretary of the Navy published in THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN of the Committee on Public Information of August 2, 1918:

"To the press in America:

"I issued a request to the press in America on July 6, 1918, to eliminate any mention, either in the advertising or news columns, of the sailing, or departure, or location, or supposed location, of any ship in American waters.

"I am very happy to say that there has been hearty and complete compliance with this request, and that the cooperation of the press has aided the Navy Department in its work.

"Experience, however, has demonstrated the fact that the request should not have been limited to American waters, and that the publication of the sailing, departure, location, and movements of ships in foreign waters is also dangerous and should not be made. I am, therefore, amending my request by adding 'or in other waters.' The amended request is as follows:

"'The appearance of submarines on the Atlantic coast makes it imperative that no mention should be made in any newspaper, either in the advertising or news columns, of the sailing or departure, or location, or supposed location, of any ship in American or other waters.

"'This information conveyed by advertising is as dangerous as in the news columns, and I am making this request to all the newspapers in the country in the assurance that they will cooperate with the Government in its effort to prevent any information about ships reaching submarines which may be off the Atlantic coast.'

"JOSEPHUS DANIELS,
"Secretary of the Navy."

The order of July 20, 1918, published in the Postal Bulletin of July 22, 1918, is, therefore, hereby amended by inserting therein the request of the Secretary of the Navy in the amended form above quoted; and, as in the case of the original order, you are directed to bring this amendment promptly to the attention of all publishers within the delivery of your office, advising them that this department will, after notice of these instructions, regard the publication of such shipping news as giving aid and comfort to the enemy and such published matter as nonmailable under the espionage act.

This order is not intended to apply to movements wholly within the interior waters of the United States of vessels not destined to outside waters, nor to advertisements which merely apprise the public of the fact that certain service is maintained and that fuller information relative thereto may be obtained on application at a given address, but which do not give any information either as to specific dates of sailing or as to any regular interval between such sailings.

A. S. BURLESON,
Postmaster General.

LICENSES TO EXPORT SILVER HEREAFTER TO BE RESTRICTED

The Treasury Department authorizes the following:

Under the authority of the act of Congress approved April 23, 1918, silver has been sold by the Secretary of the Treasury at a price which will permit the Treasury from new purchases of a corresponding amount of silver at the price of $1 per fine ounce to recoin the silver purchased into silver dollars without loss. In order to provide for the various items of expense involved it was found necessary to fix the price for which silver was sold at $1.01½ per fine ounce, and it was made a condition of sale that the purchaser should not pay a higher price for silver in other markets than in those of the United States.

Limits License for Export.

Up to the present time the Federal Reserve Board has freely granted licenses for the export of silver. In order, however, to conserve the use of silver, export licenses for silver will hereafter be granted only for civil or military purposes of importance in connection with the prosecution of the war and only in cases where the exporter certifies that the silver to be exported has been purchased at a price which does not directly or indirectly exceed $1.01½ per ounce one thousand fine, at the point where silver is refined in the case of silver refined in the United States or at the point of importation in the case of imported silver.

Additional Requirements.

Applications for licenses to export silver should also state from whom the silver was purchased, the point at which silver was delivered to purchaser, for whose account and by whose order and for what purpose the silver is to be exported.

Three Navy Men Drowned; One Killed in Seaplane

The Navy Department reports the following casualties:

Ensign Charles E. Reed, United States Naval Reserve Force, drowned August 14 while in a kite balloon in service in foreign waters. Wife, Mrs. Anne D. Reed, 718 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, Mass.

Robert Joseph Nash, mess attendant, third class, United States Navy, drowned in foreign waters. Father, James P. Nash, Edge Hill, Pa.

Joseph J. Fenton, chief quartermaster, aviation, United States Naval Reserve Force, killed August 13 by fall in seaplane at Pensacola, Fla. Father, Joseph J. Fenton, Bellows Falls, Vt.

Joseph Francis Powers, seaman, second class, United States Naval Reserve Force, on duty at Naval Training Camp, Seattle, Wash., drowned while canoeing. Father, Joseph Powers, 1138 Wenona Avenue, Oak Park, Ill.

Two Men Killed, One Hurt, Loading Six-inch Shells

The Navy Department authorizes the following:

Two men were killed and one seriously injured Friday morning at the St. Juliens Creek magazine, near Norfolk, Va., by an explosion which occurred as they were loading a 6-inch shell with explosive D. The ordnance officers report that all the prescribed precautions were being taken, and a board of inquiry has been appointed to make an investigation to determine the cause of the explosion.

The Navy Department is informed that the two men killed were R. P. Nicholas, ordnanceman, first class, and E. E. Holland, ordnanceman, third class; and the man injured was C. C. Holcomb, ordnanceman, third class, who is expected to recover.

Officials of the Bureau of Ordnance state that this is the first mishap that has occurred with this explosive in the six or seven years in which it has been used by the Navy, during which time many thousands of shells have been loaded with it.

OLD CHARCOAL CONTRACTS NOT AFFECTED BY ORDER OF JULY 8

The Fuel Administration authorizes the following:

Bona fide contracts relative to charcoal made prior to the order of July 8, 1918, fixing the maximum prices of lump and screened charcoal in carload lots, will not be affected by this price order, in the absence of further express orders or regulations by the Fuel Administrator.

Neither shall the price-fixing order be construed to impair the right of any shipper to charge and collect the contract price for any shipment of charcoal heretofore or hereafter made under any such contract.

An order to this effect was promulgated by the United States Fuel Administration August 13.

RED CROSS HOME SERVICE

Information for Soldiers' and Sailors' Families, Issued by Department of Civilian Relief.

Applications for allowances made by Class B dependents.

When the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance ceased paying allotments not carrying allowances, the former procedure by which certain Class B dependents could apply for the family allowance, was temporarily discontinued. Recently, however, instructions have been issued permitting Class B dependents to apply for the allowance under the following conditions:

The family allowance will not be granted upon application of a Class B dependent unless the enlisted man has made an allotment to this dependent on Form 1-B and filed it with the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance. In many cases this would be the form 1-B which he filled out several months ago upon entering the service, but upon which he either failed to request the family allowance for the Class-B dependent or failed to show the necessary proof of dependency.

The allotment formerly paid by the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance as a result of filing this form 1-B ceased on June 30 because it did not carry an allowance. Application by the Class-B dependent supported by the necessary proof, as outlined below, will now revive this allotment and secure the family allowance as well.

If the man never filed a Form 1-B the Class B application will not be entertained. Thus, if he merely filled out and filed with the War or Navy Department, the allotment form required by either of these departments this would not be sufficient. But if he originally filed a Form 1-B he need not execute another one. His family will be able to obtain the allowance if they can submit the necessary proof described below without any further action on his part.

Allotment Must Be Large Enough to Support the Allowance.

The allotment originally made on Form 1-B to the Class B dependent must be sufficient in size to carry with it a family allowance under the new amendments to the law. Thus it must be at least $5 if the man is also paying a compulsory allotment, or $15 otherwise.

If an unmarried man made an allotment of $10 to his mother on Form 1-B when he entered the service, her application for family allowance would not revive the allotment which was discontinued automatically on the 30th of June or secure for her the allowance. This is because the amount of the allotment was less than that required by law to support an allowance. In such circumstances the man would have to make a larger allotment by filing a new Form 1-B in order to secure an allowance for his mother.

Allotment Through Departments Must Not be to Another Person.

When the announcement was made that allotments through the War-Risk Insurance Bureau not carrying allowances would automatically cease on June 30, all men in the military or naval service were informed that if they wished the allotments to continue, they must make a new allotment through the allotment office of their respective branch of the service. If a soldier made such an allotment in July, for instance, through the Quartermaster General's office, and made it to the Class B dependent named in the Form 1-B previously filed with the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance, the Class B dependent could apply for the allowance, thereby reviving the former allotment through the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance, which will now carry an allowance with it. With this revival of the former allotment, the new allotment through the Quartermaster General's office would be canceled without action by the man.

But if an allotment through the Quartermaster General's Office was made to another person and not to the Class B dependent previously named in Form 1-B, this would indicate that the man no longer wished to allot to this Class B dependent and hence the former allotment through the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance would not be revived.

Affidavit proving dependency and suggested form of application.

No official form has been prescribed by the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance upon which a Class B dependent to whom an allotment has been made through the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance may apply for an allowance. An informal letter is sufficient if the facts stated therein are sworn to. To be sure that all necessary facts are set forth, the following letter is suggested, if the applicant was previously dependent.

Allotment No. 343298. Private John Howard Smith, Serial No. 85634, Company L, 125th Infantry, American Expeditionary Force. Age 26 years. Entered service October 20, 1917.

To the BUREAU OF WAR-RISK INSURANCE, Attention Division of Allotments and Allowances, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C.

State of New York, County of New York, ss.

Mary Hunter Smith being duly sworn deposes and says: I am the mother of the above-named enlisted man. Before he entered the service I and his brothers and sister named below were wholly (or partially) dependent upon him: George Smith, 12 years old; Elizabeth Smith, 10 years old; Frank Smith, 9 years old. He contributed an average of $60 per month to our support and received board from me of a value of approximately $15 per month, making a net monthly contribution of $45.

The above-named enlisted man made an allotment to me of $15 per month through the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance under the above allotment number. I hereby make application for a family allowance of $25 per month for myself and the above-named brothers and sister in accordance with the war-risk insurance law.

MARY HUNTER SMITH,
(Mrs. Joseph Walter Smith)
732 West Thirteenth Street,
New York City.

Sworn to before me this 12th day of August, 1918.

JAMES BLACK,
Notary Public, New York County.

If the applicant was not previously dependent, but has recently become so, substitute for the body of the letter other wording, which might read as follows:

Mary Hunter Smith, being duly sworn, deposes and says: I am the mother of the above-named enlisted man. I have become wholly dependent upon him by reason of the death of my only other child, James Smith, upon whom I was wholly dependent for support until his death on August 4, 1918. The above-named enlisted man made an allotment to me of $15 a month through the War-Risk Insurance Bureau under the above allotment number. I hereby make application for a family allowance of $10 per month, in accordance with the war-risk insurance law.

A separate application in the above affidavit form must be filed for each adult for whom an allowance is requested. Thus the man's father can not file an application on behalf of both himself and wife. A separate affidavit from each is required. But a mother may apply for both herself and her minor children, and one award will be made for all.

The affidavit of the dependent in each case must be supported by affidavits of two or more persons who have knowledge of the extent of the habitual contribution or of the fact that dependency has recently arisen. The body of such an affidavit might read as follows:

Henry Jones, of 730 West Thirteenth Street, New York City, being duly sworn, deposes and says: I have known the above-named enlisted man and his family, consisting of his mother, Mary Hunter Smith, his brothers, George Smith and Frank Smith, and his sister, Elizabeth Smith, for five years last past. I know that before the above-named enlisted man entered the service his mother and these brothers and sister were wholly dependent upon him for support. He was employed by me at a wage of $80 per month. I have been informed and veritably believe that he contributed an average of $60 per month to the support of his mother and brothers and sister. He lived at home, and the value of his board was probably $15 per month. I have been informed and veritably believe that his family had no income from any other source except the wages which I paid him.

Notification by Bureau to the War or Navy Department.

If the enlisted man had made an allotment to the Class B dependent through the War or Navy Department to take the place of the form 1-B previously filed, and the family allowance is thereafter granted upon receipt of the affidavits above described, the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance will notify such other allotting office that the bureau will thereafter pay the requisite allotment and the family allowance accompanying it. The payment of the allotment by the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance in that case will begin from the last payment made through the War or Navy Department.

WANTS ARMY OF SAVERS

THE PURPOSE of the War Savings Committee is to create an army of savers who will, by saving, release labor and materials for the use of the Government in the war, and who will lend their savings to the Government to prosecute the war.

PRESIDENT'S PROCLAMATION ON THE ISSUANCE OF PASSPORTS AND OF PERMITS TO ENTER OR LEAVE THE UNITED STATES

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA—A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas by act of Congress approved the 22d day of May, 1918, entitled "An act to prevent in time of war departure from and entry into the United States contrary to the public safety," it is provided as follows:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That when the United States is at war, if the President shall find that the public safety requires that restrictions and prohibitions in addition to those provided otherwise than by this act be imposed upon the departure of persons from and their entry into the United States, and shall make public proclamation thereof, it shall, until otherwise ordered by the President or Congress, be unlawful—

"(a) For any alien to depart from or enter or attempt to depart from or enter the United States except under such reasonable rules, regulations, and orders, and subject to such limitations and exceptions as the President shall prescribe;

"(b) For any person to transport or attempt to transport from or into the United States another person with knowledge or reasonable cause to believe that the departure or entry of such other person is forbidden by this act;

"(c) For any person knowingly to make any false statement in an application for permission to depart from or enter the United States with intent to induce or secure the granting of such permission either for himself or for another;

"(d) For any person knowingly to furnish or attempt to furnish or assist in furnishing to another a permit or evidence of permission to depart or enter not issued and designed for such other person's use;

"(e) For any person knowingly to use or attempt to use any permit or evidence of permission to depart or enter not issued and designed for his use;

"(f) For any person to forge, counterfeit, mutilate, or alter, or cause or procure to be forged, counterfeited, mutilated, or altered, any permit or evidence of permission to depart from or enter the United States;

"(g) For any person knowingly to use or attempt to use or furnish to another for use any false, forged, counterfeited, mutilated, or altered permit, or evidence of permission, or any permit or evidence of permission which, though originally valid, has become or been made void or invalid.

"SEC. 2. That after such proclamation as is provided for by the preceding section has been made and published and while said proclamation is in force, it shall, except as otherwise provided by the President, and subject to such limitations and exceptions as the President may authorize and prescribe, be unlawful for any citizen of the United States to depart from or enter or attempt to depart from or enter the United States unless he bears a valid passport.

"SEC. 3. That any person who shall willfully violate any of the provisions of this act, or of any order or proclamation of the President promulgate, or of any permit, rule, or regulation issued thereunder, shall, upon conviction, be fined not more than $10,000, or, if a natural person, imprisoned for not more than twenty years, or both; and the officer, director, or agent of any corporation who knowingly participates in such violation shall be punished by like fine or imprisonment, or both; and any vehicle or any vessel, together with its or her appurtenances, equipment, tackle, apparel, and furniture, concerned in any such violation, shall be forfeited to the United States.

"SEC. 4. That the term 'United States' as used in this act includes the Canal Zone and all territory and waters, continental or insular, subject to the jurisdiction of the United States.

"The word 'person' as used herein shall be deemed to mean any individual, partnership, association, company, or other unincorporated body of individuals, or corporation, or body politic."

And whereas other provisions relating to departure from and entry into the United States are contained in section 3, subsection (b), of the trading-with-the-enemy act, approved October 6, 1917, and in section 4067 of the Revised Statutes, as amended by the act of April 16, 1918, and sections 4068, 4069, and 4070 of the Revised Statutes, and in the regulations prescribed in the President's proclamations of April 6, 1917; November 16, 1917; December 11, 1917; and April 19, 1918;

And whereas the act of May 20, 1918, authorizes me to coordinate and consolidate executive agencies and bureaus in the interest of economy and more efficient concentration of the Government;

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, acting under and by virtue of the aforesaid authority vested in me, do hereby find and publicly proclaim and declare that the public safety requires that restrictions and prohibitions in addition to those provided otherwise than by the act of May 22, 1918, above mentioned, shall be imposed upon the departure of persons from and their entry into the United States; and I make the following orders thereunder:

1. No citizen of the United States shall receive a passport entitling him to leave or enter the United States unless it shall affirmatively appear that there are adequate reasons for such departure or entry and that such departure or entry is not prejudicial to the interests of the United States.

2. No alien shall receive permission to depart from or enter the United States unless it shall affirmatively appear that there is reasonable necessity for such departure or entry and that such departure or entry is not prejudicial to the interests of the United States.

3. The provisions of this proclamation and the rules and regulations promulgated in pursuance hereof shall not be held to suspend or supersede in any respect, except as herein expressly provided the President's proclamations of April 6, 1917; November 16, 1917; December 11, 1917, and April 19, 1918, above referred to; nor shall anything contained herein be construed to suspend or supersede any rules or regulations issued under the Chinese exclusion law or the immigration laws except as herein expressly provided; but the provisions hereof shall, subject to the provisos above mentioned, be regarded as additional to such rules and regulations. Compliance with this proclamation and the rules and regulations promulgated in pursuance hereof shall not exempt any individual from the duty of complying with any statute, proclamation, order, rule, or regulation [illegible] referred to herein.

4. I hereby designate the Secretary of State as the official who shall grant, or in whose name shall be granted, permission to aliens to depart from or enter the United States; I reaffirm sections 25, 26, and 27 of the Executive order of October 12, 1917, vesting in the Secretary of State the administration of the provisions [illegible] section 3, subsection (b), of the trading with enemy act; I transfer to the Secretary of State the Executive administration of regulations 9 and 10 of the President's proclamation of April 6, 1917; [illegible] regulation 15 of the President's proclamation of November 16, 1917, and of regulations 1 and 2 of the President's proclamation of December 1, 1917, and the executive administration of the aforesaid regulations as extended by the President's proclamation of April 19, 1918, said executive administration heretofore having been delegated to the Attorney General under dates of April 6, 1917; November 16, 1917; December 11, 1917, and April 19, 1918. The Rules and Regulations made by the Secretary of the Treasury, as authorized by Title II, section 1, of the espionage act approved June 15, 1917, and by the Executive order of December 3, 1917, shall be superseded by this proclamation and the rules and regulations promulgated in pursuance hereof in so far as they are inconsistent therewith.

I hereby direct all departments of the Government to cooperate with the Secretary of State in the execution of his duties under this proclamation and the rules and regulations promulgated in pursuance hereof. They shall upon his request make available to him for that purpose the services of their respective officials and agents. The Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of War, the Attorney General, the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of Commerce, and the Secretary of Labor shall, at the request of the Secretary of State, each appoint a representative to render to the Secretary of State, or his representative, such assistance and advice as he may desire respecting the administration of this proclamation and of the rules and regulations aforesaid.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the District of Columbia, [illegible]

Rules Regarding Permits to Enter and Leave United States

5th day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eighteen, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and forty-third.

WOODROW WILSON.

By the President:
ROBERT LANSING,
Secretary of State.

Executive Order.

RULES AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE ISSUANCE OF PERMITS TO ENTER AND LEAVE THE UNITED STATES.

Supplemental to the presidential proclamation of August, 1918, and by virtue of the authority set forth therein, I hereby prescribe the following rules and regulations governing departure from and entry into the United States:

SECTION 1. The present system of controlling entry into and departure from the United States by alien enemies and other persons, as administered by the Department of State, the Department of the Treasury, the Department of Justice, the Department of Commerce, and the Department of Labor, is hereby confirmed and established by virtue of the authority vested in me as aforesaid, and shall continue in full force and effect in the continental United States as defined herein until 6 o'clock in the forenoon of September 15, 1918, and in the outlying possessions of the United States until such time or times as the Secretary of State shall designate, when the following rules and regulations shall become operative and shall supersede all rules, regulations, and orders of the present system inconsistent with them; but the Secretary of State may direct at any time subsequent to the date hereof that seamen be kept on their vessels. (See sec. 10 (c), infra.) The Secretary of State is hereby authorized, in his discretion, to prescribe exceptions to these rules and regulations governing the entry into and departure from the United States of citizens and subjects of the nations associated with the United States in the prosecution of the war.

TITLE I.—Definitions.

SEC. 2. The term "United States" as defined in the act of May 22, 1918, and as used herein includes the Canal Zone and all territory and waters, continental and insular, subject to the jurisdiction of the United States.

SEC. 3. The term "continental United States" as used herein includes the territory of the several States of the United States and Alaska.

SEC. 4. The term "departure from the United States" as used herein includes, in addition to any entry whatever upon foreign territory or waters, any trip or journey on or over (1) the Great Lakes or their connecting waters, (2) any rivers or other waters coinciding with or covering the boundary of the United States, or (3) tidal waters beyond the shore line of the United States, said shore line being hereby defined as the line of seacoast and the shores of all waters of the United States and its territorial possessions connected with the high seas and navigable by ocean-going vessels: Provided, however, That no trip or journey upon a public ferry having both terminal in the United States and not touching foreign territory or waters shall be deemed a departure from the United States.

SEC. 5. The term "passport" as used herein includes any document in the nature of a passport issued by the United States or by a foreign Government, which shows the identity and nationality of the individual for whose use it was issued and bears his signed and certified photograph.

SEC. 6. The granting of a "permit" or "permission" to leave or enter the United States as the terms are used herein shall be construed to include the granting of a license under section 3 (b) of the trading-with-the-enemy act whenever such license is essential to the lawful transportation of the person to whom the permit is granted. Wherever it is provided explicitly or by implication that any person may depart from or enter the United States without a permit or permission under these regulations, such provision of itself shall be construed as a license under said section 3 (b) authorizing the transportation of such persons within the limits covered by the provision.

SEC. 7. The term "seaman" as used herein includes, in addition to the persons ordinarily described thereby, seagoing fishermen and all owners, masters, officers, and members of crews and other persons employed on vessels which for purposes of business or pleasure cruise on tidal waters beyond the shore line or on the Great Lakes.

SEC. 8. The term "hostile aliens" includes (a) all persons who are alien enemies as now or hereafter defined by statute, or by proclamation of the President; and (b) all subjects or citizens of enemy or ally of enemy nations.

TITLE 2.—Limitations upon and exceptions to the application of the act of May 22, 1918.

SEC. 9. The following general limitations upon and exceptions to the application of the act of May 22, 1918, are authorized and prescribed:

"(a) No passports or permits to depart from or enter the United States shall be required of persons other than hostile aliens traveling between ports of the continental United States on vessels making no intermediate calls at foreign or noncontinental ports. Hostile aliens must obtain permits for all departures from and entries into the United States.

"(b) No passports or permits to depart from or enter the United States shall be required of persons other than hostile aliens traveling between points in the continental United States and points in Canada or Bermuda, or passing through Canada on a trip between two points in the continental United States, except as provided and required by title 3 of these regulations. This exception is not applicable to persons going from the continental United States via Canada to other places outside of the continental United States. Persons other than hostile aliens starting from Newfoundland for the United States shall not be required to obtain visas or verifications from the American consul in Newfoundland. (As to hostile aliens, see 9 (a), supra.)

"(c) No passports or permits to depart from or enter the United States shall be required of persons in or attached to the military or naval forces of the United States or of any nation associated with the United States in the prosecution of the war: Provided, That such persons when in or attached to the military or naval forces of a nation so associated with the United States shall be identified and vouched for to the Secretary of State by a duly authorized representative of such nation: And provided further, That when persons in or attached to such military or naval forces travel separately or otherwise than in regular commands they shall bear certificates issued by the War or Navy Department of the United States or by a duly authorized representative of an associated nation, adequately establishing the identity of the bearers and their connection with the military or naval forces aforesaid. Nothing herein shall be construed to prevent a citizen of the United States, if a member of or attached to the military or naval forces of any country, from entering or leaving the United States provided he bears a valid passport in lieu of the certificate of identification above described. All such departures shall, however, be subject to the requirements of title 3 of these regulations. The limitations and exceptions aforesaid are subject to the provisions of section 38 hereof."

SEC. 10. The following limitations upon and exceptions to the application of section 1, subsection (a) of the act of May 22, 1918, are prescribed:

"(a) Aliens need not present permits in the usual form for travel across the Mexican border provided that they bear valid permits to cross and recross the border at specified points issued by an immigrant inspector. In applying for these border permits they shall fill out such forms, furnish such photographs, and answer such inquiries as the immigrant inspector shall require. The special permits so issued shall be valid for travel across the Mexican border for such limited period and for passage across the border at such specifically defined points as the issuing inspectors shall note on the permits. Except as otherwise provided by the Secretary of State, such permits shall be issued only to persons residing within 10 miles of the border and shall be valid for travel only to points not more than 10 miles beyond the border. Aliens entering Mexico with border permits must have such permits visaed by a diplomatic or consular representative of the United States in Mexico before returning to the United States unless the Secretary of State shall otherwise provide. Hostile aliens shall not be given permits to cross the Mexican border without special authorization from the Secretary of State.

"(b) Hostile aliens residing in Canada or the United States may secure special permits allowing them to cross the border between the two countries by making application therefor to the representative of the Bureau of Immigration of the Department of Labor stationed nearest their place of residence. In applying for such permits they shall fill out such forms, furnish such photographs and answer such inquiries as the official receiving the application shall require. The special permits so issued shall be valid for such limited period, for passage across the border at such specifically defined points, and for such number of crossings as the issuing officials shall note on the permits.

"(c) Aliens who are seamen on vessels arriving at ports of the United States and who desire to land in the country shall apply to an immigrant inspector. They shall submit to such immigrant inspector satisfactory evidence of their nationality and furnish such photographs and execute such forms and applications as the immigrant inspector shall require. The immigrant inspector may thereupon issue identity cards authorizing such seamen to land in the United States, unless the Secretary of State directs that they be kept on their vessels.

"(d) Alien seamen desiring to sail from the United States shall submit satisfactory evidence of nationality to the United States customs inspectors stationed at the port of departure. If such applicants have landed in the United States since the date on which these regulations became effective at their port of arrival they shall further submit the identity cards issued by the immigrant inspector permitting them to land in the country. Said identity cards shall be stamped by the customs officials, if permission is given the applicants to depart, and such cards so stamped shall be the evidence of such permission. In case an applicant for permission to sail under this paragraph has not entered the United States since these regulations became effective, he shall apply to a collector of customs for an identity card and permission to sail. In making such application he shall submit satisfactory evidence of his nationality and furnish such photographs and execute such forms and applications as the collector of customs shall require.

"(e) Identity cards issued to alien seamen as provided by the foregoing paragraphs (c) and (d) shall be retained by the seamen to whom they are issued and used by the holders from time to time as they land in and sail from the United States. An alien seaman bearing such card shall have the same validated for landing or sailing by the immigration or customs authorities respectively on each occasion when he applies for permission to land at or sail from a United States port.

"(f) Aliens passing through the United States en route between two foreign points and not remaining in the United States more than 30 days shall make application for permission to depart through the immigration official acting as control officer at the point where they enter the United States. Such permission, if granted, will be given by the official acting as control officer at the designated point of departure. Nothing herein shall be construed as requiring a permit for departure from a transient alien in case such permit would not have been necessary if the journey to his final destination had commenced in the United States. A transient will be required to depart from the United States at the earliest date practicable. He shall submit to the immigrant inspector his itinerary to the port of departure, which shall be by the most direct route reasonably available, and upon obtaining approval of the same he shall proceed immediately to the port of departure. Upon arrival at said port he shall report forthwith to the customs officers. For all deviations and delays special permission must be obtained from the Secretary of State.

"(g) No permits to depart from or enter the United States shall be required of officials or representatives of foreign countries duly accredited to the United States or a friendly country, provided that such persons bear valid passports, and provided further that the Department of State is notified in advance of their intended entry or departure and consents thereto. Such officials, however, when desiring to enter the United States shall have their passports visaed by a diplomatic or consular officer of the United States in the country from which they come and in the country from which they embark for or enter the United States; and such officials desiring to depart from the United States shall have their passports visaed by the Department of State."

Nothing in the foregoing paragraphs (a) to (g), inclusive, shall be construed to prevent the entry or departure of an alien at the Mexican or Canadian border, of an alien seaman at a United States port, or of a transient alien at any point, provided he bears a valid permit for such entry or departure issued in accordance with title 6 or title 7 hereof.

SEC. 11. The following limitations upon and exceptions to the application of section 2 of the act of May 22, 1918, are authorized and prescribed:

"(a) Citizens of the United States traveling between United States ports not within the continental United States, or between such ports and ports within the continental United States, on vessels making no intermediate calls at foreign ports other than those of Canada or Bermuda shall not be required to bear passports, provided that they have received from the immigrant inspector at the port of departure United States citizens' identity cards. Applicants for such cards shall supply such photographs and execute such forms and applications as the immigrant inspectors require. When applications for such cards are made in dependencies of the United States where no immigrant inspectors are stationed they shall be made to the governors of such dependencies or their representatives duly appointed for the purpose, provided that employees of the Panama Canal and the Panama Railroad Co. and members of their families, civilian employees of the United States and members of their families, and the families of members of the Army and Navy traveling between the continental United States and the Panama Canal Zone may carry identity certificates issued by the Panama Canal in lieu of passports or identity cards issued by immigration officials.

"(b) Citizens of the United States traveling across the Mexican border shall not be required, unless otherwise ordered by the Secretary of State, to bear passports provided that they have received citizens' identity cards from immigrant inspectors at the points where they depart from or enter the United States. Such identity cards shall be applied for in accordance with the preceding paragraph (a). Except as otherwise provided by the Secretary of State, such identity cards shall be issued only to persons residing within 10 miles of the border and shall be valid for travel to points not more than 10 miles beyond the border. Citizens entering Mexico without passports and with identity cards must have such cards verified by a diplomatic or consular representative of the United States in Mexico before return to the United States, unless the Secretary of State shall otherwise provide.

"(c) Citizens of the United States who are seamen upon vessels entering or leaving ports of the United States shall not be required to bear passports provided that they bear seamen's certificates of American citizenship issued by collectors of the ports of the United States as provided for in section 4588 of the Revised Statutes. Citizens applying for such certificates shall supply such photographs and execute such forms and applications as the collectors shall require. No identity card other than a passport or a seamen's certificate shall be issued to a seaman who is a citizen of the United States."

Nothing in the foregoing paragraphs (a), (b), and (c) shall be construed to prevent the use of a valid passport by any seaman or other citizen referred to in said paragraphs in lieu of a seamen's certificate or identity card as described therein.

TITLE 3.—General regulations [illegible] liable to military service.

SEC. 12. No person registered or enrolled or subject to registry or enrollment for military service in the United States shall depart from the United States without the previous consent of the Secretary of War or such person or persons as he may appoint to give such consent. The Secretary of State shall issue no passport or permit entitling such person to depart without securing satisfactory evidence of such consent. Reference should be had to section 156, Selective Service Regulations, and amendments thereto.

TITLE 4.—American citizens—Departure and entry.

ISSUE OF PASSPORTS.

SEC. 13. The "Rules governing the granting and issuing of passports in the United States," as established on January 24, 1917, are continued in force without change.

VERIFICATION OF PASSPORTS IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

SEC. 14. Passports are not valid for return to the United States unless verified in the country from which the holder starts on his journey to the United States and further verified in the foreign country from which he embarks for or enters the United States. No fee shall be collected by diplomatic or consular officers of the United States for or in connection with such verification.

TITLE 5.—Permit agents.

ALIENS' PERMITS TO DEPART AND ENTER.

SEC. 15. The officials designated in the appendix hereto are hereby appointed permit agents for the purpose of receiving from aliens applications for permits to depart from the United States. No permit agents have been designated in Tutuila, Manua, Guam, or Wake Island,

Rules Regarding Permits to Enter and Leave United States

as it is believed that travel from these points will not necessitate such appointments. For the time being persons desiring to leave any of these insular possessions may do so without securing permission hereunder.

SEC. 16. Representatives of the Bureau of Immigration of the Department of Labor, stationed in Canada or on the Canadian border, and all diplomatic and consular officers of the United States in foreign countries are hereby appointed permit agents for the purpose of receiving from aliens applications for permits to enter the United States.

SEC. 17. The Secretary of State is authorized to designate and appoint additional permit agents from time to time as he may deem advisable, and to revoke their appointments or the appointments of any permit agent aforementioned. All permit agents hereby or hereafter appointed are hereby authorized to administer any oath or affirmation required in these rules and regulations or in any amendment hereof or addition hereto. All persons empowered to issue special permits referred to in sections 10 and 11 hereof are hereby authorized to administer to applicants any oaths or affirmations deemed necessary in connection with their applications.

TITLE 6.—Permits to depart.

SEC. 18. Except in cases for which special regulations are hereinbefore provided, any alien desiring to depart from the United States shall apply for a permit to the permit agent located nearest to the last residence of the applicant. Any permit agent is authorized to receive an application to depart if it appears that the applicant would be caused unreasonable hardship or delay if required to apply to the permit agent nearest his last residence.

SEC. 19. Each applicant shall submit to the permit agent, for transmission to Washington, if required, a passport issued for his use by the Government to which he owes allegiance or by a duly authorized diplomatic or consular officer thereof, or of the country representing in the United States the interests of his country. Such passports must have been issued, renewed, or visaed by a duly authorized representative of said Government, or of the country representing its interest in the United States, within 10 days prior to the time of the application. Aliens who by reason of doubtful nationality, lack of nationality, or any other cause, are unable to secure passports may be granted permission to depart in the discretion of the Secretary of State.

SEC. 20. If the application is made to a permit agent located east of the Mississippi River, the application shall be made at least 14 and not more than 28 days before the date set for departure. If the permit agent is located west of the Mississippi River, the application shall be made at least 18 days and not more than 28 days before the date set for departure. In special cases additional time will be required for adequate investigation.

SEC. 21. Applications for permission to depart from the United States shall be made upon forms provided for the purpose by the permit agents and shall be executed by applicants according to the instructions printed thereon. Substantial copies of such forms and instructions are contained in the appendix to these regulations.

SEC. 22. Applications shall be executed in triplicate. All copies shall be personally signed and sworn to by the applicant before the permit agent. The permit agent shall fill in the name of the applicant on the left-hand margin of the application, and also the blanks for applicant's description. The remainder of the application need not be filled out by or in the presence of the permit agent. If the applicant has conscientious scruples against taking an oath he may make affirmation to the truth of his statements and answers in the application.

SEC. 23. Each application shall be accompanied by four unmounted photographs of the applicant, not smaller than 2 by 2 inches nor larger than 3 by 3 inches in size, on thin paper with a light background. If the applicant is able to write, he shall sign all four photographs across the front thereof so as not to obscure the features.

SEC. 24. A married woman accompanying her husband, or a child or children under 14 years of age accompanying either parent, may be included in the permit granted to the husband or parent and in such case will not be required to make a separate application. Photographs of persons so included in a husband's or parent's application must be furnished. Group photographs may be used in such cases.

SEC. 25. Every applicant shall furnish to the permit agent, in answer to the printed questions on the application blank, any information which may reasonably be required for the purpose of passing upon his application or for ascertaining the correctness of the particulars stated thereon or otherwise.

SEC. 26. Upon complying with these regulations, an applicant shall receive from the permit agent a card showing that the application for permission to depart has been filed. This card is not a permit to depart from the United States but is merely a receipt for the application, and for the passport if that has been retained.

SEC. 27. Within seven days prior to the proposed date of departure from the United States, the applicant shall again appear before the permit agent who received his application. At this time, or as soon thereafter as his case is decided, he shall receive back his passport and, if permission to depart from the United States is granted, the permit agent shall affix applicant's photograph to the receipt card previously issued and shall note thereon the fact that such permission has been given. The card then becomes a provisional permit to depart from the United States and must be preserved carefully for presentation to the proper officials at the point of departure. Such provisional permit is subject to revocation at any time without notice.

SEC. 28. An applicant desiring to leave the place where he makes application for permission to depart before receiving notice of the final action may arrange with the permit agent at the time of application that the provisional permit to depart, if granted, shall be given through a permit agent at some other point. The application receipt card, in such case, shall contain a note to the effect that final action is to be taken by another designated permit agent. In such case, the applicant shall apply to the permit agent thus designated for notice of decision.

SEC. 29. A similar request for a change of permit agent may be made subsequently to the filing of the application. A request so made may be received by any permit agent, but will not be granted without express authorization from the Secretary of State.

SEC. 30. Permits to depart from the United States will be granted to applicants by or under the authority of the Secretary of State when it shall appear that there is reasonable necessity for such departure and when, upon investigation, such departure is deemed to be not prejudicial to the interests of the United States.

TITLE 7.—Permits to enter.

SEC. 31. Subject to the exceptions and limitations hereinbefore set forth no alien shall be allowed to enter the United States unless he bears a passport duly visaed in accordance with the terms of the joint order of the Department of State and the Department of Labor issued July 26, 1917. Said joint order and the amendments thereto and instructions issued thereunder are hereby confirmed and made part hereof by reference, so far as their provisions are not inconsistent with these rules and regulations or with the President's proclamation of August, 1918. A copy of said joint order is inserted in the appendix to these regulations.

SEC. 32. In accordance with the provisions of the presidential proclamation of August, 1918, a visa will be granted only when it shall appear that there is reasonable necessity for entering the United States and when, upon investigation, such entry is deemed to be not prejudicial to the interests of the United States.

SEC. 33. As a restriction additional to those provided by said joint order hostile aliens shall not enter the United States from Canada unless they either secure visas in the manner prescribed by the joint order or secure permits in the manner prescribed by title 2, section 10, paragraph (b) of these regulations.

SEC. 34. An alien's passport duly visaed, together with a copy of the declaration required by said joint order, shall constitute a permit to enter the United States within the meaning of the act of May 22, 1918.

SEC. 35. Diplomatic and consular officers of the United States are authorized to collect the following fees:

For visaing each foreign passport (not including passports of officials)	$1.00
For preparing visa declaration and administering oath	1.00
For certifying to a copy of a visa declaration previously taken	1.00

TITLE 8.—Control at point of entry and departure.

SEC. 36. The actual control of persons departing from the United States at all seaboard and lake ports shall be exercised by the representatives of the customs service of the Department of the Treasury, who shall act as control officers for this purpose. The actual control of persons departing from the United States by land and of all persons entering the United States shall be exercised by the representatives of the Bureau of Immigration of the Department of Labor, who shall act as control officers for this purpose. The Secretary of State may from time to time designate other persons to act as control officers at any place. In all cases where passports or permits to enter or depart are required under these regulations each traveler before entering or departing from the United States shall present his passport or permit to the control officer at the point of entry or departure. He shall also answer such questions and undergo such examination as the control officer shall direct. If, as the result of such questioning and examinations, the control officer decides that the entry or departure of the holder of the passport or permit would be prejudicial to the interests of the United States, such person shall not be allowed to enter or depart. Under such circumstances the control officer shall immediately notify the Secretary of State by telegraph of his decision and shall, as soon as practicable, and in no case later than two days after such decision, forward to the Secretary of State a full report giving the reasons for detention and a full transcript of any testimony or information bearing on such a decision.

SEC. 37. If the control officer shall be satisfied that the permit and passport are valid and regular and have been properly visaed, and that the holder presenting them is the person described therein, that neither of them has been altered or tampered with, and that the holder's departure or entry is not prejudicial to the interests of the United States, he shall allow the holder to depart from or enter the United States.

SEC. 38. In addition to the control as above set forth of persons generally required to secure permission to depart from or enter the United States, control may be exercised over individuals belonging to classes of persons generally allowed to depart or enter without permits or passports. A control officer may temporarily prevent the departure or entry of any such individual, in case he considers such departure or entry prejudicial to the interests of the United States. Such action shall be immediately reported to the Secretary of State with a full statement of the reasons therefor. An individual so prevented from departing or entering shall not be entitled to the benefit of any of the limitations or exceptions contained in section 9 hereof, and his departure or entry is forbidden unless, if an alien, he obtains permission from the Secretary of State, or, if a United States citizen, he obtains a valid passport.

TITLE 9.—Additional regulations.

SEC. 39. The Secretary of State is authorized to make regulations on the subject of departure from and entry into the United States additional to these rules and regulations, and not inconsistent with them.

WOODROW WILSON.

THE WHITE HOUSE,
August 8, 1918.

The State government of Australia has guaranteed 83 cents per bushel for wheat, and the Commonwealth Government has allowed an additional 12 cents per bushel for the 1918-19 harvest, making a total of 95 cents per bushel.

ACT AUTHORIZING THE ISSUE OF ADDITIONAL WAR BONDS

[PUBLIC—No. 192—65TH CONGRESS.]
[H. R. 12580.]

An Act to authorize an additional issue of bonds to meet expenditures for the national security and defense, and, for the purpose of assisting in the prosecution of the war, to extend additional credit to foreign Governments, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section one of the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended by the Third Liberty Bond Act, is hereby further amended by striking out the figures "$12,000,000,000" and inserting in lieu thereof the figures "$20,000,000,000."

SEC. 2. That section two of the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended by the Third Liberty Bond Act, is hereby further amended by striking out the figures "$5,500,000,000" and inserting in lieu thereof the figures "$7,000,000,000."

SEC. 3. That notwithstanding the provisions of the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended by the Third Liberty Bond Act, or of the War Finance Corporation Act, bonds and certificates of indebtedness of the United States payable in any foreign money or foreign moneys, and bonds of the War Finance Corporation payable in any foreign money or foreign moneys exclusively or in the alternative, shall, if and to the extent expressed in such bonds at the time of their issue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, while beneficially owned by a nonresident alien individual, or by a foreign corporation, partnership, or association, not engaged in business in the United States, be exempt both as to principal and interest from any and all taxation now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any State, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority.

SEC. 4. That any incorporated bank or trust company designated as a depositary by the Secretary of the Treasury under the authority conferred by section eight of the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended by the Third Liberty Bond Act, which gives security for such deposits as, and to amounts, by him prescribed, may, upon and subject to such terms and conditions as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe, act as a fiscal agent of the United States in connection with the operations of selling and delivering any bonds, certificates of indebtedness or war savings certificates of the United States.

SEC. 5. That the short title of this Act shall be "Fourth Liberty Bond Act."

Approved, July 9, 1918.

Health Conditions at Army Camps Within the United States as Reported to the Surgeon General for Week Ending August 9

The War Department authorizes the following:

Herewith is a detailed report on the health conditions of troops in the United States, including Porto Rico, for the week ending August 9. The report of the Division of Sanitation to the Surgeon General of the Army for that week is as follows:

1. General.—Admission and noneffective rates both show a slight increase as compared with those of last week. The death rate for disease (3.18) remains low.

Measles show a slight increase in the number of new cases. There is a sharp increase in the number of cases of venereal disease in the divisional camps and cantonments, 5,507 being reported, as compared with 3,760 for the previous week. This increase is due to the large number of new men recently inducted into service. Among colored registrants something over 30 per cent and among whites about 8 per cent are venereally infected when brought into camp.

There were 260 cases of pneumonia from all camps, as compared with 207 last week.

Low Rate at Camp Cody.

2. Divisional camps.—Camp Cody continues to maintain the lowest sick rates of all the camps of this group (admissions 449.3, noneffective 17.9). Camps Beauregard and Sheridan lead in measles prevalence, with 42 and 22 new cases, respectively; Camp Greenleaf showed an incidence of 19 new cases. Camp Cody leads in the number of new cases of pneumonia (11). Sixty-two new cases of malaria are reported from all camps of this group, 20 at Camp Shelby, and 18 at Camp Beauregard.

3. Cantonments.—Camp Grant, with a command of approximately 52,000, continues to maintain the best health record of all the larger camps and stations (admissions 409.2, noneffective 11.8, deaths 4). Camps Gordon, Travis, and Custer report the highest sick rates of this group. One hundred and seventy-nine cases of pneumonia are reported, as compared with 198 for last week; of this number, Camp Gordon reports 30, Camp Travis 22, and Camp Pike 20.

4. Departmental and other troops.—This group shows the lowest rate for the week. There is no unusual prevalence of disease at any of the stations of this group calling for comment.

[1] First figure in this column for each camp gives the total number of new cases during the week; the figure in parenthesis is the number of those cases which were contracted during the week by men in that camp's command at the time of contracting the disease; the difference, therefore, is the number of cases first reported during the week which were either (a) cases brought from civilian life by recruits, or (b) cases brought by men transferred from other camps to the camp under which the case is reported, or (c) old cases which have previously evaded detection. An interrogation point signifies that the report from that camp did not segregate cases contracted in camp from other cases.

[2] Per 1,000.

NOTE.—Six new cases of typhoid fever also reported from Camp Sheridan, 2 from Wadsworth, 1 from Jackson, 1 from Lee, 1 from Meade, 1 from Merritt.

Praised for Saving Lives of Men on Burning Ship

Secretary Daniels has commended William E. King, seaman, and Clarence F. Ready, machinist's mate, second class, United States Naval Reserve Force, for their bravery and initiative in taking the port launch of the U. S. S. Iris to the side of the burning Spanish steamship Serantes, July 13, 1918, and rescuing from the forecastle of the burning vessel seven men who were hemmed in by flames, and who were too panic-stricken to jump into the water.

The trip to the vessel was through an area of burning gasoline, and the commanding officer reports that the conduct of King and Ready during this time was cool and courageous.

King enlisted at Norfolk, Va., October 4, 1917. Mother, Mrs. Mary King, 225 Catholic Street, Baltimore, Md.

Ready enlisted at Norfolk, Va., October 4, 1917. Brother, Solomon Ready, Barnwell, S. C.

Important Notice to U. S. Purchasing Agents

Purchasing agents for the various Government departments and the special United States war administrations are earnestly reminded to send to the Official U. S. Bulletin at the earliest possible moment all copy for bids to be advertised and purchase awards, in order that these may be promptly and correctly printed in the Bulletin in accordance with the orders of the Secretary of War and other heads of departments.

The task of preparing this copy for publication, with a view to absolute correctness and continuity, is a considerable one, but, with the cooperation of the purchasing agencies, should result in a great help, not only to the departments themselves, but to bidders throughout the country, all of whom, through the medium of the Official Bulletin, are desirous of keeping informed of the Government's needs.

MR. M'ADOO'S SUGGESTIONS TO U. S. RAILROAD EMPLOYEES ON THEIR DUTY TO THE PUBLIC

COURTESY IS ALWAYS AN ASSET

Director General Reminds All Transportation Men That Good Nature Costs Nothing and Helps Both the Worker and the Traveler.

U. S. RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION,
Washington, D. C., August 18, 1918.

GENERAL ORDER No. 40.

To all employees in the railroad service of the United States:

Complaints have reached me from time to time that employees are not treating the public with as much consideration and courtesy under Government control of the railroads as under private control. I do not know how much courtesy was accorded the public under private control, and I have no basis, therefore, for accurate comparison. I hope, however, that the reports of discourtesy under Government administration of the railroads are incorrect, or that they are at least confined to a relatively few cases. Whatever may be the merits of these complaints, they draw attention to a question which is of the utmost importance in the management of the railroads.

For many years it was popularly believed that "the public be damned" policy was the policy of the railroads under private control. Such a policy is indefensible either under private control or Government control. It would be particularly indefensible under public control when railroad employees are the direct servants of the public. "The public be damned" policy will in no circumstances be tolerated on the railroads under Government control. Every employee of the railroad should take pride in serving the public courteously and efficiently. Courtesy cost nothing and when it is dispensed, it makes friends of the public and adds to the self-respect of the employee.

My attention has also been called to the fact that employees have sometimes offered as an excuse for their own shortcomings, or as a justification for delayed trains or other difficulties the statement that "Uncle Sam is running the railroads now" or "These are McAdoo's orders," etc. Nothing could be more reprehensible than statements of this character, and nothing could be more hurtful to the success of the Railroad Administration or to the welfare of railroad employees themselves. No doubt, those who have made them have done so thoughtlessly in most instances, but the harm is just as great

Naval Vessel Picks Up 26 Survivors from Bark Sunk Saturday by U-Boat

The Navy Department is informed that a naval vessel picked up 2 boats carrying 26 survivors from the Norwegian bark Nordhav, which they reported was sunk by a submarine at noon Saturday, August 17, about 120 miles southeast of Cape Henry. This accounts for all the crew of the Nordhav.

AGREEMENT ON COVENANT WITH U. S. WAR CONTRACTORS

President Approves Plan to Protect Business Against Brokerage Agents.

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

The President has agreed with the Secretary of War that the covenant to be inserted in all war supply contracts against the operation of contract brokers and other illegitimate business agents shall not be used in such a way as to be harmful to long-established business customs or to curtail industry.

General Staff Ruling.

In accordance with this agreement the General Staff has ruled that exceptions to the covenant will be allowed only in classes of cases first authorized by the Superior Board of Contract Review after finding that the best interests of the Government require such exceptions.

The first ruling of the board covers manufacturers of cotton, woolen, and worsted and silk textile industries. The board has decided that there shall be added to the covenant a clause which shall exempt the manufacturer who handles his products through a selling agency or agencies which have handled such products prior to and since April 1, 1917.

Contracts With Supply Bureau.

Manufacturers and dealers who have the required supplies in stock may make contracts with the supply bureaus. Exceptions to this rule will be allowed only in classes of cases first authorized by the board of contract review of the supply bureau affected after finding that the best interests of the Government require such exceptions. The rulings of these boards are subject to the authority of the superior board.

PLANS TO STABILIZE OIL PRICES AND TO INSURE A STEADY FLOW IN PRODUCTION OF PETROLEUM

AIMED TO STOP RADICAL CHANGES

Fuel Administration Program Is Expected to End Practice by Competitors of Bidding for Crude Output—Fixing of Fair Differentials.

The Fuel Administration issues the following:

A plan has just been made effective through the cooperation of the National Petroleum War Service Committee and United States Fuel Administration that is intended to result in stabilizing the price of crude petroleum both to large and small refiners and maintaining the flow of crude oil in its present channels. It is believed that the arrangement will prevent any radical change in consumers' prices of gasoline and other oil products.

In Hands of Committees.

The details are to be handled by committees on conciliation and cooperation of the various producing fields. It has been the custom for various refiners to bid against each other for crude production by paying premiums in excess of the base rate for oil as established by the larger pipe line companies. This has resulted in the diversion of oil from one refinery to another and in many instances the payment of excessive prices for crude oil. It has led to considerable disorganization and for some months the Fuel Administration has sought to correct these practices. The greatest difficulty arising from this situation was experienced in the mid-continent field.

Conference With Producers.

Mark L. Requa, general director of the oil division of the United States Fuel Administration, recently met the producers and refiners of the Mid-Continent field in meetings at Tulsa, Okla., and Houston, Tex. As a result of his suggestions the producers and refiners named from their own members committees to adjust any local dispute which, in the event they were unable to settle, it was agreed would be referred to the national petroleum war service committee. Should the national committee be unable to adjust the dispute referred to it then appeal may be had to the Fuel Administration.

Provides for Premium.

The plan provides generally for maximum premiums to be paid for oil of varying qualities in the various fields throughout the United States. It arranges, so far as is practicable, for the flow of oil in existing channels and assures protection as to price and supplies for small refiners. At the same time it will prevent any radical change in consumers' prices due to the competition which has influenced such prices.

The Fuel Administration believes that by leaving the settlement of all questions as to premiums and diversion of crude oil to the voluntary agreement of the industry itself the harmonious relations between the various interests will be maintained.

Thought Fair to All.

It is believed this plan will assure the producer a satisfactory price for his oil; the independent refiner protection against the higher bids of his competitor who would pay a greater premium and that the flow of production will be maintained without interruption or change. Thus the oil industry is contributing to the war-work program by eliminating conditions which have arisen out of the premium practice and through the harmonious adjustment of such differences as have existed in the past.

UNLAWFUL TO REPRODUCE WAR SAVINGS SECURITIES

The National War Savings Committee issues the following:

The reproduction of war-savings securities either in whole or in part is forbidden by the statute covering the prohibition of the reproduction of Government securities. This matter has been before the Chief of the Secret Service at various times, and his rulings have been consistently clear on this subject. The law reads:

"The words 'obligation of other security of the United States' shall be held to mean all bonds, certificates of indebtedness, national bank currency, coupons, United States notes, Treasury notes, gold certificates, silver certificates, fractional notes, certificates of deposit, bills, checks, or drafts for money, drawn by or upon authorized officers of the United States, stamps and other representatives of value of whatever denomination which have been or may be issued under any act of Congress."

"* * * Whoever shall print, photograph, or in any other manner make or execute or cause to be printed, photographed, made, or executed, or shall aid in printing, photographing, making, or executing any engraving, photograph, print, or impression in the likeness of any such obligation or other security, or any part thereof, or shall sell any such engraving, photograph, print, or impression, except to the United States, or shall bring into the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, from any foreign place, any such engraving, photograph, print, or impression, except by direction of some proper officer of the United States; or whoever shall have or retain in his control or possession, after a distinctive paper has been adopted by the Secretary of the Treasury for the obligations and other securities of the United States, any similar paper adapted to the making of any such obligation, or other security, except under the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury or some other proper officer of the United States, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than fifteen years, or both."

New Order by Secretary Daniels Prohibiting Alcohol at Navy Camps Except When Used as Medicine

Secretary Daniels has issued a new general order against the selling or serving of intoxicating liquors to officers and enlisted men of the Navy, which, in addition to the previous regulations issued, covering restricted zones around naval camps and stations, contains the following provision:

"Outside of said zones alcoholic liquor, including beer, ale, and wine, either alone or with any other article, shall not, directly or indirectly, be sold, bartered, given, served, or knowingly delivered to any officer or member of the naval forces within the United States, their territories or possessions, or any place under their control, except when administered for medical purposes by or under the direction of a regularly licensed physician or medical officer of the United States."

The order reads:

NAVY DEPARTMENT,
Washington, D. C., Aug. 16, 1918.

General Order No. 412:

1. Section 12 of the selective-draft act, approved May 18, 1917 (Public, No. 12), reads as follows:

"That the President of the United States, as Commander in Chief of the Army, is authorized to make such regulations governing the prohibition of alcoholic liquors in or near military camps and to the officers and enlisted men of the Army as he may from time to time deem necessary or advisable: Provided, That no person, corporation, partnership, or association shall sell, supply, or have in his or its possession any intoxicating or spirituous liquors at any military station, cantonment, camp, fort, post, officers' or enlisted men's club, which is being used at the time for military purposes under this act, but the Secretary of War may make regulations permitting the sale and use of intoxicating liquors for medicinal purposes. It shall be unlawful to sell any intoxicating liquor, including beer, ale or wine, to any officer or member of the military forces while in uniform, except as herein provided. Any person, corporation, partnership, or association violating the provisions of this section or the regulations made thereunder shall, unless otherwise punishable under the Articles of War, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than twelve months, or both."

2. This section is amended by the act approved October 6, 1917 (Public, No. 77), which reads as follows:

That in construing the provisions of sections 12 and 13 of the selective-draft act approved May 18, 1917, the word "Army" shall extend to and include "Navy"; the word "military" shall include "naval"; "Articles of War" shall include "Articles for the Government of the Navy"; the words "camps, station, cantonment, camp, fort, post, officers' or enlisted men's club," in section 12, and "camp, station, fort, post, cantonment, training, or mobilization place," in section 13, shall include such places under naval jurisdiction as the President may prescribe, and the powers therein conferred upon the Secretary of War with regard to the military service are hereby conferred upon the Secretary of the Navy with regard to the naval service.

3. Under the authority of section 12 above, as amended, the following regulations are established by the President, to continue during the present emergency:

(1) There is hereby established a zone 5 miles wide, circumjacent to the boundaries of every place under naval jurisdiction specified below. Alcoholic liquor, including beer, ale, and wine, either alone or with any other article, shall not, directly or indirectly, be sold, bartered, given, served, or knowingly delivered by one person to another within any such zone, or sent, shipped, transmitted, carried, or transported to any place within any such zone: Provided, That this regulation shall not apply to the giving or serving in a private home to members of the family or bona fide guests, other than officers or members of the naval forces, any of such liquor as was on hand in such private home on the 2d day of April, 1918, at 4 o'clock postmeridian: Provided also, That this regulation shall not apply to the sale or gift of such liquor by registered pharmacists to licensed physicians or medical officers of the United States for medical purposes, or to the administering of such liquor by or under the direction of such physicians or medical officers of the United States for medical purposes, or to the sending, shipping, transmitting, carrying, or transporting of such liquor to registered pharmacists, licensed physicians, or medical officers of the United States for use as aforesaid.

(2) Until otherwise ordered, the places under naval jurisdiction referred to above are specified as follows: Naval station, Key West, Fla.; Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.; naval training station, Newport, R. I.; naval training station, Norfolk, Va.; naval training station, Great Lakes, Ill.; naval training station, naval operating base, Hampton Roads, Va.; training camp, navy yard, Mare Island, Cal.; marine barracks, Paris Island, S. C.; marine barracks, Quantico, Va.

(3) Outside of said zones, alcoholic liquor, including beer, ale, and wine, either alone or with any other article, shall not, directly or indirectly, be sold, bartered, given, served, or knowingly delivered to any officer or member of the naval forces within the United States, their Territories or possessions, or any place under their control, except when administered for medical purposes by or under the direction of a regularly licensed physician or medical officer of the United States.

(4) Nothing contained in these regulations shall be construed to prohibit or restrict the procuring or use of wine by any religious congregation or church for sacramental purposes in the usual religious exercises of its denomination.

(5) The words, "station, cantonment, camp, fort, post, officers' or enlisted men's club," as used in the proviso to section 12 above quoted, shall include all places under naval jurisdiction. The use of intoxicating liquor in such places, by or under the direction of licensed physicians or medical officers of the United States, for medicinal purposes, is authorized by the Secretary of the Navy.

(6) General Order No. 373, Navy Department, 5 March, 1918; General Order No. 380, Navy Department, 1 April, 1918; and General Order No. 384, Navy Department, 6 April, 1918, are superseded by this order.

(7) All prior violations of former regulations and all penalties incurred thereunder shall be prosecuted and enforced in the same manner and with the same effect as if these superseding regulations had not been established.

(8) This order shall take effect Friday, August 30, 1918, at 4 o'clock postmeridian.

JOSEPHUS DANIELS,
Secretary of the Navy.

LABOR "WANT AD." ORDER MODIFIED IN CERTAIN STATES

The Department of Labor announces the following:

The blanket prohibition against advertising for unskilled labor by war employers with a force of more than 100 men has been modified in 22 States in order to facilitate supplying unskilled workers for the great Government projects. The Federal directors of the United States Employment Service for these States were, on August 14, authorized for the time being to insert in newspapers, in behalf of firms authorized to recruit labor in their States and which will pay for them, advertisements beginning in the following form:

"United States Employment Service needs unskilled laborers for (name of firm)."

State Nature of Work.

The advertisement should state the nature and location of the work, but must not mention wages. Men must be asked in the advertisements to apply at a United States Employment Service office.

The Federal directors of these 22 States also are instructed to give all possible latitude, consistent with protection of other war industries, including agriculture, to the field recruiting forces of the concerns authorized to use them and to use the field forces of the United States Employment Service to the utmost to alleviate the shortage in the great war projects.

"Demands for unskilled laborers should be met not only from large cities, but everywhere throughout your State. Your community labor boards should be set to work at once to assist in recruiting local quotas," the order concluded.

States Where Permitted.

The 22 States in which this modified advertising will for the time be permitted are: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Carolina, and Texas.

Importation of Mackerel and Herring Permissible

The War Trade Board issues the following:

A new ruling of the War Trade Board (W. T. B. R. 204) permits the importation of cured and preserved mackerel and herring from the United Kingdom. The importation of these food products was prohibited under the List of Restricted Imports No. 2 (item 106) in accordance with the general policy of the board, prohibiting the importation of food products from Europe in order to conserve food supplies for home consumption and conserve tonnage by lessening the amounts of foodstuffs which have otherwise to be moved across the Atlantic to Europe.

Since it appears, however, that there is not sufficient European market to consume all the catch of mackerel and herring in the vicinity of the British Isles, and as certain communities, particularly in Ireland, are employed in curing these products in a way adapted to the American market and are dependent on their sale, the War Trade Board decided upon this relaxation of its regulation.

Licenses for the importation of cured and preserved mackerel and herring from the United Kingdom will therefore be granted when the application is otherwise in order.

Liberty Bonds as Basis for Credit by Railroads

The United States Railroad Administration, Division of Public Service and Accounting, issues the following:

P. S. & A. CIRCULAR No. 21.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 8, 1918.

Paragraph 2 of General Order No. 25, makes provision for the extension of credit for 48 hours after forwarding or delivery of freight, when the consignor or consignee files with the carrier a satisfactory bond.

For the convenience of the shipping public, it has been decided to accept Liberty bonds in lieu of individual or corporate surety, as a basis for the extension of credit. These Liberty bonds must be in coupon form, in amount required to meet the credit needs of the customer, and must be deposited as directed by the treasurer of the carrier.

The treasurer's receipt will be given to the owner of the bonds, and arrangements will be made for their safe-keeping. Coupons will be detached and paid to the owners on the semiannual interest dates.

C. A. PROUTY,
Director.

DUTY OF R. R. WORKERS TO PUBLIC

if a thing of this sort is done thoughtlessly as if it is done deliberately.

There are many people who for partisan or selfish purposes wish Government operation of the railroads to be a failure. Every employee who is discourteous to the public or makes excuses or statements of the kind I have described, is helping these partisan or selfish interests to discredit Government control of railroads.

Recently the wages of railroad employees were largely increased, involving an addition to railroad operating expenses of more than $475,000,000 per annum. In order to meet this increase, the public has been called upon to pay largely increased passenger and freight rates. The people have accepted this new burden cheerfully and patriotically. The least that every employee can do in return is to serve the public courteously, faithfully, and efficiently.

A great responsibility and duty rest upon the railroad employees of the United States. Upon their loyalty, efficiency, and patriotism depends in large part America's success and the overthrow of the Kaiser and all that he represents. Let us not fail to measure up to our duty, and to the just demand of the public that railroad service shall not only be efficient, but that it shall always be courteously administered.

W. G. MCADOO,
Director General of Railroads.

FREIGHT RATES ON MANGANESE ORE LOWERED BY MR. M'ADOO

U. S. RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION,
Washington, August 17, 1918.

Director General McAdoo has authorized the following rates on manganese ore. These rates are much lower than the prevailing rates carried in current tariffs:

Manganese ore CL per ton of 2,000 pounds, minimum CL weight 60,000 pounds.

Importation of Garlic from Italy Is Permitted

The War Trade Board issues the following:

List of restricted imports No. 1, under which (item 77) the importation of garlic from Europe was prohibited, has been so modified by the War Trade Board in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 203) as to permit the importation from Italy of garlic from the 1918 crop. Licenses for the importation of garlic from Italy may, therefore, be issued until January 1, 1919, where the applications are otherwise in order. The reason for the earlier prohibition of imports of garlic was founded upon the general policy of the War Trade Board to discourage imports of food products from Europe in order to retain such commodities for consumption at home and thereby save tonnage, and to conserve arable land in Europe for the production of crops for home consumption. As it appeared through representation of the Italian Government that losses would be inflicted upon certain districts in Italy where garlic is largely produced by inability to dispose of this crop, which had already been put in, the War Trade Board decided to relax the restriction to the extent of permitting importations from this year's crop on the understanding that the acreage of the next crop will be restricted in order that the land may be devoted to produce food for home consumption.

NEW LABOR SERVICE CHIEF.

The Secretary of Labor announces the appointment of Charles T. Clayton, of Maryland, formerly assistant director general of the United States Employment Service, to be chief of the Training and Dilution Service of the Department of Labor. Mr. Clayton will continue to direct the civilian insignia division. This will become a branch of the Training and Dilution Service.

American Communiques

The following is authorized by the Secretary of War:

American Official Communique No. 94.

HEADQUARTERS AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES,
August 16, 1918.

Section A.—Yesterday in the course of a combat in the region of Flirey our aviators shot down a hostile machine.

The following details of this aerial combat have been reported: "Lieut. Stiles and Lieut. Drew engaged four Fokker biplanes over Flirey on August 15. One of the planes was brought down, Lieut. Stiles and Lieut. Drew being credited equally with the destruction of the machine."

American Official Communique No. 95.

HEADQUARTERS AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES,
August 17, 1918.

Section A.—In the Vosges our troops in the course of a successful local attack captured the village of Frapelle.

Yesterday in Lorraine one of our aviators shot down a hostile machine.

Section B.—The following details of the aerial combat referred to in Section A have been reported in Lorrain: "Capt. Biddle brought down a Rumpler machine northwest of Bouxieres-Aux-Dames at 5.40 o'clock in the afternoon of August 16. The observer was killed and the pilot wounded, but the machine landed intact."

AMERICAN SOLDIERS IN FRANCE GET PURE WHEAT FLOUR BREAD

The War Department authorizes the following:

The American Army in France is getting good soft bread made from pure wheat flour. There are several reasons why it is not advisable to carry out the wheat-saving substitute rule in bread making overseas. Field bakers must work swiftly and can not afford to experiment with new flour mixtures. Every effort is made by the Subsistence Division of the Quartermaster Corps to give these bakers the best material possible and to make the baking process simple and standard.

Mixed Flour for Troops Here.

Our troops in the United States have been getting the prescribed amount of substitutes in their bread, and it has proved satisfactory. Here bakers are definitely located and can easily work out mixtures that will produce good bread. The daily ration for soldiers of the American Expeditionary Forces is 18 ounces of wheat flour for soft bread. This has proved to be more than enough, and a reduction to 16 ounces per day is now under consideration.

The Army supply of flour at this time is 100 per cent abundant at every place along the line, from the mills to the battle line in France. Every requirement for flour, both for domestic and overseas consumption, is being met.

COTTON GIN MANUFACTURERS PRESENT PRIORITIES CLAIMS

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

At a meeting with the Priorities Commissioner and other representatives of the War Industries Board, manufacturers of cotton gins have presented their claims for preferential treatment for their supplies of iron, steel, and fuel for the manufacture of cotton gins during the year ending June 30, 1919.

Repairs to Plants.

The necessity of producing not only new equipment, but spare and repair parts for the proper maintenance of existing equipment was recognized, but the conclusion was reached that, through strong appeals to cotton ginners, existing plants, which in normal times would be replaced by new ones, can and in many cases should be so repaired as to last until after the war.

It was also concluded that there is no necessity for increasing the number of ginning plants to take care of even an abnormally large crop, as the existing plants are not now working to capacity.

Agreement on Production.

An agreement was reached under which the manufacturers of cotton gins will substantially curtail their normal production during the current year, in order to conserve iron and steel and release labor to other war industries.

"CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS" DOING THEIR BIT IN THE WAR

Made Useful on the Farms Furnishing Muscle-Making Food for Fighters.

The United States Department of Agriculture authorizes the following:

After struggling for a long time with the knotty problem of conscientious objectors in Army cantonments the War Department now announces that the difficulty has to a large degree been solved through the aid of the farm-help specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Now in Useful Work.

In the various States where there are farming communities which include sects opposed to war, and where additional farm help is needed, these places are made known to the cantonment commanders, together with a record of their farm labor needs.

The plan has worked out so well that in the three camps where definite lists of objectors were compiled practically all of these men have been placed. Camp Meade had 88, all of them now at labor on farms; 100 of the 102 men at Camp Lee have been placed, and the majority of these at Camp Taylor.

Farm Jobs for Others.

Final arrangements have been made for labor furloughs for objectors in Camps Gordon, Ga.; Jackson, S. C.; Dix, N. J.; Upton, N. Y.; Sherman, Ohio; Devens, Mass.; Custer, Mich.; Grant, Ill.; Dodge, Iowa; Lewis, Wash.; and Fort Riley, Kans. The labor specialists of the Department of Agriculture in the States where the cantonments are situated have been instructed to communicate with specialists in other States in case they can not place all the conscientious objectors at work at once.

Under Military Discipline.

The furloughed men are under strict regulations drawn up by the War Department. They are placed on farms at a standard wage and reports of their conduct and effectiveness are made to the cantonment commander at monthly intervals. If their services are not satisfactory the commandant is promptly informed of the fact.

The War Department has expressed itself as thoroughly pleased with the arrangements by which the Department of Agriculture, through its farm help specialists, has aided in placing these men where their services will be an aid to victory through food production.

COMMENDED FOR HEROISM.

Secretary Daniels has commended Herbert R. Hester, fireman, first class, United States Navy, for his gallantry and heroism in rescuing from drowning M. A. Mixon, seaman, second class, who fell overboard from a coal barge. The incident occurred about 1 a. m. July 9, and the report of the commandant shows that Hester was roused from sleep and immediately dived overboard and saved Mixon, who was in imminent danger of being drowned.

WORK OF CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

The Senate and House adjourned to-day, shortly after convening, out of respect for the late Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, whose death occurred Saturday morning at a hospital in New Hampshire.

Consideration of the new man power bill, extending the draft age limits to include all men between the ages of 18 and 45 years, both inclusive, was taken up to-day by the House Committee on Military Affairs, with Secretary Baker before the committee to explain the measure. Gen. March, Chief of Staff, and Provost Marshall General Crowder also are expected to be heard.

The new $8,000,000,000 war-revenue bill will probably be completed by the Ways and Means Committee and reported to the House this week. Leaders hope to have the House begin consideration of the measure not later than Monday, August 26. Discussing, Saturday, the work of the committee on the bill, Chairman Kitchin said:

"The $8,000,000,000 is in sight. We are now having our figures reviewed by experts, and are confident that with the excess and war-profits taxes totaling about $3,000,000,000, the other rates agreed to by the committee will bring the total revenue up to $8,000,000,000."

Dispensation Is Ordered To All Catholic Soldiers

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the Catholic chaplains of the Army and Navy:

ORDINARIATE,
142 East Twenty-ninth Street,
New York.

In order that all doubt as to the obligation of abstinence on Fridays might be removed from the minds of the Catholic soldiers and sailors of the United States forces, it is requested that the following announcement be brought to the attention of those whom it may concern:

All Catholics in the Army and Navy of the United States, whether serving in America or abroad, are dispensed, as long as they remain in military service, from the obligation of abstaining from flesh meats on all Fridays throughout the year, with the sole exception of Good Friday.

Catholic nurses also are dispensed.

FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD'S WEEKLY BANK STATEMENT

Liquidation in some volume of discounted bills accompanied by larger reductions in Government and net deposits is indicated in the Federal Reserve Board's weekly bank statement issued as at close of business on August 16, 1918. Notwithstanding the considerable gain in note circulation, the banks' reserve position shows an improvement from 57.9 to 58.5 per cent.

Decrease in Discounts.

Investments.—Discounts on hand fell off 47.1 million dollars largely at the Boston and Chicago banks. Of the total commercial paper held, 752.3 millions, as against 761.6 millions the week before, is represented by war paper, i. e., member banks' notes and customers' paper secured by United States war obligations. Holdings of acceptances show an aggregate increase of 3.7 millions, Boston, Cleveland, and Chicago reporting the largest gains for the week. An increase of 15.1 millions in United States Government short-term securities is due mainly to a temporary advance to the Government of 15 millions by the New York bank for which a Treasury certificate of like amount was given. United States bonds on hand indicate net liquidation of 3.4 millions, while total earning assets show a reduction for the week of 31.8 millions.

Deposits. — Large net withdrawals of Government funds from all the banks, except those at Atlanta, St. Louis, and Dallas, are indicated, total Government deposits showing a shrinkage of 84.4 millions since August 9. Members' reserve deposits went up 43.3 millions, while net deposits show a loss of 63.8 millions.

Reserves.—Gold reserves increased 2.2 millions and total reserves about 1 million. There has been considerable movement through the Gold Settlement Fund of reserves away from New York, the New York bank reporting a decrease of 77.3 millions in its gold reserves.

Note circulation. — Federal reserve agents report 30.5 millions net of reserve notes issued to the banks during the week. The banks show a Federal reserve note circulation of 1,985.4 millions, a gain of 30.1 millions, besides an increase of about 1.5 millions in their aggregate liabilities on Federal reserve bank notes in circulation.

Capital.—Payment for Federal reserve bank stock by newly admitted members is largely responsible for an increase of $84,000 in paid-in capital, one-half of the increase being shown for the Chicago bank.

Condition of Member Banks, August 9.

Large increases in the holding of Treasury certificates and further gains in Government deposits are indicated in the board's weekly statement showing condition on August 9, 1918, of 722 member banks in leading cities.

Total United States securities on hand increased 203.6 millions, the larger increase in certificate holdings being slightly offset by decreases shown for other United States obligations, mainly Liberty bonds. For the central reserve city banks increases of 113.5 millions in total United Securities and of 117.8 millions in Treasury certificates are shown. Total loans secured by United States war obligations fell off 31.5 millions, largely at central reserve city banks. Other loans and investments declined 54.6 millions, notwithstanding an increase of 46.6 millions shown under this head by the banks at the three central reserve cities. For all reporting banks the ratio of United States war obligations and loans secured by such obligations shows a rise from 14.6 to 15.8 per cent, while for the central reserve cities this ratio went up from 16.2 to 17.2 per cent.

Increase in Deposits.

The week witnessed an increase of 148.4 millions in Government deposits at the central reserve city banks, as against an increase of 126.7 millions at all reporting banks. Aggregate net demand deposits declined 21.6 millions, while total time deposits increased 22.8 millions. For the central reserve city banks decreases of 16.4 millions in net demand deposits and of 3.3 millions in time deposits are noted. Total reserves fell off 8.6 millions, and cash in vault about 2.3 millions.

For all reporting banks the ratio of investments to deposits shows a decline from 124.9 to 124.7 per cent, while for the central reserve city banks a slightly larger decline from 115 to 114.7 per cent is seen. The ratio of aggregate reserve and cash to deposits declined from 14.6 to 14.4 per cent for all reporting banks and from 15.6 to 15.1 per cent for the central reserve city banks. Total excess reserves show a further decline from 90.7 to 74.2 millions. For the central reserve city banks this item shows a decrease from 64.9 to 52.6 millions.

BICYCLES AND MOTORCYCLES "REASONABLE" WAR ESSENTIALS

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

Representatives of the bicycle and the motorcycle industries appeared on Wednesday before the Priorities Commissioner and other representatives of the War Industries Board.

Use in Business.

It was developed in the meeting that, in recent years, bicycles have come to be used, particularly in industrial centers, as a method of transportation to and from places of employment and that their pleasure use, formerly so prominent, has become relatively unimportant. It was shown that it would be unwise to deprive users of bicycles of this privilege.

In the case of motorcycles it was shown that the output of the factories was absorbed almost entirely by direct Government purchases and that the remainder was devoted largely to essential commercial purposes.

Opportunity for Savings.

It was decided, however, that in the manufacture of both bicycles and motorcycles there were opportunities for substantial savings in the use of steel and rubber, and representatives of both industries pledged themselves to effect those savings through a program of conservation to be worked out with the Conservation Division of the War Industries Board.

Subject to those pledges and the carrying out of the conservation plan it was considered necessary to recognize these industries as entitled to their reasonable requirements of materials.

CAMPAIGN TO ENROLL MORE DOCTORS IN VOLUNTEER CORPS

Dr. Franklin Martin, member of the Advisory Commission of the Council of National Defense and chairman of the council's General Medical Board, authorizes the following:

In furtherance of the plans to expedite enrollment of physicians in the reorganized Volunteer Medical Service Corps, meetings of the State committees, medical section, Council of National Defense, in several States have been called for August 22 and August 29, "at the most central and accessible place in the State," to arrange for enlargement of State executive committees to handle the active campaign for the corps, to arrange for the appointment of a representative in each county, and to acquaint the State and county representatives with the details as to the reorganized Volunteer Medical Service Corps.

Campaign Launched at Once.

The campaign is being launched at once, as many members of the medical profession not already in the service are anxious to be enrolled as volunteers for the Medical Department of the Army before the registration under the new draft law, taking men up to and including the age of 45, goes into effect. The importance of the work and the fact that it relates to the entire medical profession necessitates enlargement of the State executive committees. These committees are being asked to hold regular meetings every other Sunday beginning September 8, at which time there are to be reports of county representatives and consideration of application blanks.

Each county representative is asked to see personally every doctor in his county or make sure that every doctor is seen by a thoroughly reliable assistant. Every doctor is to be offered an application blank, provided he has not already received one from the office of the central governing board in Washington. In case a doctor solicited does not sign the application for membership in the Volunteer Medical Service Corps, his name and address with the reason given are to be noted, and these blanks are to be sent to the central governing board in Washington. Each doctor asked to sign the application blank is informed that he or she will only be called upon when their services are actually needed, and will only be assigned to special duty when circumstances require. In every instance reasonable notice will be given in order that important personal business matters can be arranged before the doctor is called into service.

NEW LIGHTS IN ALASKA.

Commerce Bureau Announces Additional Aids to Navigation.

Eleven new lights were established in Alaska by the Bureau of Lighthouses since June 30, 1917, according to an announcement by Secretary Redfield. Three lights were changed from fixed to flashing, and 1 gas buoy, 12 buoys of other types, and 5 beacons were established.

Before the present season is over sixteen additional new lights will be established, as well as two new gas and bell buoys and an unlighted daymark.

Registration of Men Under Proposed New Age Limits Will Be Held on a Saturday

The War Department authorizes the following from the office of the Provost Marshal General:

Announcement is made that although no definite date for the registration of men under the proposed new wage limits may be fixed until Congress has passed the new man-power bill, it has been decided to hold this registration on a Saturday.

This will be done in order to give registrants the benefit of the Saturday half-holiday obtaining at many places of employment, and for the purpose of obtaining the assistance of as many persons as needed at the places of registration.

Asks All Newspapers to Print Daily Notice to 21-Year Registrants

The following request is made by the Office of the Provost Marshal General:

The newspapers of the country can aid the Government considerably if they will make a practice of publishing daily between now and August 24, in conspicuous manner, the following "box" calling the attention of the young men in their respective communities to the registration August 24:

"All male persons who have reached their twenty-first birthday since June 5, 1918, and on or before August 24, 1918, must register on August 24, 1918.

"These men should consult with local draft boards as to how and where they should register."

It is apprehended that unless some such distinctive method of advertising the August 24 registration is adopted, it will be lost sight of amid the publicity that will attend consideration by Congress of the new draft-age law and preparation by this office for the registration next month of those who will be included under the new age limits.

U. S. MACHINE GUN PRODUCTION HAS PASSED THE 100,000 MARK

The War Department authorizes the following:

The United States has passed the 100,000 mark in the production of machine guns. The Army Ordnance Department announces that 108,973 machine guns of all types have been inspected and accepted since the country entered the war. The figures are up to and including Saturday, August 10.

Of this number, 30,226 are Brownings—11,187 of the heavy-type gun, 19,039 of the light automatic rifles. In the week ending August 10, 6,228 machine guns of all types were inspected and accepted. In this week, 1,354 heavy Brownings and 2,035 light Brownings were accepted by the ordnance inspectors.

AMERICAN AIRMEN TO BE GIVEN MORE INSTRUCTION IN GUNNERY

The War Department authorizes the following:

For the extension of instruction in gunnery and in order that more fliers may be trained on this side of the Atlantic, the Division of Military Aeronautics, on the approval of the Secretary of War, is now leasing land for target practice near the larger flying fields. A tract of 10,000 acres has just been leased outside of Fort Worth, Tex., and not far from Taliaferro, Barron, and Carruthers Fields.

Within a few miles of Hazelhurst Field, Mineola, Long Island, and fronting on the south shore, another tract of 750 acres has been leased at Wantaugh, known as Lufbery Field, and additional marshy land is being secured. A piece of 50½ acres, adjoining Mineola Field, and formerly occupied by hucksters' stands and shanties, has been leased and has been leveled for a drill and exercise ground.

$4,709,250 for Olive-Drab Uniform Cloth for Army

The War Department authorizes the following:

Contracts for the purchase of olive-drab melton cloth, to be used in the manufacture of woolen uniforms for the Army and amounting to $4,709,250, have been approved by the board of review in the office of the Quartermaster General.

Among other purchase transactions approved is one for $5,600 worth of potato mashers and one for 18,000 gross of hooks and eyes, costing $11,500, the latter for reclamation work.

Schooner Reported Sunk Arrives at Gloucester

The Committee on Public Information issues the following:

The Navy Department is informed that the schooner Sybil, previously reported sunk by a submarine, has arrived safely at Gloucester, Mass.

The remainder of the crew of the schooner Progress are reported rescued.

Survivors of the steamship Penistone report that David Evans, master of the vessel, was taken prisoner by the submarine. So far as known, only one casualty occurred in the sinking of that vessel, Howells, the fourth engineer, having been killed by the explosion of the torpedo.

SAVED FROM NIAGARA'S BRINK BY COAST GUARD LIFE CREW

The Navy Department authorizes the following:

Official reports have just been received at Coast Guard headquarters giving the details of the rescue of two men from the very brink of Niagara Falls, August 6.

The men were on a mud scow and, losing control of it, were rapidly drifting down the river toward the Falls. Right near the brink the barge hung on a ledge, and the onlookers immediately telephoned Coast Guard Station No. 234, at Lewiston, N. Y., 24 miles away, asking that the station crew come to the rescue.

Quick Run to Scene.

A fast motor truck was loaned the Coast Guard men by the authorities at Fort Niagara, and within 46 minutes from the time the alarm was sent out the life-savers were on the river bank opposite the scow.

The scow was 1,400 feet away from the shore and, on account of the roar of the Falls, the imperiled men could not be communicated with by means of a megaphone, nor could they understand wig-wag signals. By means of the line-throwing gun a line was shot over the scow and the two men began to pull on the whip. This they were unable to do, owing to the drag of the swift current. They, therefore, rigged up a windlass on the scow to help them haul in the gear. When the life-line was set taut and the men attempted to haul off the breeches buoy, the line fouled.

Finally Brought to Shore.

By changing the gear and attaching written instructions to the breeches buoy the Coast Guard men, after all night spent in persistent efforts, succeeded, just after daybreak, in having the apparatus set to work. The shore end was fastened to the top of a 10-story building in order to keep the men out of the water as much as possible in drawing them to land. After being in jeopardy for 19 hours they were landed in an exhausted condition. Prompt medical attention soon revived them.

Fresh Pork Two Days in Every Ten Served at Army Camps in U. S.

The War Department authorizes the following:

Fresh pork is now being issued to the troops in the camps and cantonments throughout the United States two days in every 10 as a temporary substitute for fresh beef. There is an abundance of fresh pork at this time, while the supply of fresh beef is not up to normal requirements. This temporary substitution will mean the saving of large quantities of beef and is expected to relieve somewhat the recent strained prices for that commodity. The action was taken on the recommendation of the Subsistence Division of the Quartermaster Corps.

Easy to buy, convenient to handle, no red tape—Get a WAR-SAVINGS STAMP to-day.

SERIES OF WAR LECTURES.

A series of lectures illustrated with slides on the various war activities of the United States up to this time is being prepared by George F. Zook, professor of modern European history, Pennsylvania State College. The cantonments, airplanes, the Navy, shipbuilding, the trenches, and many other features of the war are described in an interesting and instructive way. The lectures will be especially useful for the work of teachers, Y. M. C. A. secretaries, and club officials.

Each lecture is accompanied by from 45 to 65 slides, which are being sold at the nominal price of 15 cents each. The lectures and slides will be available for use about October 1. For further information address the Division of Civic and Educational Publications, Committee on Public Information, Washington, D. C.

Instructions on Making of Weekly Cash Reports by Railroad Treasurers

U. S. RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION,
Washington, D. C., August 13, 1918.

SUPPLEMENT NO. 1 TO "GENERAL ORDER NO. 23."

Effective with report for the week ending August 17, 1918, the following instructions shall govern the rendering of the Weekly Cash Report, Form T-5:

(1) Where Federal treasurers have been appointed their reports shall include only transactions affecting the cash controlled by them, in accordance with the provisions of General Order No. 37. Reports as to transactions affecting other (corporate) cash will not be required.

(2) As and when Federal treasurers are appointed they shall commence to render the reports to include only transactions affecting the cash controlled by them, in accordance with the provisions of General Order No. 37. Reports as to transactions affecting other (corporate) cash may then be discontinued.

(3) Otherwise the reports shall continue to be made up as at present.

(4) These instructions also, of course, apply to all acting Federal treasurers, as well as to the treasurers whose nominations have been confirmed.

A supply of revised forms will be sent you.

W. G. McADOO,
Director General of Railroads.

WISHES TO FIND HARRY M. BEACHY.

The Department of Commerce is endeavoring to locate Harry M. Beachy, an American seaman, who has been awarded by the British Government a silver medal in recognition of the part which he had in saving the crew of the British schooner Busy Bee. Mr. Beachy was born December 22, 1894, either at Baltimore or at Grantsville, Md.

Every effort to locate Beachy has been made, but so far without success. The medal is now being held in the Department of Commerce in the hope that some trace of Beachy may be found.

AUGUST 24 REGISTRATION PRINTED FORMS DISTRIBUTED

The War Department authorizes the following from the office of the Provost Marshal General:

All printed forms needed for the registration on August 24 of young men who have reached their 21st birthday since June 5, 1918, and on or before August 24, 1918, have been distributed to the local draft boards. Reports received from the various States and the District of Columbia indicate that everything will be in readiness by the time the registrars open their books at 7 o'clock in the morning of the 24th.

Facts Registrant Must Give.

The registration cards will be similar to those used heretofore, although the registration numbers will be filled in by the adjutant general in each State instead of by the local board. Every registrant will be required to give his name in full; age; home address; date of birth; place of birth; whether he is a native or naturalized citizen, an alien, one who has declared his intention of becoming a citizen, a "noncitizen" or citizen Indian; if not a citizen, the nation to which he owes allegiance; his father's birthplace; the name of the registrant's employer; place of employment; name and address of nearest relative; and the registrant's race, i. e., whether he is white, negro, Indian, or oriental.

Described by Registrar.

The registrar adds to this information a description of the registrant showing whether the latter is tall, medium, or short; whether slender, medium, or stout of build; color of his eyes and hair, and whether he has lost an arm, leg, hand, or eye, or is otherwise palpably physically disqualified.

Through Export Bills of Lading via Pacific Coast Ports Will Be Continued

The Railroad Administration authorizes the following:

Director General McAdoo has decided to continue the issuance of through export bills of lading via Pacific coast ports after September 30.

Announcement was made that through export bills of lading would be discontinued September 30, due at the time to the shortage of shipping space and resultant congestion at Pacific coast ports which worked a decided hardship on the rail lines and slowed up their handling of war traffic.

Conditions have since improved, and it has now been decided that after surrounding the issuance of through bills of lading with certain reasonable rules to protect and relieve the carriers of the present burdens, the arrangement can be continued.

Announcement will be made to the public in the near future as to the new rules.

NEW SYSTEM FOR PUBLICATION OF THE U. S. CASUALTIES LISTS

The Committee on Public Information makes the following announcement:

There will be no delay in the private notification of the next of kin of officers and men reported in the daily casualty lists because of the changed system of public announcement of casualties. As soon as it is possible to compare the names, which are reported by cable to the Adjutant General's Office, with the card-indexed catalogue at the Statistical Division, the usual private telegraphic notification will be made to relatives.

To Help Press Associations.

There will be a delay of from three to five days in the public announcements of casualties in the daily press. This was made necessary when the several press associations of the country notified the War Department that the transmission by them of the recently enlarged casualty lists so interferred with the transmission of other war news that there was danger of seriously deferring either one or the other, and the Committee on Public Information was requested to devise a means of independent delivery to the press. To meet the emergency, the Postmaster General accepted the responsibility of transmitting the complete lists daily by telegraph across the Continent.

Three Distribution Zones.

The country was divided into three zones, centering at Washington, Chicago, and San Francisco. At these points the complete casualty lists are now being duplicated and mailed to every daily newspaper. To prevent unequal press competition, the lists are sent subject to release dates. The newspapers are under pledge to make no use of the information contained in these lists prior to the release notice dates.

CORPORALS.

WAR DEPARTMENT PLANS FOR THE EXPANSION OF CAMPS

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

Expansions of camps and other changes at training centers have been decided on as follows by the General Staff:

Camp Hancock, Ga., is to be a machine-gun center and will be enlarged to accommodate between 55,000 and 60,000 men. The officers' training school, now housed in tents at this point, will be provided for in barracks and quarters similar to those already erected at other cantonments. The improvements for this purpose will cost about $2,000,000. This figure does not cover the increased cost for other construction that will be necessary to care for the increased number of men to be located at this camp.

Infantry Replacement Camp.

It has been decided to make Camp Grant an Infantry replacement camp to accommodate between 55,000 and 60,000 men. The present capacity of this camp is about 42,000. The alterations and additions made necessary by this change will be made after the division now located there is moved.

Field Artillery firing centers are to be located at West Point, Ky., Camp Jackson, S. C., and at Fayetteville, N. C. Options on sufficient land for this purpose have been secured at all these places. It is planned to locate six brigades at Fayetteville, six at West Point, and four at Jackson.

Officers' Training Schools.

It has also been decided to erect permanent buildings for the officers' training schools at present housed in tents at Camps Lee, Gordon, and Pike. These schools have a capacity of about 6,000 men. The estimated cost of erecting barracks and quarters and doing other construction work at each of these schools is about $2,000,000.

LOUISIANA CANE SUGAR MEN CONFER ON NEXT YEAR'S PRICES

The Food Administration issues the following:

Representatives of the Louisiana cane-sugar industry were in conference with the United States Sugar Equalization Board at the Food Administration building on Friday discussing the price to be paid for their product next year. This is probably the final conference of the Equalization Board with the various groups of sugar producers. The board now feels that it has sufficient data upon which to base prices, and will meet next week to take up the matter. It is expected that a definite announcement will follow soon.

Congress Members Attend.

United States Senators Joseph E. Ransdell and Walter Guion, of Louisiana, were present at the meeting as well as Representatives W. P. Martin, H. Garland Dupré, and Riley J. Wilson. Other members of the Louisiana delegation in Congress are temporarily absent from Washington. The delegates to the conference were as follows:

Producers.—A. R. Viguerie, Honma; Theodore S. Wilkinson, Myrtle Grove; David W. Pipes, Honma; Achille Picard, Geismar; E. A. Burguieres, New Orleans; H. N. Pharr, Oliviero; E. A. Pharr, Morgan City; V. L. Caldwell, Abbeville; Frederick Wilbert, Plaquemine; Andrew Gay, Plaquemine; C. D. Kemper, Franklin; J. C. Le Bourgeois, New Orleans; R. E. Milling, New Orleans; Herbert Wadsworth, Avon, N. Y., who owns several Louisiana plantations.

Sugar exchanges.—W. B. Bloomfield, New Orleans; Emile Rainold, New Orleans.

Louisiana Sugar Committee.—R. E. Milling, chairman; Andrew Gay, C. D. Kemper, J. C. Le Bourgeois, E. A. Pharr, W. J. Barkley, E. A. Burguieres.

American Cane Growers' Association Committee.—H. N. Pharr, chairman; A. R. Viguerie, Theodore S. Wilkinson, D. W. Pipes, jr., A. Picard, V. L. Caldwell, Fred Wilbert.

Sugar Molasses Distribution Association.—B. C. Perkins.

NEW LICENSE FOR FRESH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES FROM CUBA

The War Trade Board issues the following:

A new general license has been issued by the Bureau of Imports of the War Trade Board in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 205), as follows:

"PBF-24, permitting the importation of fresh fruits and fresh vegetables from Cuba for shipments made on or before December 31, 1918."

Formerly fresh fruits and fresh vegetables were allowed to be imported from Cuba without an individual import license if shipped by rail and car ferry from Habana, or if shipped on certain vessels approved by the War Trade Board. This new general license will now permit the importation of fresh fruits and fresh vegetables from Cuba when transported by any means whatsoever, and this general license will remain in effect until December 31, 1918.

SUGGESTIONS ON PREVENTION OF PROFITEERING IN RENTALS

The Department of Labor authorizes the following:

From many industrial cities engaged on war contracts complaints of rent profiteering have been received by the Bureau of Industrial Housing and Transportation. The following measures to overcome this evil have been recommended by the bureau to the local councils of defense and other cooperating agencies, and are applied under the direction of the Homes Registration and Information Division of the bureau:

First, the supply of housing accommodations can be increased by means of a publicity campaign and a canvass of the vacant houses, flats, and rooms. Property owners who have never before taken roomers should be appealed to on patriotic grounds to open their houses. By listing all vacancies from one central registry, rent extortion may be, to an extent, prevented through the law of supply and demand.

Lists for Assessors.

Next, lists maintained by the registry may be rendered accessible to the local city governments, which in some places have instructed the assessors to increase the valuation of houses so that taxes will be levied on the basis of the profiteer's rental. When the valuations of houses are raised to the extent to which the rent has been raised, profiteering, it has been found, is quickly curbed.

In addition to these methods, and most important of all, representative local committees on rent profiteering have been established in 30 cities through the Homes Registration Service of the Housing Bureau. The Council of National Defense has cooperated in establishing such committees. These are divided into rent adjustment committees composed of one representative of labor, one representative of real estate interests, and one representative of the general public. One such subcommittee meets one night weekly and summons both landlord and tenant.

Classed as Profiteers.

Landlords who have raised their rentals are considered profiteers by the Bureau of Industrial Housing. Those, however, who have raised them are called on to show expenses and improvements which will justify increases. Landlords guilty of profiteering are appealed to on patriotic grounds. They are shown that their practices interfere with the comfort and well-being of the workers. They are shown that their action increases labor turnover by making the workers discontented and that thereby the production of war essentials is reduced.

When they see that rent profiteering means aiding the enemy and postponement of victory, they almost invariably agree to the decision of the committee. If they do not agree, the facts are published in full without comment. These committees are thus a powerful means of creating sentiment against the profiteer and of inducing all citizens to cooperate with the Government in securing homes for war workers at reasonable rentals.

The local committees are able by these patriotic appeals and by publicity to check rent profiteering. Reports to the Bureau of Industrial Housing and Transportation have indicated notable success of this plan in many industrial communities.

EIGHT-HOUR DAY NOT APPLIED THROUGHOUT BETHLEHEM PLANT

The National War Labor Board authorizes the following:

In the statement made public under the authority of the National War Labor Board on August 4, with respect to the board's findings in the case of the Bethlehem Steel Co., it was made to appear that the basic eight-hour day had been applied throughout the company's plant at Bethlehem, Pa. In this regard the statement was in error, since the application of the basic eight-hour day was not included in the finding. The basic eight-hour day does now and has applied in the machine shops at Bethlehem. It does not apply, under the War Department interpretation of the eight-hour law, to those branches of the Bethlehem plant engaged upon the production of steel billets, rolled steel, or other unfinished products made for the open market.

Overtime Payment.

In these branches at Bethlehem the present workday remains unchanged under the findings of the board, the only action of the board with regard to the basic day being to declare that overtime beyond the usual workday should be compensated for at the rate of time and half time, and that work on Sundays and holidays should be paid for at the rate of double time; and that in the fixing of piece rates provisions be made for overtime payment as now provided in the case of time workers.

Mailing Date is Extended for Wage Special Reports

The United States Railroad Administration, Division of Public Service and Accounting, issues the following:

P. S. & A. CIRCULAR No. 17—SUPPLEMENT No. 1.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 10, 1918.

P. S. & A. Circular No. 17, relative to the application of the provisions of General Order No. 27, wages of railroad employees, requires that certain reports shall be prepared and sent to the director, Division of Operation, on specified dates.

The mailing date for the "Special report on wage increases, Form 1," applying to the months of January, March, and May, is extended from August 1 to September 15.

C. A. PROUTY,
Director.

LOWEST FRENCH SUGAR STOCKS.

Stocks of sugar in Paris on May 31, 1918, were about half what they were on the same date in 1917. The total amount of sugar in France is lower than ever before, even in war times. This condition, reported by the United States Food Administration, emphasizes the imperative need for sugar conservation in the United States in order that the present French ration of 1½ pounds of sugar per person per month may be maintained.

MEETING TO DISCUSS PLANS FOR REBUILDING OF SALONIKI

Consul General George Horton at Saloniki, Greece, reports:

On July 11, 1918, the principal military authorities, the consular corps, and others were invited to the Government building by the Greek governor general of Macedonia to examine the plans for the rebuilding of Saloniki, which have been prepared by various French architects. A lecture in French was given, and the plans, which were hung on the walls, were explained.

Extent of Burned Area.

The burned area is about 1,100,000 square meters in extent, and, besides banks, warehouses, hotels, and office buildings, was covered with the residences of about 60,000 people. Only the blackened walls were left standing, and in many cases these have fallen.

If the city is to be rebuilt on the new proposed plan, which includes the making of new streets, it will be necessary for the Government to obtain possession of the burned tract by expropriation and to resell it to possible purchasers. A new and abundant water-supply system, sewers, electric installations, etc., must be arranged for. The question of capitalizing this big venture must also be taken into consideration. If the work is seriously started there will be a great demand for all kinds of building and other materials, and doubtless foreign companies and business houses will be called upon to make bids. The old Byzantine monuments of the city, such as churches, etc., some of which are of great historical interest and which are especially marked on the plan, will be left intact and measures taken for their preservation.

New University Planned.

The plan includes the building of a university and other seats of learning, recreation parks, and a long walk and drive on the sea front.

Copies of the plan are not obtainable at present, but as soon as one is obtained I shall forward it, with an explanatory dispatch. On account of the present difficulties of transportation and the lack of materials and labor it does not seem possible to begin operations until the conclusion of the war.—Commerce Reports.

Prompt Movement Asked of Woolen Rags and Shoddy

WASHINGTON, August 15, 1918.

SUPPLEMENT No. 1 TO CIRCULAR No. CS 10.

To railroads:

The shortage of wool makes necessary the increased use of substitutes for wool, such as woolen rags and shoddy.

As far as practicable, shipments of woolen rags and shoddy should be accepted and moved promptly on a parity with wool.

The freight traffic committee, North Atlantic ports, is prepared to issue permits promptly on any such shipments destined to New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore.

Manager Car Service Section.

RETROACTIVE PAY IS ORDERED FOR THE SHIPYARD WORKERS

The United States Shipping Board issues the following:

Through Charles Piez, vice president and general manager of the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, it is announced that steps will at once be taken in the matter of retroactive pay for ship workers.

The labor conference held in Philadelphia had disclosed the fact that in many cases retroactive pay remains unpaid; that this is particularly the case in certain of the wood yards of the Columbia River district, but is fairly general in some of the yards of all districts.

Letter to Yard Officials.

To the yard officials who are concerned in the matter Mr. Piez sent the following:

"Our failure to meet promptly and fully the conditions imposed by the Macy Board is causing discontent and distrust among organized labor, and every possible step should immediately be taken to pay retroactive wages still due. Please make it your particular business to assign one man to this task who will cooperate with the district examiner for the purpose of bringing about an early compliance with this order.

"It seems advisable at this writing to reaffirm statements heretofore issued that all matters pertaining to hours, wages, and conditions are wholly under the control of the Macy Board and their officers, the district examiners, and that district managers, district officers, and district supervisors have no voice in these matters, but are charged with the responsibility of putting into execution the decisions of the board and the examiners.

No Deviation Permissible.

"Please advise all shipyard owners that no departures from the classifications or the decisions of either the board or the examiners will hereafter be permitted."

PROCEDURE FOR OBTAINING SOLDIER HELP ON FARMS

On account of numerous inquiries as to the procedure to be followed to obtain the services of enlisted soldiers on special furlough to help gather fall crops, the War Department authorizes the following statement for the information of farmers:

The procedure to be followed in securing agricultural furlough is as follows:

The soldier himself may make application to his commanding officer for permission to return to the farm, or his relatives (or the person interested) may make application for his return on forms provided for that purpose, through the local board where the man is registered. The local board, after approving the application, will forward it to the commanding officer of the camp where the soldier is stationed. If approved by the commanding officer, he will issue the necessary furlough order, directing that the man be returned to agriculture.

AMER[illegible] [illegible] LETTERS DICTATED BY THE GERMANS

Col. Churchill, chief of the military intelligence branch of the General Staff, directs the attention of American editors to recently published letters from American prisoners of war in German camps in which the prisoners speak of the excellence of the food and general treatment of the prisoners.

An officer of the military intelligence branch, who spent two years of the war in Germany, reports that there are certain rules laid down for all prisoners in letter writing. The price they pay for the transmission of their letters is that they must state that they are well treated, also that the food is good and that they are contented. The letters of the prisoners are carefully censored at the camp, and any statements made contrary to the rules laid down for letter writing simply means destruction of the letter.

It is therefore concluded that any information coming from American prisoners in Germany is absolutely unreliable and should not be published in American newspapers or magazines as in any way authentic.

It is urged that all editors give the above very earnest consideration in handling prisoners' letters that may reach them in any way whatever.

WAR-SAVINGS SERVICE

The Government wishes to enlist every man, woman, and child of the Nation in war-savings service. When an individual buys war-savings stamps he enlists in the production division of the Nation, thereby supporting and backing up the fighting division which is in France and on the seas.

TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE COMMITTEES DESIGNATED

The Postmaster General has issued orders making designations of committees as follows:

Nathan C. Kingsbury, vice president American Telegraph and Telephone Co., and George W. Robinson, president Tri-State Telegraph and Telephone Co., are designated by me for the purpose of making the necessary investigations, conducting negotiations, and arriving at agreements for the unification and consolidation of the various telephone companies operating in the same communities within the United States. Any agreements resulting from these negotiations will be submitted to the Postmaster General for final approval.

James I. Blakslee, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General; James A. Edgerton, purchasing agent; and Ruskin McArdle, chief clerk, Post Office Department, are appointed a committee to study the question of the purchase of supplies for the telegraph and telephone systems and how the cost of such supplies compares with the list of the general supply committee, also with the schedules for the Postal Service.

Otto Praeger, Second Assistant Postmaster General; George M. Sutton, chief post-office inspector; and Marvin M. McLean, superintendent, Division of Dead Letters, are appointed a committee to investigate and determine whether it would be practicable to divide the country into telephone and telegraph districts agreeing with the number and territory of the Railway Mail Service and inspectors' divisions.

ORDERS TELEPHONE COMPANIES TO CURTAIL LINE EXTENSIONS

The Post Office Department authorizes the following:

Postmaster General Burleson to-day issued the following order to all telephone companies:

Pursuant to the authority vested in me by the President of the United States in his proclamation of July 22, 1918, you are notified that during the period of Federal control, and unless and until otherwise advised by me, all telephone companies operating in the United States are directed:

1. To confine extensions and betterments to imperative and unavoidable work to meet war requirements and the vital commercial needs of the country. All companies should at once adopt and enforce such rules and regulations as may be necessary and proper to accomplish this result because of the difficulties, incident to war conditions, of securing adequate supplies, labor, and transportation.

Plans for Consolidation.

2. To proceed as expeditiously as possible with the plans heretofore instituted for consolidating and unifying the telephone plants and properties. Plans for consolidating the plants and properties where consolidation is manifestly desired by the public, where it can be effected on fair terms and in accordance with law, should be formulated as soon as practicable and submitted to this department.

3. Whenever two telephone systems are operating in the same area, the managements concerned should cooperate in making extensions and betterments, in order that unification and the elimination of waste in money, man power, and materials may be brought about as expeditiously as possible, in an orderly way, and with due regard to the rights of the owners of the properties and the convenience of the public.

Conserving Owners' Interests.

4. This order is not intended to direct any action, course, or policy which in the judgment of the owners of any property involved will result in damage or injury to their business or property. In any case of contemplated action hereunder, where in the judgment of the owners damage or injury may result, the company in interest before acting will bring the matter to the attention of the department, and await further instructions.

PLAN TO MAKE DIRECT LOANS TO GROWERS OF LIVE STOCK

War Finance Corporation Announces Creation of Agencies at Kansas City and Dallas.

Secretary McAdoo announces that the War Finance Corporation had perfected its plans for making direct loans under the provisions of section 9 of the War Finance Corporation act to individuals, firms, and corporations whose principal business is the raising of live stock, including cattle, sheep, goats, and hogs.

The corporation has decided to create, under authority of the act, two agencies, one at Kansas City and one at Dallas. These agencies will be known as the Cattle Loan Agencies of the War Finance Corporation and their business will be confined entirely to the consideration of applications for direct loans to cattlemen. All applications from banks for advances for crop-moving purposes and other purposes will be received as heretofore by the Federal reserve banks acting as fiscal agents for the corporation.

Conducted by Committee.

Each of the two cattle loan agencies will be conducted by a cattle loan committee, one with headquarters at Kansas City and the other at Dallas, of which committees the Federal reserve agent and the governor of the respective Federal reserve banks will be members. Five additional members of each committee will be appointed by the War Finance Corporation. The cattle loan committees will in turn create such local organizations as may be necessary to carry the plan into execution. All applications for direct cattle loans must be made through the cattle loan agencies, which will refer such applications as they approve to the War Finance Corporation for final approval.

Only two cattle loan agencies will be established, and applicants residing in the Federal reserve districts of San Francisco, Minneapolis, St. Louis, and Kansas City will send their applications to the cattle loan committee of Kansas City; and those residing in the Federal reserve districts of Dallas, Atlanta, and Richmond will send their applications to the cattle loan committee of Dallas. Cattlemen residing in other districts, who may have occasion to make application, will communicate direct with the War Finance Corporation at Washington.

Leave Washington Wednesday.

In order to expedite the formation of the cattle loan committees and other details of organization, Directors Clifford M. Leonard and Angus W. McLean, and Counsel S. W. Fordyce, of the War Finance Corporation, will leave Washington Wednesday evening for Kansas City, where they will consult and confer with representative bankers and cattlemen in the two districts concerned.

31 SURVIVORS LANDED FROM TORPEDOED NORWEGIAN SHIP

The Committee on Public Information issues the following:

The Navy Department is informed that a British vessel, arriving at an Atlantic port, brought 31 survivors of the Norwegian steamship San Jose, which was sunk by a submarine on August 17. All the crew were saved.

The vessel also brought to port David Evans, master of the British steamship Penistone, who was held prisoner aboard the submarine for six days after his ship was sunk.

RAISE IN PAY FOR WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH EMPLOYEES

The Post Office Department has issued the following:

Postmaster General Burleson stated today that he had approved an increase in wages for the employees of the Western Union Telegraph Co., and that this increase was not discriminatory in any manner. Shortly after assuming control ot the telegraph and telephone companies the Postmaster General was advised by the officers of the Western Union Telegraph Co. that they had under way negotiations for this increase, and he told them to proceed in the regular manner. When a conclusion had been reached the recommendation for an increase was submitted to him, and approved after very careful consideration.

SHIPPING BOARD CONTRACTS FOR 33 WOOD CARGO VESSELS

The United States Shipping Board issues the following:

Contracts for the construction of 33 3,500-ton wood cargo vessels, 7 wood barges, and 3 wood harbor tugs were made in the week ending August 10. The contracts were as follows:

Two wood cargo vessels, 3,500 tonnage, Fulton Shipbuilding Co., Mormon Channel, Wilmington, Cal.

Two wood cargo vessels, 3,500 tonnage, Seaborn Shipyards Co., Tacoma, Wash.

Two wood cargo vessels, 3,500 tonnage, St. Helens Shipbuilding Co., St. Helens, Oreg.

One wood cargo vessel, 3,500 tonnage, George F. Rodgers & Co., Astoria, Oreg.

Two wood cargo vessels, 3,500 tonnage, Nilson & Kelez Shipbuilding Corporation, Seattle, Wash.

Five wooden barges, 2,500 tonnage, Coastwise Shipbuilding Co., Baltimore, Md.

Six wooden cargo vessels, 3,500 tonnage, Kruse & Banks Shipbuilding Co., North Bend, Oreg.

Three wooden tugs (harbor), Leathem & Smith Towing & Wrecking Co., Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

Eighteen wooden cargo vessels, 3,500 tonnage, Universal Shipbuilding Co., Houston Ship Canal, Harris County, Tex.

Two wooden barges, 2,500 tonnage. This contract supersedes and cancels former contract with Universal Shipbuilding Co.

COUNTRY-WIDE INQUIRY INTO COST OF LIVING IS STARTED

Bureau of Labor Statistics to Conduct Investigation—Begins at Baltimore.

The Department of Labor authorizes the following:

The Bureau of Labor Statistics of Washington, D. C., is starting a country-wide investigation of the cost of living. The material collected is to be used as a basis in making wage adjustments.

The inquiry will include several different features, the principal one being the gathering of information from families as to their expenditures for one year for the various items of food and of clothing, and for housing, fuel, furniture, and miscellaneous expenses. Information will be gathered by duly authorized special agents of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, who will call on representative families in different parts of each locality visited.

Work Begun in Baltimore.

All information given by housewives to these agents will be held as strictly confidential. Six agents are beginning work in Baltimore to-day (Tuesday). Every housewife visited is urged to furnish the information asked for. Not only will the information be of service to the Government, but it will help the housewife in knowing exactly what she is getting for her money.

Every housewife is now helping to win the war in a most effective way by conserving and regulating the food supply in her home. Here is a chance for her to help still more. Every housewife called on by one of these Government agents is urged to cooperate by giving the fullest information possible. This is one way to help win the war.

Reserve Board Ruling on Trade Acceptances

The Federal Reserve Board has ruled that it does not approve for general use form of trade acceptance which contains condition that any discount will be allowed if payment is made before maturity.

Effective August 16, Mr. John A. Will, auditor of the Federal reserve bank of St. Louis, and Mr. W. W. Paddock, examiner of the Federal reserve bank of Philadelphia, have been appointed Federal reserve examiners.

MEAT IMPORTS INTO SPAIN.

Consul General Hurst, of Barcelona, reports that by Spanish royal order effective August 12 dried beef and smoked beef may be imported into Spain free of customs duty. The consul general states that fresh meat and salted pork have already been declared duty free.—Commerce Reports.

DEALERS CALLED ON TO REPORT ON STOCKS OF KNITTING YARNS

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

Many small merchants throughout the country, not listed in trade organizations, have failed to report to the woolens section of the War Industries Board as recently requested, their stocks of hand knitting yarns. The board served notice August 12 on spinners of hand knitting yarns that, because of the needs of the military forces, no more woolen or worsted hand knitting yarns may be manufactured until further notice. At the same time reports were required as to stocks of yarns and wool on hand and contracts being filled.

Small Dealers Dilatory.

The larger manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, reported promptly. Where qualities and quantities of yarn have warranted, the American Red Cross has bought these stocks at a nominal profit to the holder. The Red Cross requires a much greater supply, however, for its war work and will take up suitable stocks from smaller dealers as rapidly as such stocks are offered.

Immediate Replies Asked.

The War Industries Board has no desire to penalize those who have reported their stocks of yarn for the benefit of those who have not and again asks for immediate replies from all who hold unreported stocks of hand knitting yarn. These include both woolen and worsted in Oxfords, khaki, natural, and natural gray colors and the reports should state the counts, make, quality, and cost price. The section wants reports on lots down to 50 pounds.

Forestry Loan of $1,000,000 from President's Fund

The Department of Agriculture authorizes the following:

A loan of $1,000,000 has been made to the Forest Service from the President's special defense fund to combat fires in the national forests of the Northwestern and Pacific Coast States.

Forestry officers regard the present fire season in the Northwest as being in some respects the most serious with which the Government has ever had to deal. Early drought, high winds, electrical storms, labor shortage, and depletion of the regular force because of the war have combined to intensify the danger. Timber necessary for war industries is in danger.

Resort to the President's special defense fund was necessary, because the 1918–19 appropriation bill for the Department of Agriculture has not yet been passed by Congress.

AUSTRALIAN OFFICIAL PRINTER TO VISIT U. S.

Consul William C. Magelssen, at Melbourne, reports:

The Federal and State Governments of Australia have for some time past experienced much difficulty in maintaining an adequate supply of paper for their purposes, and the outlook gives promise of still further trouble. With a view to remedying this matter Mr. Albert Mullett, the Government printer, will visit the United States to purchase paper.—Commerce Reports.

ADDITIONAL CHARGE ALLOWED FOR COAL TO ENGINE TENDERS

The Fuel Administration issues the following:

Compensation is allowed mines for the service of furnishing fuel direct to the tenders of locomotives, under an order of the United States Fuel Administration, announced and effective August 18.

Under the order there may be added to the applicable Government mine price of coal delivered directly from mine tipples to locomotive tenders the sum of 5 cents per net ton, or such other sum as may be agreed upon between the operator and the railroad receiving the coal.

In case of failure to agree upon price the operator shall furnish such coal at the applicable Government mine price, plus such additional sum in excess of 5 cents per ton as may be fixed by the Bureau of Prices of the United States Fuel Administration upon application of either the operator or the railroad.

Keep Bulletin Posted in All U. S. Post Offices

Reports having been made that at some post offices THE OFFICIAL (United States) BULLETIN is not being posted regularly for public reading in accordance with Postmaster General Burleson's orders, postmasters are again reminded of this important duty. It should be remembered that THE BULLETIN is the only publication available to all sections of the country that prints daily the complete and correct casualty lists from our armies oversea exactly as they are issued by the War Department. Many newspapers print only the lists having local interest in their own territory. THE BULLETIN prints every name and address, thus making it a certain means of informing friends and relatives, wherever they may be, of the fate of a soldier or sailor, no matter where his home town or city.

Postmasters are urged, aside from their duty as officials, to make it their patriotic and personal duty to see that the public has the fullest benefit of this privilege.

The Postmaster General's order follows:

All postmasters are directed to post THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN daily in a conspicuous place in the lobby or other portion of their respective post-office buildings where the public can read it; and, without expense to the Government, each and every postmaster is earnestly urged to see that this BULLETIN is made available to as many people as possible in the manner suggested.

A. S. BURLESON,
Postmaster General.

RED CROSS FUND IN CHILI.

Fewer Than 200 Americans Contribute Total of $118,000.

The American Red Cross issues the following:

The Red Cross War Council has received a cablegram from James Healey, chairman of the American Red Cross chapter at Valparaiso, Chili, stating that, during the Red Cross war fund drive in Valparaiso and the coast towns of Chili, which ended July 6, a total of $118,000 in American gold was collected, as follows: Valparaiso, $84,000; Antofagasta, $8,000; Iquique, $10,000; Concepcion, $8,000; other towns, $8,000.

The district in which this collection was made had less than 200 American residents.

Invoices of Merchandise When Purchased in Italy

The Treasury Department issues the following decision (37720) relating to Italian currency:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, July 27, 1918.

To collectors of customs and others concerned:

The department refers to its decision of April 10, 1918 (T. D. 37587), publishing a decree of the Italian Government in regard to the currency in which invoices of merchandise purchased in Italy should be made out.

The department is informed by the Secretary of State that the American ambassador at Rome reports that invoices may be accepted for certification by American consular officers even though they are made out in lire.

In view of this information, collectors of customs may accept invoices of merchandise purchased in Italy when made out in the currency actually paid therefor.

L. S. ROWE, Assistant Secretary.

Commissions Open to Civil Veterinarians

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the office of the Surgeon General:

Examinations for commission in the veterinary section of the Officers' Reserve Corps are open for veterinarians in civil life. All appointments will be in the grade of second lieutenant and further promotions based entirely on the qualifications of the officer.

Candidates must be citizens of the United States, between 22 and 55 years of age, must be graduates of recognized veterinary colleges or universities, and must be in the active practice of their profession in the States in which they reside at the time of appointment.

Detailed information may be had by writing to the Veterinary Division, Office of the Surgeon General, Washington.

Two Naval Reserve Men Lost on Steamer Kellogg

The Navy Department announces that information has just been received that two members of the United States Naval Reserve Force were lost when the S. S. Frederick Kellogg was torpedoed on August 13. The two men, who had been detailed to the Kellogg for instructional purposes, were:

Chester Curtis Cubberley, quartermaster, third class. Father, Isaac Newton Cubberley, 44 South Fifth Avenue, Long Branch, N. J.

William T. Stillman, quartermaster, third class. Wife, Helena Stillman, Shelton, Conn.

LETTER TO STATE GOVERNORS ON LABOR LAW ENFORCEMENT

Chairman Felix Frankfurter, of the War Labor Policies Board, has sent the following letter regarding the enforcement of State labor laws to the governors of States:

The War Labor Policies Board, appointed to unify the labor policies of the Federal Government, has prepared various contract clauses which affect industrial relations. All future contracts given out by Government departments will include these clauses. They make certain requirements, such as the restriction of child labor and convict labor and the observance of all State factory laws.

Officials in States.

It is planned to designate the proper officials in each State to consult with and assist the Federal authorities, who are responsible for enforcing these regulations and who will, to some extent, maintain inspection services of their own.

For this purpose the War Labor Policies Board requests your cooperation in carrying out this policy. It intends to designate Dr. A. C. Summers, commissioner of Agriculture, commerce, and industries, or his successor for this work, and hopes that you will direct him to assist the Federal authorities.

Conference is Called.

The Federal Government in its activities concerned with industrial relations is brought into increasing contact with State agencies. A more intimate understanding of their common purposes in the enforcement of industrial standards is therefore essential. To that end a conference of State agencies is being called to meet in Washington September 30 and October 1.

I confidently count on you to help toward achieving the important end of this conference by sending a representative from the department named.

Supplying Railroad Cars for Stone, Sand and Gravel

UNITED STATES RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION,
Washington, Aug. 17, 1918.

Supplement No. 1 to Circular CS—13.

TO RAILROADS:

In accordance with the understanding expressed in Car Service Section Circular CS 13, and to avoid decline in coal loading, carriers will immediately amend their practices regarding car supply for stone, sand, and gravel so as to increase cars available for coal loading as promptly and as greatly as possible. Necessary curtailment of open-top car supply for stone, sand, and gravel must be effected so as to least affect the movement of raw materials for blast furnace and foundry operations.

Noncoal producing railroads will be expected hereunder to more promptly return empty open-top cars to their coal producing connections.

W. C. KENDALL,
Manager Car Service Section.

Save for the country's sake.

American Communique

The following is authorized by the Secretary of War:

American Official Communique No. 96.

HEADQUARTERS, AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES,
August 18, 1918.

Section A.—Aside from artillery activity and fruitless hostile raids in the Vosges there is nothing to report.

Section B.—The commander in chief has awarded distinguished service crosses to the following members of the A. E. F. for the acts of gallantry set forth after their names:

Second Lieut. CARL C. RICE, M. G. B. "In command of a machine-gun section on June 6, 1918, near Chateau Thierry, France, he was wounded soon after the advance began, but refused to have his wound dressed for fear it would delay the movement. He bravely continued to lead the section until he fell from exhaustion."

Pvt. THEODORE PISTICOUDIS, M. G. B. "When three infantrymen were buried by a shell explosion near Chateau Thierry, June 6, 1918, he fearlessly left shelter in face of heavy shelling and rescued them."

First Lieut. H. C. MOLESBERRY, Engineers. "In the vicinity of Le Thiolet, on the night of June 6–7, 1918, he courageously took command of and efficiently directed the advance of an Infantry unit, when all its officers had been killed or wounded."

Pvt. JEFFERSON HOLT, medical detachment, Engineers, and Pvt. CHARLES RAFFINGTON, medical detachment, Engineers. "During the day and night of June 2–3, 1918, they exposed themselves to severe and continuous fire beyond call of duty in order to bring aid to wounded engineers and marines."

First Lieut. CHARLES C. RENTFRO, Infantry. "For three days, July 15–18, 1918, before St. Agnan, France, he went without sleep in order to care for the wounded, and performed his work fearlessly, without shelter, under continuous bombardment."

Pvt. GEORGE W. HOLLY, Infantry. "On the night of June 23, 1918, near Baccarat, France, he attempted to catch a hand grenade thrown into the window of his dugout by a German and did succeed in diverting it and thereby saving from death or injury a number of his comrades, but in the effort lost most of his hand."

The War Department announces the following emergency addresses of the men cited by the commanding general of the American Expeditionary Forces in communique No. 96:

Second Lieut. Carl C. Rice, Company C, 1st Machine Gun Battalion. J. D. Rice, father, Rolla, Mo.

Pvt. Theodore Pistikoydis, 1st Company, 5th Machine Gun Battalion. Mrs. A. Dafont, friend, 402 South Sixteenth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

First Lieut. H. C. Molesberry, 2d Engineers. Mrs. W. N. Molesberry, Andridge, Pa.

Pvt. Jefferson Holt, Medical Detachment, 2d Engineers. George W. Holt, father, Kent, Tex.

Pvt. Charles Raffington. No record.

First Lieut. Charles C. Rentfro, Infantry. No record.

Pvt. George W. Haley, mess sergeant, Company C, 317th Engineers. Mrs. Persilla Haley, 610 Chandler Street, Madisonville, Ohio.

158,011 Estimated Total of Young Men Who Will Register August 24

The War Department authorizes the following from the Office of the Provost Marshal General:

A revised estimate of the registration on August 24 of young men who have reached their twenty-first birthday since June 5, 1918, and on or before August 24, 1918, indicates a total enrollment of 158,011.

This estimate, by States, follows:

Alabama	3,305	Nebraska	2,075
Arizona	391	Nevada	135
Arkansas	2,824	New Hampshire	592
California	3,768	New Jersey	4,416
Colorado	1,343	New Mexico	436
Connecticut	2,238	New York	14,932
Delaware	387	North Carolina	3,600
District of Columbia	555	North Dakota	1,098
Florida	1,249	Ohio	9,363
Georgia	3,648	Oklahoma	3,426
Idaho	643	Oregon	999
Illinois	9,545	Pennsylvania	13,583
Indiana	4,265	Rhode Island	827
Iowa	3,812	South Carolina	2,258
Kansas	2,691	South Dakota	1,271
Kentucky	3,880	Tennessee	3,786
Louisiana	3,040	Texas	7,353
Maine	1,100	Utah	655
Maryland	2,209	Vermont	505
Massachusetts	5,310	Virginia	3,249
Michigan	5,454	Washington	1,618
Minnesota	3,969	West Virginia	2,487
Mississippi	2,543	Wisconsin	4,391
Missouri	5,540	Wyoming	325
Montana	922	Total	158,011

Of this 158,011, representing the indicated total registration, it is estimated roughly that 50 per cent, or approximately 79,000, will be available for Class I.

SUPPLY OF FUEL FOR CEMENT MAKERS REDUCED 25 PER CENT

The Fuel Administration authorizes the following:

The United States Fuel Administration has issued an order curtailing the supply of fuel for the production of cement 25 per cent. The cement industry uses a very large quantity of coal, approximately 8,000,000 tons a year, and while a large quantity of cement is now being used for Government and other necessary construction, a careful study of the cement industry by the building section of the War Industries Board and by the Fuel Administration has shown that considerable quantities of cement are still being manufactured for use in nonwar construction, which could be postponed until later.

Provision is made whereby cement manufacturers may make cement in excess of their 75 per cent allotment, if this excess production is required by the necessities of the Government.

This order restricting the use of cement for nonwar purposes will make available thousands of tons of coal for war use.

WORK OF CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

SENATE.

With 57 Senators, more than a quorum, present, the Senate yesterday agreed to terminate its recess and meet Thursday for the purpose of considering the new man-power bill. No objection was made when Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, asked that regular business be resumed Thursday.

Senator Gore introduced an amendment to the man-power bill intending to defer the calling of men under 21 as long as possible. It provides that no man under that age shall be drafted for military service until, in the judgement of the President, all older men, so far as consistent with public interest, have been taken. It further provides that the same rule shall apply to the 19 and 20 year classes before taking the 18-year class.

In moving that adjournment be taken by the Senate yesterday out of respect for the late Senator Gallinger, Senator Nelson, of Minnesota, paid a tribute to the memory of the New Hampshire leader. He introduced a resolution which was unanimously adopted eulogizing Senator Gallinger and providing for the holding of a memorial service later. A committee was appointed to attend the funeral services at Concord, N. H. The members of this committee left Washington last night.

HOUSE.

Beginning with yesterday's session the House resumed regular business after a series of three-day adjournments during the past six weeks. The House adjourned yesterday soon after convening out of respect for the memory of the late Senator Gallinger. Majority Leader Kitchin, acting as Speaker, appointed a committee to represent the House at the funeral at Concord.

Secretary Baker, Gen. March, and Provost Marshal General Crowder were before the Military Affairs Committee, which began consideration of the new man-power bill. In discussing the provisions of the measure Secretary Baker stated that the fact that a man is married will not in itself constitute a reason for deferred classification. He said that his idea was that married men should be relieved only when they are entitled to it. Gen. March read a statement showing that on August 1, 1918, the American Army numbered 3,012,112 men, of whom 1,301,742 were overseas and 1,432,706 were in the United States and insular possessions. For the present it is planned to send 250,000 men a month to France, Gen. March said, adding:

"But we hope to increase that in the spring."

Gen. March also stated that "every single man" between 18 and 45 would be needed by next spring in order to exert the full force of American man power.

Provost Marshal General Crowder explained that the new program is expected to raise 2,300,000 men by June 30, 1919, and that it is proposed to call 2,000,000 men by that time.

To meet the urgent need for electric power in shipyards, munitions factories, and other war industries, a bill approved by the War Industries Board was introduced by Representative Sims, of Tennessee, authorizing the President to construct power plants to meet immediate demands at Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New Jersey cities and other eastern industrial centers.

REDEMPTION OF DAMAGED SAVING AND THRIFT STAMPS

OFFICE OF THIRD ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL,
Washington, August 13, 1918.

In redeeming war-savings stamps presented by the holders for payment, and thrift cards exchanged for war-savings stamps, postmasters will be guided by the following rulings of the Treasury Department:

"1. Portions of war-savings certificate stamps that are manifestly more than one-half of such stamps shall be redeemed at the full redemption value upon any given date of a full stamp, and no payment whatever shall be made upon a portion of a war-savings certificate stamp which is not manifestly more than one-half of a whole stamp.

"2. Portions of United States Government thrift stamps which are manifestly more than one-half of such stamps shall be received for credit at the full face value of such thrift stamps, and no credit whatever shall be made on a portion of a United States thrift stamp which is not manifestly more than one-half of a whole stamp."

Postmasters should understand that the foregoing rulings do not authorize them to redeem or replace damaged or mutilated war-savings stamps not affixed to war-savings certificates, or thrift stamps not affixed to thrift cards. Stamps which have become detached from certificates and damaged, or which are so badly damaged by fire or otherwise that the certificates to which they are affixed can not be presented at post offices for redemption in the usual manner, may be sent by the owners to the Secretary of the Treasury, Division of Loans and Currency, with a sworn statement of the facts and a request for redemeption.

Imperfectly printed or damaged war-savings and thrift stamps held in stock by postmasters should be sent to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Stamps, for credit.

A. M. DOCKERY,
Third Asst. P. M. General.

RULING ON SHIPYARD WAGES AND HOURS OF LABOR GIVEN OUT

The Shipping Board authorizes the following:

An important bulletin dealing with the questions of minimum wage and hours of work was issued Monday to all shipyards and auxiliary plants by the Industrial Relations Group, United States Shipping Board, Emergency Fleet Corporation.

The bulletin deals with a recent strike of 3,000 men in eight plants at Waynesboro, Pa. A decision on the matters at controversy in this strike was rendered by the National War Labor Board. The bulletin sets forth that this decision gives indication of the future policy of the board regarding minimum wage and hours of work. The bulletin follows:

Text of Bulletin.

"The Director of Industrial Relations is receiving numerous inquiries regarding the establishment of a minimum wage. The National War Labor Board is not ready to announce a fixed policy in this question, but its decision of July 23 gives an indication as to future action.

"At Waynesboro, Pa., 3,000 men in eight plants struck for a minimum wage of 30 cents per hour. The lowest-paid men had been getting 22 cents. The board established a minimum of 40 cents, 10 cents more than the workers asked. The board is giving further consideration to this minimum and reserves the right to revise it on the basis of what is necessary to maintain the worker and his family in reasonable comfort.

Other Features of Decision.

"Other important features of the decision are as follows:

"That the number of working hours in this plant shall be the same as at present. That time and one-half for ordinary overtime and double time for Sundays and those holidays fixed by the statutes of Pennsylvania be granted. The board announces that it has under consideration the matter of the determination of the proper working day, and the decision here made will be subject to modification when and as the board come to a determination in that regard.

"That the employees shall meet with committees of their own men in the various shops. That there will be no discrimination against union men, and that the unions shall not be permitted to use coercive means to obtain their objects in any event.

Agreements as to Apprentices.

"That apprentices be given an opportunity to learn a trade under circumstances as to character of work and compensation as may be agreed upon between committees of their men and their employees. That the request of the employees to the effect that all piecework and premium work be abolished be denied.

"The findings of the War Labor Board, of course, supersede the findings of the Shipbuilding Labor Adjustment Board for Shipworkers."

When you buy war-savings stamps you do not give—you receive.

TREASURY CERTIFICATE ISSUE TO RUN UNTIL JULY 15, 1919

The Treasury Department authorizes the following:

The Secretary of the Treasury, under the authority of the act approved September 24, 1917, as amended by the act approved April 4, 1918, offers for subscription, at par and accrued interest, Treasury certificates of indebtedness of the United States, tax series of 1919, dated and bearing interest from August 20, 1918, payable July 15, 1919, bearing interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum. Applications will be received at the Federal reserve banks. Bearer certificates, with interest coupons attached, will be issued in denominations of $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000.

Tax Exemptions.

Said certificates shall be exempt, both as to principal and interest, from all taxation now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any State, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority, except (a) estate or inheritance taxes, and (b) graduated additional income taxes, commonly known as surtaxes, and excess profits and war profits taxes, now or hereafter imposed by the United States, upon the income or profits of individuals, partnerships, associations, or corporations. The interest on an amount of bonds and certificates authorized by said act approved September 24, 1917, or by said act as amended by said act approved April 4, 1918, or by the act approved July 9, 1918, the principal of which does not exceed in the aggregate $5,000, owned by any individual, partnership, association, or corporation, shall be exempt from the taxes provided for in clause (b) above. Certificates of this series will be accepted at par, with an adjustment of accrued interest, under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, in payment of income and profits taxes when payable at or before the maturity of the certificates.

Minus Circulation Privilege.

The certificates of this series do not bear the circulation privilege and will not be accepted in payment on bond subscriptions. The right is reserved to reject any subscription and to allot less than the amount of certificates applied for, and to close the subscription at any time without notice. Payment at par and accrued interest for certificates allotted must be made on allotment. After allotment and upon payment Federal reserve banks will issue interim receipts pending delivery of the definitive certificates. Qualified depositaries will be permitted to make payment by credit for certificates allotted to them for themselves and their customers up to an amount for which each shall have qualified in excess of existing deposits when so notified by Federal reserve banks.

Reserve Banks Agents.

As fiscal agents of the United States, Federal reserve banks are authorized and requested to receive subscriptions and to make allotment in full in the order of the receipt of applications until further notice.

The fifth biweekly offering of certificates of indebtedness in anticipation of the fourth Liberty loan will be omitted.

Rules for Makers of Refrigerators Limiting the Use of Iron and Steel Issued by the War Industries Board

The War Industries Board issues the following:

WASHINGTON, August 16, 1918.

To the manufacturers of refrigerators:

It is of primary importance in the present emergency that the country's resources be used to full advantage, and that we husband our supplies of materials, equipment, and capital to aid in carrying on the war. The Conservation Division is making an inquiry to learn what savings the refrigerator manufacturing industry can effect, and how the amount of capital invested in manufacturers' and merchants' stocks can be reduced. This is in accordance with plans that are being put into effect in numerous industries.

The division has been advised that refrigerator manufacturers are offering a greater variety of grades, styles, and sizes than is necessary to meet the essential requirements of the civilian population in time of war, and that it would be entirely practicable to effect a substantial reduction. It is stated, furthermore, that some manufacturers are now offering styles of refrigerators and water coolers which consume a larger quantity of steel than is necessary or desirable at the present time. By reducing the variety and discontinuing these unnecessary features, the amount of capital in manufacturers' and merchants' stocks can be substantially reduced and important savings effected in steel and other war materials.

The division particularly requests manufacturers to discontinue using iron or steel wherever it is practicable to adopt a substitute. It is imperative that the use of steel be confined to strictly war industries, except where it is required to meet the essential demands of the civilian population. Steps have already been taken to insure an increased production of sheet zinc, and manufacturers of refrigerators should utilize this metal to replace iron or steel wherever possible. Experts have advised that the use of plain sheet zinc for this purpose is perfectly sanitary. A satisfactory process for applying enamel on sheet zinc has also been developed. The divisic will gladly aid any manufacturer with detailed information on this point.

It is, furthermore, extremely important that manufacturers curtail their consumption of block or pig tin and tin oxide. We are entirely dependent upon oversea shipments for our supplies of this metal. Considerable hazard is involved in its importation and large quantities are required for our war program. Laboratory and manufacturing tests are now being made to determine whether larger savings than provided for by the inclosed program can be effected. The division will welcome suggestions from manufacturers.

A program of conservation, which has been drawn up, is being submitted to each refrigerator manufacturer. A copy is inclosed. This program will be made effective unless substantial reasons are immediately presented to show that by some modification the needs of the Government can be met more effectually. If you can send us any suggestions whereby greater economies can be brought about, we shall be glad to receive them. Will you please acknowledge this letter promptly, assuring this division of your cooperation?

Yours, very truly,

CONSERVATION DIVISION,
WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD.

CONSERVATION DIVISION,
WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD,

7. The manufacture of refrigerators with double lids to be discontinued.

8. The use of iron or steel to be restricted to ice racks, flues, and drain pipes, porcelain linings and shelves, wire for shelves, nails, screws, and trimmings. Sheet zinc to be used wherever practicable.

9. The use of pure tin for tinning shelves to be discontinued and an alloy containing not more than 60 per cent tin substituted.

10. Solder for galvanized parts to contain not more than 45 per cent tin. For zinc parts not more than 50 per cent tin.

11. The manufacture of removable shelves may be continued, but these are not to be adjustable for height.

12. The use of galvanized iron for covering the under side of the ice chamber supports to be discontinued.

13. Each manufacturer to submit to this division a list of styles and sizes (outside measurement, height, width, and breadth) that he will continue to manufacture.

WAR FINANCE CORPORATION HELPING NEW YORK CANNERS

The War Finance Corporation authorizes the following:

The War Finance Corporation announces that it has effected an arrangement for extending financial assistance to the canners of New York State. This action insures the harvesting and preservation of this season's crop of spinach, peas, tomatoes, corn, and other vegetables, as well as a great variety of small fruits.

Warehouse Company Organized.

A warehouse company has been organized by the canners with paid-in capital of $100,000. This warehousing company issues receipts for goods stored, which receipts to the extent of 125 per cent of cost value of goods form the basis of collateral to secure the respective loans to canners. The Warehousing Co. is managed by 11 of the most representative and well-known canners of New York State. The arrangement provides that every canner in the State can avail himself of the facilities afforded, and no canner will be refused relief if he is worthy of it and has the required security.

Industry a Large One.

The canning industry of New York State is a large one, particularly active in the northern section of the State. In their application for aid the canners stated that in the last two seasons, when the crops were light, only a comparatively small amount of funds was required, while the present season's crop is a large one. Furthermore, in responding to the needs of the times, the canners have extended their acreage and enlarged their production. They stated also that the amount of money they have been able to procure from the banks with which they deal is entirely inadequate to enable them to continue their business and save these perishable food products; that the cost of containers and other expenses have increased; that the situation was precarious and a serious food loss was threatened, and that aid to be of real value had to come quickly, as otherwise a large amount of perishable food products would be lost, to the great detriment of growers, canners, and the consuming public, as well as our soldiers overseas.

Situation Already Relieved.

The attitude of the War Finance Corporation has already relieved the situation and has averted the serious food loss with which the canning industry of New York was confronted.

The comprehensive plan under which this relief is given was suggested to the canning industry by the War Finance Corporation. Its main feature is a carefully controlled system of warehousing goods at the respective canning plants so that the necessary adequate security may be obtained for the money advanced, as required by the War Finance Corporation act.

CONTROL OF RADIO SUBSTANCES.

Consul General Robert P. Skinner reports from London, England, under date of August 14, that the minister of munitions prohibits the purchase, sale, and delivery, except under license, of all radioactive substances.

MARINE CORPS COMMISSIONS AWARDED 91 ENLISTED MEN

Ninety-one enlisted men of the Marine Corps received their commissions as second lieutenants at the graduation exercises of the Marine Corps officers' training camp at Quantico, Va., Thursday, August 15. Maj. Gen. George Barnett, commandant, and Brig. Gen. Charles H. Lauchheimer, adjutant and inspector, attended the exercises, Gen. Barnett presenting the diplomas and Gen. Lauchheimer administering the oath.

The presentation of the commissions was preceded by a reception, each member of the graduating class being presented to the Major General Commandant and to the other officers present by Lieut. Col. P. M. Rixey, commandant of the Marine Officers' School.

All Former Enlisted Men.

All of the newly commissioned officers have served as enlisted men in the ranks of the Marine Corps, in accordance with the policy of Marine Corps headquarters to accept no civilian candidates for commissions. They were ordered to Quantico from Marine Corps posts, stations and ships three months ago to attend the officers' school. Four of them came from the legation guard at Peking, China; six from the Philippine Islands, while others came from Guam, Hawaii; California, Hayti, Santo Domingo, Nicaragua, the Gulf coast, Cuba, and the vessels of the fleet on both coasts.

Won after Hard Study.

All won their commissions after an intensive three months' course, in which some failed in the monthly examinations. Of those who have won commissions, many have held noncommissioned officers' posts in the Marine Corps. Among them are 3 former sergeants major, 1 gunnery sergeant, 3 quartermaster sergeants, 23 sergeants, and 28 corporals. The remainder of the graduating class were chosen from the grade of private.

SPECIAL LICENSE FOR EXPORT OF CERTAIN TRANSIENT GOODS

The War Trade Board issues the following:

The War Trade Board announces the revision of the regulations under which shipments of certain origin and destination, the importation of which has been otherwise licensed, may be exported without an individual export license when the same are being conveyed in transit, either in bond or otherwise, through the territory or via any port of the United States. The regulations which were announced on May 4, 1918 (W. T. B. R. 101), are now withdrawn and the following are in substitution thereof:

Regulations Substituted.

1. On July 3, 1918, the War Trade Board revised Special Export License RAC-42 which previously had been issued through the customs service. Under this revised license collectors of customs are authorized to allow to be exported shipments of all commodities of the origin and/or destination specified in paragraphs A, B, and C below, when the same are conveyed in transit through the territory or via any port of the United States, either in bond or otherwise, and when they are proposed to be exported from or taken out of any port of the United States.

A. Canada and Newfoundland.—Commodities originating in Canada or Newfoundland and destined to any country in the world except Sweden, European Holland, Denmark, Norway, Spain, Greece, and Switzerland.

B. Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan, and their colonies, possessions, and protectorates.—(1a) Commodities originating in Great Britain, France, Italy, or Japan or any of their colonies, possessions, or protectorates, when destined to any of the same: Provided, however, That this license does not cover shipments of commodities which have crossed or which it is proposed shall cross the United States from an Atlantic or a Pacific or Gulf port, from a Pacific to an Atlantic or Gulf port, or from a Gulf port to an Atlantic or Pacific port.

(2a) Commodities originating in or destined to Great Britain, France, or Italy, excluding their colonies, possessions, and protectorates: Provided, however, That this license does not cover shipments of commodities which have crossed, or which it is proposed shall cross the United States from an Atlantic to a Pacific or Gulf port, from a Pacific to an Atlantic or Gulf port, or from a Gulf port to an Atlantic or Pacific port.

(3a) Commodities originating in any South American country, or in Costa Rica, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Salvador, or Panama, destined for Japan and carried on Japanese vessels touching at any United States port.

C. Spain to Cuba via Porto Rico.—Commodities originating in Spain, its colonies, possessions, and protectorates, and destined for Cuba via Porto Rico.

Instructions to Collectors.

2. Before allowing any of the above-mentioned shipments, the collector of customs at the port of entry will require, in the case of rail shipments, that there shall be noted on the customs carrier's manifest, Form 7512, the full name and address of the ultimate consignee abroad and a statement to the effect that the shipment is made under License No. RAC–42. A true copy of such customs carrier's manifest, Form 7512, must be delivered by the carrier to the collector of customs at the port of exit. In the case of shipments by vessel, when Form 7512 is not used, the collector will require the filing of a copy of the ship's manifest or portion thereof, on which must be clearly shown the particular items thereon which are licensed under RAC–42. The copy of Form 7512 or the copy of the ship's manifest which is filed with the collector at the port of entry and exit shall be forwarded immediately by the collector to the War Trade Board, Washington, D. C.

3. It should be particularly noted that License RAC–42 authorizes the exportation of no commodity which is not "in transit" through the territory or via a port of the United States. Shippers should also understand that License No. RAC–42 is an export license and does not authorize the importation into the United States of any commodity without an import license, and also does not authorize any shipment from or to any individual, partnership, association, or corporation whose name appears on the enemy trading list.

4. Shipments traveling in transit by rail on customs carrier's manifest, Form 7512, must be covered by individual import and export licenses when such carrier customs manifest does not show at the time of entry the name and address of the ultimate consignee.

CIVILIAN EMPLOYEES PRAISED FOR THEIR DEVOTION TO DUTY

The War Department authorizes the following:

The following communication has been addressed to the civilian employees of the Quartermaster Corps in Washington by Brig. Gen. R. E. Wood, Acting Quartermaster General. It is an appreciation of the splendid work which the men and women employees of the Quartermaster Corps, situated in the temporary buildings, have been doing during the hot spell.

"It is well known that the combination of temperature and humidity makes Washington an uncomfortable city for strenuous work during the summer months. We have already this summer experienced the hottest day since record was established in 1870.

"The conditions of war, however, allow no choice of place or time of work. Our work in support of the boys in the trenches, with whose discomforts ours are not to be compared, must continue daily. A large number of us must work in Washington, the center of the war organization, and in such buildings and under such general conditions as the emergency situation imposes.

"The Secretary of War requests me to express to you his appreciation of your high purpose in participating in war work, and particularly of the steadfastness of your purpose during the present period of uncomfortable conditions. It is expected that every one will loyally continue to 'carry on.'"

SERIES OF WAR LECTURES.

A series of lectures illustrated with slides on the various war activities of the United States up to this time is being prepared by George F. Zook, professor of modern European history, Pennsylvania State College. The cantonments, airplanes, the Navy, shipbuilding, the trenches, and many other features of the war are described in an interesting and instructive way. The lectures will be especially useful for the work of teachers, Y. M. C. A. secretaries, and club officials.

Each lecture is accompanied by from 45 to 65 slides, which are being sold at the nominal price of 15 cents each. The lectures and slides will be available for use about October 1. For further information address the Division of Civic and Educational Publications, Committee on Public Information, Washington, D. C.

U. S. Protected Against All Financial Loss By Shipping Board Self-Insurance Plan

The Shipping Board issues the following:

There is a world of romance in marine and war-risk insurance, and no more fascinating subject than how men bravely risk life and property in submarine zones—their only protection the watchfulness of Uncle Sam and their own farsightedness in carrying ample insurance to cover property loss.

Provision Against All Loss.

Through the policy which it has adopted the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation has been able to employ measures to protect the United States against all financial loss due to perils of the sea. Fires, accidents, acts of God—such as the effects of tornadoes, storms, and heavy weather; breakage of machinery, explosions of boilers—all are provided for in the self-insurance carried by the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation.

For slightly more than one-half cent for every dollar value represented by ships the United States Shipping Board insures its vessels against marine losses on voyages from trans-Atlantic and Atlantic ports to European Atlantic ports. An additional 4 or 5 cents for every dollar of value represented by our vessels covers war losses, such as submarine sinkings, damage done by floating mines, and attacks by enemy vessels.

Approximately $30,000,000 in premiums had been set aside by the Shipping Board up to July 29 this year.

Estimated losses of all kinds suffered by the Emergency Fleet, including damages of ordinary character, amount to about $13,500,000.

Experts in Charge.

Chairman Edward N. Hurley has made it a basic policy to surround himself with the best experts in their official lines that can be obtained. It was this policy which brought to the insurance committee of the Shipping Board the services of Hendon Chubb, of New York; H. F. Eggert, of New York; and W. R. Hedge, president of the Boston Insurance Co. It is through these experts all insurance problems must pass.

PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES TAKING TITLE TO CERTAIN LANDS FOR NAVAL PURPOSES

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas the act of Congress approved July 1, 1918 (Public, No. 182, 65th Cong.), making appropriations for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, and for other purposes, provides that:

"The President is hereby authorized and empowered, within the amounts herein appropriated therefor, to take over immediately for the United States possession of and title to each and all of the parcels of land, including appurtenances and improvements for the acquisition of which authority is herein granted and for which appropriations are herein made: Provided, That if said lands and appurtenances and improvements shall be taken over as aforesaid, the United States shall make just compensation therefor, to be determined by the President, and if the amount thereof so determined by the President is unsatisfactory to the person entitled to receive the same, such person shall be paid 75 per cent of the amount so determined by the President and shall be entitled to sue the United States to recover such further sum as added to said 75 per cent will make up such amount as will be just compensation therefor, in the manner provided for by section 24, paragraph 20 and section 145, of the Judicial Code: Provided further, That upon the taking over of said property by the President as aforesaid the title to all property so taken over shall immediately vest in the United States;"

Whereas the act of Congress aforesaid authorizes the acquisition of additional land for naval purposes at the following places, namely, naval torpedo station, Newport, R. I.; naval magazine, Lake Denmark, N. J.; naval magazine, Fort Mifflin, Pa.; depot of supplies, Marine Corps, Philadelphia, Pa.; navy yard, Washington, D. C.; naval proving ground, Indianhead, Md.; marine recruiting station, Port Royal, S. C.; and also authorizes the selection and acquisition of a site for a navy mine depot; and makes appropriations for the acquisition of the land required at the places mentioned; and

Whereas it is a military necessity for the United States to take possession of the tracts of land required for naval purposes at the places aforesaid, together with all improvements, easements, rights of way, riparian and other rights and privileges appurtenant or appertaining in any way to the said tracts of land, and to begin without delay the development of the said tracts of land for the uses and purposes of the naval service of the United States:

Now, therefore, know all men by these presents, that I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the said act of Congress approved July 1, 1918, do hereby on behalf of the United States, take title to and authorize the Secretary of the Navy to take possession of the following described tracts of land:

TRACT NO. 1.

Additional land for increasing ordnance facilities, naval torpedo station, Newport, R. I.: All that certain tract of land situate, lying, and being in the county of Newport, State of Rhode Island, in the Eastern Passage of Narragansett Bay in approximate latitude 41° 32′ N. and longitude 71° 20′ 45″ W., being all of that certain island known as Gould Island as said island is shown on U. S. C. and G. S. chart 353 of Newport Harbor, containing about 56 acres, together with all rights of way, riparian, and other rights, privileges, and easements whatsoever appurtenant or appertaining in any way to said above described tract of land, including privately owned rights in the underwater lands lying between the high-water line of the said above-described tract and the channel of Narragansett Bay; excepting from the above-described tract of land that certain tract of land on the easterly shore of said island now owned by the United States and under the control of the Bureau of Lighthouses, Department of Commerce.

TRACT NO. 2.

Additional land for increasing ordnance facilities, naval magazine, Lake Denmark, N. J.: All those two certain parcels of land situate, lying, and being in the county of Morris, State of New Jersey, adjacent to the naval magazine, Lake Denmark, N. J., as shown on a certain map bearing the legend "Map of the Louis Doland property adjoining U. S. ammunition depot at Lake Denmark near Dover, N. J., surveyed Oct., 1917, by C. W. Booth, subinspector, public works dept., Brooklyn Navy Yard, N. Y.," which said map is on file in the office of the solicitor, Department of the Navy, which said two parcels of land are more definitely described as follows:

Parcel 1.

Beginning for the same at a point in the north line of the country road running to the said Lake Denmark along the southerly and easterly side of the property of said Doland, which point is designated on the said map as "A" and is located approximately 120 feet west of a certain two-story house situate on the property of said Louis Doland; thence easterly following the northerly line of said country road to a certain point designated on said map as "B," which point is approximately 524 feet east and 45 feet north of said point "A"; thence in a northeasterly direction following the westerly line of said country road to a certain point designated on said map as "C," which point is approximately 818 feet east and 790 feet north from said point "A"; thence continuing in a general northeasterly direction along the said westerly side of said country road by a concave line to a certain point designated on said map as "D." which point is approximately 1,095 feet east and 1,265 feet north from said point "A," said point "D" also being the point of intersection of the boundary line of the naval reservation with the westerly side of said country road; thence in a general northeasterly, thence northwesterly, and thence southwesterly direction following the boundary line of the naval reservation on approximately the following courses and distances:

North 24° east a distance of 730 feet, more or less; thence north 59° 15′ west a distance of 725 feet, more or less; thence south 87° 45′ west a distance of 800 feet, more or less; thence south 21° 15′ west a distance of 280 feet, more or less; thence south 6° east a distance of 245 feet, more or less, to a certain point designated on said map as point "I," which point marks the intersection of the boundary line of the naval reservation, the property of the said Doland and the property marked on said map Empire Iron & Steel Co.; thence south 38° 30′ west a distance of 395 feet, more or less, to a point in the easterly line of a country road running along the westerly side of the property of said Doland and the said Empire Iron & Steel Co. a distance of 1,550 feet, more or less, to the point of beginning, containing 61.04 acres, more or less.

Parcel 2.

Beginning for the same at a certain point designated on said map as "N" in the northeasterly line of a country road, which point marks the southeasterly corner of a certain tract of land designated on said map as the land of Larsen; thence north 37° 30′ east along the boundary line of the property of the naval reservation and the land of said Larsen a distance of 355 feet more or less; thence north 44° west, following the boundary line between the naval reservation and the property of said Larsen a distance of 130 feet more or less to a point in the boundary line of the naval reservation, the land of said Larsen, and the land designated on said map as the land of Smith; thence north 38° 15′ east, following the boundary line between the naval reservation and the land of said Smith a distance of 265 feet more or less; thence north 53° 30′ west, following the boundary line between the naval reservation and the land of said Smith a distance of 210 feet more or less; thence south 37° 45′ west, continuing along the boundary line between the naval reservation and the land of said Smith a distance of 235 feet more or less to a point in the boundary line of the naval reservation, the land of said Smith, and the land designated on said map as the land of Taylor; thence north 50° west, following the boundary line between the naval reservation and the land of said Taylor a distance of 143 feet more or less; thence south 42° 45′ west, following the boundary line between the naval reservation and the land of said Taylor a distance of 420 feet more or less to a point in the northeasterly line of the said country road; thence in a southeasterly direction, following the northeasterly side of said country road a distance of 530 feet more or less to the point of beginning; containing in all 5.84 acres more or less; together with all rights of way

Proclamation Taking Title to Land for Naval Purposes

and other rights, easements, and privileges whatsoever appertaining or appurtenant in any manner to the said two above-described parcels of land.

TRACT NO. 3.

Additional land for increasing ordnance facilities, naval magazine, Fort Mifflin, Pa.: All that certain tract of land situate, lying, and being in the fortieth ward of the city of Philadelphia, county of Philadelphia, and State of Pennsylvania, as shown on a map on file in the office of the Solicitor, Department of the Navy, which map bears the legend "Plan of property of the United States, comprising Fort Mifflin, Mud Island, and the old lazaretto in the fortieth ward, Philadelphia, plan No. 6," which said tract of land is more definitely described as follows:

Beginning for the same at a certain point in the low-water line of the Delaware River, which point also marks the southeasterly corner of the naval reservation, naval magazine, Fort Mifflin, Pa.; thence in a northerly direction following the easterly boundary line of the said naval reservation, on substantially the following courses, namely, from the point of beginning north 41° west a distance of 299.5 feet more or less; thence north 30° 29′ west a distance of 277.92 feet more or less; thence north 21° west a distance of 272.33 feet more or less; thence south 66° 23′ west a distance of 152.92 feet more or less; thence north 30° 17′ west a distance of 1.296.92 feet more or less; thence north 23° 04′ west a distance of 482.25 feet more or less to the southerly line of the right of way of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co.; thence in an easterly direction following the southerly line of said right of way on substantially the following courses:

North 30° 18′ 30″ east a distance of 858.96 feet; thence south 59° 41′ 30″ east a distance of 14.97 feet more or less; thence continuing along the southerly line of the said right of way in an easterly direction along an arc with a radius of 2,964.77 feet, a distance of 983.15 feet more or less; thence north 11° 18′ 30″ east a distance of 72.36 feet more or less to the point of intersection with the low water line of the Schuylkill River; thence in a general southeasterly, then southerly, and then southwesterly direction following the low-water line of the Schuylkill River and the Delaware River to the point of beginning; containing in all 150.5 acres more or less; together with all riparian rights, privileges, easements, and other rights whatsoever appurtenant or appertaining in any way to said above-described tract of land, including privately owned rights in the under-water land lying between the low-water line of the said above-described tract and the pierhead and bulkhead lines as such lines are now or may be hereafter established.

TRACT NO. 4.

Additional land for depot of supplies, Marine Corps, Philadelphia, Pa.: All that certain tract of land situate, lying, and being in the city of Philadelphia, State of Pennsylvania, as shown on a certain map on file in the Office of the Solicitor, Department of the Navy, which said map bears the legend "Headquarters U. S. Marine Corps, Washington, D. C. Property layout, Philadelphia depot, March 7, 1917," fronting partly on the south side of Alter Street, partly on the east side of Fifteenth Street, and partly on the north side of Ellsworth Street, being more definitely described as follows:

Beginning for the same at a point in the south line of Alter Street, which point is 98 feet 8.5 inches, more or less, west of the intersection of the south line of Alter Street with the west line of Broad Street, and also marks the intersection of the south line of Alter Street with the west line of a certain 4-foot alley shown on said map, thence in a westerly direction following the south line of Alter Street to its point of intersection with the property of the United States occupied by the depot of supplies, Marine Corps, a distance of 210 feet 6 inches, more or less; thence in a southwesterly direction following the said property of the United States a distance of 13 feet 1 inch, more or less; thence in a westerly direction continuing along the said property of the United States to the point of intersection with the east line of Fifteenth Street a distance of 83 feet 11 inches, more or less; thence in a southerly direction following the easterly line of Fifteenth Street to the point of intersection with the northerly line of a certain 3-foot alley shown on said map, a distance of 16 feet, more or less; thence in an easterly direction following the northerly line of said 3-foot alley a distance of 53 feet 1 inch, more or less; thence in a southerly direction following the westerly boundary line of the property understood to be owned by a certain Michael Dondero to the point of intersection with the northerly line of Ellsworth Street, a distance of 74 feet, more or less; thence in an easterly direction following the northerly line of Ellsworth Street a distance of 20 feet, more or less, to the easterly boundary line of the said property of Michael Dondero; thence in a northerly direction following the easterly boundary line of the said property of Michael Dondero a distance of 74 feet 11.5 inches, more or less, to the point of intersection with the southerly line of the property understood to be owned by a certain Samuel Jackson; thence in an easterly direction following the southerly boundary line of the said property of Samuel Jackson to the point of intersection with the westerly boundary line of the property understood to be owned by a certain Donato Tella, a distance of 13 feet 8.5 inches, more or less; thence in a southerly direction following the westerly boundary line of the said property of Donato Tella to the point of intersection with the northerly line of a certain 3-foot alley on said map prolonged in a westerly direction a distance of 10 feet 6.875 inches, more or less; thence in an easterly direction following the northerly line of a certain 3-foot alley as shown on said map to the point of intersection with the westerly line of a certain 4-foot alley as shown on said map, a distance of 210 feet 6 inches, more or less; thence in a northerly direction following the westerly line of said 4-foot alley to the point of beginning, a distance of 40 feet, more or less; containing in all 87,106 square feet, more or less; the said property being improved with the premises known as Nos. 1414, 1416, 1418, 1420, 1422, 1424, 1426, 1428, 1430, 1432, 1434, 1436, 1438, 1440, and 1442 Alter Street, No. 1129 Fifteenth Street, and No. 1435 Ellsworth Street, together with all easements, rights, and privileges whatsoever appurtenant or appertaining in any way to said tract of land above described.

bounded on the east by the waters of Beaufort River and on the south and west by the waters of Port Royal Sound and Broad River; containing in all 6,000 acres more or less of fast land and marshland; together with all riparian rights, privileges, easements, and other rights whatsoever appurtenant to or appertaining in any way to said above-described tract of land, including privately owned rights in the underwater lands lying between the high-water line of the said above-described tract and the channel of Beaufort River, Port Royal Sound, and Broad River, excepting from said above-described area such lands as are now owned by the United States.

The several tracts of land above described, together with all improvements thereon and all rights and privileges appurtenant or appertaining in any way thereto, are hereby declared to be and the same are set apart for use for naval purposes and are placed under the exclusive control of the Secretary of the Navy, who is authorized and directed to take immediate possession thereof in accordance with the terms of said act on behalf of the United States, for the purposes aforesaid.

The title to the several tracts of land above described shall be deemed to be vested in the United States from and as of the date that actual possession thereof is taken by the Secretary of the Navy.

The Secretary of the Navy is authorized and directed to take such steps as may in his judgment be necessary for the purpose of conducting negotiations with the owners of property or rights whatsoever therein within the said above-described tracts of land for the purpose of ascertaining the just compensation to which said owners are entitled in order that compensation therefor may be made in accordance with the provisions of the act aforesaid. All owners of land and improvements title and possession of which are taken hereunder in accordance with the terms of the act hereunder and all persons having claims or liens in respect thereto are hereby notified to appear before the board to be appointed by the Secretary of the Navy and present their claims for compensation for consideration by the said board in accordance with the provisions of the act aforesaid.

All persons residing within said above-described tracts of land or owning movable property situate thereon are hereby notified to vacate the said tracts of land and to remove therefrom all movable property within 30 days from the date of this proclamation: Provided, however, That the Secretary of the Navy may in his discretion and where such action will not interfere with the public interests extend said period of 30 days for such further period as he may deem appropriate.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the District of Columbia this 7th day of August in the year of our Lord 1918 and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and forty-third.

[SEAL.] WOODROW WILSON.

By the President.

FRANK L. POLK,
Acting Secretary of State.

The importance of cereal grains and sugar in the diet of warring nations is reflected by an Austrian food order in effect last April. Every farmer was permitted to buy 2 kilos (4.4 pounds) of sugar for every 4 bushels of grain delivered.

VOL. 2 WASHINGTON, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 21, 1918. No. 392

MR. M'ADOO ASKS THE PUBLIC NOT TO USE THE RAILROADS FOR ANY UNNECESSARY TRAVEL

SAVE THE CARS FOR WAR WORK

Patriotic Duty Impressed Upon All to Spare Rolling Stock, Engines, and Fuel for the Movement of Troops and Munitions.

The Director General of Railroads has issued the following statement to the public:

WASHINGTON, August 20, 1918.

Complaints have reached me from time to time of overcrowded trains and unsatisfactory conditions prevailing in some sections of the country in passenger-train service. I feel certain that there are grounds for some of these complaints, but I am sure the public will be interested to know that the reasons are twofold:

First, the great number of troops now being handled over the various railroads between the homes and the cantonments, between the different cantonments and then to the seaboard, is making extraordinary demands upon the passenger car and sleeping car equipment of the country. This has caused a scarcity of day coaches and sleeping cars which it is impossible to remedy immediately.

Secondly, the increased demands upon track and terminal facilities for the transportation of the tremendous amounts of coal, food supplies, raw materials, and other things required for military and naval operations, as well as for the support of the civil population of the country, force the largest possible curtailment of passenger-train service. The movements of troops and war materials are, of course, of paramount importance and must be given at all times the right of way.

It was hoped that the increase in passenger rates recently made would have the wholesome effect of reducing unnecessary passenger traffic throughout the country. The smaller the number of passengers who travel the greater the number of locomotives and cars and the larger the amount of track and terminal facilities that will be freed for essential troop and war material movements. Engineers, firemen, and other skilled laborers will also be released for service on troop and necessary freight trains.

Among the many patriotic duties of the American public at this time is the duty to refrain from traveling unnecessarily. Every man, woman, and child who can avoid using passenger trains at this time should do so. I earnestly hope that they will do so. Not only will they liberate essential transportation facilities which are necessary for war purposes, but they

RAMMED AND SUNK U-BOAT, AMERICAN CAPTAIN REPORTS

The Committee on Public Information issues the following:

The Navy Department is informed that the captain of an American steamer reports that his vessel rammed a submarine about 9.30 p. m., on August 17 near Winter Quarter Shoals, off the Virginia coast. The captain stated that the submarine was struck on her port bow, bringing her alongside. The crew of the submarine hailed his ship, saying they were friends. The voices, he says, had a strong German accent. Replying that "They were no friends of his," the captain says he left on his course. The steamer is now in port with a badly damaged bow and a quantity of water in her hold. The captain thinks he sank the submarine.

URUGUAY'S FOREIGN MINISTER HERE AS GUEST OF THE NATION

Dr. Balfasar Brum, minister for foreign affairs of Uruguay, has arrived at an American port. He comes to the United States as a guest of the Nation. He will arrive in Washington on the afternoon of Thursday, August 22.

Following are the members of the Uruguayan party visiting the United States:

Dr. Baltasar Brum, minister for foreign affairs of Uruguay.

Dr. Cesar Miranda, first vice president of the House of Representatives.

Dr. Javier Mendivil, senator of the Republic.

Dr. Asdrubal Delgado, finance delegate.

Dr. Justo Jose Mendoza, secretary to the minister.

Lieut. Juan Canosa, Uruguayan Navy, adjutant to the minister.

The following American officials met the Uruguayan party at the port of arrival:

Jordan H. Stabler, Chief, Division of Latin-American Affairs, Department of State.

Col. William Kelly, United States Army.

Lieut. Commander Augustin T. Beauregard, United States Navy.

Mr. Hugo V. de Pena, Uruguayan charge d'affaires, also went to meet the visitors.

32 U. S. ARMY DIVISIONS NOW ON FRENCH SOIL GEN. MARCH ANNOUNCES; MORE SHIPS ARE NEEDED

BATTLE LINE IS SHORTER

Distance From North Sea to Rheims Cut 50 Miles by Recent Allied Drives. Americans in Italy Not Yet on Front—Location of Certain Divisions Announced—Successor to Gen. Duncan.

Semiweekly press interview by Gen. March, August 21, 1918:

Since the last time I talked to you the allies have continued their activity in France, making attacks on limited fronts at widely separated points. In the Flanders salient the flanks have been bent in by attacks southeast of Meteren on the north flank and near Merville on the southern flank. The new apex produced became untenable for the enemy and they fell back. The salient has been flattened out by a retirement of from 1 to 2 miles on a 14-mile front.

British Advance on the Scarpe.

East of Arras on the Scarpe River the British advanced in sharp fighting, taking Faupoux. On the plains near Roye, the continued pressure by the French and British has carried the line well back of the old 1916–17 line.

Between the Oise and the Aisne on a 15-mile front the French initiated an attack on Sunday evening. That carried the line forward about 4 miles across a broken plateau to its northern edge, from which the French now overlook the plains around Noyon, which is only 4 miles away.

In the Vosges the 5th United States Division, in the sector of St. Die, which has been quiet for a long time, captured the town of Frapelle, eliminating a very sharp salient there. Here the line is only 4 miles from the German frontier.

The attack reported to me verbally by the Associated Press this morning north of the Ancre has not been officially reported, and I will not comment on it.

Shortening the Battle Line.

The general effect of these drives up to this time has been to shorten the line from the North Sea to Rheims by 50 miles. At the beginning of the drive, when the

FORMS FOR 18-45 REGISTRANTS ALREADY BEING DISTRIBUTED BY PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL

PRINTING PROVES TO BE BIG TASK

About 35,000,000 Envelopes Needed by Local Boards in Addition to Cards, Questionnaires, Etc.—Anticipating Action by Congress.

The War Department authorizes the following from the office of the Provost Marshal General:

Distribution of the printed forms which will be required for the registration of men who will be affected by the proposed act of Congress extending the draft age limits has been started under direction of the Provost Marshal General.

The preparation and distribution of these forms, together with the providing of other equipment needed, constitutes probably the largest single task of the kind ever undertaken by the Government. An idea of the work involved may be gained from the fact that 16 of the largest envelope manufacturers in the country, for example, are working night and day turning out the 35,000,000 envelopes that will be needed by local boards in sending out the questionnaires to registrants, and by registrants in returning them to the boards.

Cards and Questionnaires.

Registration cards and questionnaire forms are being printed by the millions. Practically all the large filing-case manufacturers in the country are busy turning out the cases that will be used in filing the registration cards and the returned questionnaires. For the questionnaires alone 58,000 steel filing cases are being made, each capable of holding 250 forms. Regulations governing the registration have been drawn up and only await the insertion of the registration date and any changes in the system that might be dictated by the final decisions of Congress. The bill as presented to Congress fixes the new age limits at 18 to 45 years, and all printing orders have been tentatively based on the estimate that approximately 13,000,000 new registrants will be added to the rolls under the extension of the ages to these limits. For an enrollment of such magnitude it is estimated that the services of between 160,000 and 170,000 registrars will be required, and that every schoolhouse in the country will be needed for the registration.

Response by Local Boards.

Generous response has been made by local boards throughout the country to the recent request of the Provost Marshal General that they begin preparations for the big registration in anticipation of early action by Congress. These preparations, reports indicate, have gone ahead steadily in spite of the obligation resting on the boards to prepare for the enrollment on August 24 of those reaching their twenty-first birthday since June 5, 1918, and on or before August 24, 1918.

It is the intention to have the boards completely equipped for the larger registration so that the increased man power may be registered, catalogued, and classified as rapidly as possible after the bill is passed. Already entire express trains laden with forms and blanks are on their way across the continent.

Special Reserve Ration as Lunch Between Shots for Our Boys in Battle

The War Department authorizes the following:

A special reserve ration for use in the trenches and under first-line conditions in France has been worked out, after careful study, by the subsistence division of the Quartermaster Corps. The ration is being packed in camouflaged galvanized iron tins, each container holding 25 rations and weighing about 107 pounds. It consists of hard bread, corn beef, corn beef hash, roast beef, salmon, sardines, soluble coffee, sugar, salt, and the necessary can openers. The package is hermetically sealed, each container being subjected to water and air pressure before being accepted. This rigid precaution is taken to safeguard the food therein against poisoning in gas attacks.

The reserve ration, as the name implies, is used only in emergencies, as every effort is made to give the men in the trenches hot, freshly cooked food. When this is not possible, the reserve ration will guarantee palatable food, at least. Special care is taken in the manufacture of this ration to see that only food of the highest quality enters into its composition.

will save money which they can invest in Liberty bonds and thereby help themselves as well as their country; and the fewer who travel the more ample the passenger-train service will be.

I may add that consistently with the paramount demands of the war every possible effort is being made by the Railroad Administration to supply the largest possible amount of comfortable and prompt passenger-train service.

W. G. McAdoo,
Director General of Railroads.

225,000,000 POUNDS OF SUGAR USED BY ARMY IN A YEAR

237 Pounds a Day Consumed by Each One Thousand Men at Their Meals.

The War Department authorizes the following:

Since the Government has been handling the purchase of sugar, through the United States Food Administration (Sept. 1, 1917), approximately 200,000,000 pounds have been used by the Army. This amount is exclusive of the depots and camps on the western coast, which have been using raw sugar from Manila, having it refined in the West. A conservative statement of the amount of sugar procured on the Pacific coast is about 25,000,000 pounds, making the total purchase for the Army 225,000,000 pounds. It is found that about 237 pounds of sugar are consumed by 1,000 men at their meals in one day.

Statistics By An Officer.

These figures on sugar consumption were so tempting to a statistical-loving officer in the subsistence division of the Quartermaster Corps that he evolved from them the following facts:

From September 1, 1917, to June 30, 1918, a period of eight months, the amount of sugar furnished through the allotment branch was so great that the sacks properly placed would make a solid wall 4 feet wide and 5 feet high from Baltimore, Md., to Washington, D. C. It would require 3,345 sixty-foot box cars to carry this amount of sugar, and would take six men working eight hours each day in the year for five years to unload it from the cars. It required 1 square mile of sacking to sack this amount of sugar.

Some Figures About Tomatoes.

This statistician was also attracted by the figures regarding the purchase of canned tomatoes. From these figures he elicited the interesting information that the purchase by the Army from the 1917 pack of tomatoes was so large that if the cans were to be placed end to end the line would extend from the Army on the Marne to Linda Vista, Cal. They would stretch from Seattle to New York City and back to San Francisco, thence to New Orleans, extending across the continent two and one-half times. If piled up, they would make three monuments the size of the Washington Monument.

Approximately 75,000,000 cans of tomatoes were purchased by the Quartermaster Corps from the 1917 pack. They are packed in what are known as No. 3 cans, which are 4⅞ inches in height, and it is on the basis of these cans that the total length of the cans placed end to end was computed.

ASSIGNED TO CAMP JACKSON.

Special Orders, No. 189:

47. Lieut. Col. William Couper, Quartermaster Corps, is relieved from his present station and duties, will proceed to Camp Jackson, S. C., take station at that place, and report to the commanding general for duty as officer in charge of construction work under the direction of the officer in charge of construction division.

(3) Prospective importers in European Holland should obtain from the Netherlands Overseas Trust Co. an import certificate. Upon receipt of the certificate the importer should notify the prospective exporter that such a certificate has been obtained and advise him of the serial number thereof. The exporter should thereupon apply to the War Trade Board, Bureau of Exports, Washington, D. C., for an export license, using Application Form X and such supplemental information sheets concerning the commodity as are required, and, in addition, furnish on Supplemental Sheet X–102 the gross weight of the proposed shipment and the serial number of the import certificate of the Netherlands Overseas Trust Co.

All shipments to European Holland, except those consigned to the Government of the Netherlands, must be consigned directly to and only to the Netherlands Overseas Trust Co. (W. T. B. R. 77, Mar. 15, 1918).

(4) In the case of proposed shipments to Denmark the prospective importer abroad first should obtain an import certificate from the Merchants' Guild of Copenhagen or the Danish Chamber of Manufacturers. When this certificate is received the prospective importer should advise the exporter in the United States of the serial number. Application for export licenses should be made on Application Form X, and the applicant should attach thereto the appropriate supplemental information sheets, and also Supplemental Information Sheet X–105, upon which should be noted the Merchants' Guild of Copenhagen or the Danish Chamber of Manufacturers' import certificate serial number. Such shipments need not be consigned to the Merchants' Guild of Copenhagen or the Danish Chamber of Manufacturers, but may be consigned to an individual.

(5) Licenses will be valid only for shipment on vessels flying the flag of the country to which commodities are destined.

AMERICAN SOLDIERS THRILLED BY SHIPBUILDING RECORD HERE

The Shipping Board issues the following:

Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, in a cable received from Gen. Pershing was informed that news of the splendid achievements of the shipbuilders of America has reached the front.

"The cable of the splendid achievements of the shipbuilders of America has been received," cabled Gen. Pershing, "and published to the forces. The news thrills every American in France. Well done!"

This cablegram was in answer to one sent by the chairman of the Shipping Board in which Mr. Hurley told of the launching of four ships at the big fabricating yards as follows:

"August 3, 1918.

"Gen. Pershing, Paris.

"The splendid achievements of your troops the past month have been backed to the utmost by American shipbuilders. To-day first launching at big fabricating yard Merchant Shipbuilding Corporation at Bristol, Pa. To-morrow Alameda shipyard, California, launches 12,000-ton steamer 'Invincible,' built 24 working days; keel laid July 4 on shipway that launched 'Defiance,' 40 working days. Invincible will join our bridge of boats under steam in September. On Monday Hog Island launches its first hull. Four big fabricating shipyards on Atlantic now in production and strongest friendly rivalry between Atlantic and Pacific to put tonnage behind the American spearhead in France.

"Hurley."

Special Orders, No. 189:

44. Lieut. Col. Virginius E. Clark, Air Service, will proceed to Dayton, Ohio, and report to the chief of technical section, Division of Military Aeronautics, for duty.

RADIO SCHOOLS ESTABLISHED AT TWO ARTILLERY CAMPS

The War Department authorizes the following:

Training schools for radio work have been established by the division of military aeronautics at West Point, Ky., and Camp McClellan, Ala., Field Artillery firing centers, and instruction work along these lines will eventually be extended to Fort Sill, Okla., and Camp Jackson, S. C., and also to Field Artillery firing centers where observation schools of the division of military aeronautics are now working in cooperation with the Artillery branch of the service.

These are only a few of the first steps in coordination that are now being instituted by the different branches of the service in the camps of this country. Heretofore advance schooling was to be obtained only when the American troops reached France.

Instruction in radio covers wireless communication between the flyers in the air and the gun crews on the ground below. By means of radio the flyers are able to signal for barrages, the location of batteries, ammunition dumps, infantry, trains, and other targets, and also to "spot" for its own particular battery, which means to tell that battery whether its shells are landing to the right or left, over or under the target at which it is firing.

Special Orders, No. 186:

83. Brig. Gen. C. McK. Saltzman, Signal Corps, is relieved from his present duties and will report in person to the Chief Signal Officer of the Army for duty.

American Official Communiques on Operations of U. S. Forces

The following is authorized by the Secretary of War:

American Official Communique No. 97.

HEADQUARTERS AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES,
August 19, 1918.

Section A.—North of Toul a hostile raid was repulsed with losses to the enemy.

Section B.—The commander in chief has awarded the distinguished-service cross to the following members of the American Expeditionary Forces for the acts of gallantry set forth after their names:

Pvt. CURN CHRISTENBERRY, Infantry. — "After having been wounded he remained courageously at his post under heavy shell fire, and not only afforded an inspiring example by that fortitude but rescued comrades who had been buried when a shell caved in their trench at Souin, France, July 16, 1918."

Lieut. Col. FRANK H. ADAMS, Infantry.—"Near Dormans, France, July 15, 1918, he was conspicuous for gallantry in action, when, with courage and forcefulness and without regard to his personal safety, he voluntarily organized detachments of units other than his own and led them into effective combat."

Second Lieut. JAMES M. WILSON, Infantry.—"He returned under fire into enemy barbed wire near Ammertzwiller, Alsace, the night of July 8, 1918, to recover two of his patrol who were missing after a raid and, although painfully wounded himself, brought them safely to the American trenches, concealing the fact of his injury until he had succeeded in his undertaking and fainted from exhaustion."

Pvt. JAMES J. PRETTY, M. G. B.—"In the Bois de Belleau, France, June 17, 1918, he and a comrade left shelter and went 200 yards in the open, under fire of the enemy, and carried a wounded Infantry soldier back to his lines, thereby demonstrating heroic and voluntary disregard of self to save one who could not help himself."

Pvt. BERTRAM L. REAM, M. G. B.—"In the Bois de Belleau, France, June 17, 1918, he and a comrade left shelter and went 200 yards in the open, under fire of the enemy, and carried a wounded Infantry soldier back to his lines, thereby demonstrating heroic and voluntary disregard of self to save one who could not help himself."

Maj. GEORGE F. ROZELLE, Infantry.—"For three days, near Cantigny, France, May 28-30, 1918, he withstood German assaults, under intense bombardment, heroically exposing himself to fire constantly in order to command his battalion effectively, and although his command lost half its officers and 30 per cent of its men, he held his position and prevented a break in the line at that point."

Sergt. ALBERT S. ELSEA, Marrine Corps Brigade.—"While acting as machine-gun leader near Hilsenfirst, France, July 6, 1918, he was wounded in the face by a bursting shell, but continued to direct his men until the attack ended and then insisted on walking to a dressing station."

Corpl. CLAYTON H. MOORE, Infantry.—"During the attack on Hilsenfirst, France, July 6, 1918, while carrying a wounded soldier through machine-gun fire to shelter, he was wounded, but by unusual pluck he nevertheless brought his comrade to safety, and, realizing the scarcity of stretchers, insisted on others being carried to the rear and walking himself."

Sergt. RABERT H. DONAGHUE, Marines.—"Northwest of Chateau Thierry, France, in the Boise De Belleau, June 8, 1918, he led his platoon against violent fire to destroy a machine-gun position, killed or wounded eight Germans himself, and did not cease firing until overcome from loss of blood from his own injuries."

Corpl. ISAAC VALLEY, Infantry.—"When, on July 22, 1918, a hand grenade was dropped among a group of soldiers in a trench, and when he might have saved himself by flight, he attempted to cover it with his foot and thereby protect his comrades. In the performance of this brave act he was severely wounded."

Second Lieut. F. BONGARDT, Field Artillery.—"During the fighting at Vaux, July 1, 1918, while serving as a telephone officer, he crossed an open field in full view of the enemy and, under constant bombardment, three times to repair telephone line vitally necessary to keep six batteries in operation."

Pvt. S. J. KENDRY, Field Artillery.—"He performed his duty of telephone-line repairman with great bravery and promptness in spite of intense bombardment of the area where he had to work, near Vaux, July 1, 1918, going fearlessly and without waiting to be ordered when communication was broken."

Corpl. EUGENE W. WEAR, Marines.—"On June 6, 1918, in the vicinity of Chateau Thierry, with a private, went out into an open field under heavy shell and machine gun fire and succeeded in bandaging and carrying back to our lines a wounded comrade."

Pvt. LOUIS H. HARKENRIDER, Ambulance Company.—"On June 6, 1918, in the vicinity of Chateau Thierry, with a corporal, went out into an open field under heavy shell and machine gun fire and succeeded in bandaging and carrying back to our lines a wounded comrade."

WORK OF CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

SENATE.

The Senate was not in session yesterday, but will meet again at noon tomorrow when the man-power bill will be taken up.

The Military Affairs Committee began an inquiry into charges that favoritism has been shown in the awarding of contracts for Army cantonment construction.

HOUSE.

The House yesterday resumed consideration of the water-power bill providing a leasing system for the development of power projects on navigable streams.

The Military Affairs Committee completed the draft of the man-power bill. An amendment, offered by Representative McKenzie, of Illinois, was adopted by the committee, providing that men above the age of 20 years shall be called before those who are 18 or 19, with the former to be called last. The McKenzie amendment reads:

Provided, however, that registrants of the age of 19 years and not over 20, shall be designated as class 19 and shall be drafted subsequent to registrants of the age of 20 and over 20 years; and registrants of the age of 18 years and not over 19 years, shall be designated as class 18 and shall be called for service last; those registrants above the age of 20 shall be called prior to those in the classes hereby created.

Work or Fight Amendment.

Secretary Morrison, of the American Federation of Labor, appeared before the committee yesterday in opposition to the work-or-fight clause in the Senate man-power bill.

"It's clear intent," said Mr. Morrison, "is the conscription of labor. There is no necessity for such legislation. Furthermore, it is an attack upon the loyalty of the workingmen of the United States, which will be bitterly resented by them if enacted into law."

The committee decided that it would take no action whatever on the amendment.

The Ways and Means Committee gave further consideration to the new war-revenue bill, but was unable to reach a final agreement on the income and excess-profits tax schedules. Chairman Kitchin stated that it was doubtful whether the bill could be reported to the House by next Monday. He stated, however, that there was no question but that the bill would provide the $8,000,000,000 of revenue sought.

Receives Thanks of France.

The Speaker laid before the House the following communication from the Secretary of State, which was read and referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
Washington, August 8, 1918.

Hon. CHAMP CLARK,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of a note from the French ambassador, wherein, by instruction of his Government, he asks that both Houses of the Congress of the United States be advised of the feelings of gratification with which the resolutions passed by them on the occasion of July 14, the French national fete day, were received by the Government and by the whole French nation.

A letter similar to this has been addressed to the President of the Senate.

I have the honor to be, sir,
Your obedient servant,
FRANK L. POLK,
Acting Secretary of State.

EMBASSY OF THE FRENCH
REPUBLIC TO THE UNITED STATES,
Washington, July 31, 1918.

Hon. FRANK L. POLK,
Acting Secretary of State,
Washington, D. C.

MY DEAR MR. SECRETARY: In accordance with instructions I have received from my Government I take the liberty of asking that you be so good as to inform both Houses of Congress of the feelings of gratification with which the resolutions voted by them on the occasion of the 14th of July were received by the Government and by the whole French nation.

The text of those resolutions evidenced once more that moral kinship existing between two peoples equally ready to fight absolutism, tyranny, injustice, brutality, and whose national fete days, both dating back from Revolutionary times, have the same meaning, which is emancipation.

We hope the end of the present conflict may be not far removed; we know that it will not occur before our common aims have been fully achieved and before what the 4th and 14th of July stand for has been definitely secured—the end of tyranny.

Believe me, dear Mr. Secretary,
Very sincerely, yours,
JUSSERAND.

COUNSEL FOR SHIPPING BOARD.

Mr. Whipple to Assume General Duties on August 21.

The United States Shipping Board authorizes the following:

Chairman Hurley announces that Mr. Sherman L. Whipple, of Boston, who was recently invited to accept the position of general counsel of the Shipping Board and the Emergency Fleet Corporation, would assume his duties as such on August 21.

Mr. Whipple's office will be in Washington. No changes are contemplated in the legal forces of the Shipping Board or the Fleet Corporation, but Mr. Whipple's appointment will give a unity of direction to the increasing number of litigations and other matters of a legal nature that are arising in connection with the Shipping Board and its allied and kindred activities.

Mr. Hurley added: "I deem the Government fortunate to command for this most important position a lawyer of such wide experience and so great a reputation throughout the country as Sherman L. Whipple."

Saving of Wheat Flour by Elimination From Use in Manufacturing Explosives

The Food Administration issues the following:

Substantial saving of foodstuffs and feeding stuffs formerly used in making explosives for domestic purposes is indicated by replies received from manufacturers by the U. S. Bureau of Mines, which has been cooperating with the Food Administration by conducting an investigation of the problem.

Saving of Wheat Flour.

Elimination of wheat flour from manufacture of high explosives other than "permissibles," which the bureau is about to request of manufacturers, will effect a saving of more than 16,000 barrels, computed on the basis of the 1917 consumption. This flour has been used in making dynamite and other explosives employed in mining and engineering operations in this country. "Permissible" explosives, some of which contain foodstuffs, are those that have passed official tests by the Bureau of Mines at Pittsburgh, Pa., and are recommended for use in coal mining.

Reports by Manufacturers.

Van. H. Manning, director of the Bureau of Mines, recently asked manufacturers of explosives to submit reports on quantities of foodstuffs used in 1917, suggesting that other carbohydrates might be substituted without detriment to the product as a food conservation measure. A summary of the returns received is as follows:

	High explosives, other than permissibles. Pounds.	Permissibles. Pounds.
Cornstarch	4,530 481	2,328
Wheat flour	3,224,610	237,936
Wheat middlings	793,428	3,500
Corn and corn meal	840,129	688,099
Sugar	1,939,817	20,200
Rice and rice flour	1,472,594	-------
Total foodstuffs	12,801,059	952,054
Total production of explosives	262,316,080	43,040,722

A number of replies from manufacturers indicate that they have abandoned the use of much of this material for 1918, apparently substituting other ingredients.

Continue Use of Sugar.

The bureau has not deemed it wise to request elimination of sugar, because by continuing to use it manufacturers are conserving glycerine, which is in great demand for war explosives, particularly in Italy and Great Britain, where it is used to make cordite, a smokeless powder. Glycerine now is more scarce than sugar and sells at 60 cents a pound.

Manufacturers will not be requested to reduce quantities of foodstuffs used in making "permissibles," because the amount used in this class of explosives is comparatively small, and because of the possible danger that might arise from employment of substitutes. New formulas would have to be subjected to long, exhaustive, expensive tests, which would cause delay. If any should be faulty they might cause disastrous ignition of dust and gases in coal mines. This would not only harm or kill miners, but would retard coal production, which is vital at all times and particularly so when war industries are dependent upon it.

In consideration of this conservation question the bureau has at all times been mindful of the fact that explosives for domestic use are highly essential to the industrial development of the country and that production of them must continue at a satisfactory rate.

COTTON PRICE DIFFERENTIALS IN EFFECT UNTIL OCTOBER 1

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

In accordance with the agreement between the representatives of the cotton industry and the price-fixing committee, July 1, 1918, the following differentials, based on the prices then agreed to have been fixed by the price-fixing committee, to remain in effect until October 1, 1918:

Cotton Blankets.

Staple blankets: Made of American cotton, with standard binding and packing, "maximum price the equivalent of $2.07½ per pair, net cash at mill," based on size of 64 by 76 inches, weighing about 2½ pounds per pair, finished in gray, white, or tan, with usual border.

Wool-finished blankets: Made partly of foreign cotton, with standard binding and packing, "maximum price the equivalent of $3.75 per pair, net cash at mill," based on size 66 by 80 inches, weighing about 3½ pounds per pair, finished in gray, white, or tan, with usual border.

All other constructions, designs, and colors in both the so-called staple and wool-finish variety to be based on the above standard prices. Special binding or packing can be priced extra.

Jacquard blankets: Made partly of foreign cotton and woven on jacquard looms, with standard binding and packing, "maximum price the equivalent of $1.35 per pound net cash at mill." Special binding or packing can be priced extra.

Plain Carded Cloths.

Width (inches).	Yards per pound.	Gray and pink.	Price per yard.
			Cents.
39	5.00	80 by 88	22
39	6.00	72 by 68	18⅜
39	6.00	80 by 76	19 3/16
39	5.25	96 by 92	24
39	5.00	96 by 100	25⅝
39	4.95	96 by 104	26
40	9.00	72 by 60	15½
40	7.70	80 by 72	18½

Thirty-nine-inch 96 by 64 three-leaf jeans have been priced in the gray condition, as follows:

	Cents.
3.10 yard	25½
3 yard	26
2.75 yard	27½

When bleached, price of these goods to be increased 1½ cents.

WAR EXHIBITS OF THE U. S. NAVY TO BE SHOWN AT COUNTY FAIRS

The Navy Department authorizes the following:

To more thoroughly acquaint people of the country with the part the United States Navy is taking in the present war, an elaborate exhibit with equipment and accouterments of the service is to be made at the larger fairs throughout the Nation. The display will be made in connection with that of the Joint Committee on Government Exhibits, which includes the various departments and activities of Federal work. Five circuits are to be covered.

Display of Ships and Guns.

The Navy exhibit will comprehensively represent each department of the service. There will be a display of captured guns, while the Ordnance Department will show the types of shells, depth charges, and other explosives used against the enemy. The Bureau of Construction and Repair will be represented by valuable and unusually interesting models of types of ships in the United States Navy. These models have been taken from the halls of the Navy Department in Washington, and it will be the first time that they have ever been shown generally throughout the country.

In artistic excellence this exhibit embodies the high standard demanded for the Navy by Admiral Palmer, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation. Mr. Charles A. Valentine, New York architect, patriotically volunteered to design the general architecture of the Navy's exhibit at these county fairs.

Itineraries of the Exhibits.

The following are the itineraries of the five exhibits:

1. Sedalia, Mo., August 10 to 17; Des Moines, Iowa, August 21 to 30; Hamlin, Minn., September 2 to 7; Milwaukee, Wis., September 9 to 14; Oklahoma City, Okla., September 21 to 28; Wichita, Kans., September 30 to October 12; Dallas, Tex., October 15 to 27; Waco, Tex., November 2 to 17.

2. Erie, Pa., August 19 to 24; Rochester, N. Y., September 2 to 7; Syracuse, N. Y., September 9 to 14; Trenton, N. J., September 30 to October 4; Richmond, Va., October 7 to 12; Petersburg, Va., October 15 to 19.

3. Springfield, Ill., August 9 to 24; Detroit, Mich., August 30 to September 8; Nashville, Tenn., September 16 to 21; Memphis, Tenn., September 21 to 28; Knoxville, Tenn., October 7 to 12; Atlanta, Ga., October 14 to 19; Macon, Ga., October 30 to November 9; Jacksonville, Fla., November 27 to December 6.

4. Columbus, Ohio, August 26 to 31; Indianapolis, Ind., September 3 to 7; Topeka, Kans., September 9 to 14; Hutchinson, Kans., September 16 to 21; Muskogee, Okla., September 30 to October 5; Kansas City, Mo., October 16 to 26; Shreveport, La., October 30 to November 4.

5. Lincoln, Nebr., September 1 to 6; Douglas, Wyo., September 10 to 14; Pueblo, Colo., September 23 to 28; Salt Lake City, Utah, September 28 to October 5; Los Angeles, Cal., October 12 to 26; Phoenix, Ariz., November 11 to 16.

PROVISIONS OF SENATE BILL RELATING TO "WORK OR FIGHT" AND STATUS OF MARRIED MEN

STATEMENT BY SECRETARY BAKER

Conditions Under Which Exemptions May Be Granted Explained. Asks Legislative Action on a Policy That Is Already in Effect.

Daily press interview by the Secretary of War, August 20, 1918:

Regarding the work-or-fight order, the Secretary said:

"Gen. Crowder pointed out that the provision in the Senate bill is substantially what the department is now doing and what there is now power to do, so that the provision inserted by the Senate amendment is simply making a legislative declaration of a policy already in effect.

Exemption on Industrial Grounds.

"A man who gets an industrial exemption by reason of his being an indispensable operative in an indispensable industry ceases to have that exemption as soon as he ceases to be an operative in that industry. The boards have never applied that in the case of bona fide disputes between labor as an aggregate and the employers as an aggregate, but they have always prevented a man taking refuge behind an industrial exemption and then discontinuing the work for which he received the exemption, so the apparent purpose of the Senate amendment is already in operation.

"We wanted to arrange the regulations so as to save a married man who ought to be exempted from the humiliation of claiming exemption, by making the process as automatic as possible. The theory upon which we want to work this draft is that no married man whose wife and children are dependent upon the continuity of his earnings, and who will not be able to live on his soldier's wages, will be drafted. The draft will apply to those married men whose incomes are adequate to provide for their families, those whose families have independent incomes, and those men whose families provide for them.

"The reason for the exemption of the married man is dependency and not the status."

ORDERED TO CAMP LEE.

Special Orders, No. 163:

216. The officers named below are relieved from assignment to duty with the 155th Depot Brigade and will report to the commanding officer, Central Officers' Training School, Camp Lee, Va., for duty:

Capts. D. Gordon Hunter, Infantry Reserve Corps; Edward A. Leroy, Infantry Reserve Corps; and John C. Shaw, jr., Infantry Reserve Corps; First Lieuts. Robert P. Babcock, Infantry Reserve Corps; Hazen B. Hinman, Infantry, National Army; Peter A. Jennings, Infantry, National Army; and Clark L. Stevens, Infantry, National Army; Second Lieut. Everett R. Collinge, Infantry Reserve Corps.

American Official Communiques

Second Lieut. JAMES H. LEGENDRE, M. C. R.—"He displayed exceptional bravery in organizing and leading a party of volunteers, through heavy machine-gun fire, for the purpose of securing two wounded men on the Lucy-Torcy Roads, June 6, 1918."

Lieut. LEMUEL C. SHEPPARD, M. C.—"On June 3, 1918, near the Lucy-Torcy Roads, declined medical treatment after being wounded, and continued courageously to lead his men."

Second Lieut. JOHN MacARTHUR, Aero Squadron.—"Outnumbered and handicapped by his presence far behind the German lines, he and three flying companions fought brilliantly a large group of enemy planes, bringing down or putting to flight all in the attacking party, while performing an important mission near Luneville, France, June 13, 1918."

First Lieut. WARD WILLIAM RUCKER, Aero Squadron.—"Outnumbered and handicapped by his presence far behind the German lines, he and three flying companions fought brilliantly a large group of enemy planes, bringing down or putting to flight all in the attacking party, while performing an important mission near Luneville, France, June 13, 1918."

First Sergt. DANIEL DALY, Machine Gun Company, Marines.—"Sergt. Daly repeatedly performed deeds of heroism and great service on June 5, 1918. At the risk of his life he extinguished a fire in an ammunition dump at Lucylebocage. On June 7, 1918, while his position was under violent bombardment, he visited all the gun crews of his company, then posted over a wide portion of the front to cheer his men. On June 10, 1918, he attacked an enemy machine-gun emplacement unassisted and captured it by use of hand grenades and his automatic pistol. On the same day, during the German attack on Bouresches, he brought in wounded under fire."

Pvt. F. FLEMING, Infantry.—"He bravely attempted to pick up and throw away, near Oderen, Alsace, on July 12, 1918, a live grenade that had fallen among five soldiers, but because of irregularities of the trench he could not reach it before it burst. He thrust his foot on it, thereby saving his companions from death or injury, but causing wounds that necessitated amputation of the foot."

The commander in chief has awarded the distinguished service cross posthumously to the following members of the American Expeditionary Force for the acts of gallantry set forth after their names:

Sergt. ARTHUR F. WARE, Marines; Sergt. RAYMOND P. CRONIN, Marines.—"In the vicinity of Chateau Thierry, June 6, 1918, under heavy machine-gun fire attempted to establish liaison with an adjoining French unit, during which they were killed."

Second Lieut. CHARLES W. CHAPMAN, a S. S. R. C.—"On May 10, 1918, in the region of Autrepierre, while on patrol duty, he courageously attacked a group of four monoplanes and one biplane and succeeded in bringing one down before he himself was shot down in flames."

Second Lieut. LEONARD C. HOSKINS, C. A. C., U. S. R.—"Near La Chappelle, France, June 28, 1918, gave proof of great devotion and bravery when he entered a shell-swept area in search for wounded and was killed while conducting several of his men to safety."

Postmasters Remitting War Savings Proceeds

The Post Office Department issues the following:

AUGUST 16, 1918.

The special attention of postmasters is directed to the provisions of paragraphs 8 and 9, page 2, of the War-Savings Regulations, issued November 17, 1917, requiring postmasters at district offices to remit the proceeds of sales of war savings and thrift stamps to their central-accounting postmasters promptly at the close of each month or whenever, during the month, they amount to $25, and requiring accounting postmasters to remit such proceeds to their designated depository postmasters for postal funds promptly at the close of each month or whenever, during the month, they amount to $100.

These regulations must be strictly observed in all cases, but remittances should not be made more than once a day.

Promptness in making these remittances aids materially in the quick accumulation of needed war funds.

A. M. DOCKERY,
Third Assistant Postmaster General.

AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT PROPOSALS.

The Department of Agriculture is sending out the following proposals:

Three thousand canvas, duck and cotton bags.
Nine steam radiators. (The above to be opened Aug. 27.)
Fifty-two tone arsenate of lead.
Rebuilding Standard "A" power sprayers into motor-truck spraying machines.
High-power spraying hose. (The above to be opened Sept. 6.)

Copies of proposals and specifications may be obtained from R. M. Reese, chairman, Board of Awards, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

EMPLOYMENT OF PRISON LABOR ON GOVERNMENT WAR WORK

Chairman Felix Frankfurter of the War Labor Policies Board authorizes publication of the following resolution of the board concerning prison labor:

Resolved, That the War Labor Policies Board recognizes the urgent necessity for consideration by Congress of such legislation as will make possible the employment of prison labor for the period of the war for Government work under agreement between the Federal Government and the State or subdivisions of the State of any governmental department, and not under contract directly or indirectly with private contractors; provided that such work is carried out under working conditions insuring that compensation and hours of labor shall be based upon the standard hours and wages prevailing in the vicinity in which the institution is located, with permission to deduct the pro rata cost of maintenance from the compensation.

PRICES OF BITUMINOUS COAL AT CERTAIN COLORADO MINES

The United States Fuel Administration issues the following:

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 13, 1918.

Applications having been made to the United States Fuel Administrator for a revision of the prices of bituminous coal mined in the Walsenburg district of the State of Colorado by Rapson Mining Co., Cedar Hill Coal & Coke Co., and Oakdale Coal Co., the United States Fuel Administrator, after due consideration of such applications, acting under authority of an Executive order of the President of the United States dated August 23, 1917, appointing said Administrator, and of subsequent Executive orders, and in furtherance of the purpose of said orders and of the act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917, hereby orders and directs that bituminous coal mined in the Walsenburg district in the State of Colorado by Rapson Mining Co., Cedar Hill Coal and Coke Co., and Oakdale Coal Co., may be sold at prices f. o. b. cars at the mine not to exceed the following per net ton, viz: For run of mine, $2.15; for prepared sizes, $4.15; for slack or screenings, $1.15. To the foregoing prices may be added the 45-cent allowance for wage increase, if the producing companies are entitled to add such allowance under the President's order of October 27, 1917.

The price for prepared sizes is subject to the following monthly summer reductions: 70 cents for the month of April, 50 cents for the month of May, 35 cents for the month of June, 15 cents for the month of July.

This order to become effective at 7 a. m., August 20, 1918.

H. A. GARFIELD,
United States Fuel Administrator.

32 AMERICAN DIVISIONS ARE NOW UNDER ARMS IN FRANCE

Germans occupied the positions of their farthest advance the line was 250 miles long. It is now less than 200.

We have now in France the following divisions: 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 32d, 33d, 35th, 36th, 37th, 41st, 42d, 76th, 77th, 78th, 79th, 80th, 81st, 82d, 83d, 85th, 89th, 90th, 91st, 92d, 93d—32 divisions of troops.

In getting these divisions over and in projecting a larger program, which has now been presented to Congress, the successful accomplishment of such a feat depends, of course, on having shipping. When war broke out the United States had no shipping marine, as you all know, and in order to accomplish what we have accomplished we have had to scour the world for ships.

America's Supply of Ships.

Ships coming in from the Emergency Fleet Corporation keep swelling the number at our disposal, and we took over German interned ships, requisitioned Dutch ships, and we chartered and hired from other nations all the ships we could charter and hire from them. That is where a large portion of the American money goes that is contributed; the contribution of ships is paid for by the American people. We have had in addition to that one ship which really was given to us—Brazil gave us a ship for two trips without any compensation at all—and so far as I know that is the only ship we got that way. In order to carry out the still larger program, before the shipping-fleet construction gets to the point where they can carry it, it will be necessary for us to hire and charter other ships in sufficient quantity to carry it through.

Questions and Answers.

Q. What fight has the 80th Division been engaged in, and what is its location?

A. As a part of its training the 80th Division was sent to the British in Flanders, and after completing its instruction on the line all elements were withdrawn.

Q. Where is the 76th Division, and what is it doing?

A. The 76th Division is a replacement division stationed in the back area.

Q. Where is the 26th Division, and what is it doing?

A. The 26th Division was in the attack near Chateau Thierry in July, and took part in the capture of Torcy and Belleau. It advanced past Bouesches and was relieved before it reached the Ourcq about the 22d of July.

U. S. Troops in Italy.

Q. What American troops are on the Italian front?

A. They have not reached the fighting part of the front at all.

Q. Has a successor to Gen. Duncan been chosen for the New York division?

A. Gen. Pershing has not yet indicated that he has placed another man in command of that division. During the next few days a list containing nominations for the rank of major general will go to the Senate. Some of these have been recommended from this country and some from the American Expeditionary Forces. Gen. Pershing will select whoever he pleases from those appointed in France and put him in charge of that division.

SAVING MADE IN SHIPMENTS OF THRASHING MACHINE PARTS

The Food Administration authorizes the following:

Preferred handling of thrashing machine repair parts, as a food production and conservation measure of great importance, has been established by express companies as the result of action by the United States Railroad Administration, taken upon the request of the Food Administration.

Saving in Repair Parts.

Complains have been received that repair parts have been held up in transit, causing delay in thrashing and losses of grain due to remaining too long in the field. Operating machines with old parts, when new ones should have been substituted, has led to waste of grain, despite earnest effort on the part of local food administrators to introduce economies hitherto unheard of in this year's harvest.

Regional directors of the Railroad Administration have taken the matter up with express representatives everywhere and immediate improvement has been noted.

In Iowa express shipments were accelerated as a result of a conference of thrashing machine company officials, the superintendent of the United Express Companies and J. F. Deems, Federal Food Administrator for the State. The express company representative agreed to station a man at each depot in Des Moines, whose duty it was to see that machine parts were moved immediately and put on the first train to their destination.

Routed on Tags.

All parts have routes specified on shipping tags, with names of railroads and various junctions. The poor service complained of, Iowa expressmen said, was caused partly by confusion arising out of the recent consolidation of the companies at a time when shipments of machine parts were heavy, partly because they had been obliged to take into their service many new men unfamiliar with their routings.

Officials Making Close Collection of U. S. Taxes

The Treasury Department issues the following:

In the execution of the policy of paying as large a proportion of the expenses of the war by taxation as possible the Treasury is making every effort to collect all Federal taxes due to the United States.

The department has evidence against many who have sought to evade taxes. Some of these tax evaders are American citizens residing or sojourning in Canada. A corps of specially trained revenue agents will be sent to the Canadian communities, where many of these tax evaders reside, to obtain tax returns from them.
